man from the 11th Congress district. In making up the temporary roll Mr. Halpin's delegation was cut down by one vote on a technicality. This one vote happened to be the controlling element of the situation. Without it he lost control of the Congress district delegation and also his place on the state committee.

WORK OF THE SESSION. Moves Off Smoothly Under Messrs. Bruce and Sherman. Temporary Chairman Bruce called the Republican State Convention to order after recess at Representative Sereno E. Payne, of Auburn, and ex-Representative Lucius N. Littauer, of Gloversville, escorted Representative Sherman, the permanent chairman, to the platform. Then it was that the glad hearted yeomen from Mr. Sherman's home town and county did themselves proud. Mr. Sherman is said to have his lightning rod up for the Governorship, and the natives up his way don't deny it. Mr. Sherman is non-committal when the matter is discussed.

MR. SHERMAN'S RECEPTION. Representative Sereno E. Payne, of Auburn, and ex-Representative Lucius N. Littauer, of Gloversville, escorted Representative Sherman, the permanent chairman, to the platform. Then it was that the glad hearted yeomen from Mr. Sherman's home town and county did themselves proud. Mr. Sherman is said to have his lightning rod up for the Governorship, and the natives up his way don't deny it. Mr. Sherman is non-committal when the matter is discussed.

Referring to the beneficial tariff laws of the Republican party, Mr. Sherman said they had enabled this country to capture the markets of the world. Because of the protection policy, he declared, the people of the United States were better fed, better paid, better housed and better clothed than anywhere else on earth.

WOULD STAND BY PROTECTION. We shall continue our American system of protection developed and protected by the Republican party. We shall continue to maintain the highest wage scale on earth, our standard of living, the best of all nations, through a home market that is the envy of the world. The tide of prosperity may ebb and flow, but the great waves of industrial wealth will continue in ever increasing volume of comfort and happiness to our contented people. We shall capture the markets of the world in greater volume without the sacrifice of that foundation of national wealth and progress, the home market.

Turning to the recent financial disturbance, which the Democrats called a "Republican panic," Mr. Sherman said the Republicans were no more responsible for it than they were for a Texas cyclone, and denied that there was any basic defect in the government economic system. He continued: "There is a difference in panics. But a Democratic panic always carries its own label. We shall-aye, I might say already have weathered the storm, and, in the words of optimistic 'Uncle Joe' Cannon, with our faces toward the rising sun we shall yet see the coming of a larger, brighter, and a greater prosperity, of a grander attainment than ever even the American people have experienced. Our mighty party, with its great principles, is yet in its infancy. Our national glory has yet but begun. Intrinsic problems are yet to be solved. grave questions answered, complex issues to be brought out, and we can trust the Republican party, trust its leaders, to care for the future of our nation and of our people as it has so well cared for them in the past."

THE CHAIRMAN'S SPEECH. Mr. Sherman in his speech, which was listened to with the utmost attention, said, among other things: "We approach another national convention called to nominate a candidate of our party and to decide for what principles and policies he will stand. Again New York presents a son—a man of experience, of ripe scholarship, of spotless integrity, one who, tried in both private and public life, commands the respect, attracts the support of good minds regardless of party affiliation. Measured in the moral and intellectual scale, his future predicted, the choice of a large body of thoughtful New York's governor, successful at Chicago in June will after March be President Hughes, but we do not overlook the fact that other states, too, have their favorite sons—great leaders of wide knowledge and experience. The Republican party has always been rich in men, rich in strong leaders. Sometimes because of valor in time of war or wisdom in time of peace some leader has been practically chosen long before the assembling of the delegates. Again, so nearly equal seemed the merits of several candidates that a choice was made only after many ballots. This latter seems the condition now. But, the convention contest concluded, the choice of the majority shall be the choice of a united, enthusiastic party."

This we promise, because the Republican party is greater than any man, in distinct contrast to the Democratic party, which has but one leader, and he is its dictator. But the Republican party is not only rich in men, but rich in practical and beneficent principles; rich, too, in its record. I repeat that we will acquiesce in the choice of the majority.

Annual Opera Sale Weber Pianos. THIS SALE RANKS AS THE ONE MOST IMPORTANT EVENT OF THE YEAR IN THE RETAIL PIANO TRADE OF NEW YORK. THE WEBER is the piano of the Opera. It is used exclusively at the Metropolitan Opera House, and by practically all of the great singers in their New York residences. Each year, when the opera artists arrive, they select New Weber Pianos, which they continue to use for twenty weeks. At the close of the opera season these pianos (which cannot be distinguished from new stock) are returned to us, and are offered to the public at Special Sale. This year the Weber Opera Sale takes place during the week of April 13th, and notwithstanding the slight use the pianos have received and the added interest of their associations, they will be sold at IMPORTANT SAVING IN PRICES. The Weber is one of the very few pianos the prices of which are absolutely fixed. It is not possible to buy a new Weber for a dollar less than the advertised price. This "Opera Sale" is therefore an exceptional opportunity to secure a good Weber, used for only a few months, at a substantial saving. MODERATE MONTHLY PAYMENTS. The AEOLIAN CO., Aeolian Hall, 362 5th Ave., Near 34th St., New York.
