

TRINITY MOURNS DR. DIX

Parishioners Pay Last Respects to Dead Rector at His Bier.

Trinity Church was filled yesterday morning with those who esteemed, loved and respected its deceased rector, when the quiet and simple funeral service of the Rev. Dr. Morgan Dix was held there at 10:30 o'clock.

The Right Rev. David M. Greer, the bishop of the diocese, conducted the service in the enforced absence of Bishop Potter.

Colonel William Jay and Edmund D. Randolph, wardens of Trinity, and the vestrymen were the pallbearers. Among them were Richard DeLafayette, David B. Ogden, William M. Peck, J. Howard Van Amringe, Charles A. Schermerhorn, William Barlow, Parsons, and Egeron Withrop, Jr.

As soon as the service was over Bishop Greer held a meeting of the clergy in the vestry room for the purpose of appointing a committee to draw up resolutions regarding Dr. Dix's work in New York and the great loss caused by his death.

Dr. Dix had the chivalry and courage of a soldier, and yet, like a true soldier, he loved peace. He was not just a soldier, but a man of letters.

After the service the body was taken to Trinity cemetery, at Amsterdam avenue and 154th street, for burial beside Dr. Dix's parents.

MUSIC.

SEMBRICH, PADEREWSKI, ADAMOWSKI. It was a memorable afternoon that Mme. Sembrich, Paderewski and Mr. Timothee Adamowski provided yesterday for the vast audience that filled Carnegie Hall at the concert for the Legal Aid Society.

All three of the artists being Poles, it was natural that Polish music should dominate the program. Except for the Mozart air, which marked the afternoon's climax, and the group of German songs contributed by Mme. Sembrich, everything on the list owed allegiance to the land of Chopin and his compatriots.

Mme. Sembrich sang a scene from the opera "Maiden's Wish" with the composer five songs by Mr. Paderewski and then sending the audience away in happy mood by playing and singing Chopin's "Maiden's Wish," as she has often done before.

Mme. Sembrich was irresistible in these, as in her group of German songs, capably accompanied by Mr. Isidore Luckstone, but the concert's musical summit was reached in the recitative and air, "L'Amore," from Mozart's opera, "Il Re Pastore," in which the singer was accompanied on the piano by Mr. Paderewski.
