MME. ANNA GOULD WEDS.

Civil and Religious Ceremonies in London.

London, July 7.—Mme. Anna Gould and Prince Hélie de Sagan were married at a registry office in Henrietta street, off Covent Garden, to-day. A second ceremony was held at the French Protestant Church, on Soho Square.

There was no secrecy about the wedding, though the prince and Mme. Gould made an effort to escape the crowd. A large number of guests gathered at the main entrance of the hotel at the morning, but the prince and Mme. Gould, accompanied by three friends, left the hotel by a rear entrance and, entering cabs, drove to the back entrance of the Registry Office.

The civil ceremony was simple. Except Prince Hélie, Mme. Gould, the witnesses and the officials of the office, no one was present. A great crowd, consisting largely of porters from the Covent Garden Market and employees of the publishing houses in the vicinity, assembled in the street outside. Prince Hélie produced a copy of the notice filed with the registrar, establishing his two week's residence in the district, and the registrar granted the license. Mme. Gould and the prince signed the register, and with the registrar's certificate, the marriage service to those about the back door, drove in cabs to the French Protestant Church.

The cabmen misunderstood their instructions, and stopped in front of St. Patrick's Roman Catholic Church, which also faces Soho Square, and the entire party alighted before the mistake was discovered. New directions were then given, and the cabs drove over to the French Protestant Church.

The cabmen misunderstood their instructions, and stopped in front of St. Patrick's Roman Catholic Church, which also faces Soho Square, and the entire party alighted before the mistake was discovered. New directions were then given, and the cabs drove over to the French Protestant Church.

The ceremony was in keeping with the simple character of the church, but was rather long. The pastor read the instructions from the Protestant marriage service to those about the back door, drove in cabs to the French Protestant Church.

City Missions and Charitably Inclined Persons Help Tribune Fund.

The Tribune Fresh Air Fund is getting the cooperation of the city missions and workers with more devotion than ever, owing to the increased number of children in the tenement house children. The prostrating weather makes a greater need for aid.

The fleet is divided into four divisions and two squadrons. In the first division of the first squadron are the flagship of Rear Admiral Sperry, the Connecticut, and her sister ships, the Kansas, the Minnesota and the Vermont.

The fleet auxiliaries preceded the battleships by a week and are now nearing Honolulu, where they will unload supplies and sail away for New Zealand before the arrival of the fleet at Honolulu.

The fleet is following an itinerary which will bring the ships to Manila on October 1, 1908. The complete route from Manila to Hampton Roads has not yet been definitely announced, but it is expected that the fleet will arrive at its ultimate destination about the latter part of February, 1909.

BIDS PEARY GOODBYE.

President and His Family Inspect Roosevelt Before She Sails.

Oyster Bay, July 7.—"It's ninety or nothing, the North Pole or bust this time, Mr. President," sang out Captain "Buck" Bartlett, of the Roosevelt. "Goodby, captain; goodby, boys; good luck to you all! I believe you'll get there this time," cried President Roosevelt, as the swift launch Gleam, attached to the Sylph, bore him away from Peary's ship after he with his family had paid the famous craft a visit.

Even the Esquimaux dogs in the red hot hold, packed in the boxes of baked beans, pilot bread and orange marmalade, set up a howl as the President left the ship and Captain Bartlett proceeded to get the Roosevelt under way out of Oyster Bay Harbor and on toward the frozen North. One of the five dogs has become an expert sailor, for just about the time the President was saying his farewells to Commander Peary and the crew, the rascal climbed the ladder leading from the hold to the deck and proceeded to mix with the company.

Accompanying the President were Mrs. Roosevelt, Kermit, Archie and Quentin Roosevelt; Mr. and Mrs. Roosevelt and their son, and Commander and Mrs. Peary, who had taken luncheon at Sagamore Hill. The party made a tour of the ship, and the President and Commander Peary were photographed shaking hands.

"I'm sorry that the Roosevelt is not as clean as she might be," remarked Commander Peary to the President. "I don't give a rap what she looks like," exclaimed the President. "It's what she does that counts."

When the President and his party left the Roosevelt, at 3:30, Quentin again took charge of the line and flagpole of the Gleam. The rope was cast off the Roosevelt, and the President's blue flag again changed places on the two boats.

BISHOP POTTER SAVED.

Physicians Consider Him Now Practically Out of Danger.

Cooperstown, N. Y., July 7.—Notwithstanding the intense heat Bishop Henry Codrington Potter continued to improve to-day, and there is every reason to believe that he will recover, now that the crisis of his malady has passed.

His physicians feel that his progress toward recovery has been so marked that he may be considered practically out of danger, and as a consequence no further bulletins concerning his condition will be issued unless an unexpected relapse occurs.

"MERRY WIDOW" TO KEEP GUNDA COOL.

"The largest Merry Widow of them all" is what they call the new hat that Mr. Hornaday, director of the Bronx Zoological Garden, has had made for Gunda, the big Indian elephant, the pet of all the children. Gunda has been suffering from the heat, so Mr. Hornaday ordered a hat made of cabbage leaves. The "lid" is about ten feet around and is kept wet. Gunda, swelling with pride, was the envy of all the women at the garden yesterday.
