

LOSS TO DEMOCRATS

Fear Hearst Party Won't Indorse Bryan for Presidency.

It was generally accepted yesterday that the editorial in William Randolph Hearst's "American," which declared that "we have lost confidence in the Democratic party and in William J. Bryan," settled the question as to whether or not the Independence party would indorse Mr. Bryan for the Presidency.

It was had news that the Democrats, because they had hoped that at the last minute Mr. Hearst, who had supported Bryan through two national campaigns, would decide to do so again.

Hearst is expected back on Friday to pass on the final plans for the convention of the Independence party, which is to meet in Chicago on July 27.

BOLT IN BRYAN'S STATE.

Gold Democrats Will Not Support the Denver Ticket.

Omaha, July 11.—All will not be plain sailing for the Bryan Democrats in Nebraska this fall, as from developments here to-day they will have the gold Democrats to fight, as in previous years.

Francis A. Rogan, for years a prominent Democratic lawyer, but a gold Democrat, "Bryan is evidently not more acceptable to the gold Democrats of this state than he was in his other campaigns.

SEES BRYAN'S DEFEAT.

Representative Fowler Calls Him Republican Asset.

In giving his opinion of the Presidential election, Representative Fowler, who was active in the recent currency legislation, said yesterday that he believed Bryan was "one of the best assets of the Republican party" and that his defeat would be crushing.

"The nomination of Mr. Bryan is just what the Republicans desired," said Mr. Fowler. "It is just what a very large contingent of the more conservative Democrats also desired.

"Bryan, on the other hand, has advocated every political 'ism' that he thought would attract any votes, and the result is that the things he has stood for have been condemned by the people, and he has kept on striking zero, with still another zero awaiting him.

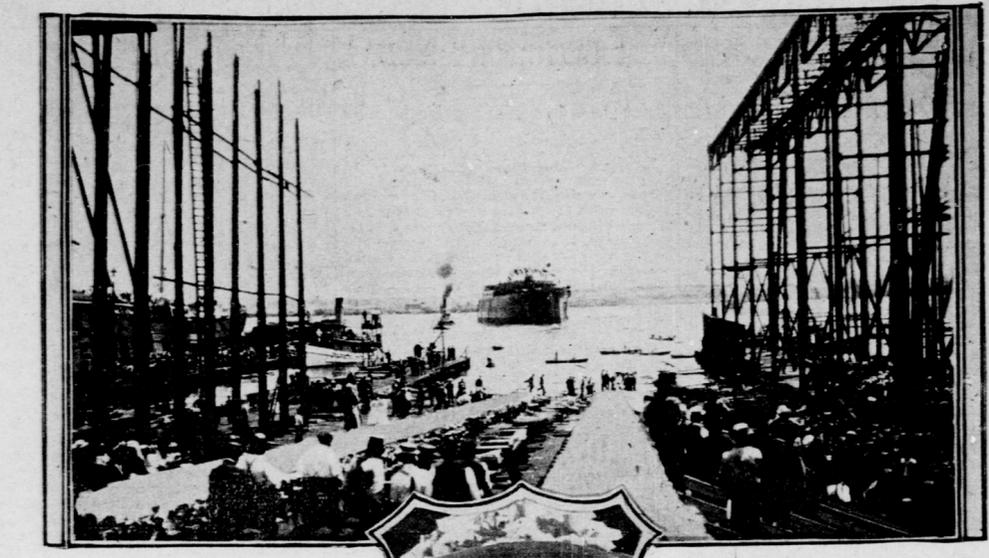

"What do you think New Jersey will do?" Mr. Fowler was asked.

"New Jersey has expressed herself twice with regard to William J. Bryan," he replied, "once when she gave McKinley and Hobart $6,000 majority, and once when she gave McKinley and Roosevelt $1,000 majority, and she has never regretted either vote.

REPUBLICS BRING SUITS.

Honduras and Nicaragua Accuse Salvador and Guatemala.

Tegucigalpa, Honduras, July 11.—The government of Honduras to-day instituted suit before the Central American Court of Justice, which was formally opened at Cartago, Costa Rica, on May 25 of this year, against the governments of Salvador and Guatemala, charging violation of the treaties signed by the states of Central America at Washington last winter, in that the governments specified have promoted the revolution now under way within the republic.

Managua, Nicaragua, July 11.—The Nicaraguan government has presented a complaint to the Central American Court of Justice, located at Cartago, Costa Rica, based on the allegation that the governments of Guatemala and Salvador have rendered assistance to the revolutionists of Honduras and the Nicaraguan refugees who are allied with them.

President Zelaya is organizing an army to protect the Nicaraguan frontier, and his action to this end receives the support of the people of the country. A request has been sent in from Puerto Cortez, Honduras, for Mexican warships to protect Mexican interests.

Nicaragua is fearful of the outcome of the movement in Honduras, for there is reason to believe that the plan of the allies is first to establish a joint government in Honduras as soon as Davila is driven out, and then to advance upon and overthrow the Zelaya government in this republic.

The establishment of the Central American Court of Justice is an outcome of the Central American Peace Conference held in Washington last year. Representatives of Costa Rica, Salvador, Guatemala, Honduras, Nicaragua, Mexico and the United States were present at the opening ceremonies.

The first five countries mentioned bound themselves to submit to the court all controversies or questions which might arise among them, of whatsoever nature and no matter what their origin might be, in regard to which the respective departments of foreign affairs had been unable to reach an amicable solution.

STATE DEPARTMENT INTERESTED.

HAYTIANS ISSUE APPEAL

over by Mr. Theodore Roosevelt, the eminent statesman who uttered these words: "Peace through fear of tyranny, peace through cowardly weakness, peace through injustice—all these kinds of peace must be avoided as we avoid an unjust war."

"DO NOT PREVENT US ARMING." who else, outside of our tormentors, can find us obstructive? Not a single country, unless it be a barbarian people of Africa. Not a single government, unless it is similar to that of Norway.

People and sovereigns, it is indeed to be deplored that in consideration of the requirements of the world you cannot stretch out your hand and say: "This should be done against the plunders of the rights of people and of humanity." But at least do not prevent us from arming ourselves and shielding our heads.

People and sovereigns, we deserve your sympathy. Give it to us. It is not that we wish to be the rulers of the world, but that we wish to be the rights of people, which is an eternal and sacred thing, to be maintained by the champions and defenders, its victims and martyrs.

Mrs. Margaret Bryde, of No. 633 Wythe avenue, Williamsburg, and her two daughters, Susie, aged eleven, and Loretta, eight years old, were taken last night by Frank Ferry, a special policeman, from their top floor apartment in an unconscious condition, caused by smoke from a fire that started on the second floor of the building.

RICHARD ALEXANDER DEAD.

Dexter, Me., July 11.—After lying in an unconscious condition nearly all the time since Wednesday, when he sent two bullets into his head because of grief over the death two years ago of his wife, Richard Alexander, the New York broker and treasurer of the board of governors of the Real Estate Board of Brokers, at No. 155 Broadway, died late to-day at the home of his brother-in-law, L. Avery, in Dover.

SUSPECT CHECK SWINDLE.

Alleged Forger Has in His Possession List of Well Known Names.

Philadelphia, July 11.—Papers found in the possession of a well dressed, middle aged man giving the name of John Kelly, who was arrested to-day, after a chase from the office of Drexel & Co., 5th and Chestnut streets, where he tried to have an alleged bogus check for $1,570 cashed, lead the police to believe that they have in custody a swindler who has made victims of many men prominent in public life and financial circles.

"It was just a little drink that brought on the trouble," said Kelly, who gave his address as Arlington, N. J., when taken before a magistrate. "Those checks are bad; I admit it."

When searched there was found in his inside pocket a wallet full of papers. One paper is a list of New York financiers who appear to have agreed to take nearly fifty thousand copies of a monthly magazine which was about to issue a campaign number.

Another list bore the names of many United States Senators who had given their consent to a publishing company in Washington printing accounts of their lives and public works.

SEIZING MISBRANDED WHISKEYS.

Now that the Department of Agriculture has begun making seizures on the ground of misbranding under the pure food law the dealers are puzzled as to what whiskey they can sell. It is a misbranding to sell misbranded whiskey. Seizures have been made in Brooklyn, the largest being that at Peter Meyer's, also in New York; in Philadelphia over eight hundred cases, and in Detroit more than three thousand cases.

ARMY AND NAVY NEWS

Topics of Interest to Both Services.

(From The Tribune Bureau.) Washington, July 11. NAVY ENGINEER BILLETS.—Considerable interest attaches to one of the changes which have been made by virtue of the appointment as engineer in chief of the navy of Rear Admiral C. K. Barton. A rival candidate for the place was Captain A. F. Dixon, who was the efficient assistant during the administration of Rear Admiral C. W. Rae as chief of the bureau of steam engineering. The traditions of the service permit Captain Dixon to select the duty on which he would be engaged, and as he is immediately senior to Rear Admiral Barton, who is immediately senior to Captain Dixon, he cannot well serve as his assistant. Captain Dixon, therefore, has chosen the important place of general inspector of machinery for the Atlantic Coast, with headquarters in New York City, where he relieves Rear Admiral John A. R. Smith (retired), one of the officers of the old engineers corps, who has been in many respects the best of the navy yard or in New York City. Rear Admiral Smith will not be retained on active duty, it being the policy of the Navy Department to relieve as rapidly as possible from duty those officers who are on the retired list.

NO SEA PAY ASHORE.—The chiefs of the bureau of the Navy Department and their principal assistants expected to receive an increase of pay of about $50 a year in each case, but the wording of the law which increased the pay does not affect the instruction of junior officers who are assigned to engineer duty. He will be succeeded by Commander Gustav Kaemmerling. It was a question at one time whether any junior officers of the navy would be immediately assigned to this special course in engineering. There are no classes here now, all of the officers having joined the ships on the Atlantic coast, where they are continuing their observations under practical conditions. Another class would have been formed if it had not been for the great need of officers with the fleet. The fact that Commander Kaemmerling has been selected for this duty is taken as an indication that the Navy Department will probably early in the coming year designate additional junior line officers for this special instruction.

WEST POINT VISITATION.—There will undoubtedly be introduced in the next session of Congress a bill for the relief of those members of the abolished Military Academy board of visitors who incurred expenses in travel to West Point on the occasion of the last graduation and have been found entitled to the expense of the trip. It so happened that the Military Academy appropriation act contained a provision abolishing the board of visitors, which had been appointed jointly by the President, the Vice-President and the Speaker of the House, as had been usual for many years. The act was signed on May 20 and went into effect on June 1, when the composition of the board was concerned. The men who had been appointed, some of them residents on the Pacific Coast, were well on their way to West Point, and several of them had arrived at the Military Academy, before they received the telegraphic notice that they were no longer members of the board. It was decided that the members could be reimbursed for the expenses incurred up to the date when the President signed the act. A Congressman who is interested in a member of the board has written to the War Department asking if there is any way to reimburse the members for the expenses they incurred in good faith. The War Department authorities, however, are entitled to the expense of the trip. It so happened that the Military Academy appropriation act contained a provision abolishing the board of visitors, which had been appointed jointly by the President, the Vice-President and the Speaker of the House, as had been usual for many years.

NAVY WANTS LABOR-SAVING TOOLS.—The manufacturers of pneumatic tools in various parts of the country are interested in another test, which is to take place in the next month or so at the navy yard in Brooklyn. A similar test was held last year, and the results were so favorable to the implements for all the navy yards. Much complaint has been made that in the purchase of pneumatic tools the Navy Department adopted a method which did not allow proper competition, and that the government was placed at a corresponding disadvantage as compared with private shipyards. An investigation was held, and it was found that the requirements for the entire year. There was some expectation that the last year's competitive test at Brooklyn would settle the question of the type of pneumatic tools which would be used by the navy, but the manufacturers have been importunate, and it has been decided in awarding the contract for the next year that there shall be another opportunity for competition in a practical way. A board of experts will accordingly be detailed to meet at the Brooklyn yard and test the sample tools which are submitted by the manufacturers. The contract is sufficiently large to be eagerly sought by the makers of these tools. The incident is a part of the system which has been adopted by the Secretary of the Navy to invite bids for contracts which are made sufficiently large to be worth going after, not only with the prospect of a smaller price, but because of the opportunity for ascertaining the product of the private plants.
