

SCHEME TO COOL TUBE

ADVISES WALL IN SUBWAY

B. J. Arnold Recommends Long Partition as Means of Ventilation.

The building of a solid and continuous centre wall between the north and south express tracks between 90th street and the Brooklyn Bridge is recommended by B. J. Arnold, consulting engineer to the Public Service Commission, as the most economical and most effective way of securing proper cooling and ventilation of the subway.

Mr. Arnold recommends the building of the wall because he believes it would be the best way of obtaining piston ventilation. As at present constructed the opposing train movements churn and whip the air, producing opposing pressures and a rotating effect of the air about the train.

Such a wall could easily be built on the "H" section plate and angle columns of the subway, and it would add greatly to the strength of the subway. Should it be built, Mr. Arnold says, during the night operation, the twenty-five exhaust fans, which now have all they can do to take care of the heat, would be able to take away some of the stored heat.

Mr. Arnold's plan for making the subway more tolerable as to temperature and quality of air will soon be taken up by the Public Service Commission with the officials of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company. In case the construction of the centre wall should be delayed owing to expense, Mr. Arnold recommends the installation at an early date of large fans at the Grand Central and 14th street stations to draw the air from the street through the kiosks and force it in large quantities down into the subway.

Another recommendation of Mr. Arnold's which has received the commission's approval and which they will order carried out at once is the blocking open of the automatic louvres or slatted openings connected with the fourteen ventilating chambers at the sides of the subway between 59th street and City Hall. When these chambers and louvres were constructed it was expected that the operation of the trains would create sufficient air pressure to discharge the heated air and draw the cooler air from the street into the subway at the stations.

In his report Mr. Arnold says that no material changes have been made in the condition of the subway, despite the introduction of grates, openings, exhaust fans and automatic louvres, since Dr. George A. Soper made his report to the Rapid Transit Board, in February, 1906. In discussing methods of cooling the subway by refrigeration, either by the rapid expansion of compressed air or by the evaporation of volatile liquids, he concludes that the results obtained would not be such as to justify the large expenditure, the installation of a plant for the second method costing $3,000,000 alone and $450,000 yearly to operate it.

NEW FEATURES AT HIPPODROME.

"Battle of the Skies" and "Sporting Days" Novel Spectacles.

There will be two novel spectacles and ten circus acts in the new Hippodrome entertainment that has been devised for the season of 1908-09. The big playhouse will be thrown open to the public on Saturday night, September 5, and Messrs. Shubert and Anderson believe they will present something that has not been surpassed by any other representation at the Hippodrome.

"SARDANAPALUS" AT BERLIN.

Berlin, Aug. 24.—At the desire of the Emperor the Royal Opera will give on September 1 and 2, with the whole strength of the ballet corps and the assistance of the leading actors of the opera, the "Sardanapalus" as it is called, a new production of the "Sardanapalus" rewritten in accordance with the discoveries made in the excavations conducted by German, English and French scientists in Assyria. An attempt will be made to present a complete picture of the architecture, sculpture, painting and dress of the city of Nineveh.

EDWARD VII'S NEW CROWN JEWELS. King Edward's 1,000-carat Cullinan diamond, presented to him by the Transvaal government a year or so ago, has now been cut in two, and the stone has been found to be of superlative quality, of the purest white, and possessed of altogether remarkable brilliancy and lustre.

IN THE BERKSHIRES.

Lenox, Aug. 23.—A volunteer choir sang the service in Trinity Church this morning. A vacation has been given the vested choir, and the young people of the college sang familiar anthems and hymns. Among the singers were Miss Heloise Meyer, Miss Gertrude Parsons, Mrs. William Howland, the Misses Helen and Clivella Alexander, Mary Arrowsmith, Margaret Lee, Elizabeth Kendall, Florence Ferguson, Constance Tolson and Emily Bacon, Mrs. C. C. Flint, Mrs. David A. Dana, James Barnes, Joseph W. Burden, Clifford White and Richard C. Greenwood, Jr.

ON THE MAINE COAST.

Bar Harbor, Me., Aug. 23.—Jacob H. Schiff appeared in public for the first time since his coming to Bar Harbor, when he addressed the meeting this afternoon at the local Young Men's Christian Association. David Bishop sang. John J. Emery, of New York, who has been seriously ill at the Turrets for some time, was so far recovered to-day as to be around the house a little, and unless unexpected complications set in his recovery will be rapid.

JAPAN'S MONEY SYSTEM IN CHINA.

London, Aug. 24.—A dispatch from Shanghai to "The Morning Post" says that it is reported that China has decided to adopt the Japanese monetary system.

LITTLE MISS RONALDS CHRISTENED.

Erie, Penn., Aug. 23.—The christening here to-day of Thora Strong Ronalds, nine-months-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Ronalds, of New York, was attended by persons prominent in social circles of London, New York, Boston and Washington. The child was named after her mother, Mrs. Thora Strong Ronalds, who is the only grandchild of Mrs. Pierre Lorillard Ronalds, a London society leader, who came to this country especially to be present at to-day's ceremony.

KERN'S PLATITUDES.

John W. Kern, in Collier's Weekly for August 23. It has been a rather flippant jest for many decades that the Vice-Presidency has ceased to be a position of influence and of high honor. Mr. Bryan has been especially frank in his friendly relations with the occupant of the White House, furnishing little opportunity for the development of a wide range of public affairs.

PRINCE UCHTOMSKI IN DISGRACE.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 23.—Samuel Taylor, the oldest lumber man in Connecticut, died suddenly at Hatches Point-on-the-Sound this afternoon from apoplexy while visiting James M. Thomson. Mr. Taylor was born in this city on April 25, 1833, the son of Edwin and Martha Kinney Taylor. He founded the Edwin Taylor Lumber Company with his father in 1854, and had been actively in business until within a few years. He was president of the State Savings Bank, a director in the American National Bank, a member of the Hartford Club, the Connecticut Historical Society, the Revolutio Chapter of the Sons of the American Revolution and the Episcopal Church. His first wife was Miss Laura Louise Lester by whom he had one daughter, Ada Louise Taylor, and his second wife was Miss Mary Amelia Curtin, by whom one daughter, Mary Curtin Taylor, was born. His brother, Edwin P. Taylor, and his two daughters, survive him.

THE WEATHER REPORT.

Official Record and Forecast.—Washington, Aug. 23.—Temperatures are generally in the seasonal average over the middle tier in northern districts east of the Rocky Mountains, except in Montana. In the South they were moderate for the season, on account of the continuance of the showers that have prevailed since Monday and Tuesday. In the Southeast Virginia heavy during Sunday. Showers also continued in the Rocky Mountain region, and there were a few showers in the West. There is a moderate depression over the East States, and a moderate continuation of the showers in the South Atlantic and east Gulf States during the next two days, and probably the middle Valley. In the West Gulf States, showers will also continue Monday and Tuesday. In the West Gulf States, showers will also continue Monday and Tuesday. In the West Gulf States, showers will also continue Monday and Tuesday.

FORECAST FOR SPECIAL LOCALITIES.

For the District of Columbia, Maryland and Delaware, partly cloudy to-day; probably showers; Tuesday partly cloudy; variable winds. For New Jersey and Eastern Pennsylvania, partly cloudy to-day; probably showers in south portion; Tuesday partly cloudy; variable winds. For Eastern New York, fair to-day; Tuesday partly cloudy; variable winds.

LOCAL OFFICIAL RECORD.

The following official record of the Weather Bureau shows the changes in the temperature for the last twenty-four hours in comparison with the corresponding date of last year:

FROM TENEMENTS TO A MANCHESTER (VT.) FARM.

Fresh Air Fund called upon the Rev. Vincent Ravi, of the Congregational Church at Manchester, N. Y., to hear of the needs of the poor in this city with rapid attention. Then, impulsively, he said that the people of Manchester would take care of fifty boys for two weeks. Then he tackled the problem of providing for their entertainment within that time.
