

TWO STRANGE HOTELS

Most of the Guests Are Entertained Free of Cost.

Copyright, 1908, by the Brewster Company. While much space has been devoted by the press to the enumeration of the long list of iron-works, iron and coal mines, shipbuilding yards, railroads and steamship lines, shooting ranges, etc., subject to the sway of young Frau Bertha Krupp...

knows little or nothing, its name is familiar to every seafaring man. It is one of the oldest of those departments of the British government which are virtually independent both of the national treasury and of the Crown, and which manage their finances without the interference or supervision of Parliament...

ROYAL DUKE AS BONIFACE. Another hotel, conducted on still more peculiar principles, is owned and run by the brother of the Empress of Austria, Duke Charles Theodore of Bavaria, the famous oculist, who celebrates just a month hence his seventieth birthday. The hotel in question is at Kreuth, on the slopes of Hohenstein, one of the Bavarian Alps, overlooking the lovely Tegernsee...

OUTSIDE VIEWS ON BINGHAM. "A BAREFACED POLITICAL TRICK." From The Boston Advertiser. Bingham may or may not be the best man for the Police Commission, but the fact is that he is a plain, barefaced political trick to hand the New York police over again, body and soul, to Tammany Hall...

TEST FOR VOTERS' TEMPER. From The Boston Herald. This incident will furnish a test of the temper of New Yorkers toward Tammany. If they are opposed to ring rule, Mayor McCellan's act ought to arouse them to action. Bingham removed the police from Tammany to Tammany in Bingham's office. But we shall see.

SHACKLETON BROTHER OF TRINITY. King Edward's brother may be said to have taken the initiative in recognizing the services of Ernest Shackleton to science in connection with his most Antarctic expedition, which, as everybody knows, resulted in the discovery of the magnetic pole and in the planting of Queen Alexandra's Lighthouse at a spot a little over a hundred miles distant from the geographical South Pole...

WHAT IS GOING ON TO-DAY. Free admission to the American Museum of Natural History. Independence Day celebration of the Patriotic Society of Van Cortlandt Park, Indian Field, 228th Street and Independence Day exercises of the New York House of Refuge, Randall's Island, morning.

HAPPY "FRESH AIR" CHILDREN AT ASHFORD HILL.

Mr. Roosevelt Pleased with His Welcome at Nairobi.

SONGS OF THE SLAYER.

Nairobi, British East Africa, June 1.—Colonel Roosevelt heard his prowess as a lion killer told in song at the entertainment given on Saturday night by the "Nairobi Folkies," which Mr. Roosevelt and his son Kermit attended as the guests of his excellency F. J. Jackson, C. G. M. G. Acting Governor, as an evening's diversion after dining at Government House. Topical songs dealing with Mr. Roosevelt were a feature, and at each allusion made to himself Colonel Roosevelt's laugh rang out above the applause and laughter of the rest of the audience...

Another song, entitled "R. E. A." (British East Africa) recounted some of Mr. Roosevelt's experiences in the colony as follows: (With apologies to Kipling.) At the port of Kilindi, Looking seaward 'cross the main, My son Kermit, I see you stand, As we hope to do again, And the rain it fell in torrents, And the wind it blew from away, And we did our best to greet him in the bay, He waved us off the railway, And he said the night was grand, And he said that he would, And he said that he would, And he said that he would, And he said that he would...

PROFESSOR CHAMPIONS HER SEX.

Dr. Gamble, of Wellesley, Says Woman Is Man's Equal in Every Occupation. Boston, July 4.—Dr. Eleanor A. McCellan, professor of psychology at Wellesley College, has stirred up a heated discussion by her assertion that "woman is man's equal in every occupation. I shall not exclude the line in which she is not. On the whole she is, if anything, better than man in every way."

STATEN ISLAND SONS OF HOLLAND.

A number of prominent Staten Islanders who are descended from Dutch ancestors met on Saturday and organized "The Staten Island Sons of Holland." There were more than one hundred charter members, and the following officers were chosen: David B. Van Name, of Mariners Harbor, president; Anning S. Prall, of Port Richmond, vice-president; Charles E. Simonson, of West New Brighton, secretary; and D. T. Simonson, of Port Richmond, treasurer. It is the purpose of the organization to take an active interest in the Hudson-Fulton celebration.

BETHROTHED TO HER RESCUER.

New Haven, July 4.—Miss Endie Rice, daughter of Mrs. G. Woodbridge Rice, of Brooklyn, announced her engagement to-night to Stanton Higgins, who rescued her from drowning at Woodmont last summer. Their romance ripened speedily after the rescue incident, but the couple decided not to announce their engagement until after Mr. Higgins was graduated from the Yale law school. He received his diploma there last Wednesday. His home is in this city.

AGED RECLUSE FOUND DEAD.

Dover, N. J., July 4.—Alexander Thuler, seventy years old, a recluse, was found dead this afternoon in a hallway on the floor below a tailor shop in which he had been employed. A physician gave an accidental asphyxiation as the cause of death. He had been drinking heavily for a week.

LIFE AT ASHFORD HILL

Fresh Air, Good Food and Games for Many Little Ones.

Among all the homes controlled directly and indirectly by The Tribune Fresh Air Fund that of Ashford Hill, at Ardley, N. Y., is the largest and one of the most popular with the children who go there year after year. Situated on a lofty hill in the country, two miles from the town itself, the home commands a distant view of the Palisades and the hills lining the banks of the Hudson. The fund owns a plot of one hundred acres, thickly covered with big oak, pine and maple trees, with here and there a space cleared as a playground for the children. The various cottages are set deep with the grove of trees in the cool shade, but high enough up to be free from dampness. Not far distant are broad farm lands and meadows. The fields are flecked with daisies waving in the breeze, and along the shaded roadside grow tiger lilies.

The attendants are with the children the entire time, both night and day. An endeavor is made to come into the closest personal contact possible with the children and both by precept and example to open their eyes to a new view of life. Among the attendants now at Ashford Hill are students from Columbia, New York University, the College of Physicians and Surgeons, Wellesley, Vassar and Teachers College. Living as they do in the very closest intimacy with the children, they are able to exert a great influence for good in lives which have seen little but indulgence and its attendant evils.

The daily life at the home is governed by a regular schedule. The children rise at 6:15 a. m. and go to bed as soon as it is dark, as the dormitories are not lighted at night. Saturday evening, when some forms of entertainment are generally planned, they are allowed to remain up until 9:30, retiring at 11:15 on Sunday morning. They are required to wash before every meal, each child having his own towel. Large shower baths have been installed in two of the dormitories, covering the entire ceiling of one of the rooms, thus enabling twenty or thirty children to bathe at one time. They are required to bathe frequently.

Simple, healthful food is given. Breakfast generally consists of oatmeal and bread and milk. Occasionally some new cereal is tried, but without success, the children having the peculiar characteristic of not eating anything which they have never seen before. The ordinary department is in the hands of seven Japanese women. The Japanese love for decoration has found expression in the dining room, where the gables of the roof have been filled with pine boughs, which have been hung with Japanese lanterns. Each child is weighed before and after leaving. The increase in weight shown by this comparison is often remarkable.

WILLIAM HERRIES.

William Herries, for fifty-five years a newspaper man, chiefly in New York City, died yesterday at his home, No. 45A Hancock street, Brooklyn. He was born in Glasgow in 1832 and came to New York when he was twenty years old. Two years later he became a reporter of "The Tribune." In 1863 he took editorial charge of "The Brooklyn Times," a year later he became associate editor of "The Pittsburg Commercial."

EDWARD M. QUIMBY.

Wooster, Ohio, July 4.—Edward M. Quimby, of this city, a millionaire with large interests in nearly every city in the state, died Saturday in a hospital in Dresden, Germany, following an operation for appendicitis. His wife and eight children had accompanied him on his trip to Dresden and were present when he died.

MRS. DAVID LEVENTRIT.

Lake Placid, N. Y., July 4.—Mrs. David Leventritt, wife of David Leventritt, of New York City, ex-justice of the Supreme Court, died at her summer home here late on Saturday night. Mrs. Leventritt had been suffering from diabetes for about eleven months, and death came from that cause. Besides a husband, two sons and one daughter survive her. All were present when she died. The body will be taken to New York for burial. The funeral will take place there on Wednesday.

OBITUARY NOTES.

COLONEL WILLIAM C. TATOOM, editorial writer on "The Nashville American," died in Nashville on Saturday night. He commanded the state troops sent into the Hotspur region last fall in connection with the Night Rider outbreaks. CHARLES H. MURCH, a veteran of the Civil War, and for more than forty years a real estate dealer in Brooklyn, died on Saturday at his home, No. 41 Jefferson avenue. At the outbreak of the war he enlisted in the Ellsworth Zouaves, in 1862 was captured and held in the Hotspur region last fall in connection with the Night Rider outbreaks. He was captain of Company I, 2nd Regiment, New York Volunteers. At the age of twenty-two he was made captain of Company B, 158th Regiment. He leaves three sons, four daughters and sixteen grandchildren.

NEW FRENCH BOOKS.

Paris, June 25. A great quantity of works of fiction suitable for summer resort reading appears this week. Among these light and somewhat frisky novels may be noted "Les Maacrans," dealing with life of the smart Parisians in society, at the clubs, theatres and race meetings, written by Charles Maurras, issued by the Librairie Calmann-Lévy; "Le Médecin," by Dr. Charles-Edouard Lévy, a love tale cleverly presented, ending with a marriage between a young woman and a physician who cured her of typhoid fever, published by the Librairie Fasquelle; "Jean Christophe à Paris," by Romain Rolland, who indulges in well-taken, delicate irony in regard to the upper bourgeois strata of Parisian society, brought out by the Librairie Ollendorff, and "Soldat," by J. Delorme-Jules Simon, issued by the Librairie Arthème Fayard, which gives amusing and edifying views of the ways, doings and mentality of officers in the newly organized democratic army of the French Republic.

From the Librairie Emile Paul comes "Grandes Dames, Tragédies, et Aventuriers, Belles du Vieux Temps"—a quiverful of daintily pointed biographical arrows of the most attractive women of the eighteenth century, by Vincent de Heiset, whose work has the merit of scrupulous exactitude, enlivened by well chosen anecdotes, a keen sense of humor and spicy gossip. The Librairie Sansot puts forth a bright little book revealing the Cardinal Richelieu in his moments of relaxation, sentimental expansion verging upon love and flirtation, written and compiled from old letters found in the archives of the Château d'Acay, by Baron de Marcourt, and bearing the title "Les Aventures du Cardinal de Richelieu de la Duchesse d'Elbeuf."

OBITUARY.

William Herries, for fifty-five years a newspaper man, chiefly in New York City, died yesterday at his home, No. 45A Hancock street, Brooklyn. He was born in Glasgow in 1832 and came to New York when he was twenty years old. Two years later he became a reporter of "The Tribune." In 1863 he took editorial charge of "The Brooklyn Times," a year later he became associate editor of "The Pittsburg Commercial."

Mr. Herries and John W. Pitcock founded "The Pittsburg Leader." In 1871 Mr. Herries sold out his interest in that paper and became associated with "The Erie Citizen." Three years later he went to "The Brooklyn Eagle," where he served several years as city editor, and afterward was made assistant managing editor. A few months ago he was compelled to resign because of ill health.

Mr. Herries was well acquainted with many men of prominence. It was the practice of General Lew Wallace and Wilkie Collins to consult him regarding their books, and he supplied them with many facts which they used in them. He was also a close friend of Dr. John Ericsson, physician to the late Queen Victoria.

His wife, two sons and three daughters survive him. One son, John Herries, was employed as a reporter on the New York Herald for many years. He is now clerk of the Second District Municipal Court, Brooklyn.

THE REV. DR. JOHN WOODBRIDGE.

The Rev. Dr. John Woodbridge died yesterday morning after a long illness at South Pasadena, Cal., where he had lived for the last ten years. About a year ago he was operated on, and he had been in ill health since. Dr. Woodbridge was born in 1824 at Sharon, Conn. He was the son of the Rev. Dr. Sylvester Woodbridge, a Presbyterian clergyman. Dr. Woodbridge was graduated from Union College in 1846. He took a course at the Princeton Theological Seminary, and was graduated two years later. His first charge was at Greenport, Long Island. After three years there he went to Saratoga Springs, remaining until 1871. The following year he got a call to the Second Presbyterian Church at New Brunswick, N. J., and was its pastor up to 1886, when ill health caused him to retire. Dr. Woodbridge was several times elected to the general assembly.

MRS. DAVID LEVENTRIT.

Lake Placid, N. Y., July 4.—Mrs. David Leventritt, wife of David Leventritt, of New York City, ex-justice of the Supreme Court, died at her summer home here late on Saturday night. Mrs. Leventritt had been suffering from diabetes for about eleven months, and death came from that cause. Besides a husband, two sons and one daughter survive her. All were present when she died. The body will be taken to New York for burial. The funeral will take place there on Wednesday.

OBITUARY NOTES.

COLONEL WILLIAM C. TATOOM, editorial writer on "The Nashville American," died in Nashville on Saturday night. He commanded the state troops sent into the Hotspur region last fall in connection with the Night Rider outbreaks. CHARLES H. MURCH, a veteran of the Civil War, and for more than forty years a real estate dealer in Brooklyn, died on Saturday at his home, No. 41 Jefferson avenue. At the outbreak of the war he enlisted in the Ellsworth Zouaves, in 1862 was captured and held in the Hotspur region last fall in connection with the Night Rider outbreaks. He was captain of Company I, 2nd Regiment, New York Volunteers. At the age of twenty-two he was made captain of Company B, 158th Regiment. He leaves three sons, four daughters and sixteen grandchildren.

Table with weather forecasts for various locations including New York, Philadelphia, and other cities. Columns include location, date, and weather conditions.

Local Official Record.

The following official record from the weather bureau shows the changes in the temperature for the last twenty-four hours in comparison with the corresponding date last year: 1908, 1909, 1908, 1909. 3 a. m. min. 78 79 8 p. m. max. 80 82 9 a. m. min. 78 79 12 p. m. max. 80 82 4 p. m. min. 80 82 12 p. m. max. 80 82

Died.

Death notices appearing in THE TRIBUNE will be published in the Tri-Weekly Tribune without extra charge. Bristol, Robert C. McVeary, Samuel Raymond, John C. Keeth, Anna T. S. Woodbridge, Rev. John Lamoureux, James J. Young, Gladys R. H. C. I. B.

CEMETERIES.

THE WOODLAWN CEMETERY. Is readily accessible by Harlem train from Grand Central Station, No. 125th Street, 125th Street, and by car from No. 125th Street, 125th Street, and by car from No. 125th Street, 125th Street.

Special Notices.

To the Employer. Do you want desirable help QUICKLY? SAVE TIME AND EXPENSE by consulting the file of applications of selected aspirants for positions of various kinds which has just been installed at THE NEW-YORK TRIBUNE, No. 1364 Broadway, Between 35th and 37th Streets. Office hours: 9 a. m. to 6 p. m.

Domestic Rates.

Table showing domestic rates for THE TRIBUNE, including daily, weekly, and monthly rates for different parts of the country.

Canadian Rates.

Table showing Canadian rates for THE TRIBUNE, including daily, weekly, and monthly rates for various Canadian locations.

Rates to Foreign Countries.

Table showing rates to foreign countries for THE TRIBUNE, including daily, weekly, and monthly rates for various international destinations.

THE WEATHER REPORT.

Official Record and Forecast.—Washington, July 4. Cool and generally fair weather continues south from the lake region and Ohio Valley westward, and there has also been a considerable fall in temperature in the South Atlantic states. Pressure is generally low over the western half of the country and unsettled, showery weather will continue during Monday through the Rocky Mountains and the upper Mississippi Valley, and extend into the Ohio Valley and the south upper lake and great lake region with marked temperature changes. Over the eastern districts the weather will continue cool and generally fair on Tuesday, with slightly higher temperatures and moderate to variable winds. Fair weather will continue, without marked temperature changes. In the extreme West fair weather will prevail. Winds along the New England coast and middle Atlantic coast will be light to moderate, with a coming east by Tuesday; on the lower lakes, light to moderate, and variable, becoming southwest; on the upper lakes, moderate and variable; on Superior and Lake Michigan, moderate, possibly brisk, east to southeast on Michigan and Huron. Steamers departing Monday for European ports will have light to moderate west-northwest winds, with fair weather, to the Grand Banks. Forecast for Special Localities.—For New Jersey, West and continuing, with increasing cloudiness and slightly warmer in interior; light to moderate north to northeast winds. For Eastern Pennsylvania, partly cloudy and continuing cool to moderate, with moderate to light winds, slightly warmer, probably showers; light to moderate north to northeast winds. For Eastern New York, fair and continued cool to moderate; increasing cloudiness, probably showers; light to moderate north to northeast winds, becoming variable. For New England, fair and continued cool to-day;