

against it because he desired the conference committee to know that all the changes made in the Senate were not satisfactory to all members of the Republican party.

Senator Clapp spoke along the same lines. "I am neither stung, silenced nor entombed by the words of the Senator from Rhode Island," he said.

It will take more than the Senator from Rhode Island to read the State of Minnesota out of the Republican party," said Mr. Nelson, amid applause which called down the gavel of the Vice-President.

FIFTY AMENDMENTS REJECTED. Probably fifty amendments were voted down or tabled, the most important among them being the following:

By Mr. Stone—Placing hides, leather, harness, boots and shoes and other leather products on the free list.

By Mr. Newlands—Two amendments authorizing the President to make gradual reductions in all dutiable articles except those embraced in all duties and tobacco schedules; also a similar amendment by Mr. Owen.

By Mr. Burton—Placing crude asphaltum on the free list. This was tabled—37 to 29—Messrs. Bailey and McHenry being the only Democrats voting in the affirmative.

By Mr. Dixon—Adding as an amendment to the corporation tax the House provision for an inheritance tax, slightly modified. Mr. Dixon tried in vain to have a rollcall ordered on Mr. Aldrich's motion to table his amendment.

the effect of the tax. The trust, he declared, will have to pay the tax. It would, he added, transfer from the trust's treasury to the treasury of the United States $3,000,000 annually.

Mr. Daniel's amendment to reduce the tax to 6 cents a pound was rejected, 34 to 24. The committee tax amendment was then agreed to, 82 to 25.

Senator Aldrich accepted Senator Bradley's amendment to remove the 6-cent tax on leaf tobacco, and it was agreed to. This is practically the same provision as that which passed the House.

Aldrich and Beveridge Clash. "When the Senator wants something done it is for the workman, and when he is opposed to something it is for the manufacturer," hotly retorted Senator Aldrich in reply to Senator Beveridge's statement that the Senator from Rhode Island was better informed on the conditions and desires of the working people.

Before Mr. Aldrich could proceed further the Indiana Senator was on his feet. "The Senator must correct that," he said hotly. "That is what I understand," said Mr. Aldrich.

By Mr. Curtis—Providing for a countervailing duty on crude petroleum. Before the vote was taken Mr. Curtis accepted an amendment by Mr. Gore exempting crude petroleum from the provisions of the drawback clause.

By Mr. Brices—Increasing the duty on salicylic acid from 5 to 10 cents a pound. By Mr. Jones—Increasing the duty on lime from 10 to 15 cents a hundred pounds.

By Mr. Jones—Providing for a duty of 1 1/2 cents a pound on the arsenic contents of ore.

SENATE TARIFF BILL THE REDUCTIONS AND INCREASES.

About 500 of Former to 100 of Latter—Prospect of Concessions in Conference.

Washington, July 8.—The experts who have followed the progress of the tariff bill through the Senate roughly estimate that the measure contains about five hundred reductions from and about one hundred increases over the Dingley law.

Iron ore furnishes another example. The Dingley rate is 40 cents a ton; the House made it free, and the Senate compromised on 25 cents a ton. So, too, in the case of lumber.

The Senate has raised the duties above the House rates, and in a few instances above the Dingley rates, on a number of luxuries, such as champagne and wines, yachts, diamonds, etc.

Probably the greatest improvement made by the Senate in the bill is the provision for a tariff commission. The leaders were unwilling to provide for such a commission as many deemed important.

By Mr. Curtis—Providing for a countervailing duty on crude petroleum. Before the vote was taken Mr. Curtis accepted an amendment by Mr. Gore exempting crude petroleum from the provisions of the drawback clause.

By Mr. Brices—Increasing the duty on salicylic acid from 5 to 10 cents a pound. By Mr. Jones—Increasing the duty on lime from 10 to 15 cents a hundred pounds.

will have to accept the yielding of the House on this provision as a concession by that body and make proportionate concessions to the House.

The leaders in both houses of Congress are hopeful that the conference on the tariff bill will not be a protracted one.

There were several indications that it was a boom, although the Controller said he was not looking for it. Perhaps there is some significance in his remark that if he can do anything to help his party he is "on the job."

Justice Stapleton referred to Mr. Metz as the hero of militant Democracy in the city of New York, and as "a Democrat not ashamed of the man who elevated him to office."

The large dining hall of the hotel was not only filled but crowded and overcrowded with Democrats who cheered and yelled at every mention of the name Metz.
