Chairman Explains Attitude of P. S. Commission.

The subway extensions that the Interborough has named are as follows: One extending from Times Square to the Battery, West Broadway and Greenwich street to the Battery...

Mr. Willcox's understanding of the terms under which the company will undertake the construction and operation of the proposed extensions is expressed in the following extract from his letter to Mr. ShonTS:

MEETING AFTER APPROVAL. The Citizens Union bases its action on an injunction solely on the point that the Board of Estimate, by a unanimous vote on November 12, approved the proposed modification of the original contract...

CHANGES IN CONTRACT. A few of the glaring points of difference in the modified contract, as approved by the entire board on November 12 and the original franchise contract as granted on May 29, are as follows:

INVASION BY B. R. T. MAY OPERATE HERE.

Seeks Manhattan Extension by "L" and Subways.

Suggestions from the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company made to the Public Service Commission in recent discussions regarding comprehensive extensions of the former's traction service were made public yesterday. They contemplate an invasion of Manhattan by the lines of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit.

Nothing definite has been settled upon as yet, but the general understanding is that if the Brooklyn Rapid Transit can offer tentative plans acceptable to the commission definite proposals and action will follow.

The Brooklyn Rapid Transit seeks a greater Manhattan patronage than it now enjoys. If its plan goes through it means that persons from the Jersey coast will be able to enter a car at the Manhattan shore and ride to Coney Island.

As to a proposed elevated structure on the Flatbush avenue extension, the Brooklyn Rapid Transit, while saying that no approach to the Manhattan Bridge is possible through Flatbush avenue, has tentatively offered the commission the alternative of occupying such elevated approach as a tenant...

ON CENTRAL BANK MORAWETZ OPPOSED.

Tells Y. M. C. A. It Is Impracticable in United States.

Victor Morawetz, formerly chairman of the executive committee of the Atchafalaya, Topeka & Santa Fe Railroad, in an address at the first regular session of the Finance Forum at the West Side Young Men's Christian Association, last night, said:

Our present banking system has served us well in normal times. Under this system we have prospered beyond all other nations and therefore this system must have some merit. It cannot be wholly bad, as some of our present system has failed to satisfy the needs of industry and commerce...

The underlying defect of our present system is that it makes no provision for the fluctuations. There are to-day twenty-five thousand independent banks and trust companies in the United States. Each of these institutions carries on business for its individual interest alone, independent of the interests of the nation as a whole...

In all civilized countries of the world except the United States there has been recognized that no safe system of banking is possible without central regulation and control. In every country of Europe the machinery for providing for this central regulation and control has been provided by the establishment of a central bank which is deemed charged with the duty of controlling the issue of currency and regulating the aggregate expansion of the bank credit and of protecting the financial system against the fluctuations of the currency market...

BANKERS IN SING SING.

Britton and Schroeder Begin Serving Sentences.

Colonel Edward E. Britton and Frederick H. Schroeder, former Quarantine Commissioner, left Brooklyn for Sing Sing prison shortly after 11 o'clock yesterday morning. Whitlock, to obtain their acquittal...

Once More! The whirr of moving wheels is in the air; spindles are humming, the tall chimneys are spreading great clouds of black smoke against the November sky, the rhythmic beat of huge forges startles the midnight calm...

Mercury has been asleep. The laggard god who fell into a doze that October day two years ago has felt the thrill of life once more through his wing-shod feet, and rousing from his stupor, has touched with his magic wand the keels of ships, the motors of moving trains, the stones that grind the wheat...

And this inspiring music means so much to so many! It means education and improvement for thousands that have thirsted for knowledge. It means food and returning strength to other thousands whose attenuated frames bear pathetic testimony to deprivation that has been endured without complaint.

It will bring hope into the eyes and color into the cheeks of white-faced women who have grown sick with helpless apprehension, and will light up with fresh confidence the faces of men whose features have long worn the pallor of sleepless anxiety.

The East is ablaze with color; the fires of hope light up with a brilliant glow the advent of a new day—and a better day than any that have preceded it—in which all may work who will, and all who will may do, and they who do may be limited only by what they will. Of a certainty it is a day for Thanksgiving—a month, a year for Thanksgiving. There have been no years when we had not much to be thankful for. But not in many years have we had so much to be thankful for as NOW.

LABOR MEN DIFFER Plan for Employers' Insurance Not Favored by All.

At the third public session of the Wamwright commission to investigate liability laws, which was held yesterday morning in the Aldermanic Chamber of the City Hall, A. Conkley, former president of the Central Federated Union; M. J. Flaherty, James L. Gerson, John J. Flynn and Daniel J. Colen, of the Brooklyn Federated Labor Union, were present.

These labor leaders have expressed their opposition to the plan to have employers insure their employees against injury, on the ground that such insurance tended to make the employers careless of human life.

A. H. Gill, M. P., a worker in the interests of organized labor in England, spoke of the conditions leading up to the workmen's compensation act of 1897. He said that the act had been opposed by many employers, but that subsequently it had been adopted by both employer and employee. He also said that there had been some agitation in Great Britain to compel all employers to insure their men, but that this was accomplished yet.

JUSSERAND A GUEST.

Takes Part in French Programme at City College.

Ambassador Jusserand was the guest of the College of the City of New York yesterday at a reception from 2 to 5 o'clock. More than twenty-five hundred students crowded the Great Hall, cheered his address and then gave the college yell, with three "Jusserands." The yell startled him a bit, but he smiled at his fright a second later.

Dr. Henry van Dyke, who gave the exchange lectures at the Sorbonne last year, delivered an address, in which he spoke of the colleges of France and the United States, saying that what American colleges and universities might learn from those of France was teaching their youth how to think. He said the college of this country might well copy the methods of those which exist among the teachers in French institutions, which go deeper than the surface superficialities.

REOPEN OLD BANKRUPTCY CASE.

Assets Disclosed Ten Years After Broker Had Been Discharged.

Edgar L. Pierson, living at No. 33 West 82d street, formerly a well known real estate broker, director of a life insurance company and president of a gold mining company, who went through bankruptcy in 1899, has applied to the United States District Court to have the old case reopened, on the ground of newly discovered assets, consisting of real estate, title to which he did not know he held at the time he filed his petition, and which he omitted from his original schedule.
