

JENSEN THE VICTOR
FIRST IN YONKERS
MARATHON.

Pastime Runner Wears Down
Canadian and Wins in Last Miles.

Running a true and well judged race, with a fine and skilful conservation of his strength for the final grueling miles, Harry Jensen, of the Pastime Athletic Club, won the annual Yonkers Marathon over the yards of Westchester County yesterday, and added his name to those of Johnny Hayes, the Olympic victor of 1908, and Jim Crowley, who won their first fame by coming in victors in this contest. Jensen's time was 2:48:15, excellent in all the circumstances, and he was less than three minutes ahead of Daniel Sheridan, of Toronto, who was second, after leading for twenty-three miles. Sheridan's time was 2:52:30, and Mike Ryan, of the Irish-American Athletic Club, who was third, was less than five seconds behind him, suffering over the line in 2:50:00 and being carried off the track as soon as he had worn up his lungs.

A great crowd, attracted by the superb weather, saw the race, assembling by thousands at the start and all along the course, while the Empire City track, in which the last four miles of the race was run, was well filled. Thousands saw the start, went back and got another glimpse of the runner as they doubled the course, and when they saw the runner, they were better than had been supposed to be possible. The roads were hard and springy, although this condition was not met at the Empire City track, where the going was very heavy, a fact that contributed materially to the defeat of Sheridan, who had been running steadily and well until the eight going was encountered.

Arrangements for the race were excellent, in the main. There was a slight confusion about the automobiles scheduled to follow the pack, and some were disgruntled in consequence, but the runners were properly cared for, and the crowd was kept off the track at the finish, which was not the case a year ago.

A great crowd gathered about the junction of South Broadway and New Main street, in Yonkers, at 1 o'clock, and fourteen minutes after the hour Harry Warren sent the pack of ninety-five athletes away with a resounding shout from a revolver to the start. Sheridan shot away in fourth place, getting quickly into a steady stride like that of St. Yves, the French phenomenon, that gave promise of good endurance. There was no apparent disposition on the part of the others to start the race at a killing pace, with the idea of killing it off quickly, but even the pace adopted seemed to be for many, and the field soon split up and developed a number of leaders, who fell confident of their ability to pull up as the end of the race drew near.

The lead went down South Broadway to McLean avenue, and then swung around the corners and back on South Broadway, through Getty Square, the centre of the town, where the greatest crowd had gathered. This was two and a half miles from the start, and Sheridan was increasing his lead somewhat, although without apparent effort. Sammy Mellor, the old Yonkers warhorse, wearing the colors of the Mercantile Athletic Club, which has sent him and Tom Jones to the front in the North River race, was second, trying to curb his usual tendency to run his race in the first fifteen miles by adopting a quiet pace. Then there were White, of the Holy Cross Lyceum, Sidney Hatch, of Chicago, Frank Twining, of the Most Haven Athletic Club, and Tom Jones, of the Mercantile Athletic Club, who were all in the lead.

The race began to pass into its second stage at Hastings street, where the weaker runners, unprepared for so grueling a contest, began to drop out more and more often, and the whole pack increased in speed, the leaders being anxious to get rid of the drifwood as soon as possible and find their real opponents for the stiffer part of the race. Sheridan led the quickening of the pace, and while the others would not challenge him as yet, and he did not increase his advantage to nearly half a mile, all were moving better.

When the pack turned east from the Hudson and went through Ardenway to Central avenue, the main highway from the Plains, the field was greatly reduced. Motorcycles and automobiles seemed to help the stragglers, and while no one seemed to be in really bad condition, some of those who dropped out were in need of attention and mild stimulants.

In the run over toward Central avenue, Jensen looked back a little, and Clerk and Johnson took up the task of keeping in touch with Sheridan, who was plugging along with a swiftness that he needed along with the miles, and began to look like a winner. It was about twelve miles after the start that Jensen began to move along. He had been trailing rather more than half a mile behind Sheridan, but started at this point to make the running for the trailers. Clerk and Johnson speedily dropped back, and Jensen was alone, but Mellor moved along again and tried to hold Jensen off. The two had a terrific contest for a couple of miles, but Jensen was much fresher, and kept the veteran down without much difficulty.

In the middle of the fourteenth mile, Jensen suddenly threw up his hands and dropped to the ground on Central avenue. An automobile stopped for him and took him to the track, where doctors said that a short time would restore him to condition, explaining having caused his collapse.

Jensen became the only real contestant over the last four miles that, although Ryan was running a fine race, he kept after Sheridan, but Jensen was almost as far ahead of Ryan at this stage as he was behind Sheridan, although many thought that the Irish-American man was running so well that he would be the winner. Pounding down the straight, wide road that was the track, the field was far spread, and some stragglers even further back. Sheridan held the lead, and was well ahead of Jensen, although the latter had made his advantage when the track was winding. The Canadian was roundly cheered when he entered the gates, and when he was almost at the finish, he was being followed by the crowd all the way down the track, and he struck it.

EGAN'S GREAT RACE

WINS FOR THE 71ST.

Exciting Finishes at 8th Regiment's Annual Games.

JENSEN, THE WINNER, RUNNING IN SECOND PLACE.

The splendid running of Dick Egan enabled the 8th Regiment team to carry off the one-mile Military Handicap, the feature of the annual games of the 8th Regiment, held in the gymnasium of the 8th Regiment, last night. Egan by a wonderful burst of speed just nosed out M. Nally, of the 10th Regiment team, of Brooklyn, who led to within a short distance of the finish. He ran for the 10th Regiment, which had a 50-yard handicap, jumped into the lead, with Dick Burt, of the 71st Regiment, second, starting nineteen yards behind. Heller gained a two-yard lead, which Bert Weaver maintained throughout the rest of the race, being hand pushed by Heller. In the third relay Gardner and Goggin, who ran for the 10th and 71st regiments, respectively, fought it out neck and neck. Gardner being a few yards in the lead when M. Nally took up the running. Egan trailed Nally until he made his bid, and then he was cheered to the echo as he flashed across the line. The time, 1:23:45, was good.

The three-mile run attracted a good field of distance stars, including Crowley and Frank, of the Irish-American Athletic Club; Malone, of the Mohawk Athletic Club; Carr, of the Xavier Athletic Association. The three first named entered the run by alternating in setting the pace. At the two and a half mile mark Malone tired and dropped back, Frank coming on and setting the pace. One lap from home Crowley uncocked a wonderful sprint and won by ten yards with Frank second and Malone a poor third. The finish of the one-mile run, handicap, was exciting, Matt Giehl winning by five yards over David Noble, of the New York Athletic Club, who was coming fast at the finish.

A drill by the John Hall Memorial Cadets drew applause, and dancing followed the games. The summaries follow:

CUP FOR LOCKWOOD
LEADS AT THE TRAPS.

Good Scores Rule in Crescent Club Meet.

As a result of the excellent light and weather conditions at Bay Ridge yesterday many full scores were made by the trapshooters of the Crescent Athletic Club, and the friends and guests of the members who gathered to watch the contest grew enthusiastic over the closeness of some of the matches.

C. A. Lockwood carried off the November cup by breaking 24 clay birds, with a handicap of 2. This added to his score of 46 out of 50 on Saturday, gave him a total of 47, the highest for the month. The Stephenson brothers, F. B. and G. G., tied for second place with 36 each. Four full scores were made in the shoot for the Stake trophy, a season's cup, which was divided yesterday. The winners were D. T. Leahy, having broken the first 25, was elected yesterday's winner. The other three were J. H. Vanderveer, A. E. Hendrickson and H. W. Woodcock. Sixteen shot in this match.

Four pairs competed in the team shoot, and his partner, and J. J. Keyes, with H. W. Woodcock, tied with scores of 46 out of the possible 50. In the shoot-off Keyes and Woodcock won with 41 killed. The Stephenson brothers scored 41, which added to last Saturday's score of 48, makes them high men for the month.

Shooting against twelve others, A. E. Hendrickson, with a full score, and 16 of the possible 20, in a similar match, which they twelve competed was won by J. F. Armitage, who, shooting with a handicap of 4, won in a shoot-off from W. W. Marshall with 24 as his score. Marshall, in another match, at 23 targets, tied with F. J. Armitage, with 24 broken, and in the Stephenson with 24 broken, and in the other match won with a full score. Another sharp match was won by J. H. Vanderveer, and in the "scratch" shoot at 15 targets, F. B. Stephenson and C. M. Damon, who tied with full scores of 15, divided the prize.

LAST ENGLISH RACE
TURF SEASON CLOSES.

American Owners Do Well—King Second on List.

Manchester, England, Nov. 27.—The Manchester November Handicap of 1,500 sovereigns, for three-year-olds and upward, distance one mile and a half, the last important event in flat racing of the present season, was run here today and won by Admiral Togo III. Rathlea was second and Rockbourne third.

The season which closed to-day was especially remarkable for the success of King Edward and the "American invaders." Mr. Fairlie leads the list of winners, with 198,550 to his credit, the King coming second with 190,720. His majesty's prominence in the list was due to the achievements of two of his horses—Mimosa, the winner of the Two Thousand Guineas Stakes at Newmarket and the Derby at Epsom, and Princess de Galles, which finished second both in the One Thousand Guineas Stakes and in the Oaks.

Mr. Fairlie's Bayardo, which proved such a disappointment in the Two Thousand Guineas Stakes and in the Derby, but since then has won eleven races, valued at $22,850, was the chief contributor to Mr. Fairlie's success.

One of the outstanding features of the season was the successful campaign of H. P. Whitney and his trainer, A. J. Joyner. Mr. Whitney, with a total of $5,280, was seventh in the list of winning owners. H. P. Whitney has not been so successful, the stakes credited to him amounting to only $19,025.

Frank Wootton, an Australian boy, sixteen years old, heads the list of jockeys, with a total of more than a hundred and sixty mounts, the last being that of Admiral Togo III, the winner of the Manchester November Handicap this afternoon.

But if a true test of jockeyship is a percentage of victories to mounts, "Danny" Maher, the American jockey, still holds the lead he has enjoyed for the last five years without break, his percentage being 27.22 to Wootton's 23.12.
