

HUNTING BUCKET SHOPS

Washington Grand Jury Expected to Find More Indictments.

TELEGRAPH INQUIRY BEGUN

Western Union Official Asked About the Marrin Fast Wire Service.

Washington, May 2.—Several more indictments by the District of Columbia Grand Jury in the bucket shop cases are promised within the next few days.

Mr. Badaeu was unable to give details regarding the exact scope of the injunction referred to, and doubted if the attorneys of the Consolidated, Sullivan & Cromwell, could furnish the facts.

President Badaeu yesterday confirmed his remark in the statement published in the morning papers that the "Marrin wire" service was, in fact, slower than the Gold and Stock Telegraph Company's.

"LITTLE BOARD" IS ACTIVE

Uses Ticker Quotations—Talk of Stock Exchange Suit.

Despite the cutting of the "Marrin wire" on Saturday, by which the quotations of the New York Stock Exchange have for years been received on the trading floor of the Consolidated Stock Exchange, business went on apparently as usual yesterday.

Various theories were put forward yesterday to explain the source of the "Marrin wire" quotations, but the Consolidated Stock Exchange by Frank Maier, one being that they were taken off by his operator from under the wheel of the Gold and Stock Instrument.

The Hughes commission in its report to the Governor last June, after referring to the strained relations between the Stock Exchange and the Consolidated said: "The tension has been increased by the methods by which the Consolidated obtains the quotations of the other through the use of the tickers conveying them."

When the 11th Company, commanded by Lieutenant Van Bezalske, reached the Lexington avenue side of the armory, Meislohn lunched for him and was seized by Patrolmen John Carey and Walter Byrne, but died before they could carry him to a bench.

When the 11th Company, commanded by Lieutenant Van Bezalske, reached the Lexington avenue side of the armory, Meislohn lunched for him and was seized by Patrolmen John Carey and Walter Byrne, but died before they could carry him to a bench.

When the 11th Company, commanded by Lieutenant Van Bezalske, reached the Lexington avenue side of the armory, Meislohn lunched for him and was seized by Patrolmen John Carey and Walter Byrne, but died before they could carry him to a bench.

When the 11th Company, commanded by Lieutenant Van Bezalske, reached the Lexington avenue side of the armory, Meislohn lunched for him and was seized by Patrolmen John Carey and Walter Byrne, but died before they could carry him to a bench.

When the 11th Company, commanded by Lieutenant Van Bezalske, reached the Lexington avenue side of the armory, Meislohn lunched for him and was seized by Patrolmen John Carey and Walter Byrne, but died before they could carry him to a bench.

When the 11th Company, commanded by Lieutenant Van Bezalske, reached the Lexington avenue side of the armory, Meislohn lunched for him and was seized by Patrolmen John Carey and Walter Byrne, but died before they could carry him to a bench.

When the 11th Company, commanded by Lieutenant Van Bezalske, reached the Lexington avenue side of the armory, Meislohn lunched for him and was seized by Patrolmen John Carey and Walter Byrne, but died before they could carry him to a bench.

When the 11th Company, commanded by Lieutenant Van Bezalske, reached the Lexington avenue side of the armory, Meislohn lunched for him and was seized by Patrolmen John Carey and Walter Byrne, but died before they could carry him to a bench.

When the 11th Company, commanded by Lieutenant Van Bezalske, reached the Lexington avenue side of the armory, Meislohn lunched for him and was seized by Patrolmen John Carey and Walter Byrne, but died before they could carry him to a bench.

When the 11th Company, commanded by Lieutenant Van Bezalske, reached the Lexington avenue side of the armory, Meislohn lunched for him and was seized by Patrolmen John Carey and Walter Byrne, but died before they could carry him to a bench.

When the 11th Company, commanded by Lieutenant Van Bezalske, reached the Lexington avenue side of the armory, Meislohn lunched for him and was seized by Patrolmen John Carey and Walter Byrne, but died before they could carry him to a bench.

When the 11th Company, commanded by Lieutenant Van Bezalske, reached the Lexington avenue side of the armory, Meislohn lunched for him and was seized by Patrolmen John Carey and Walter Byrne, but died before they could carry him to a bench.

concerning the larger institution, just as the New York Produce Exchange needs for its guidance the reports of the Chicago Board of Trade, felt itself obliged to maintain both the wire service and the Gold and Stock Ticker service, so that in case of one source of information being from any cause cut off another would still be available.

The Hughes commission report, in discussing the subject of bucket shops, said regarding sales of quotations: "The quotations of exchanges have been judicially determined to be their own property, which may be sold under contracts limiting their use. In addition to supplying quotations, the Stock Exchange sells them to the telegraph companies under contracts restricting the delivery of the service in New York City to subscribers approved by a committee of the exchange; the contracts are terminable at its option."

"This restriction would imply a purpose on the part of the exchange to prevent the use of the quotations by bucket shop keepers. But the contracts are manifestly insufficient. In that they fail to cover the use of the service in places other than New York City; if corroboration were needed, it could be found in the fact that the quotations are the basis for bucket shop transactions in other cities."

The commission recommended the enactment of a law providing that, so far as the transmission of continuous quotations is concerned, telegraph companies should not be deemed common carriers; and also a law providing that if a telegraph company should have reasonable ground for believing that it was supplying quotations to a bucket shop, it should be criminally liable equally with the keeper of the bucket shop.

Another suggestion was that telegraph companies buying or transmitting quotations from exchanges should be required to publish semi-annually the names of all subscribers to the service furnished and the number and location of the tickers.

Edward J. Nally, vice-president and general manager of the Postal Telegraph Company, denied yesterday that any of the Postal officials had been summoned to testify before the grand jury at Washington in the bucket shop case.

The Charles F. Noyes Company has leased a floor in Liberty Tower for Greenwood & Co. to Blayser, Scullin & Hodgson for a long term of years; offices in Nos. 37 and 39 Liberty street to Goodspeed & Maroney and to Herbert R. Snyder, and offices in Nos. 36 and 37 Liberty street to Horace J. Campbell, M. L. Wolfen and William J. Brannan.

The Meriden Company, silversmiths, has just occupied Nos. 49 and 51 West 34th street. The removal from No. 218 Fifth avenue was occasioned by a desire for quarters more convenient for patrons.

In 194 the Meriden Company opened its first New York salesrooms at No. 199 Broadway, then the heart of the retail shopping district. As the trend of business moved uptown, successive removals were made to No. 55 Broadway, Union Square and Madison Square, culminating in the present more desirable quarters.

Meislohn, who was commended for bravery during the General Slocum disaster, was one of thirty-seven policemen who were sent to the Mercer street station for the parade.

Meislohn, who was commended for bravery during the General Slocum disaster, was one of thirty-seven policemen who were sent to the Mercer street station for the parade.

Meislohn, who was commended for bravery during the General Slocum disaster, was one of thirty-seven policemen who were sent to the Mercer street station for the parade.

Meislohn, who was commended for bravery during the General Slocum disaster, was one of thirty-seven policemen who were sent to the Mercer street station for the parade.

Meislohn, who was commended for bravery during the General Slocum disaster, was one of thirty-seven policemen who were sent to the Mercer street station for the parade.

Meislohn, who was commended for bravery during the General Slocum disaster, was one of thirty-seven policemen who were sent to the Mercer street station for the parade.

Meislohn, who was commended for bravery during the General Slocum disaster, was one of thirty-seven policemen who were sent to the Mercer street station for the parade.

Meislohn, who was commended for bravery during the General Slocum disaster, was one of thirty-seven policemen who were sent to the Mercer street station for the parade.

Meislohn, who was commended for bravery during the General Slocum disaster, was one of thirty-seven policemen who were sent to the Mercer street station for the parade.

Meislohn, who was commended for bravery during the General Slocum disaster, was one of thirty-seven policemen who were sent to the Mercer street station for the parade.

HELD FOR GIRLS' SALE

Woman and Two Men Indicted as Result of Charges.

BINGHAM BEFORE THE JURY

Six True Bills Due to Evidence of Sale of Girls Admitted by College Women.

John D. Rockefeller, jr., as foreman of the grand jury that has been looking into the "white slave" traffic, reported six indictments yesterday. True bills were found against Belle Moore and Alexander Anderson, negroes, and Harry Levinson, a white man. It was from them that two college women, employed by the grand jury, bought four young girls for immoral purposes, as they charged.

Three of those indicted were held by Judge Crane of the Court of General Sessions, in $25,000 bail. During the day General Theodore A. Bingham, former Commissioner of Police, testified before the grand jury. He was in the jury room more than half an hour.

The second indictment charges Levinson with having similarly "placed" one Ida Greenberg on the same date, and the third charges him with having received $40 in payment for both girls. The transaction is alleged to have been carried out with the consent of the girls in both cases.

In the separate indictment against Belle Moore and Alexander Anderson, the grand jury found that the names of the girls purchased are not given in any of the indictments.

Alex. Karlin, counsel for the negroes, and Edward Carroll, counsel for Levinson, opposed the motion of Assistant District Attorney Press said that in the cases of Belle Moore and Anderson "there may be a more serious charge in connection with an eleven-year-old child, whose mother the police are now searching for."

The Charles F. Noyes Company has leased a floor in Liberty Tower for Greenwood & Co. to Blayser, Scullin & Hodgson for a long term of years; offices in Nos. 37 and 39 Liberty street to Goodspeed & Maroney and to Herbert R. Snyder, and offices in Nos. 36 and 37 Liberty street to Horace J. Campbell, M. L. Wolfen and William J. Brannan.

Meislohn, who was commended for bravery during the General Slocum disaster, was one of thirty-seven policemen who were sent to the Mercer street station for the parade.

Meislohn, who was commended for bravery during the General Slocum disaster, was one of thirty-seven policemen who were sent to the Mercer street station for the parade.

Meislohn, who was commended for bravery during the General Slocum disaster, was one of thirty-seven policemen who were sent to the Mercer street station for the parade.

Meislohn, who was commended for bravery during the General Slocum disaster, was one of thirty-seven policemen who were sent to the Mercer street station for the parade.

Meislohn, who was commended for bravery during the General Slocum disaster, was one of thirty-seven policemen who were sent to the Mercer street station for the parade.

Meislohn, who was commended for bravery during the General Slocum disaster, was one of thirty-seven policemen who were sent to the Mercer street station for the parade.

Meislohn, who was commended for bravery during the General Slocum disaster, was one of thirty-seven policemen who were sent to the Mercer street station for the parade.

Meislohn, who was commended for bravery during the General Slocum disaster, was one of thirty-seven policemen who were sent to the Mercer street station for the parade.

Meislohn, who was commended for bravery during the General Slocum disaster, was one of thirty-seven policemen who were sent to the Mercer street station for the parade.

Meislohn, who was commended for bravery during the General Slocum disaster, was one of thirty-seven policemen who were sent to the Mercer street station for the parade.

Meislohn, who was commended for bravery during the General Slocum disaster, was one of thirty-seven policemen who were sent to the Mercer street station for the parade.

Meislohn, who was commended for bravery during the General Slocum disaster, was one of thirty-seven policemen who were sent to the Mercer street station for the parade.

Meislohn, who was commended for bravery during the General Slocum disaster, was one of thirty-seven policemen who were sent to the Mercer street station for the parade.

TAILOR WANTED IT ALL

So Navy Paymaster's Wife Will Recover Her Lost Jewels.

Through the cupidity of a tailor who keeps a sailors' "shop" in South street, Mrs. Francis Daly, wife of a paymaster in the United States navy, will recover a necklace and pendant valued at $1,500. Mrs. Daly, with her husband, sailed from New York for Havana on the steamship Mexico, of the Ward Line, on April 7. When the ship docked in Havana Mrs. Daly left her handbag containing her jewels in her stateroom.

Mrs. Daly did not discover her loss until after the vessel had left Havana for Vera Cruz. Captain Miller, of the Mexico, was told of the loss by cable at the latter port, but replied that no trace could be found of the necklace.

Last week a wireless message was received at Police Headquarters asking that a search be made for the trinket when the ship docked. On Friday morning, when the boat arrived at Queensville, she was boarded by Detectives Cronin and Hennessy, of the Central Office, who examined each member of the crew who had access to the stateroom, without result.

Last night two scullions from the Mexico visited the tailor's store in South street, showed a necklace and pendant and asked the tailor to tell them what it was worth. He took the jewelry upstairs. When he returned he ordered them both out of the place. They demanded the return of the necklace and the tailor, Samuel Feldman, replied: "You never gave me anything. If you don't get out I'll have both you bums plinched."

The scullions went to the Oak street station and told Lieutenant "Bill" McLaughlin about it. A plain clothes man soon induced Feldman to admit that he had the jewels.

LOOKS INTO $74,707 BILL

Controller Seeks Light on Cost of Queens Assessment Maps.

Controller Prendergast is conducting an investigation of a bill for $74,707 rendered by S. H. McLaughlin for making the assessment maps and lists for the sewerage disposal plant in the old village of Jamaica, now the 4th Ward of the Borough of Queens. Engineer Prendergast said that the cost of the entire work could have been done for $10,000.

Although the bill was rendered by S. H. McLaughlin, his brother, William A. McLaughlin, who says he had charge of the work, declares that the claim was assigned to John J. McLaughlin. It happens that John J. McLaughlin has for some years been acting as an annual salary of $6,000 a year. Controller Prendergast says he intends to find out how much, if any, of the work of making the maps was done by men in the employ of the city.

On December 31, 1907, the Board of Aldermen passed an ordinance increasing the rate for such work to seven cents a square foot for the maps. McLaughlin got the bill for $14,720 in December, 1909, after several conferences with representatives of the Department of Finance. The rate finally proposed as a tentative basis for settlement was 4 1/2 cents a cubic foot.

William A. McLaughlin declares that his brother, John J. McLaughlin, was a consulting engineer, had nothing to do with the work except to furnish the money necessary to carry it on.

BOSTON MODISTES TESTIFY

Smuggling Trial Witnesses Tell of Checks for Inspector.

Boston dressmakers and their former employer were in the Criminal Branch of the United States Circuit Court yesterday, where the trial before Judge Martin of Philip A. Phillipson on a charge of conspiracy to defraud the customs by smuggling trunks into this country was continued. With him as defendants are Mrs. Mary S. Moore and Miss Isabel Holland. The latter are from Boston, and several brilliantly gowned young women who used to be in Mrs. Moore's employ were called to the stand.

Deposit slips showing amounts deposited with the Lincoln Trust Company by the late Inspector Frank B. Fawcett were put in evidence, after being identified by the bookkeeper of the company, Charles A. Calhoun. It was intended to show by these that amounts the same as were alleged to have been paid to Fawcett by dressmakers for his services were deposited with the trust company. C. W. Wall, a special Treasury agent, identified several papers he seized at the shops of the two women defendants. The papers were not put in evidence.

Mrs. Lillie H. Messenger, formerly bookkeeper for Mrs. Moore, testified that she made out checks for Mrs. Moore, several of them between February, 1906, and May, 1907, to the order of Fawcett, for $500 and over. She gave the checks to Mrs. Moore, who did not know what she did with them. Miss Elizabeth A. Joyce, who was in Mrs. Moore's employ, said she had taken long distance telephone messages from Fawcett asking that Mrs. Moore call him up. The trial will continue to-day.

HELD IN SUGAR FRAUD CASE.

James F. Johnson, a city weigher who had contracts with the American Sugar Refining Company and other sugar companies to do their weighing, and Henry F. Martin, a former assistant customs weigher, were arraigned before Judge Martin, in the United States Circuit Court yesterday, and held in $10,000 bail for trial. The two men are charged in an indictment with having conspired to defraud the customs by underweighing sugar importation.

MARINE INTELLIGENCE.

MINIATURE ALMANAC. Sunrise, 4:28; sunset, 6:57; moon rises, 2:11; moon's age, 21. HIGH WATER. A.M. P.M. Sandy Hook 1:51 2:30. Governor's Island 2:05 2:44. Hell Gate 2:15 2:54.

WIRELESS REPORTS. The Oceania, reported as 240 miles east of Sandy Hook at 9 a.m. yesterday, is expected to dock this forenoon. The Finland, reported as 100 miles east of Sandy Hook at 9 a.m. yesterday, is expected to dock this forenoon.

HELD FOR GIRLS' SALE

Woman and Two Men Indicted as Result of Charges.

BINGHAM BEFORE THE JURY

Six True Bills Due to Evidence of Sale of Girls Admitted by College Women.

John D. Rockefeller, jr., as foreman of the grand jury that has been looking into the "white slave" traffic, reported six indictments yesterday. True bills were found against Belle Moore and Alexander Anderson, negroes, and Harry Levinson, a white man. It was from them that two college women, employed by the grand jury, bought four young girls for immoral purposes, as they charged.

Three of those indicted were held by Judge Crane of the Court of General Sessions, in $25,000 bail. During the day General Theodore A. Bingham, former Commissioner of Police, testified before the grand jury. He was in the jury room more than half an hour.

The second indictment charges Levinson with having similarly "placed" one Ida Greenberg on the same date, and the third charges him with having received $40 in payment for both girls. The transaction is alleged to have been carried out with the consent of the girls in both cases.

In the separate indictment against Belle Moore and Alexander Anderson, the grand jury found that the names of the girls purchased are not given in any of the indictments.

Alex. Karlin, counsel for the negroes, and Edward Carroll, counsel for Levinson, opposed the motion of Assistant District Attorney Press said that in the cases of Belle Moore and Anderson "there may be a more serious charge in connection with an eleven-year-old child, whose mother the police are now searching for."

The Charles F. Noyes Company has leased a floor in Liberty Tower for Greenwood & Co. to Blayser, Scullin & Hodgson for a long term of years; offices in Nos. 37 and 39 Liberty street to Goodspeed & Maroney and to Herbert R. Snyder, and offices in Nos. 36 and 37 Liberty street to Horace J. Campbell, M. L. Wolfen and William J. Brannan.

Meislohn, who was commended for bravery during the General Slocum disaster, was one of thirty-seven policemen who were sent to the Mercer street station for the parade.

Meislohn, who was commended for bravery during the General Slocum disaster, was one of thirty-seven policemen who were sent to the Mercer street station for the parade.

Meislohn, who was commended for bravery during the General Slocum disaster, was one of thirty-seven policemen who were sent to the Mercer street station for the parade.

Meislohn, who was commended for bravery during the General Slocum disaster, was one of thirty-seven policemen who were sent to the Mercer street station for the parade.

Meislohn, who was commended for bravery during the General Slocum disaster, was one of thirty-seven policemen who were sent to the Mercer street station for the parade.

Meislohn, who was commended for bravery during the General Slocum disaster, was one of thirty-seven policemen who were sent to the Mercer street station for the parade.

Meislohn, who was commended for bravery during the General Slocum disaster, was one of thirty-seven policemen who were sent to the Mercer street station for the parade.

Meislohn, who was commended for bravery during the General Slocum disaster, was one of thirty-seven policemen who were sent to the Mercer street station for the parade.

Meislohn, who was commended for bravery during the General Slocum disaster, was one of thirty-seven policemen who were sent to the Mercer street station for the parade.

Meislohn, who was commended for bravery during the General Slocum disaster, was one of thirty-seven policemen who were sent to the Mercer street station for the parade.

Meislohn, who was commended for bravery during the General Slocum disaster, was one of thirty-seven policemen who were sent to the Mercer street station for the parade.

Meislohn, who was commended for bravery during the General Slocum disaster, was one of thirty-seven policemen who were sent to the Mercer street station for the parade.

TAILOR WANTED IT ALL

So Navy Paymaster's Wife Will Recover Her Lost Jewels.

Through the cupidity of a tailor who keeps a sailors' "shop" in South street, Mrs. Francis Daly, wife of a paymaster in the United States navy, will recover a necklace and pendant valued at $1,500. Mrs. Daly, with her husband, sailed from New York for Havana on the steamship Mexico, of the Ward Line, on April 7. When the ship docked in Havana Mrs. Daly left her handbag containing her jewels in her stateroom.

Mrs. Daly did not discover her loss until after the vessel had left Havana for Vera Cruz. Captain Miller, of the Mexico, was told of the loss by cable at the latter port, but replied that no trace could be found of the necklace.

Last week a wireless message was received at Police Headquarters asking that a search be made for the trinket when the ship docked. On Friday morning, when the boat arrived at Queensville, she was boarded by Detectives Cronin and Hennessy, of the Central Office, who examined each member of the crew who had access to the stateroom, without result.

Last night two scullions from the Mexico visited the tailor's store in South street, showed a necklace and pendant and asked the tailor to tell them what it was worth. He took the jewelry upstairs. When he returned he ordered them both out of the place. They demanded the return of the necklace and the tailor, Samuel Feldman, replied: "You never gave me anything. If you don't get out I'll have both you bums plinched."

The scullions went to the Oak street station and told Lieutenant "Bill" McLaughlin about it. A plain clothes man soon induced Feldman to admit that he had the jewels.

LOOKS INTO $74,707 BILL

Controller Seeks Light on Cost of Queens Assessment Maps.

Controller Prendergast is conducting an investigation of a bill for $74,707 rendered by S. H. McLaughlin for making the assessment maps and lists for the sewerage disposal plant in the old village of Jamaica, now the 4th Ward of the Borough of Queens. Engineer Prendergast said that the cost of the entire work could have been done for $10,000.

Although the bill was rendered by S. H. McLaughlin, his brother, William A. McLaughlin, who says he had charge of the work, declares that the claim was assigned to John J. McLaughlin. It happens that John J. McLaughlin has for some years been acting as an annual salary of $6,000 a year. Controller Prendergast says he intends to find out how much, if any, of the work of making the maps was done by men in the employ of the city.

On December 31, 1907, the Board of Aldermen passed an ordinance increasing the rate for such work to seven cents a square foot for the maps. McLaughlin got the bill for $14,720 in December, 1909, after several conferences with representatives of the Department of Finance. The rate finally proposed as a tentative basis for settlement was 4 1/2 cents a cubic foot.

William A. McLaughlin declares that his brother, John J. McLaughlin, was a consulting engineer, had nothing to do with the work except to furnish the money necessary to carry it on.

BOSTON MODISTES TESTIFY

Smuggling Trial Witnesses Tell of Checks for Inspector.

Boston dressmakers and their former employer were in the Criminal Branch of the United States Circuit Court yesterday, where the trial before Judge Martin of Philip A. Phillipson on a charge of conspiracy to defraud the customs by smuggling trunks into this country was continued. With him as defendants are Mrs. Mary S. Moore and Miss Isabel Holland. The latter are from Boston, and several brilliantly gowned young women who used to be in Mrs. Moore's employ were called to the stand.

Deposit slips showing amounts deposited with the Lincoln Trust Company by the late Inspector Frank B. Fawcett were put in evidence, after being identified by the bookkeeper of the company, Charles A. Calhoun. It was intended to show by these that amounts the same as were alleged to have been paid to Fawcett by dressmakers for his services were deposited with the trust company. C. W. Wall, a special Treasury agent, identified several papers he seized at the shops of the two women defendants. The papers were not put in evidence.

Mrs. Lillie H. Messenger, formerly bookkeeper for Mrs. Moore, testified that she made out checks for Mrs. Moore, several of them between February, 1906, and May, 1907, to the order of Fawcett, for $500 and over. She gave the checks to Mrs. Moore, who did not know what she did with them. Miss Elizabeth A. Joyce, who was in Mrs. Moore's employ, said she had taken long distance telephone messages from Fawcett asking that Mrs. Moore call him up. The trial will continue to-day.

HELD IN SUGAR FRAUD CASE.

James F. Johnson, a city weigher who had contracts with the American Sugar Refining Company and other sugar companies to do their weighing, and Henry F. Martin, a former assistant customs weigher, were arraigned before Judge Martin, in the United States Circuit Court yesterday, and held in $10,000 bail for trial. The two men are charged in an indictment with having conspired to defraud the customs by underweighing sugar importation.

MARINE INTELLIGENCE.

MINIATURE ALMANAC. Sunrise, 4:28; sunset, 6:57; moon rises, 2:11; moon's age, 21. HIGH WATER. A.M. P.M. Sandy Hook 1:51 2:30. Governor's Island 2:05 2:44. Hell Gate 2:15 2:54.

WIRELESS REPORTS. The Oceania, reported as 240 miles east of Sandy Hook at 9 a.m. yesterday, is expected to dock this forenoon. The Finland, reported as 100 miles east of Sandy Hook at 9 a.m. yesterday, is expected to dock this forenoon.

We're just pouring out russet Oxfords these days. But the excellent value of our russet shoes was fixed more than six months ago, when we placed our orders boldly before russet leathers got scarce. Our guess was good for you and for us.

Everying men and boys wear. ROGERS PEET & COMPANY. Three Broadway Stores. at Warren st. at 13th st. at 34th st.

Plenty Whys

is "Troy's Best Product"

The proof to you can only be the test of trial. There are ten men to-day wearing our collars and shirts to where there was one a couple of years ago.

EARL & WILSON. Graywood 2 for 25.

AMUSEMENTS.

EMPIRE Broadway and 40th St. Evs. 8:15. Mat. 2:15. Last.

ALL STAR CAST CASTE. 117 W. Robertson St. Evs. 8:15. Mat. 2:15.

GARRICK 30th St. Evs. 8:15. Mat. 2:15. Next Monday. Seats reserved.

MENY MILLER Husband's Wife. 117 W. Robertson St. Evs. 8:15. Mat. 2:15.

LYCEUM Broadway and 45th St. Evs. 8:15. Mat. 2:15. Last.

CHARLES CHERRY "THE SPIRIT". 117 W. Robertson St. Evs. 8:15. Mat. 2:15.

HUDSON 44th St. Evs. 8:15. Mat. 2:15. Last.

The Spendthrift. 117 W. Robertson St. Evs. 8:15. Mat. 2:15.

CRITERION Broadway and 44th St. Evs. 8:15. Mat. 2:15. Last.

FRANCIS WILSON and 3 times. 117 W. Robertson St. Evs. 8:15. Mat. 2:15.

KNICKERBOCKER Broadway, 29th St. Evs. 8:15. Mat. 2:15. Last.

CHARLES DILLINGHAM'S GLOBE Broadway and 46th St. Evs. 8:15. Mat. 2:15.

NEW AMSTERDAM Theatre, 42nd St. Evs. 8:15. Mat. 2:15. Last.

MADAME X. 117 W. Robertson St. Evs. 8:15. Mat. 2:15.