That victory might cost the state most of the expected income to be derived from the water storage project.

ADJOURNMENT ON MAY 27

Telephone and Telegraph Measure Laid Over—Insurance Bills Amended. (By Telegraph to The Tribune.) Albany, May 20.—On his return to-day after an absence of several days, Senator Grady took command of the situation in the Senate and demonstrated a control of the legislative procedure which gave color to the statements of many Senators that he was the "majority leader" of the Senate. He managed to do almost what he liked with the Senate and with legislation. He succeeded in having killed one of the Whitman bills to aid in the department bills he had amended. He had laid over until next week the telephone and telegraph measure. He violated the five-minute rule many times and nobody stopped him. The most significant exhibition of his command of the situation came on the telephone and telegraph bill. Senator Davis, in legislative procedure, moved to suspend the rules and take it up for immediate passage. Grady protested. Senator Davis was insistent on immediate action. Again Grady declared that nobody was "trying to kill the bill by indirection."
