

NEW YORK JOURNALS KING

Thousands Present at Memorial Services in Churches Here.

THROUGH AT OLD TRINITY

Distinguished Gathering Pays Last Tribute There to Dead Sovereign.

Memorial services for King Edward were held in Trinity and St. Paul's at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The Big Episcopal Trinity service began at 10:30, the service at St. Paul's at 11:30. The church seats 1,135, but hundreds stood throughout the ceremonies.

The services began promptly at 3 o'clock with Chopin's funeral march. The imposing procession of the clergy filed from the west into the sanctuary, through which it proceeded slowly, turning into the main aisle and then to the altar.

Vergers Lead Procession.

First came the vergers of all the churches belonging to Trinity parish, in black gowns with velvet collars, with the exception of one, who was in the uniform of the United States infantry, vergers of the church on Governor's Island. Then came an acolyte carrying a cross, followed by the full choir. Another crucifer preceded the vergers of the parish.

There was only one service in Brooklyn yesterday for the King. This was a choral mass, held at St. Paul's Protestant Episcopal Church, Clinton and Carroll streets.

Another crucifer and two acolytes preceded the Rev. Dr. William T. Manning, rector of Trinity. Then came a jeweled cross borne aloft by three acolytes, followed by Bishop Frederick Courtney, of St. James' Church; Bishop A. W. Knight and Bishop Sidney C. Farrington, of Klotz, in the altar, the Mayor of New York and Mrs. Gaynor, accompanied by Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jacob Schiff, Mrs. Ernest Fish, the Consul General of France, Russia, Italy and Germany, the Acting Consul General of Austria-Hungary, deputations from the various Anglo-American and British societies.

During the organ solo, Dead March in "Faust" by Handel, the congregation remained standing. The final prayer was spoken by Dr. Manning. Bishop Partridge pronounced the benediction, after which the procession formed again, and singing St. Ann's Reclusionist Hymn, marched slowly back to the vestry.

Distinguished Congregation.

Among those present were Adjutant General Nelson V. Henry, who represented the British army, Colonel W. Bowring, and Mrs. Gaynor, accompanied by Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jacob Schiff, Mrs. Ernest Fish, the Consul General of France, Russia, Italy and Germany, the Acting Consul General of Austria-Hungary, deputations from the various Anglo-American and British societies.

SERVICES IN OTHER CITIES

Philadelphia, May 20.—In observance of the funeral of King Edward, memorial services were held in St. Mark's Episcopal Church, in this city, to-day. Among those in attendance were Governor Stuart and his staff. The principal address was made by Bishop Talbot of the Protestant Episcopal Diocese of Central Pennsylvania.

Chicago, May 20.—In respect to the memory of King Edward, the Board of Trade postponed its opening hour until 11 o'clock this morning.

St. Louis, May 20.—Memorial services for King Edward were held here this afternoon. Governor Hadley, Mayor Kreitzberg and the heads of the army and navy and members of British societies attended.

Pittsburg, May 20.—Memorial services for King Edward were held in Trinity Episcopal Church here at 3 o'clock to-day. Bishop Cortland Whitehead, assisted by the Rev. Dr. A. W. Arundel, pastor of the church, officiated. Mayor W. A. Magee, accompanied by the members of the Select and Common Councils, marched from City Hall to the church, while various Masonic bodies attended to pay tribute to the memory of a brother Mason and a grand master of the craft.

Boston, May 20.—The banners of Britain and America at halfmast. Draped windows and solemn requiems and memorial services in numerous churches to-day were indications that New England mourned the death of King Edward. The churches of the Episcopal denomination especially honored the dead sovereign. At the Episcopal Church of St. John the Evangelist, attended by the Rev. Dr. Charles L. Cowley, there were three masses for the repose of the King's soul. The Boston Stock Exchange and a number of business houses in the financial district were closed this forenoon.

Albany, May 20.—Governor Hughes, Lieutenant Governor White and other state officials attended a service in memory of King Edward in the Cathedral of All Saints to-day. Bishop Doane delivered the address.

Portland, Me., May 20.—Governor Fernald and other officials of the city and state, with high church dignitaries, attended memorial services in St. Stephen's Episcopal Church here to-day. The Rev. Dr. Charles L. Squires, the new rector of the church, assisted by the Rev. George H. Bottom and the Rev. William L. Eddy. There was no sermon.

Before 12:30 o'clock the church was well filled. Among those in attendance was Vice-President Morton. The pulpit was draped with an American and a British flag. Music was furnished by the full vestry choir, accompanied by organ, cello and violin.

In the crypt of the Cathedral of St. John the Baptist the chairs were all filled at 4:30 o'clock to-day. The service, which was a choral mass, was conducted by the King, conducted by the two canons of the cathedral, the Rev. Dr. Ernest Voorhis and the Rev. Dr. Robert Ely Jones. A British flag, draped by two American emblems, was placed above the altar, a purple streamer bearing the British with each American flag. The music was by a full choir.

Many of those who attended the services in the different churches carried small British flags, while royal purple was largely used in the costumes of the women.

Outside all churches pedlars with trays of King Edward buttons, with British flags and pictures of the royal family were in evidence. Although there was no "bark-

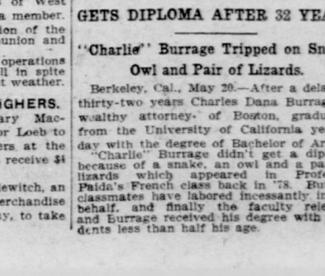

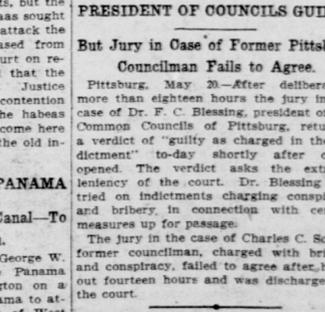

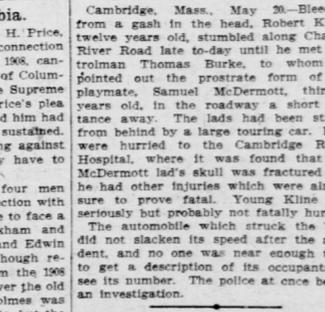

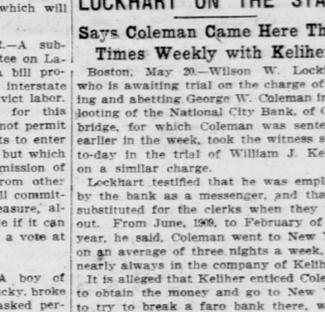

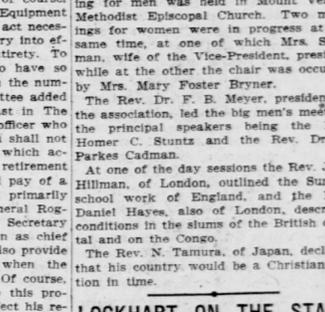

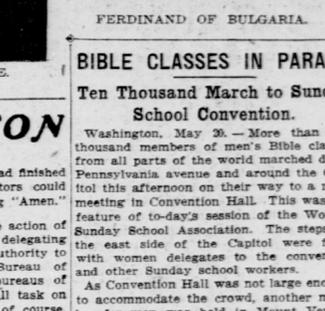

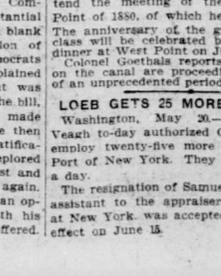

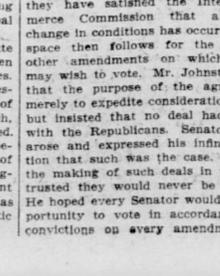

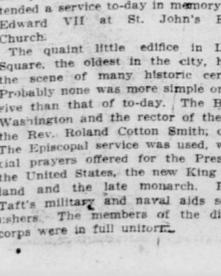

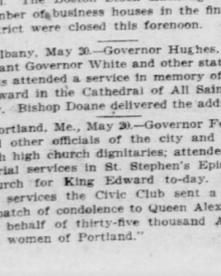

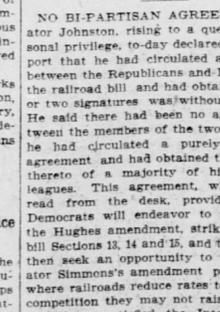

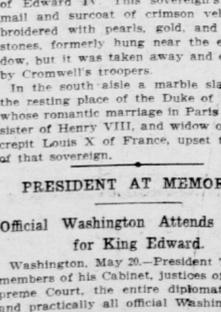

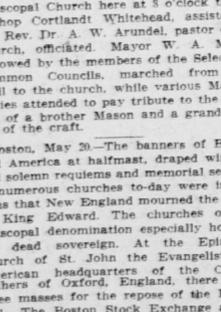

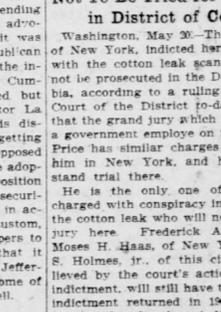

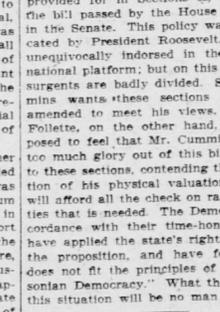

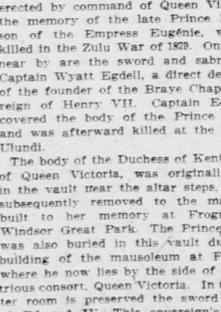

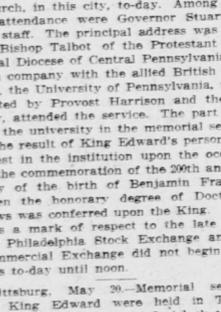

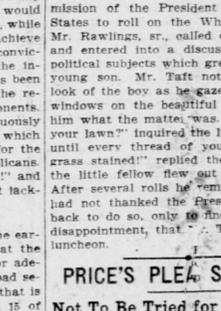

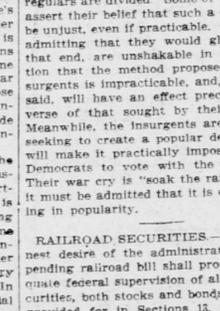

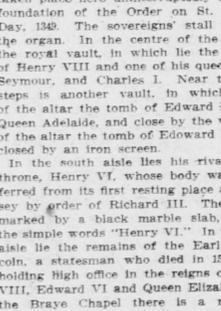

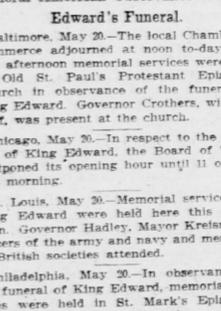

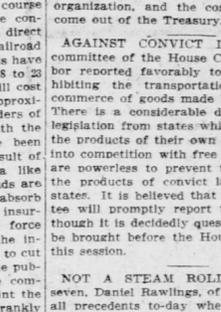

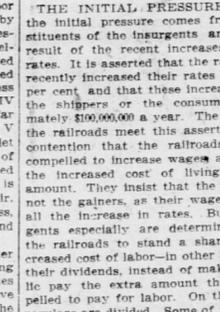

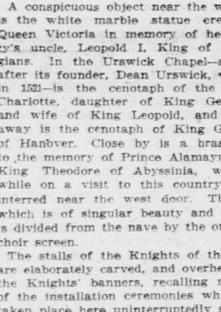

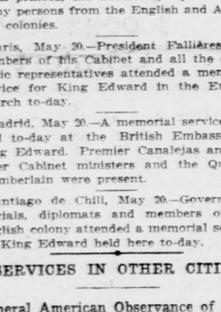

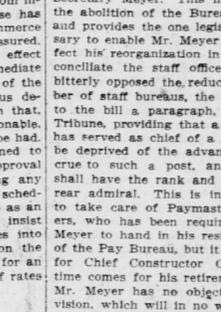

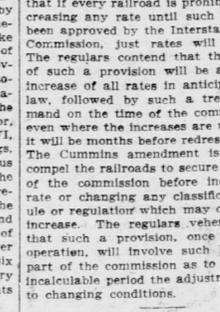

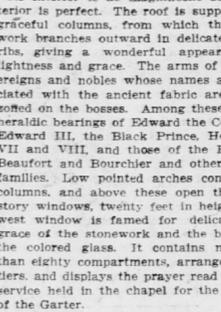

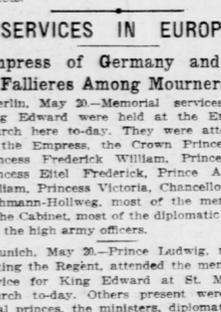

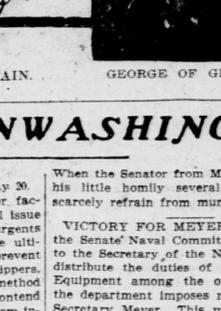

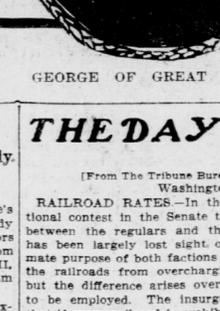

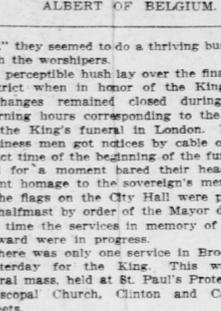

NINE MONARCHS WHO FOLLOWED THE BODY OF KING EDWARD TO THE GRAVE.

ALFONSO OF SPAIN

WILLIAM OF GERMANY

FREDERICK OF DENMARK

HAAKON OF NORWAY

REST IN BALLINGER CASE

All the Testimony on Both Sides Submitted.

ARGUMENTS NEXT WEEK

Report Not Likely to Be Presented Until Congress Meets in Fall—Economic Inquiry.

Washington, May 20.—The members of the Ballinger-Pinchot committee were pleasantly surprised to-day when the attorneys on both sides announced that they had no further testimony to offer. When they had recovered from their surprise they realized the pleasure of the lawyers respecting further proceedings. Judge Vertrees, counsel for Secretary Ballinger, said he was willing to have the committee proceed to make its findings. As all members of the committee were lawyers and some of them had been judges, he doubted the necessity of making arguments. Louis D. Brandeis, counsel for Pinchot, said he desired to make an argument, and that Mr. Pepper, counsel for Gifford Pinchot, was of the same mind. He also desired permission to file briefs.

After considerable discussion it was decided to give each side five hours for argument. Messrs. Brandeis and Pepper will open on Friday of next week and will present the greater portion of their arguments. Judge Vertrees will speak on Friday afternoon and Saturday morning, and Messrs. Brandeis and Pepper will close Saturday afternoon. Following the close of the argument the attorneys will have fifteen days in which to file briefs. This means that the case will not be closed until June 11. It is settled that there will be no formal decision in the case until Congress meets in December. Including the testimony in the Cunningham case hearings, the record covers between seven thousand and eight thousand printed pages. The briefs and arguments will increase this record by from five hundred to a thousand pages.

The committee began its hearings early in January, and at the start met two days every week. Later these weekly sessions were held, and recently meetings have been held four times a week. Sessions have been held on forty-five days, and thirty-two witnesses have been examined. Senator Nelson, chairman of the committee, will be able to point with pride to one feature of the inquiry, for it has been one of the most economical investigations ever conducted by a committee of Congress. Mr. Nelson was authorized to expend $10,000. Many of the witnesses came from the Pacific Coast and had to remain in Washington several months. One witness came from the field without reading, and the principal speakers being the Rev. Homer C. Stuntz and the Rev. Dr. S. Parkes Cadman.

At one of the day sessions the Rev. John Hillman, of London, outlined the Sunday school work of England, and the Rev. Daniel Hayes, also of London, described the principal speakers being the Rev. Homer C. Stuntz and the Rev. Dr. S. Parkes Cadman.

At the beginning of the inquiry, the Rev. Dr. F. E. Bryner, president of the association, led the big men's meeting. The principal speakers being the Rev. Homer C. Stuntz and the Rev. Dr. S. Parkes Cadman.

At the beginning of the inquiry, the Rev. Dr. F. E. Bryner, president of the association, led the big men's meeting. The principal speakers being the Rev. Homer C. Stuntz and the Rev. Dr. S. Parkes Cadman.

At the beginning of the inquiry, the Rev. Dr. F. E. Bryner, president of the association, led the big men's meeting. The principal speakers being the Rev. Homer C. Stuntz and the Rev. Dr. S. Parkes Cadman.

At the beginning of the inquiry, the Rev. Dr. F. E. Bryner, president of the association, led the big men's meeting. The principal speakers being the Rev. Homer C. Stuntz and the Rev. Dr. S. Parkes Cadman.

At the beginning of the inquiry, the Rev. Dr. F. E. Bryner, president of the association, led the big men's meeting. The principal speakers being the Rev. Homer C. Stuntz and the Rev. Dr. S. Parkes Cadman.

At the beginning of the inquiry, the Rev. Dr. F. E. Bryner, president of the association, led the big men's meeting. The principal speakers being the Rev. Homer C. Stuntz and the Rev. Dr. S. Parkes Cadman.

THE DAY IN WASHINGTON

(From The Tribune Bureau.)

Washington, May 20.—More than ten thousand members of men's Bible classes from all parts of the world marched down Pennsylvania avenue and around the Capitol this afternoon on their way to a mass meeting in Convention Hall. This was the feature of to-day's session of the World's Sunday School Association. The steps on the east side of the Capitol were filled with women delegates to the convention and other Sunday school workers.

At the beginning of the inquiry, the Rev. Dr. F. E. Bryner, president of the association, led the big men's meeting. The principal speakers being the Rev. Homer C. Stuntz and the Rev. Dr. S. Parkes Cadman.

At the beginning of the inquiry, the Rev. Dr. F. E. Bryner, president of the association, led the big men's meeting. The principal speakers being the Rev. Homer C. Stuntz and the Rev. Dr. S. Parkes Cadman.

At the beginning of the inquiry, the Rev. Dr. F. E. Bryner, president of the association, led the big men's meeting. The principal speakers being the Rev. Homer C. Stuntz and the Rev. Dr. S. Parkes Cadman.

At the beginning of the inquiry, the Rev. Dr. F. E. Bryner, president of the association, led the big men's meeting. The principal speakers being the Rev. Homer C. Stuntz and the Rev. Dr. S. Parkes Cadman.

At the beginning of the inquiry, the Rev. Dr. F. E. Bryner, president of the association, led the big men's meeting. The principal speakers being the Rev. Homer C. Stuntz and the Rev. Dr. S. Parkes Cadman.

At the beginning of the inquiry, the Rev. Dr. F. E. Bryner, president of the association, led the big men's meeting. The principal speakers being the Rev. Homer C. Stuntz and the Rev. Dr. S. Parkes Cadman.

BIBLE CLASSES IN PARADE

Ten Thousand March to Sunday School Convention.

Washington, May 20.—More than ten thousand members of men's Bible classes from all parts of the world marched down Pennsylvania avenue and around the Capitol this afternoon on their way to a mass meeting in Convention Hall. This was the feature of to-day's session of the World's Sunday School Association.

At the beginning of the inquiry, the Rev. Dr. F. E. Bryner, president of the association, led the big men's meeting. The principal speakers being the Rev. Homer C. Stuntz and the Rev. Dr. S. Parkes Cadman.

At the beginning of the inquiry, the Rev. Dr. F. E. Bryner, president of the association, led the big men's meeting. The principal speakers being the Rev. Homer C. Stuntz and the Rev. Dr. S. Parkes Cadman.

At the beginning of the inquiry, the Rev. Dr. F. E. Bryner, president of the association, led the big men's meeting. The principal speakers being the Rev. Homer C. Stuntz and the Rev. Dr. S. Parkes Cadman.

At the beginning of the inquiry, the Rev. Dr. F. E. Bryner, president of the association, led the big men's meeting. The principal speakers being the Rev. Homer C. Stuntz and the Rev. Dr. S. Parkes Cadman.

At the beginning of the inquiry, the Rev. Dr. F. E. Bryner, president of the association, led the big men's meeting. The principal speakers being the Rev. Homer C. Stuntz and the Rev. Dr. S. Parkes Cadman.

At the beginning of the inquiry, the Rev. Dr. F. E. Bryner, president of the association, led the big men's meeting. The principal speakers being the Rev. Homer C. Stuntz and the Rev. Dr. S. Parkes Cadman.

THE ROYAL TOMB

Where King Edward's Body Awaits Final Sepulture.

From The London Daily Telegraph. King Edward's body rests in St. George's Chapel, Windsor Castle, where already sleep many of his majesty's predecessors on the throne of England, among whom are Edward IV, Henry VI, Henry VIII, Charles I, George III, George IV, William IV and some others.

Its interior is as magnificent as its exterior is perfect. The roof is supported by graceful columns, from which the stonework branches outward in delicate fanlike forms, giving a wonderful appearance of lightness and grace. The arms of the sovereigns and nobles whose names are associated with the ancient fabric are embossed on the bosses. Among these are the heraldic bearings of Edward the Confessor, Edward III, the Black Prince, Henry VI, VII and VIII, and those of the Hastings, Beaufort and Bouchier and other famous families.

A conspicuous object near the west door is the white marble statue erected by Queen Victoria in memory of her majesty's uncle, Leopold I, King of the Belgians. In the Urswick Chapel—so called after its founder, Dean Urswick, who died in 1321—is the tomb of the Princess Charlotte, daughter of King George IV and wife of King Leopold, and not far away is the cenotaph of King George V of Hanover. Close by is a brass tablet to the memory of Prince Alamau, son of King Theodore of Abyssinia, who died while on a visit to this country, and is interred near the west door. The choir, which is of singular beauty and richness, is divided from the nave by the organ and choir screen.

The stalls of the Knights of the Garter are elaborately carved, and overhead hang the Knights' banners, recalling memories of the installation of monarchs which have taken place here uninterruptedly since the foundation of the Order on St. George's Day, 1348. The sovereigns' stall is under the organ. In the centre of the choir is the royal vault, in which lie the remains of Henry VIII and one of his queens, Jane Seymour and Charles I. Near the altar steps is another vault, in which repose the remains of Edward IV and his wife, Queen Adelaide, and close by the west side of the altar the tomb of Edward IV is inclosed by an iron screen.

In the south aisle lies his rival to the throne, Henry VI, whose body was transferred by order of Richard III. The spot is marked by a black marble slab, bearing the simple words "Henry VI." In the same aisle lie the remains of the Earl of Lincoln, a statesman who died in 1348, after holding high office in the reigns of Henry VIII, Edward VI and Queen Elizabeth. In the Urswick Chapel there is a memorial erected by command of Queen Victoria to the memory of the late Prince Imperial, son of the Empress Eugenie, who was killed in the Zulu War of 1879. On the wall near by are the sword and sabretache of Captain Wyatt Edgell, a direct descendant of the founder of the Urswick Chapel in the reign of Henry VII. Captain Edgell received the body of the Prince Imperial and was afterwards killed at the battle of Ulundi.

The body of the Duchess of Kent, mother of Queen Victoria, was originally buried in the vault near the altar steps, but was subsequently removed to the mausoleum built to her memory at Frogmore, in Windsor Great Park. The Prince Consort was also buried in this vault during the building of the mausoleum at Frogmore, where he now lies by the side of his illustrious consort, Queen Victoria. In the chapter room is preserved the sword of state of Edward IV. The sovereign's coat of arms is surmounted by a crown of gold, encircled with pearls, gold, and precious stones, formerly hung near the east window, but it was taken away and destroyed by Cromwell's troops.

In the south aisle a marble slab marks the resting place of the Duke of Brandon, whose romantic marriage in Paris to Mary, sister of Henry VIII, and widow of the deposed Louis X of France, upset the plans of that sovereign.

THE DAY IN WASHINGTON

(From The Tribune Bureau.)

Washington, May 20.—More than ten thousand members of men's Bible classes from all parts of the world marched down Pennsylvania avenue and around the Capitol this afternoon on their way to a mass meeting in Convention Hall. This was the feature of to-day's session of the World's Sunday School Association.

At the beginning of the inquiry, the Rev. Dr. F. E. Bryner, president of the association, led the big men's meeting. The principal speakers being the Rev. Homer C. Stuntz and the Rev. Dr. S. Parkes Cadman.

At the beginning of the inquiry, the Rev. Dr. F. E. Bryner, president of the association, led the big men's meeting. The principal speakers being the Rev. Homer C. Stuntz and the Rev. Dr. S. Parkes Cadman.

At the beginning of the inquiry, the Rev. Dr. F. E. Bryner, president of the association, led the big men's meeting. The principal speakers being the Rev. Homer C. Stuntz and the Rev. Dr. S. Parkes Cadman.

At the beginning of the inquiry, the Rev. Dr. F. E. Bryner, president of the association, led the big men's meeting. The principal speakers being the Rev. Homer C. Stuntz and the Rev. Dr. S. Parkes Cadman.

At the beginning of the inquiry, the Rev. Dr. F. E. Bryner, president of the association, led the big men's meeting. The principal speakers being the Rev. Homer C. Stuntz and the Rev. Dr. S. Parkes Cadman.

At the beginning of the inquiry, the Rev. Dr. F. E. Bryner, president of the association, led the big men's meeting. The principal speakers being the Rev. Homer C. Stuntz and the Rev. Dr. S. Parkes Cadman.

BIBLE CLASSES IN PARADE

Ten Thousand March to Sunday School Convention.

Washington, May 20.—More than ten thousand members of men's Bible classes from all parts of the world marched down Pennsylvania avenue and around the Capitol this afternoon on their way to a mass meeting in Convention Hall. This was the feature of to-day's session of the World's Sunday School Association.

At the beginning of the inquiry, the Rev. Dr. F. E. Bryner, president of the association, led the big men's meeting. The principal speakers being the Rev. Homer C. Stuntz and the Rev. Dr. S. Parkes Cadman.

At the beginning of the inquiry, the Rev. Dr. F. E. Bryner, president of the association, led the big men's meeting. The principal speakers being the Rev. Homer C. Stuntz and the Rev. Dr. S. Parkes Cadman.

At the beginning of the inquiry, the Rev. Dr. F. E. Bryner, president of the association, led the big men's meeting. The principal speakers being the Rev. Homer C. Stuntz and the Rev. Dr. S. Parkes Cadman.

At the beginning of the inquiry, the Rev. Dr. F. E. Bryner, president of the association, led the big men's meeting. The principal speakers being the Rev. Homer C. Stuntz and the Rev. Dr. S. Parkes Cadman.

At the beginning of the inquiry, the Rev. Dr. F. E. Bryner, president of the association, led the big men's meeting. The principal speakers being the Rev. Homer C. Stuntz and the Rev. Dr. S. Parkes Cadman.

At the beginning of the inquiry, the Rev. Dr. F. E. Bryner, president of the association, led the big men's meeting. The principal speakers being the Rev. Homer C. Stuntz and the Rev. Dr. S. Parkes Cadman.

PASSION PLAY PICTURES

as a supplement to the SUNDAY TRIBUNE

The great religious spectacle beginning at Oberammergau this month and continuing through the summer will be attended by Americans from all over the United States. THE TRIBUNE has timely arranged to offer to its readers handsome lithographed reproductions of scenes and incidents of the beautiful sacred drama, with perfect likenesses of the characters enacting the principal roles.

These pictures are of postcard size, arranged six on a sheet. That they are popular is evidenced by the extra demand for THE TRIBUNE last Sunday. Newsdealers sold out entirely and many people were disappointed. It would be advisable, therefore, to place an order early for to-morrow's Tribune.

(NOTE)—These lithographed Passion Play Pictures should not be confounded with the hand colored Photogravures secured by cutting coupons from THE TRIBUNE.

THE PASSION PLAY PICTURES WILL BE CONTINUED EACH SUNDAY FOR SEVERAL WEEKS.

PRICE'S PLEA SUSTAINED

Not To Be Tried for Cotton Leak in District of Columbia.

Washington, May 20.—Theodore H. Price, of New York, indicted here for connection with the cotton leak scandal of 1908, cannot be prosecuted in the District of Columbia, according to a ruling of the Supreme Court of the District to-day. Price's plea that the grand jury which indicted him had a government employe on it was sustained.

Price has similar charges pending against him in New York, and he may have to stand trial there.

He is the only one of the four men charged with conspiracy in connection with the cotton leak who will not have to face a political subject which greatly worried his young son. Mr. Taft noticed the wistful look of the boy as he gazed out of the big windows on the beautiful lawn and asked him what the matter was. "May I roll on your lawn?" inquired the little chap. "Roll until every thread of your little suit is brass stained!" retorted the President, and a little fellow flew out of the window. After several rolls he remembered that he had not thanked the President and came back to do so, only to find, to his intense disappointment, that Mr. Taft had gone to luncheon.

GOETHALS BACK FROM PANAMA Reports Good Progress on Canal—To Attend Class Reunion. Washington, May 20.—Colonel George W. Goethals, who is digging the Panama Canal, has arrived in Washington on a flying visit. He came from Panama to attend the meeting of the class of West Point of 1880, of which he was a member. The anniversary of the graduation of the class will be celebrated by a reunion and dinner at West Point on June 14.

Colonel Goethals reports that operations on the canal are proceeding well in spite of an unprecedented period of wet weather.

LOEB GETS 25 MORE WEIGHERS. Washington, May 20.—Secretary MacVeach to-day authorized Collector Loeb to employ twenty-five more weighers at the Port of New York. They are to receive $4 a day.

The resignation of Samuel Koulewitch, an assistant to the appraiser of merchandise at New York, was accepted to-day, to take effect on June 15.

AGAINST CONVICT LABOR—A subcommittee of the House Committee on Labor reported favorably to-day a bill prohibiting the transportation in interstate commerce of goods made by convict labor. There is a considerable demand for this legislation from states which do not permit the products of their own convicts to enter into competition with free labor, and which are powerless to prevent the admission of the products of convict labor from other states. It is believed that the full committee will promptly report the measure, although it is decidedly questionable if it can be brought before the House for a vote at this session.

NOT A STEAM ROLLER—A boy of seven, Daniel Rawlings, of Kentucky, broke all precedents to-day when he asked permission of the President of the United States to roll on the White House lawn. Mr. Rawlings, called on the President and entered into a discussion of abstract political subjects which greatly worried his young son. Mr. Taft noticed the wistful look of the boy as he gazed out of the big windows on the beautiful lawn and asked him what the matter was. "May I roll on your lawn?" inquired the little chap. "Roll until every thread of your little suit is brass stained!" retorted the President, and a little fellow flew out of the window. After several rolls he remembered that he had not thanked the President and came back to do so, only to find, to his intense disappointment, that Mr. Taft had gone to luncheon.

RAILROAD SECURITIES—It is the earnest desire of the administration that the pending railroad bill shall provide for adequate federal supervision of all railroad securities, both stocks and bonds, and that is provided for in Sections 13, 14 and 15 of the bill passed by the House and pending in the Senate. This policy was first advocated by President Roosevelt, and it was categorically indorsed in the Republican national platform; but on this point the insurgents are badly divided. Senator Cummins wants these sections retained but amended to meet his views. Senator La Follette, on the other hand, who is disposed to feel that Mr. Cummins is getting too much glory out of the bill, opposes these sections, contending that the adoption of his plan would constitute a precedent that is needed. The Democrats, in accordance with their time-honored custom, have applied the state's rights callipers to the proposition, and have found that it does not fit the principles of "true Jeffersonian Democracy." What the outcome of this situation will be no man can tell.

NO BI-PARTISAN AGREEMENT.—Senator Johnston, rising to a question of personal privilege, to-day declared that the report that he had circulated an agreement between the Republicans and Democrats on the railroad bill and had obtained only one or two signatures was without foundation. He said there had been no agreement between the members of the two parties, that the grand jury which indicted him had a government employe on it was sustained. Price has similar charges pending against him in New York, and he may have to stand trial there.

He is the only one of the four men charged with conspiracy in connection with the cotton leak who will not have to face a political subject which greatly worried his young son. Mr. Taft noticed the wistful look of the boy as he gazed out of the big windows on the beautiful lawn and asked him what the matter was. "May I roll on your lawn?" inquired the little chap. "Roll until every thread of your little suit is brass stained!" retorted the President, and a little fellow flew out of the window. After several rolls he remembered that he had not thanked the President and came back to do so, only to find, to his intense disappointment, that Mr. Taft had gone to luncheon.

RAILROAD SECURITIES—It is the earnest desire of the administration that the pending railroad bill shall provide for adequate federal supervision of all railroad securities, both stocks and bonds, and that is provided for in Sections 13, 14 and 15 of the bill passed by the House and pending in the Senate. This policy was first advocated by President Roosevelt, and it was categorically indorsed in the Republican national platform; but on this point the insurgents are badly divided. Senator Cummins wants these sections retained but amended to meet his views. Senator La Follette, on the other hand, who is disposed to feel that Mr. Cummins is getting too much glory out of the bill, opposes these sections, contending that the adoption of his plan would constitute a precedent that is needed. The Democrats, in accordance with their time-honored custom, have applied the state's rights callipers to the proposition, and have found that it does not fit the principles of "true Jeffersonian Democracy." What the outcome of this situation will be no man can tell.

NO BI-PARTISAN AGREEMENT.—Senator Johnston, rising to a question of personal privilege, to-day declared that the report that he had circulated an agreement between the Republicans and Democrats on the railroad bill and had obtained only one or two signatures was without foundation. He said there had been no agreement between the members of the two parties, that the grand jury which indicted him had a government employe on it was sustained. Price has similar charges pending against him in New York, and he may have to stand trial there.

He is the only one of the four men charged with conspiracy in connection with the cotton leak who will not have to face a political subject which greatly worried his young son. Mr. Taft noticed the wistful look of the boy as he gazed out of the big windows on the beautiful lawn and asked him what the matter was. "May I roll on your lawn?" inquired the little chap. "Roll until every thread of your little suit is brass stained!" retorted the President, and a little fellow flew out of the window. After several rolls he remembered that he had not thanked the President and came back to do so, only to find, to his intense disappointment, that Mr. Taft had gone to luncheon.

RAILROAD SECURITIES—It is the earnest desire of the administration that the pending railroad bill shall provide for adequate federal supervision of all railroad securities, both stocks and bonds, and that is provided for in Sections 13, 14 and 15 of the bill passed by the House and pending in the Senate. This policy was first advocated by President Roosevelt, and it was categorically indorsed in the Republican national platform; but on this point the insurgents are badly divided. Senator Cummins wants these sections retained but amended to meet his views. Senator La Follette, on the other hand, who is disposed to