INTERNATIONAL EXHIBITION RELIEVES DULNESS OF SEASON.

AMERICANS REPRESENTED. Judge Moore Takes Some Prizes in the Events of the First Day.

London, June 6.—The International Horse Show opened at Olympia this afternoon. It will continue ten days. Although lacking the royal patronage to which it has owed so much in the past, the annual exhibition has been anticipated with peculiar interest by society and horsemen as one of the few events of a season that has been robbed of the usual gaiety because of the mourning for the late King.

The opening was without ceremony, but a large crowd was on hand to see the decorated hall, which is a rare spectacle in itself, and the horses, housed in stalls lined with the most costly cloths and embellished with the prizes won at former shows.

The entries from abroad were fewer than formerly. The Italian officers, who have taken such a prominent part in the jumping contests heretofore, withheld their entries this year, insisting that to be truly international the exhibitions should be held successively in the different capitals.

The American, too, have not sent as many horses as they did last year, but they are well represented. Walter Winans again heads the list in the number and variety of entries, his exhibits appearing in almost every class, from Shetland ponies to hunters. Judge Moore, who made such a splendid record last year, capturing many of the big prizes, is good second, having entered forty horses, chiefly in the harness classes, including two coaching teams.

CALVARY RECTOR TO QUIT

Dr. Parks's Resignation to Be Sent to Vestry in Fall. CAUSE OF TROUBLE OBSCURE

Differences of opinion over parish policies have arisen between rector and vestry of Calvary Episcopal Church, Fourth avenue and 21st street. It was reported yesterday that the rector, Rev. Dr. J. Lewis Parks, had already resigned, but that was denied. At the same time it was learned that he would resign in the fall, or as soon as certain formalities were completed. The leader of the vestry was said to be George Zabriske, who is junior warden of Calvary parish. He is now on a road.

Two members of the vestry said they knew nothing of the differences, and all spoke warmly of the rector. One said he would unquestionably be made rector emeritus, and another observed that if he were he would receive a substantial salary.

"The differences between rector and vestry-administrative in character," said Dr. Parks, "I have not resigned, but I contemplate doing so. Further than this it is not advisable to go. Indeed, there is nothing further than this."

Asked whether the differences related to the removal of Calvary parish from its downtown location, Dr. Parks said: "There is now no discussion of removal from this location. At any rate, the differences do not relate to removal, or the absence of it. You can understand, however, that conditions are changing in this field. For years I have been giving letters to families which are removing from this locality. Americans are going everywhere. But there is now no question of removal."

The Rev. Dr. Parks has been seriously ill, having had pneumonia while on a trip to the West Indies, and last Sunday he preached for the first time in some months. He is not ill at present, however, and it is known he will not resign because of disapproval.

Laymen prominent in the parish, nearly all of them vestrymen, include James J. Goodwin, George Zabriske, Robert Endicott, the clerk, who is abroad; W. Irving Clark, active in many charities; Spencer Aldrich, William B. Boulton and Blair S. Williams, the treasurer.

Mr. Williams said yesterday that all the members of the vestry were in harmony and Lawson Riggs said he knew nothing of any differences of opinion.

"The trouble in Calvary parish arises wholly from the changed conditions," said one layman, who refused to allow his name to be used. "The parish has been heavy conditions. The sale of the chapel in 23d street and the consolidation of property and congregation with the mother parish made talk. Some doubted the wisdom of it."

"The work of the parish house, with very few exceptions, has been done by the parish. The parish is in a good condition as it was five or six years ago, but during the entire rectorship of Dr. Parks financial adjustments have been considered. Some of the well-to-do families of Bishop Satterlee's time held on, but some did not. The not-well-to-do families have removed, or at least many have done so."

"Dr. Parks is highly esteemed, of course, and I suppose, will be made rector emeritus, with adequate provision for him. He has been ill, but is recovered. The difficulty is solely one of administration, as I understand it, and it does not affect the parish. I do not think Calvary will be sold, so while the men in charge of its affairs survive. Nothing in what is now happening need affect the usefulness of the parish. The trouble is personal—a matter of judgment about very difficult questions."

The Rev. Dr. Parks is a brother of the Rev. Dr. Leighton Parks, of St. Bartholomew's Church, and has been at Calvary for some time. During that time, with all the readjustment over which differences have now arisen, endowment funds of the parish have increased until they now stand at about $200,000.

VISIT OF FUSHIMI AT END

Prince on Last Day Discloses Command of English. GUEST OF JAPAN SOCIETY

His royal highness Prince Fushimi of Japan was still in New York to confess openly his command of the English language, thereby accomplishing the feat as he might have termed it, of "putting one over on us."

The royal visitor has been seeing, the sights of the city since last Friday, and ever and anon has allowed himself to be subjected to an interview, but of every one of these occasions, it was stated for him that because of his unfamiliarity with English the matter would be conducted through Consul General Mizuno.

Yesterday afternoon at the luncheon tendered to the prince and princess and their party by the Japan Society at the Hotel Astor his royal highness occasioned some surprise by arising from his seat and delivering a neat little speech in perfect English.

He thanked the society for its cordial welcome to the princess and himself and for its manifestation of interest in things Japanese.

"It is a matter of great satisfaction to know that you are thus rendering a valuable service to the two countries," said the prince, "and I hope and trust that our traditional friendship, which has happily existed for more than half a century, will be everlasting."

Lloyd C. Griscom responded for the society. He said that the visit of their royal highnesses was an excellent augury for the future friendship of the two countries.

Prince Fushimi is a representative, whether officer or otherwise, of the Emperor, the true manhood of Japan. As a naval officer he helped win the prominence which Japan now enjoys among nations. I hope that his highness will carry back a true impression of the respect and esteem in which we hold his nation, and that his experience will serve as a new link in the friendship between the two countries."

Lindsay Russell, president of the Japan Society, acted as toastmaster, and Walter H. Page spoke a few words of welcome to the royal visitors. Among the half hundred guests, besides the prince and his party, were Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd C. Griscom, Jacob H. Schiff, Henry Clews, Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton Holt, Dr. Takamine and Consul General Mizuno.

The morning the prince, with two of his aids, visited the navy yard in Brooklyn. Rear Admiral E. H. C. Leuze conducted them around the yard, through drydock No. 4 and aboard the recently launched Florida. Later the royal party was escorted to the Connecticut, where it was welcomed by Rear Admiral Schroeder.

The prince and princess at night gave a dinner in the Plaza Hotel to a number of Japanese and their wives. The dinner was entirely devoid of formality.

Those who dined with the prince and princess were Consul General Mizuno, Commanders Hiraaga and Saito, Professor and Mrs. Takamine, Mr. and Mrs. Ichinomiya, Mr. and Mrs. Siko, Mr. and Mrs. Aoki, Mr. Ota, Mr. Inouye, Commander Kiyokawa, aide-de-camp to His Imperial Highness, Secretary Tanaka, Mme. Haseguchi and Miss Suzuki.

REPLY FROM MEDICAL MEN. New Englanders Resent Report of Carnegie Foundation. [By Telegraph to The Tribune.] Boston, June 6.—New England medical colleges are not taking kindly to the remarks directed at the medical institutions of New England by the report of the Carnegie Foundation. Dr. Harold Williams, dean of the Tufts Medical School, said:

"Dr. Flexner has his ideas and we have ours; he is entitled to his ideas, and we suppose we are entitled to the same. We are not in the first class in a ranking of first, second and third. This classification is made by the American Medical Association, and we are satisfied to abide by such judgment, regardless of what Dr. Flexner says."

President M. H. Burkham of the University of Vermont said: "We consider that the medical school of the University of Vermont is absolutely essential in providing physicians for the State of Vermont's cities and towns."

SANDHAM CONTEST AT N.Y.U.

Joseph W. Fitzgerald Wins Oratorical Prize of $100. The feature of commencement week at New York University yesterday afternoon was the George Augustus Sandham oratorical contest. The first prize of $100 was given to Joseph Wilfred Fitzgerald, of Tuckahoe, N. Y., who spoke on "Poland and Liberty."

The second prize of $75 went to George Jay Schoenfeld, of New York City, who had for his oration "Horace Greeley."

Last evening at Battery Hill, University Heights, Charles Douville Coburn presented the Coburn Players in Shakespeare's comedy "As You Like It." The play was given in the open air to a large audience.

Under the auspices of the senior class, to-day the class day exercises will take place at 2 o'clock. Dr. Henry M. MacCracken will make the invocation. The president's address is to be given by Robert Scott Osborne. Charles Edgar Roake reads the class history, while Benjamin Adam Ladd makes the prophecy and Joseph Wilfred Fitzgerald, the Sandham oration. A poem will be read by Newman Levy.

Mr. Robert Miller will conduct the presentation exercises connected with the burial of the class records and planting the ivy, which takes place at 4 o'clock. Charles E. Norlin will read the class will and Sumner H. Sarafan will deliver the ivy oration.

The Washington Square School of Commerce holds its exercises in the evening. To-morrow is commencement day.
