

PLANNING A NOVEL AMUSEMENT PARK ON THE MANY ISLANDS IN JAMAICA BAY.

While the federal government and the city of New York are expending millions in erecting piers around the shores of this great natural harbor and in deepening its main channels, it has been suggested that the numerous low, marshy islands in the centre of the bay will not be required for commerce for half a century at least, and in the mean time they might be improved, by bridging and dredging the shallow channels, into an amusement resort, something like a modern New World Venice, at a cost not at all prohibitory.
