

VATICAN PREPARES NOTE

Reply to Spain Not to Be Made Public at Rome.

PITY FOR THE YOUNG KING

Cardinal Vannutelli Denounces Premier—New Adherent at Madrid.

Rome, Aug. 3.—The note which Cardinal Merry del Val, the Papal Secretary of State, is preparing in answer to that of Premier Canalejas will be submitted to the Congregation of Extraordinary Affairs. The contents of the note will be kept strictly secret, the Holy See not wishing to follow the procedure of the Spanish Republic in making it public prior to its receipt by the Premier, but the Vatican officials are of the opinion that it will be given out to the newspapers as soon as it arrives in Madrid.

The "Giornale d'Italia" publishes an interview with Cardinal Vincenzo Vannutelli, who describes Premier Canalejas as "a terrible man," adding that it is impossible that King Alfonso approves the anti-clerical policy.

Cardinal Vannutelli goes on to point out that the King is a fervent Catholic by sentiment and tradition, but that he is too young to grapple with the situation, and must be seriously embarrassed. He adds that the Spanish people themselves disapprove of the policy of the Premier, as shown by the attitude of the people of Bilbao and other important places.

With reference to the report that the King of Portugal is to visit the King of Italy in 1911, thus disregarding the prohibition of the Vatican, Cardinal Vannutelli considers this most unlikely, as Portugal has just appointed a representative to the Holy See.

Madrid, Aug. 3.—Field Marshal Lopez Dominguez, who is ex-President of the Senate and ex-Premier, in an interview, said that he had never supported Premier Canalejas in his struggle for religious reforms, but he doubted the success of the movement on account of the immense power of the clergy and their influence over the women, who, he said, were completely under the domination of their confessor.

The openness with which Premier Canalejas is conducting the campaign, said the field marshal, "is one of the best features of the situation. He wants Spain and the world to know what he is doing. If he succeeds he will have rendered an immense service to Spain."

The agitation among the Roman Catholics in Northern Spain, who are in great part siding with the Vatican in the pending conflict with the Spanish government, is steadily assuming larger proportions. The organizers of the proposed administration are debating against the cabinet of Premier Canalejas and its policy toward the Vatican see that it will take place in spite of the refusal of the authorities to grant permission. They expect one hundred thousand churchmen to visit the former capital in a religious parade headed by the King's palace on August 7.

The prohibition was issued, it is said, on the representations of tradesmen that the manifestation might easily cause grave disorder.

The Republican leader, Señor Soriano, is arranging for an anticlerical manifestation in San Sebastian on August 7.

The Minister of the Interior announces that troops are ready to start for San Sebastian at a moment's notice. Premier Canalejas has received a message of congratulation and support from the Andalusian association representing eighty thousand workmen, farmers and business men.

The City Council of San Sebastian, after a violent session, voted to protest to the government against the proposed Catholic demonstration.

Paris, Aug. 3.—King Alfonso, who with Queen Victoria is the guest of the French Republic, had a long conversation with Premier Briand last night. It is presumed that the religious situation in Spain was discussed.

PARLIAMENT ADJOURNS

More Indications of Agreement Between the Houses.

London, Aug. 3.—Parliament adjourned today until November 12. During the recess conferences between the leaders trying to settle the constitutional differences of the House of Lords and the House of Commons will be continued, and the expectation is entertained that an agreement may be reached and announced at a meeting on November 12. Several of the points in dispute have been adjusted in the twelve meetings which have been held.

The most important work of Parliament, whose sittings were interrupted for a time by the death of King Edward, has been the adoption of Chancellor Lloyd-George's estimated budget, the struggle over which in the preceding Parliament brought the long standing controversy between the Commons and the Lords to a head, and caused the dissolution of Parliament and new elections. Premier Asquith's Cabinet was sustained at the elections, though the government's majority was so greatly reduced as to make it dependent on the support of the Irish members, and the budget was adopted.

The King's death caused both parties to seek a friendly adjustment of the dispute over the Lords' power of veto rather than bring about new elections which the nation was still mourning.

Feeling was also noticeable in the discussion of the bill modifying the King's accession declaration, the old-time phrases against the Roman Catholic doctrine, inherited from an age of religious bigotry being eliminated and the declaration being made acceptable to all the King's subjects.

The woman suffrage bill, which, after preliminary discussion, was buried in committee of the whole, and other contested measures have been deferred until the autumn meeting of Parliament.

HAS NEW MASCAGNI OPERA

Liebler Director Returns Home for a Busy Season.

George C. Tyler, managing director of Liebler & Co., returned from Europe on the Oceanic yesterday with a large number of contracts with European authors and actors. He said the firm will offer twenty new productions this year, the most important of which would be the new Mascagni opera, "Ysobel," in which Benjie Abbott will sing the title role.

"I spent three months in Italy," added Mr. Tyler, "in constant conference with Miss Abbott, Mr. Mascagni and Luigi Illica, who has written the book. Mr. Illica, a place at the head of the librettists has been won with the books of 'Bohème,' 'Cavalleria Rusticana,' 'Tosca' and 'Madama Butterfly.' The famous Mascagni passion note pervades the whole work, which is in three acts—the story of Lady Godiva set to music—and Mr. Illica has developed a love story every bit as holding as 'Romeo and Juliet.'"

Mr. Tyler's other announcements included a play by Israel Zangwill for Miss Viola, a play by the comedienne Miss Margaret Anglin and the engagement of Albert Chalmers as the star in a play called "The Caretaker."

BRIAND GAINS IN ELECTION

French Prime Minister Strengthened by Cantonal Contests.

Paris, July 28. The French cantonal elections, which were held on Sunday, have still further strengthened the position of Prime Minister Briand, and are quite as significant as the more noisy general elections for the Chamber of Deputies that took place two months ago. Elections in the cantons determine the choice of the members of the Conseils Généraux or departmental assemblies, and of the members of the Conseil d'Arrondissement, who form the electors of the Senate. The French Senate represents the real practical interests of the country districts and townships more accurately than does the Chamber of Deputies.

The result of Sunday's elections is a distinct advance for the Radical-Socialists, who support M. Briand in his conflict against the old Republican "bloc," which has for fifteen years ruled more from the point of view of a party faction than from regard to the interests of France as a whole. M. Briand boldly asserts his determination to free himself from the dictates of party leaders—and to accord rights to minorities, and to carry on affairs in the interests of all.

The cantonal voting on Sunday was to fill 1,446 places. There were 1,281 results; the remainder are to be decided in by-elections. The Radical-Republicans and Radical-Socialists who represent the opinions of M. Briand got 900 seats. This means that the people support M. Briand's platform, and that the Prime Minister will soon have an overwhelming majority in the Senate as he already has in the Chamber of Deputies.

OFF FOR GREEN MOUNTAINS

Hardy Vermont Girls Have Found Places for Large Party.

METHODS OF HELPING FUND

Fresh Air Work Assisted in Various Ways That Cannot Be Acknowledged.

Everybody knows about the Green Mountain Boys and their gallant deeds, but few have heard of the Green Mountain Girls. Yet it is only natural in view of the present day suffrage agitation that some one should see to it that those old-time heroes should be made to share their fame with a sister company.

Some one has, Miss Berenice Tuttle, of Rutland, Vt., four years ago decided that there ought to be some one to watch over those towering hills that give the state its name. So she recruited a band of hardy girls to be the Green Mountain rangers, and even adopted old Ethan Allen's terse slogan, only she substituted "The Tribune Fresh Air Fund" for "the Continental Congress" in the latter half. And every summer since that time twenty-five girls from New York have camped during a glorious vacation, perhaps on the very spot where once a century and a quarter ago Allen and his band lay bivouacked after a hard day's march.

This is just another instance of the opening up of the country's fairest places to the children of the tenements. Miss Tuttle arrived in town yesterday to look after the filling of her trunk and sent the first squad of seven off during the afternoon. The main party will follow in a few days. They are going—think of it—where the land flows with maple syrup, and although this is not the open season as far as the syrup trees are concerned, it is reported on good authority that the sugar from last season's tapping is still plentiful and fresh.

Money contributions to the Fresh Air Fund are duly acknowledged in the list published in The Tribune each day. Besides these contributions there are many of different kinds that do not find a place in this list, but are none the less worthy of mention. Yesterday a box of night-gowns and aprons for the use of the children of the Tribune homes was received from the women of the Munn Avenue Church, of East Orange. A few days before a package of aprons was received from the women of the Hope Chapel of this city, and still another package from Upper Red Hook.

The Tribune home for convalescent children in Middletown is situated at a considerable distance from the railroad station, too far for youngsters in poor health to walk. At the beginning of the season the officers of the Middletown-Goshen Railway, an electric road of the region, offered to carry all the guests of the home free, and this they have done throughout the summer.

Gifts of clothing, particularly play clothing, are always of value to the workers of the fund. Very often children appear at the homes without proper wearing apparel, in many cases because their parents are too poor to provide it for them, in others because the mother, sending the child away has forgotten it. In its "Sunday Dress" and provided no other for roughing it. Where these defects can be remedied from outside sources, the problem confronting the attendants is greatly simplified.

A fortnight or more ago an appeal was made through these columns for help in opening a cottage near New Haven which had been taken over by the Fresh Air Fund. Through the kindness of Mrs. Hartman and Mrs. Jesup the opening of this place is now possible. A superintendent, matron and maids were sent out yesterday to get the cottage ready for occupancy this week. When in readiness it will be used for the entertainment of twelve or fifteen boys. The cottage is situated on the edge of the town of New Haven, and is owned by Mr. Graham Lusk, of New York.

This might appropriately be called Pennsylvania week in Fresh Air work, for a majority of the parties sent away during the last three days have been sent to that state. On Monday there was a party for Betty, on Tuesday one for Bradley, and on Wednesday one for Athens. Yesterday morning, to add to the Quaker state's good record, the following telegram was received from Eugene McLaren, editor of "The Mirror" of Warren, Penn.:

"Think I can place a couple of cars of youngsters in good places. Warren is a beautiful place. I would want them for two weeks, not later than August 15. Answer our expense."

READY TO ATTACK GRANADA

Estradan Forces Continue to Press Toward Capital.

Bluefields, Nicaragua, Aug. 2.—General Estradan, whose forces on July 29 defeated the adherents of President Madriz, under General Lara, on the eastern shore of Lake Nicaragua, and forced the abandonment of Acopyava, is now, according to reports received here, rapidly approaching Granada, the seat of the government forces. An attack on that city by Moncada, co-operating with the insurgent force at Mombacho, fifteen miles south of Granada, is expected speedily.

General Moncada, who closely pursued the Madriz detachment, is now said to be at Locostote, on the main road to Granada, having covered forty-five miles from Acopyava. He expects to reach to-morrow morning Panajoya, at the northern end of Lake Nicaragua, fifteen miles from Granada.

The town of San Miguelito, a small lake port on the southeastern shore of the lake, about thirty miles south of Acopyava, has announced its adherence to the cause of General Estradan.

CABINET OFFICERS AT JUNEAU

Mr. Wickersham Takes Steps to Insure Honest Elections.

Juneau, Alaska, Aug. 3.—Attorney General Wickersham and Charles Nagel, Secretary of Commerce and Labor, visited the Treadwell mine yesterday and met many citizens. A committee interested in the election of James Wickersham as delegate to Congress represented to the Cabinet officers that the great corporations were preparing to mass the canny and railroad laborers and vote them for O'R.

The Attorney General thereupon ordered the swearing in of deputy marshals at all labor centers to insure an honest election on August 9.

SAMBOURNE'S STRIKING ROER WAR CARTOON.

This was his first contribution to "Punch" after succeeding Sir John Tenniel as chief cartoonist.

"URGENT"—Lord Kitchener (addressing John Bull)—"If you want this business quickly finished, you MUST give me MORE HORSES and MEN to ride them."

LINLEY SAMBOURNE DEAD

Chief Cartoonist of "Punch"—Followed Sir John Tenniel.

London, Aug. 2.—Linley Sambourne, chief cartoonist of "Punch," died to-day, after a long illness.

Mr. Sambourne, whose signature to the leading cartoon has been a prominent feature of "Punch" for the last decade, began his connection with that weekly in 1867, when his first small drawing appeared through the encouragement of Mark Lemon, the first editor.

Mr. Sambourne's weekly task had been to make a cartoon which should serve as a foil for that contributed by Tenniel. On two occasions he played first violin himself. The first was in 1884, when he furnished the principal cartoon for May 12, the cartoon being "Water Tables" and the London sanitary reform bill. The second was in 1884, when he showed Lord Rosebery as "An Awkward Customer" getting the better of Lord Salisbury.

Mr. Sambourne's first appearance in "Punch" was made in the April 27 number of 1867. His sketch represented John Bright in a fool's cap and bells coming to grief under "Water Tables" and the sanitary reform bill. In the same number of the paper appeared drawings from such master hands as Tenniel, Charles Kenne, George du Maurier, "Phiz," Ernest Griset and Miss Georgina Bowers, but in the face of this formidable array of talent Sambourne's little sketch held its own and was pronounced to be clever by all of the "big guns."

Mr. Sambourne's wonderful skill as a draftsman was said to be unequalled in all Europe. Sir John Tenniel once wrote of him: "What extraordinary improvement there is in Sambourne's work! It is of inexhaustible ingenuity and firmness of touch. His diploma for the fisheries exhibition almost gave me a headache to look at it—so clear in the imagination, so perfectly completely drawn, and with a certainty of touch which baffles me to understand how he does it."

Americans who may be familiar with the cartoonist's work in "Punch" in a casual way only are perhaps better acquainted with his genius as seen in his illustrations of "Alice in Wonderland," which compare with his predecessor's drawings illustrative of "Alice in Wonderland." They possess exquisite satire in the application of the fairy story idea to modern instances and every-day facts. Sambourne's marvellous power over line once drew the remark from G. P. Watts that to possess it he would willingly sacrifice his ability as a painter.

JAMES M. HICKS.

Summit, N. J., Aug. 3 (Special).—A paralytic stroke as the culmination of a long illness of Bright's disease, caused the death of James M. Hicks, a pioneer resident of Summit. He settled at Summit in 1864. Five years before it was incorporated as a township. From that time he had been a daily commuter between here and New York.

Mr. Hicks was a patent attorney and a civil engineer. In the first capacity he acted as expert in some of the biggest patent litigations of the country. As an engineer he was chief of the construction of the famous Crookville dam along the Connecticut River at Hartford. He was with the Iron Works of New York, during the Civil War, and superintended the construction of the Miantonomoh, among the first gunboats built for the United States.

A NEW CHINESE BOYCOTT

Orders Issued at Canton Against American Goods.

Canton, Aug. 3.—A boycott of American goods and merchants on lines similar to the one which several years ago caused millions of dollars' damage to American trade in China, has been proclaimed here in response to complaints of the treatment of Chinese in America. The specific cause of complaint on this occasion is the objection of the Chinese of San Francisco to the detention sheds on Angel Island, in San Francisco Bay, which they have been endeavoring for some time to have removed to San Francisco itself, in order to obtain better treatment for arriving Chinese.

The boycott is proclaimed by the Chinese Self-Government Society, of Canton, an organization conducting a propaganda for "China for the Chinese" and for governmental reform. An appeal has been issued to Chinese abroad asking them to co-operate in the boycott.

Chinese seeking to enter this country, according to officials here, are receiving better treatment during their detention than enforced, resulting in a greater number of exclusions. The detention station was removed from San Francisco to Angel Island with the express intention of providing better facilities than were possible at the old shed on a pier in the city. It is now possible to make a more careful inspection, similar to that at Ellis Island.
