Papal Envoy Ordered To Be Ready To Leave Spain, Ready To Leave Spain.

A RIOT IN BARCELONA

Rumor That Merry del Val Will Leave Post—Trouble at San Sebastian Feared.

Rome, Aug. 4.—The report is again in circulation that Cardinal Merry del Val has expressed his intention of resigning from his post as Papal Secretary of State after the settlement of the controversy between the Spanish government and the Vatican. The report cannot be confirmed.

Barcelona, Spain, Aug. 4.—Fighting occurred here to-day between the Carlist adherents of Don Jaime, pretender to the throne of Spain, and Republicans. One of the Republicans was stabbed. The police charged and dispersed the crowds.

Madrid, Aug. 4.—Another formal prohibition of the proposed demonstration next Sunday of the Clerical forces at San Sebastian, the summer capital, was issued to-day by the Minister of the Interior. The organizers of the demonstration nevertheless persist in their plans, and as the Republican leaders are arranging an anti-Clerical demonstration at San Sebastian on the same day, great apprehension prevails.

The Clerical press published to-day more violent attacks on the government. The organizers of the anti-government demonstration have sent letters to the clergy urging them to incite their congregations to refuse obedience to the prohibition.

AMERICA'S CASE AT HAGUE

Senator Root Argues Against British Contentions.

The Hague, Aug. 4.—Senator Root, continuing his summing up in the Newfoundland fisheries case before the arbitration tribunal to-day, dwelt at length on the alleged iniquity of the anti-American laws adopted by the Newfoundland Legislature. This legislation would, he said, uphold and render the American rights under the treaty of 1858 illusory.

THE METEOR WINS AT COWES

The Westward Not a Competitor in Special Handicap Race.

Cowes, Isle of Wight, Aug. 4.—The American schooner Westward, owned by A. S. Cochran of New York, did not start in the race for the cup offered by the municipality to-day.

A SEVERE SHOCK IN HAYTI

St. Petersburg, Aug. 4.—Alexander Guichard, president of the Douma, who resigned his post in order to serve a sentence of four weeks imprisonment for fighting a duel with Count Uvaroff, a rival leader in parliament, entered the fortress of Peter and Paul to-day. He occupies the casemate in which General Stoesel served his sentence.

WILSON FURNISHES $25,000 BAIL

Philadelphia, Aug. 4.—The United Wireless Telegraph Company, indicted and named on Wednesday, gave the necessary bail—$25,000—yesterday in answer to the charges in the indictment found by the federal grand jury. Mrs. Freda Hart, of No. 35 West 115th street, went on Mr. Wilson's bond. She also went on the bond for C. C. Galbraith and W. W. Tompkins, who were set at $2,500 and $10,000, respectively. The other persons indicted with Mr. Wilson, excepting Francis X. Butler, who gave bail on Wednesday, will furnish the necessary security later. W. A. Dillhoff to-day and George H. Parker, who is in Seattle, as soon as he can be removed to this city.

PHILADELPHIAN CHASSIS THE TENNYSON AND GETS PAPERS ABOARD

IN MEMORY OF PILGRIMS

Dedicatory Ceremonies.

Provincetown, Mass., Aug. 4.—At the dedication to-morrow of the tall granite shaft which has been erected on Town Hill in memory of the famous compact which the Pilgrim Fathers signed in the cabin of the Mayflower before starting across the bay to Plymouth, President William H. Taft will assist in completing an historic work which President Theodore Roosevelt helped to begin.

The occasion will mark the fulfillment of the work of the Cape Cod Memorial Association. Incidentally, it will afford President Taft his first opportunity of reviewing a battleship fleet fully as formidable as that which circled the world.

ZELAYA AIDING ESTRADA

Furnishing Revolutionists Money with Which to Fight Madrid.

Washington, Aug. 4.—Charging that Zelaya's fortune, through the manipulations of a son-in-law of the former Nicaraguan President, is being poured into Estrada's coffers to pay the expenses of the war against the Madrid government, and repeating stories of the unpopularity of the former President, a statement was made here to-day by Dr. Sebastian Salinas, who with Modesto Barrios, came to this country to try to establish friendly relations between Madrid and the United States.

"Zelaya has not contributed any money or material aid to Dr. Madrid," said Dr. Salinas, "but on the other hand I know personally that his son-in-law, Joaquin Pasos, holding his power of attorney, sent money to help the revolutionists at Bluefields. This money was turned over to the revolutionists through a cousin of Zelaya's son-in-law, who is now in Bluefields. The money of this cousin is Carlos Cuadra Pasos. Zelaya not only contributed nothing toward the purchase of the Venus, but he knew nothing about that transaction until after she had sailed."

Dr. Salinas ascribed to agents of the insurgents the reports that Madrid was a representative of the tool of Zelaya and therefore unfriendly to American interests. "Neither is true," he said. "Dr. Madrid was the most powerful enemy of Zelaya's administration." In support of this he told the oft repeated story of how Madrid was once driven into exile, not to return until after the war of Salvador and Honduras against Nicaragua.

OLD FRIEND SEES TAFT

Colonel Nelson, of Kansas City, Talks Western Politics.

MANY PROMINENT VISITORS

President Meets Ambassador and Mrs. Bryce, Justice White and Others.

Beverly, Mass., Aug. 4.—Colonel William R. Nelson, of Kansas City, "dropped in" on President Taft at Burgess Point this afternoon. On his way out to the President's cottage the colonel said he wasn't going to talk politics if he could help himself. Subsequent reports from the front porch overlooking the quiet waters of Salem Bay declared, however, that a hearty exchange of greetings was quickly followed by an earnest discussion of recent events in the political world.

President Taft and "Old Bill Nelson," as he familiarly refers to the Missouri editor, have been friends for a long period of time. Their divergent views on the Payne-Aldrich tariff act have not seriously interfered with their personal intimacy. Colonel Nelson probably had some burning questions to convey to the President, and there appears to be little doubt as to the actual conveyance. He was interviewed by a group of newspaper men as he was on his way to see Mr. Taft.

"What about the results in Kansas?" was the opening chorus from the newspaper group. "Oh," laughed the colonel, "my heart is not broken." "And Iowa?" "Well, I am managing to bear up under that pretty well, too."

"What do you think of the possibility of the next House of Representatives being Democratic?" "It looks as though it would either be Democratic or insurgent. At any rate, you can bet it will be anti-Cannon."

Asked if he thought a resignation from Secretary Ballinger would have altered the situation in any way, Colonel Nelson declared that he did not think so.

"Now, as Mr. Ballinger," he added after a few moments' thought, "it seems to me that if I had held onto him so long I'd keep him."

CANNON HAD NO EFFECT

Discussing further the insurgent victory in Kansas, Colonel Nelson believed it had been brought about by the fact that the Republican party had failed to live up to its pledges. Speaker Cannon's visit, he declared, came too late in the campaign to do either harm or good. It was a negligible quantity.

"Kansas," added the colonel, "is filled with men who either want the state or the sons of men who made it. They think progressively out there and they act progressively. People in the East don't understand Kansas. But just watch Kansas and you will come pretty close to seeing what the rest of the country will do."

"Many Republicans," continued Colonel Nelson, "seem to think that the Republican party is made up of a majority of the voters of this country. In that they are wrong, the Democrats have never put up a candidate for President who ought to have won that didn't win. Take Cleveland and Tilden for example. Some people in the Republican party think that the vote is still on an anti-war plank, and they want war glories."

"All this doesn't mean that you are going to support Judge Harmon, does it?" asked a reporter.

"Not against Theodore Roosevelt."

"Do you think Roosevelt can 'come back'?"

"Come back?" snapped the colonel. "Why he'd sweep the country. But I don't think he will run unless he has to."

MR. ROOSEVELT'S TRIP

Mr. Roosevelt's recent travels in the attractive region of Pennsylvania claimed Colonel Nelson's attention for a few minutes.

"You will notice," he said by way of conclusion on this subject, "that Mr. Roosevelt went to the coal mines and not to the National City Bank; that he went to Father Curran and not to J. Pierpont Morgan."

Colonel Nelson then spoke of his friendship for President Taft. "I am very fond of him," he said, "and I was much interested in his election."

"Do you think he will re-elected?"

"Now, boys," laughed the colonel, "you must not ask me foolish questions."

The President had a number of visitors this afternoon in addition to Colonel Nelson, Ambassador Bryce of Great Britain and Mrs. Bryce were at Burgess Point for quite an extended visit. Mr. Bryce is leaving next month for a trip to the Isthmus of Panama, after which he will circumnavigate South America, visiting every country on the continent. The visit to the President was purely social and by way of leaving taking.

FOSTER GIVES OUT REPLY

Says Newman Did Work He Was Paid for Doing as Attendant.

JUDGE SAYS CONTROLLER'S INFORMATION IS NOT CORRECT AS TO ATTENDANT'S DUTIES

The discord between Judge Warren W. Foster, of General Sessions, and Controller Prendergast grew in volume yesterday with the jurist's reply to the Controller's letter criticizing the conduct of Jacob Newman, the "personal attendant" and secretary of Judge Foster.

The dean of the General Sessions judges pointed out that, inasmuch as Newman had resigned, whether or not he had the right to practice as an attendant was an academic question. He expressed the opinion at the same time that no law was violated, and regrets that Newman had insisted upon the acceptance of his resignation. The statement of the Controller that postage, telephone service, etc., were furnished to Newman at the city's expense, Judge Foster declared was "unfounded." Equally unfounded, he said, were other statements in the Controller's letter.

In his letter of resignation, made public yesterday, Newman insisted upon acceptance of his resignation, intimating that he would have resigned long ago for the urgent solicitation of Judge Foster that he retain his position.

HELD PLACE AGAINST HIS WILL

"It has been against my will," he wrote, "that I have retained the position, despite the fact that it would have been to my personal advantage to have devoted myself wholly and singly to the practice of my profession."

Judge Foster in his letter reminds the Controller that there is a distinction between a court attendant and an attendant on a judge. The restrictions of the Civil Service regarding the former not being applicable to the latter. He wrote as follows:

Each judge of the Court of General Sessions has the right to appoint one such attendant, and his duties are such as the judge may assign to him. Hence, I believe that there is nothing in the law which forbids Mr. Newman to engage in practice. Whether or not an assistant in this view, however, has become a moot question for Mr. Newman has resigned his position as my attendant. This he has been doing ever since he was admitted to the bar.

"He has remained with me only at my solicitation. I have induced him so to do because I have felt that the advantage which the public derived through having in its employ in this capacity a young lawyer of such intelligence, integrity and ability justified me in urging him to make the sacrifice. I do not think that it would be fair to him to urge him to continue now that he has been made the subject of an attack."

WHAT NEWMAN HAD TO DO

You say that you are informed "that Mr. Newman performed none of the ordinary duties of an attendant to the judge." The facts are Mr. Newman looked after my office correspondence, taking entire charge of it in my absence, saw witnesses called for me when I was on the bench, ascertained for me in the first instance their business with me, referring them to me only when necessary, received all legal papers submitted to the bar to the court, and made such investigations as I required or directed.

To perform the many responsible duties which I put upon him requires not only the hours of constant attendance in my chambers, but a high degree of intelligence, learning, ability, tact and discretion of which he brought to bear to the entire satisfaction not only of myself, but also, I have reason to believe, to the satisfaction of all with whom he came in contact in official relations. Your information, therefore, would seem to be unfounded, so, in fact, are such other statements as, for instance, that the offices occupied by him were entirely remodelled and renovated under his supervision; that "commodious space" for postage, telephone, etc., was furnished; that the small ante-room occupied by him and by a stenographer was remodelled together with the other rooms of the department; that the plan in all the work connected therewith was directed by me.

Equally unfounded are statements that stenographers and clerks of this court in his practice. Mr. Newman informs me that he has been with me for some time, and has personally defrayed all expenses incidental to his private practice, which I may indicate is confined to civil cases, and I may add that I have paid him myself for such private work as he has done for me.

Deputy Controller Mathewson, in charge of the Finance Department in Controller Prendergast's absence abroad, was not sure that Judge Foster's letter had satisfactorily answered the inquiries of the Controller regarding the alleged misbehavior of the telephone in his private chambers by Newman and Mrs. Bryce over at Burgess Point for quite an extended visit.

He said the letter would receive the Controller's attention when he returned.

When informed of the Deputy Controller's comment Judge Foster replied: "My letter speaks for itself."

WILL RETURN TO PRESS CLAIM TO FORTUNE, LAWYER SAYS

Mrs. Percy Procter sailed on the Prinz Wilhelm yesterday morning. Otherwise known as the Baroness de Kliffuss, she is the woman who asked for a detective to protect her while in New York some time ago.

She slipped into the city on Wednesday from Cincinnati, where she had been defending her right to hold $40,000 in soap factory stock, which she alleges her sixty-five-year-old husband gave her as an ante-nuptial gift. Then she went into conference with her attorney, Charles C. Coffman, of the firm of Edward M. Burchard, and spent the night at the Hotel Grenobles safe from the kidnappers she formerly feared. She has gone to her estates at Mentone, and will return in October to defend the suit which is now pending.

Mr. Coffman said yesterday that the fact that she had received some money in Cincinnati from her husband would not affect the suit under the law, and added that the erratic baroness was in a very nervous condition when she reached New York.

SEEN IN THE SHOPS

Small papier-mâché elephants with red blankets are designed for candy boxes, the head being removable; they sell for 20 cents each. A bronze lizard holding a pen tray aloft in his mouth and having an inkwell attached to his side is a novelty that costs $3.50. Animal books with pictures for children to draw from are nice for rainy days, and cost from 6 cents up to 25 cents each. Quotation pencils are a new fad. One may have them made up with any favorite quotation or with the owner's name, and they come in all colors, two in a box, for 10 cents. "When hearts are trumps, make it diamonds," is a favorite quotation for the card enthusiasts. Little souvenir carnets containing eight little books of famous New York views and buildings of interest sell for 50 cents. A celluloid eagle on a rock with pinions spread is an ornamental piece which looks just like ivory; it costs 75 cents. A Swiss carved dog's head designed for a tobacco jar costs $5.00. The head serves as the cover. A chafing dish fork and spoon, with copper handles and wooden bowl and fork tines, sell for $3.50 a pair.

Of Interest to Women

BARBARIC SPLENDOR

Gorgeous Embroideries for the Adorning of New Gowns.

There is the greatest uncertainty just now—as always at this time of the year—about what is or is not going to be worn even a few weeks hence. Of one thing, however, there can be little doubt, and that is that the barbaric splendor which has characterized woman's dress of late is not to be dimmed, so magnificent are the garnitures being used on all the latest gowns.

Embroideries are becoming more and more gorgeous, and every imaginable material that can add to their richness and variety is being brought into service. Threads of gold and silver as well as of the baser metals are used in great profusion, and they are seen in all the different hues that the genuine metals take on under different atmospheric conditions.

With these the most brilliant colors in beads, floss and rat-tail braid are combined, and the designers place no restraint upon their fancy, for if they should produce anything too bizarre for a fastidious taste, it is simpler than to produce the effect by a veiling of chiffon. These embroideries are used for the adornment of tunics of sheer materials and also come in the form of bands and motives of all kinds done on net or chiffon.

In the two gowns illustrated two modes of decoration were employed that are frequently seen on the new models. One of these is the placing of vivid colors under a transparent veiling and the other the lavish use of jet. The first gown is of white mousseline de soie, confined by a wide painted ribbon that winds about the figure. Over this is a second robe of black mousseline de soie, held in at the foot by a narrow jetted band.

The other dress, of black and white foulard, with tunic of black marquisette, has jet balls at the bottom of the skirt and a large motive in jet finishes the end of the sash. There seems to be no limit to the amount of jet one is allowed to have on black or black and white costumes. Sometimes diaphanous tunics are so heavily studded with it that one needs it hard to understand how the frail fabrics can carry the weight without tearing.

GLEANINGS.

Brass umbrella stands, copper trimmed, with heavy iron bases are $4 and plain brass are the same price. Round aluminum jelly moulds, two inches deep, with a large intaglio on the bottom to appear on the top of the jelly, are 10 cents each. The level measuring spoon with a cover that slices off the overplus of flour, butter or whatever it may be costs 25 cents. Large satin roses on stems are the latest sachets and cost $4 each, in all colors. Coaster sets, with six nickel trimmed china tumbler coasters and one large one for bottles or a pitcher, sell for $1 a set. Imitation amethyst pins set in white metal are popular for many uses and sell for 75 cents each. A tiny powder puff that may be filled with powder and tucked into a tiny envelope case, sells for $1.

IDEAL VARIETY ONLY SHOULD BE USED, AND ONLY THE VERY BEST OF ICE CREAM.

There are several ways, so-called, of preparing this dessert, but they differ decidedly from the original as invented by Escoffier. To please the great masses, who had manifested a fancy for one of his combinations of peach, vanilla and raspberry. According to the original recipe, the peaches are poached in a vanilla flavored syrup, then placed upon a base of vanilla ice cream and coated with raspberry syrup, or what Escoffier calls a "raspberry puree." The imitations generally contain peaches and vanilla ice cream, but they omit the raspberry puree, and various ingredients are added, such as cherries, pineapple, sherry and even spongecake. Though these concoctions may be good in themselves, the name of the Escoffier confection, which is considered a real culinary inspiration, cannot properly be given to them.

One of these imitations is made by removing the stones from peaches and filling the cavity with ice cream. These are placed on rounds of spongecake and each is topped with a candied or maraschino cherry. For variety the peaches and cake may be coated with preserved pineapple juice, or the cavities of the peaches may be half filled with diced fresh pineapple and preserved cherries chopped in coarse chunks. Sometimes the cake is moistened with sherry and the peaches, filled with vanilla cream, are placed upon it and decorated with cherries.
