

Ward or Barnes or any of the other men of the committee that this was their purpose.

"Believing that you must appreciate the position in which, under these circumstances, we suddenly found ourselves, after having agreed upon the selection of Sherman in conformity with the precedent established by the selection of Senator Root two years ago as temporary chairman, I beg to remain with you, wishing you every success."

Such harmonious action at the Saratoga convention as only be secured by the cooperation of all Republicans. The party is divided in this state except that involved in the proposal to abolish the convention system of nominating candidates and substitute therefor the direct nomination plan, which has been characterized as "the device of the demagogue and the millionaire."

Will Know Where Party Stands.

Upon that question at the Saratoga convention there will doubtless be a division. It is right and proper that the attitude of the party on this question should be clearly defined without equivocation or misunderstanding, that the voters may know exactly where the party stands.

Agree on One Issue.

Beyond this formal utterance Mr. Woodruff had nothing to say. Mr. Barnes also had nothing to say about his talk with Mr. Woodruff. Politicians who have talked with both of them say they are going into the convention prepared, from the present look of things, to be beaten on the Sherman-Roosevelt issue.

Battle Over the Platform.

After the temporary chairman of a convention makes his "keynote" speech comes some of the real business of the affair—the naming of committees on credentials and on resolutions, the latter of which bodies considers suggestions for the platform and in a report presents that important document for the consideration of the convention.

Dady to Heed the People.

Michael J. Dady, boss of the 1st Assembly District of Kings, expressed a fervent wish last night that the newspapers would leave the Republican party alone for a short time. "What we need is harmony," said he, "and we would have a good chance to get together if the papers would let us alone."

Roosevelt in 1912—Bryan

Nebraskaan Thinks the Colonel Is After the Presidency. (By Telegram to the Tribune.) Lincoln, Neb., Aug. 25.—W. J. Bryan believes Theodore Roosevelt is working to secure the Republican nomination for President in 1912, and accuses him in doing so of violating a time honored precedent.

Coroners Get New Offices

Will Move from Criminal Courts Building to No. 70 Lafayette Street. The Board of Coroner for Manhattan is making preparations for removal to the building, No. 70 Lafayette street, opposite the Criminal Courts Building, where it had headquarters for several years.

Convention May Be Deadlocked

If things went that way, it wouldn't be outside the range of possibility to have a deadlocked convention for several days. Meantime, the "old guard" believes that the populace would be shouting itself hoarse for the nomination of Theodore Roosevelt. At least, the talk now is that the "old guard" harbors such a belief.

There are many Republicans in this state who don't love our Theodore. If Saratoga produces a lion hunter candidate, watch the Democrats with Gaynor.

It is not a long chance guess to say that there would be fairly broad smiles in Albany, Rochester, Syracuse and at a few intermediate stations if such a series of events occurred.

Menatime, it begins to look as if there would be a pretty radical re-adjustment of affairs in and out of the state committee before this fight ends. Lloyd Griscom is receiving all kinds of communications and many visitors from upstate counties.

Cheered by Orleans.

The result of the Orleans County convention seemed to him merely an indication of what was going to happen in many other counties.

Refers Only to Sugar Trust.

Speaking of lawless corporations, Mr. Roosevelt promised his help in their prosecution, adding that he had already done his part in prosecuting them; but the only one to which he referred by name was the Sugar Trust.

Shakes Hands with Large Crowd.

When he had finished speaking the Toledo police force lined up the crowd which had gained admission to the station and Mr. Roosevelt shook hands with all those in line. He then yielded to the persuasion of some of his callers and went to the front of the station to wave a greeting to such as could not gain admission.

Eager as the audience obviously was to hear Mr. Roosevelt talk politics, he refrained from doing so almost entirely, although before closing he said a few words for clean politics.

nating in numbers. "The American man is a good fellow, but his wife is a still better fellow. I believe in the American man, but I believe more firmly in the American woman."

Turning to a group of railroad men who came running up, Mr. Roosevelt reminded them that he was a member of the Railway Firemen's Union. He told them that they possessed the qualities that all citizens should have, and added: "Whatever a man's qualifications may be, I always distrust a man who tries to reform the whole state and is not able to take care of his family."

Waves Hand at Mrs. Garfield.

When the train reached Mentor it slowed down, and ex-President Roosevelt waved his hand to Mrs. Garfield and other members of the family who ran out to greet him.

At Toledo a crowd estimated at ten thousand persons came down to the station to greet the ex-President, but the railroad officials were afraid to let more than a third of the number into the station, the numerous trains making it difficult to handle a greater number with safety.
