

MORE TO PAY THE DIED

Musical Protective Union Raises Its Schedule of Salaries.

AFFECTS BIG ORCHESTRAS Increase in Pay for Rehearsals Caused Partly by Inducements of Phonograph Companies.

The Musical Protective Union of New York has issued a new schedule of the minimum salaries to be paid to members of the union.

So great has been the raise, particularly in the price charged for rehearsals, that several officers of symphony orchestras in New York have declared that the orchestras will suffer greatly.

The opera and theatre orchestras will be unaffected, at least for the present, owing to the three-year agreement between the union and the Theatrical Managers' Association, which still has two years to run.

Arnold Volpe, the leader of the Volpe Symphony Orchestra, when seen last night, condemned in strong terms the attitude of the union.

"It will not hurt my organization so much as some others," he said, "inasmuch as many of my musicians are stockholders in the company, though I shall have to pay the increase for the musicians who are not. But the union's demand will do great harm to orchestras which are not incorporated. I protested against the increase, but it seems, in vain."

Hard on Symphony Orchestras. "The increase will be a great hardship to all orchestras playing symphony music," said this officer. "The increase is felt chiefly in the rehearsals, and without proper rehearsals there can be little artistic work."

There have also been increases in the prices charged for evening receptions, collations, etc. The increases have averaged about $1 a man, with an additional $1 for each rehearsal.

Effect on Rehearsals. Indeed, the demand for musicians has been urged as one of the reasons for the increase in the price charged for rehearsals, as the rehearsals usually occur in the afternoon, at the time the musicians are required by the phonograph companies.

The new rule applies only to New York organizations, but it is expected that it will soon be extended by the unions in other cities.

It is understood that the New York Symphony Orchestra, like the Philharmonic, has already engaged its musicians, but at the end of the coming year both these organizations will come under the increase.

The new schedule had been debated in committee by the union throughout the summer, and it is understood that some of the members considered the increase in the prices paid for symphony rehearsals exorbitant.

PLAN STATUE FOR GREELEY

In commemoration of the centenary of Horace Greeley's birth a committee is considering the erection in Chappaqua, where he lived for many years, of a copy of the statue by J. Q. A. Ward which stands in front of the Tribune Building.

The members of the Greeley memorial committee are John D. Bristol, chairman, Victor Guinzburg, Jacob Erlich, Edwin Bedell, George Hunt, Wilbur Grant, George D. Mackay, John McKesson, Jr., and Albert Turner.

Recently "The World" published under the caption "Horace Greeley's One Hundred Years" the following editorial:

To the many persons still living who remember Horace Greeley as a daily figure in the life of New York, it is difficult to believe that he is dead. He is dead, but his spirit lives in the hearts of those who have been touched by his life.

Merely as the man who brought about the nomination of Lincoln, Greeley would have been a great name in journalism and politics and in public life exercised extraordinary power, and in the main that power was the result of his character.

SEVEN BALLOTS NECESSARY Complete Surprise, as Rector Had Not Been Prominently Mentioned as Candidate.

Providence, Sept. 21.—The Rev. James De Wolf Perry, Jr., rector of St. Paul's Church, New Haven, was chosen Bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of New Haven at the Episcopal Convention, which opened here yesterday.

The election of Mr. Perry was a complete surprise. He had not been prominently mentioned as a candidate. When the convention began balloting early in the afternoon about twelve names were submitted.

On the second ballot Rathbone Gardner introduced the name of Mr. Perry, who received a total of nine votes. On the next ballot he received ninety-nine, and on the fourth received the majority from the laity.

Mr. Perry is regarded as a low church man, while Dr. Fliske is of the high church party, and it seemed at one time that there would be a deadlock between the clergy and laity over this question.

Stamps, which are of an attractive design this year, may be placed on the backs as well as the fronts of letters. The reason that the Red Cross desires to have them known as "seals" is that last year the dead letter office of the Postoffice was flooded with missives bearing on the Red Cross stamps.

Says: "WAKE UP, AMERICA" Sir William Treloar Urges Need of Hospital for Children.

Sir William Treloar, once Lord Mayor of London and now the head of the Alton Home for Cripples, is disappointed in the work that New York is doing for the care of children afflicted with tuberculosis of the bone.

"Wake up, America," he said yesterday, "but I find that you are woefully behind in this matter. I know that this is the land of big things, and I am surprised. It is a national matter. I think I should do as Mr. Roosevelt did when he made his Guildhall speech. He gave us some advice on the spur of the moment, and I think I should say, as England's King is doing in his country."
