SMALL HATS FOR SPRING

Most Alluring Are Helmet Shapes Adorned with Wings.

It would be hard to imagine a spring without the flower bedecked millinery that each year heralds the season when nature puts on new life, but for practical purposes...

of wings, and generally it will be found that the smaller these feathery ornaments are the more fascinating they are. The helmet shape is occasionally seen with a ring on each side so large that together they cover nearly all the hat.

TROUSER-SKIRT ON VIEW

A Very Feminine Garment, It Attracts Little Attention.

Any one who imagines that the introduction of the divided skirt would necessarily mean that women would appear in attire as all resembling that of the sterner sex would be quickly undeceived by a glimpse of a model of one of these garments displayed yesterday in the window of a Fifth avenue shop.

The costume of which it formed a part was what would be called a one-piece gown if the skirt had been of the ordinary kind, and down to within about ten inches of the bottom was in no way unlike other one-piece gowns, except that it had more than the ordinary allowance of feminine delicacy.

Two other fashionable forms of the small hat are illustrated to-day, the Napoleon and the toque of soft straw. Their decorations are also typical of the spring mode.

AFTER MARRIAGE WHAT?

Usually Deteriorates for the Woman, Says Dr. Marden.

Marriage is woman's proper sphere, of course, and yet how many people have a feeling that the women they know deteriorate after marriage! Men, especially, "Mrs. Blank don't half so interesting to talk to since she married. Used to be such a bright, up-to-date girl. Funny how she's changed." That is the sort of thing men are often heard to say, and in a good many cases it is true, though probably not as often as Orison Sweet Marden, who has an article on "Why so Many Married Women Deteriorate" in "Success" for March, seems to think.

The reason for all the trouble in the post war, according to Darragh, that Donovan had made some disparaging reference to the vice-commander in a letter he wrote to one of his comrades. This statement followed the vice-commander's alleged refusal to aid the widow of a dead comrade.

Darragh sued Donovan for $50,000 for libel. The case was tried yesterday before Justice Amend in the Supreme Court. The post war being about equally represented.

The jury brought in a verdict for six cents for Vice-Commander Darragh, which carried with it the costs of the case, but was a vindication for the plaintiff. Donovan offered to pay the war indemnity on the spot, but his magnanimous enemy refused the tender.

The chief reason why married women deteriorate, Dr. Marden says, is that thousands of them have to be beggars and deceivers to get any money for personal use out of their husbands. The majority of men want to censor their wives' expenditures, and generally make such a row over the business that many women "make it a rule never to ask for money except when the husband is leaving the house and in a hurry to get away. The disagreeable scene is thus cut short."

But to be obliged to beg for money is extremely degrading, Dr. Marden says, and when the wife is "a slave to the home, as many women are," in addition to being a beggar, it isn't strange if her girlish charm leaks away.

There is a pessimistic sentence: "It is a rare thing to find a man who does not waste ten times as much money on foolish things as does his wife, and yet he would make ten times the talk about his wife's one-tenth foolishness as about his own ten-tenths."

Husbands cause their wives' deterioration, too, it seems by squelching their ambitions. Wives who want to go out in the world and work are forced to stay at home and look pretty to welcome their husbands at night.

"Suppose a girl has the brains and ability of a George Eliot and she marries a young business man who thinks that writing articles or books or devoting a large part of her time to music is all nonsense. What will her life be?" asks Dr. Marden; and he wonders how the husband would like to have the conditions reversed.

WAR INDEMNITY SIX CENTS

Comrade Darragh Gets a Verdict Against "Mike" Donovan.

There was a reunion of Civil War veterans in Part 3 Trial Term of the Supreme Court yesterday. The grizzled old warriors who for forty-odd years have told around the camp fires at their reunions the story of Antietam and of the battle of Gettysburg now have something brand new and also intimate to discuss.

After many years of peace in E. D. Morgan Post, G. A. R., there has been strife that brought the veterans, or at least some of them, back to the firing line. The division leaders in this internecine war were John K. Darragh, vice-commander of the post, and "Mike" Donovan, who, as the boxing instructor of the New York Athletic Club and prior to taking that job, had done some fighting since the war, one of his famous battles being with Theodore Roosevelt.

The reason for all the trouble in the post war, according to Darragh, that Donovan had made some disparaging reference to the vice-commander in a letter he wrote to one of his comrades. This statement followed the vice-commander's alleged refusal to aid the widow of a dead comrade.

Darragh sued Donovan for $50,000 for libel. The case was tried yesterday before Justice Amend in the Supreme Court. The post war being about equally represented.

CAN'T STOP STORAGE BILL

New Jersey House Passes It, Despite Many Protests.

(By Telegraph to The Tribune.) Trenton, N. J., Feb. 21.—Assemblyman Peter James' cold storage bill passed the House to-day after a number of persons opposed to the measure had endeavored to postpone action by asking for a hearing. The bill has the support of Governor Wilson. When Mr. James arose to speak for his measure he had about a hundred telegrams on his desk asking for delay.

He referred to these in his speech, and said that the bill had been before the Legislature for six weeks, and no request for a hearing had come until to-day, in spite of the fact that he had personally sent a copy of the bill to every one whom he thought interested.

Assemblyman Mylod opposed the immediate passage of the bill on the ground that in all fairness the cold storage men should be heard. Mr. James asserted that the request for a hearing was merely intended for delay, and he urged passage of the measure at once. Mr. Matthews, majority leader, and Mr. McCran, minority leader, supported Mr. James, and the bill went through by a big majority.

GET READY TO ENTER The TRIBUNE'S Great $12,000 PROVERB CONTEST

IT'S your opportunity to secure a valuable prize in the most novel and fascinating contest of "wit" and "brains" ever conducted. The contest is simple and easy—costs you absolutely nothing to compete. There will be no guessing—just bits of literature that you hear every day, illustrated and depicted in the most attractive and interesting manner. Be ready for the opening on Monday, February 27th, and take part in this, the greatest educational contest of the year.

What Well-Known Proverb Does This Picture Represent? Answer—"First come, first served." This is a sample proverb. It is, of course, quite easy. Nearly all of the series will be as easy—yet it is not likely that any one person will get all correct.

RULES GOVERNING THE CONTEST

THE TRIBUNE'S PROVERB CONTEST is a feature of entertainment and amusement for every member of the family, designed to promote and develop thought in the minds of the young folk and provide a pleasant mental diversion for the "Grown-ups." Every day for sixty-three days, beginning Monday, February 27, THE TRIBUNE will publish an illustration, cartoon or other representation of a commonly used and well-known English Proverb.

- 1. THE NEW-YORK TRIBUNE'S PROVERB CONTEST is open to all readers, excepting employees of THE TRIBUNE and members of their families. If you are not a regular reader of THE TRIBUNE (Daily and Sunday), you can become one and enter the contest at any time. 2. Each picture represents a well known English proverb. A blank is provided with each picture for the convenience of the contestants upon which to write the Proverb represented. Blanks may be filled out in any legible manner, pencil, pen and ink or typewriter. 3. If you are not certain of the proverb the picture represents and desire to send in more than one answer to the same picture, you may do so—but not more than three hundred and fifteen (315) answers may be submitted in a complete set. That is—contestants will be allowed to send an average of five answers to each picture. 4. Incorrect answers will not count against contestants if the correct answer is also given. Only one answer should be written upon the same blank. Extra blanks should be used for additional answers—and all answers to the same number should be kept together in making up the set. 5. HOLD ALL ANSWERS UNTIL AFTER LAST PICTURE HAS APPEARED, then arrange your answers in numerical order, fastening them securely together, and bring or mail them in a neat flat package (not folded or rolled), sealed, and, if mailed, with postage fully paid, plainly addressed to THE CONTEST MANAGER, THE NEW-YORK TRIBUNE, NEW YORK CITY. 6. The time of receiving answers will have no effect upon awarding of the prizes, with this exception: All of THE NEW-YORK TRIBUNE within ten days answers must be in the hands of the Contest Manager after the last picture has appeared. 7. The prizes will be awarded to the contestants sending in the correct, or nearest correct, set of answers to the entire series of sixty-three (63) Proverb illustrations. 8. In the event of a tie between two or more persons the cash value of the prize or prizes thus tied for will be equally divided. 9. Only one complete set (comprising not more than 315 individual answers) may be submitted by any one contestant, and only one prize will be awarded to any one family or member thereof. 10. In making the awards the Judging Committee, whose names will be announced in due course, will take into account the similarity and exact wording of the Proverbs as selected by THE TRIBUNE'S STAFF, and as contained in THE NEW-YORK TRIBUNE'S Book of English Proverbs. Spelling, wording, punctuation and the correct construction of the proverbs are the essentials that will be graded. The Contest Manager reserves the right to make such changes in the above rules as he may deem necessary in protecting the interests of contestants. The good faith and honor of THE NEW-YORK TRIBUNE are pledged to insure each and every contestant a "square deal." All communications or letters of inquiry concerning the Proverb Contest should be addressed to THE CONTEST MANAGER, THE NEW-YORK TRIBUNE, NEW YORK CITY.
