'TWAS THE YANKEES' DAY

Ford Was Erratic, but Fortune Smiled Upon Him.

TRIPLE PLAY 'HELPED SOME'

Roach, Gardner and Chase Came to the Rescue When Boston Looked Dangerous.

Russell Ford won one of the luckiest games of his career at American League Park vesterday afternoon, when a snarkling triple play nipped a budding rally on the part of the Boston Red Sox and ended the game, with the score 6 to 3 in favor of the Yankees. Chase sent Ford to the mound in an effort to wipe out the disgrace of three straight defeats, and the young pitcher was far from being in his usual form. He was wild at critical times, giving five passes, allowing seven hits and striking out only two men. It seemed that every inning would be his last, but he managed to weather the storm, although he was in difficulty most of the time.

In the last inning Williams led off with a sharp line drive to centre, and Nunamaker followed with another to the same spot. It was a promising beginning, and it looked as though the Red Sox might pull the game out of the fire. Carrigan was sent in as a pinch hitter, and after fouling off a number of balls, smashed a terrific drive at It looked good for a safe hit, and the two runners on the bags headed for the plate. Roach got in front of the ball, however, and the sphere stuck in his glove-It was an easy matter to relay the ball to Gardner to Chase and complete a triple line-up to start the game. He sent Hart. zell from third base to right field and Johnson from short to third, putting Roach at short. Hartzell was moved to the head of the batting order to take Wolter's place. while Cree was moved up to fourth place with Gardner fifth and Johnson sixth. The new line-up appeared to work well. Johnson was a little weak at third, and only brilliant playing by Chase prevented damage through his wild throws to the initial sack. Roach, however, played a sterling game at short, accepting ten chances, with one error, while Earl Gardner per formed consistently, taking eight chances ent in batting, every player in the line-up hitting safely, with the exception of John son. Daniels was credited with two singles while Chase made two. Cicotte was found for nine hits in all, but they were so well cattered that the damage would have been light had he received perfect support. The Yankees bunched their hits on him in the third frame, and with the aid of errors

The score follows:

The Red Sox drew the first blood, breakng into the run column in the first inning by dint of some clean hitting. Hooper led off at the start with a smacking double to centre field, the ball taking a bad bound back of third base, and Speaker appeared to make an equally brilliant play on Ford's liner, scooping it up off the ground, but the umpire decided it was a hit. Hartzell left field bleachers, where they arrested the umpire decided it was a hit. Hartzell left field bleachers, where they arrested got to first on a grounder that took a bad several men who were making book on the bound off Cicotte's mitt, and Daniels sin game and attempting to lay wagers. The Chase beat out a slow roller to Yerkes their little game should be interrupted, and and Ford scored, the bases being still filled. several made stout resistance until the arm Cree took the responsibility resting upon of the law, aided by nightsticks, showed his shoulders with due seriousness and singled to centre field, bringing Daniels and knocked down three of the officers before Hartzell home. Speaker made a wild throw to the plate in an effort to head off Daniels, and Chase scored on the error. Cree going to second. Earl Gardner flied out to Speaker and Cree raced to third, scoring when Williams let Johnson's little pop fly fall through his hands. Roach filed out to Lewis.

Another run was tallied in the fifth. Dan-leis beat out a slow roller over Cleotte's head, and Chase sacrificed, Nunamaker to Williams. Although Cree struck out, Gard-ner singled to centre and Danleis crossed the plate. Johnson was out, Engle to Will-liams.
