

DECLARATION APPROVED

Agreement as to Naval Prize in War Now in Sight.

RATIFICATION IS ASSURED

Imperial Conference Smooths England's Way to Redemption of Pledge.

London, June 2.—The imperial conference which is holding its sessions at the British Foreign Office to-day approved the Declaration of London and passed a resolution favoring its ratification.

The declaration was adopted at a conference of the chief naval powers held in London from December, 1906, until February, 1909, with a view to arriving at an agreement regarding prizes in naval warfare.

The declaration was adopted at a conference of the chief naval powers held in London from December, 1906, until February, 1909, with a view to arriving at an agreement regarding prizes in naval warfare.

Washington, June 2.—"Less sensational but more valuable practically" than a ratification of a general arbitration treaty was the comment of leading publicists here upon the action of the imperial conference in favoring the ratification of the Declaration of London.

CHARLES P. TAFT MEETS KING.

London, June 2.—King George gave an audience to Charles P. Taft, of Cincinnati, at Buckingham Palace to-day. Whitelaw Reid, the American Ambassador, presided.

LADY DERBY GIVES BALL

King Attends Dinner Which Precedes the Dancing.

London, June 2.—House parties, dinners and balls in connection with the coronation are becoming so numerous and engrossing that, combined with the unusually brilliant and hot weather, they are driving the people to seek outdoor recreation, and the theatre managers who anticipated a harvest from the influx of visitors to London find themselves confronted with half-empty houses.

The details of the coronation procession are sufficiently completed to show that it will be a splendid cavalcade more than a mile long. Representatives of foreign rulers will not ride in the procession, but will be accommodated with seats on the stands along the route.

RACERS TAKE THEIR TIME

Aviators in Franco-Italian Contest Halt at Rome.

Rome, June 2.—There was no competition to-day in the aeroplane race from Paris to Turin. André Beaumont and Roland Garros, the leaders in the race, did not attempt to start from Rome on the final stage of the flight to Turin. Pray, the German entrant, who is broken down, near Pisa, tinkered with his motor all day, and hopes to be able to take the air in the morning.

INTERNATIONAL AVIATION LAW.

Paris, June 2.—The first international conference on Aviation Law, which has been in session here for several days, under the presidency of Alexandre Millerand, ex-Minister of Posts and Telegraphs, ended to-day with the adoption of seventeen clauses of an agreement which will form the nucleus of a code of the air.

WOMAN MARTYR TO SCIENCE

Dr. Emma Mooers Infected While Performing Operation.

Boston, June 2.—The germ which is causing the present epidemic of the so-called tonsillitis in greater Boston is one of the most virulent of which physicians of greater Boston have had any experience. Within a few days one well known pathologist of Harvard Medical School has been in danger of life and another died on Wednesday.

WOMAN MARTYR TO SCIENCE

Both Dr. Mooers and Dr. Southard became infected with the streptococci, the germs of tonsillitis, through abrasions on their hands while performing a post-mortem on the brain of a man who had died from the effects of tonsillitis.

CUBA EXPECTING CASTRO

Steamer Due To-day May Have Ex-President Aboard.

REPORT "AMUSES" CARACAS

Washington Communicates with Havana, but Believes Him in Lisbon Yet.

Havana, June 2.—The Cuban government is in receipt of what is believed to be authoritative information from Spain that General Castro, the exiled former President of Venezuela, sailed recently from Cadix on board the steamer Legazpi, which is due here to-morrow morning, en route for Central and South American ports.

The Legazpi passed in at 10 o'clock to-night, but the Custom House and Health Office being closed, it will be impossible to communicate with the vessel until morning.

According to this information, Castro is travelling incognito. It is believed also that he is carefully disguised, but it is improbable that he will be able to escape the scrutiny of the Cuban officials who will board the Legazpi here.

It is not known whether Castro desires to land in Havana or whether the government would interpose objections to his so doing. Secretary of State Sangnully told The Associated Press to-day that the Cuban government has not been informed officially of the coming of Castro and is not absolutely sure he is on board the steamer.

Therefore the government will not decide its course of action until it is definitely known that Castro is on the steamer.

The conjecture here is that Castro does not desire to land at Havana, that he will endeavor to conceal his identity, proceed on board the Legazpi and land at some port adjacent to Venezuelan territory, probably at Sabanailla, Colombia.

Caracas, Venezuela, June 2.—The Venezuelan government is making a diligent search in shipping and other circles to learn Castro's whereabouts. It claims to have knowledge that the former President is planning a revolution against the administration of President Gomez.

The sudden and complete disappearance of Castro from Las Palmas, Canary Islands, and his reported sailing for Havana in a ship due to touch subsequently at South American ports have created the greatest interest and some amusement in all circles here. The government announces that it is fully prepared to meet any armed invasion.

Recent dispatches from Las Palmas are to the effect that ex-President Castro had arrived there from Tenerife and had later re-embarked on the steamer Reina Victoria under an assumed name for Cadiz, from which port he intended to sail for the West Indies.

Tenerife, Canary Islands, June 2.—The family of ex-President Castro is residing in a villa of the suburbs here, but the present whereabouts of General Castro are not known. Mail advices received here are to the effect that Castro has the intention of establishing a permanent residence in Havana.

Washington, June 2.—The latest advices of the State Department indicate that Cipriano Castro, the exiled former President of Venezuela, is still in Lisbon. The department is closely watching his movements, and is relying on the co-operation of other governments to prevent his return to Venezuela.

CASTRO GIVES NO ANXIETY

Venezuelans in New York Confident He Will Not Return.

Because of the seething condition of politics in Venezuela, the report that General Castro was again feeling good enough to contemplate the organization of an insurrection against his successor and former friend and business associate, President Juan Vicente Gomez of Venezuela, aroused interest in the Venezuelan colony in this city, but there was a unanimity of opinion that the "Black Eagle of the Andes" could not go back to his country.

The movements of Castro were of especial interest to Dr. Alejandro Rivas Vazquez, member of the Venezuelan Congress from the State of Apure and former president of the State of Zulia, who is in New York organizing an armed movement against President Gomez, and to the members of the junta here to further that movement. They are not pleased with the report that Castro is feeling good, because he can fight his way back to power, because such an attempt might interfere with the movement under way, which the members of the junta think has a chance of causing the deposition from power of President Gomez.

An official of the Venezuelan junta says they deeply deplore Castro's reported efforts to make himself again the dictator of his country.

MRS. BULL'S QUEER MOOD

Walnuts, Red Pepper and Raw Wheat in Her Bread.

MILK FROM PUMPKIN SEEDS

This Diet Recommended by East Indian During Dying Days Objected to Medicine.

Alfred, Me., June 2.—Bread made of walnuts, red pepper and raw wheat and milk secured by crushing pumpkin seeds formed the diet recommended by Mrs. Ole Bull, an East Indian physician who was called on during her dying days, according to testimony given by Miss Siri Swanander, of Brooklyn, in the local Probate Court to-day.

Miss Swanander, who was a witness for the contestant, Mrs. Ole Bull Vaughn, in the action over Mrs. Bull's will, also testified that three different kinds of Indian medicine, much of which she took against Mrs. Bull, were given her.

Mrs. Bull, the witness said, listed to her regular physician, Dr. George E. Reed, of Brooklyn, that she was not sick, but "was suffering from a hidden power."

Miss Swanander, under cross-examination, admitted that she herself was a believer in Raja Yoga, as taught by the Hindu priests. She entertained Mrs. Bull at her home in Brooklyn for some time just previous to Mrs. Bull's death, and Miss Margaret Noble, known as Sister Nivedita, a priestess of the Hindu cult, was Mrs. Bull's attendant during this time.

One day, witness said, she heard loud voices coming from Mrs. Bull's apartment, and hurrying upstairs, heard the patient say, apparently to Miss Noble, who was the only one in the room with her at the time, "I shall go crazy if I can't do as I want to with my money."

"A short time later," said Miss Swanander, "Miss Noble came downstairs crying and said to me, it is never good to let Mrs. Bull have her own way."

Patent Objected to Medicine.

In reply to questions regarding the administering of Indian medicine the witness testified that she had been present on occasions when Miss Noble was giving medicine to the patient, Mrs. Bull, she said, would always object, and on one occasion, after a heated argument, she took it.

On one occasion, Dr. Reed, witness said, found a little black pill among the medicine which he has prescribed for Mrs. Bull. He picked it up, she testified, and turning to Miss Noble, said: "Do you know anything about this?" Miss Noble said she did not.

Dr. Reed took the pill, in the presence of the witness, and later in another room crushed it between his fingers.

"What was the result?" Miss Swanander was asked.

"It got off a strange odor and portions of it fell into a plant pot, which continued to give off the odor for some time." Describing the effects of the Indian medicine which she had seen administered to Mrs. Bull, the witness said that she, Mrs. Bull, "would lie with her mouth partly open and her eyes partly closed."

"Do you know how Dr. Reed discovered that his patient was being given medicine other than ordered by him?" Miss Swanander was asked.

"Mrs. Bull was a visitor at the house for several days, according to the testimony, and saw her mother on three occasions. Witness told of the apparent friendship relations between the two, Mrs. Bull calling Mrs. Vaughn "Daughter dear." On the first day that Mrs. Vaughn came to the house I took her up to see her mother," witness testified. "She told Mrs. Bull that she had heard about the Indian medicine and she did not want her mother to take it."

THEY HAVE PUT ANOTHER ONE OVER ON THE PEERLESS LEADER.

WILL VOTE FOR NEW PARK

Four Borough Presidents Favor Use of Coney Island Site.

THREE MORE VOTES NEEDED

Gaynor, Mitchel or Prendergast Can Assure Purchase of Fire-secure Site by the City.

Another worker for more air in this congested city has come out unreservedly in favor of the acquisition of Coney Island's ruins by the city. He is Gustavus T. Kirby, treasurer of the Playgrounds Association of America, an organization of which Theodore Roosevelt is honorary president. But what is more to the point, perhaps, for the immediate purpose, four of the five borough presidents have practically signified their intention of voting for the extension of Seaside Park over the burned area at Coney Island, the exception being Borough President Cromwell of Richmond, who wants the park on Staten Island.

The borough presidents in favor of the Coney Island project—McAneeny of Manhattan, Steers of Brooklyn, Miller of the Bronx and Gresser of Queens—represent six votes out of the sixteen in the Board of Estimate and Apportionment. All that is needed to make a majority is the winning vote of the Mayor, the Controller or the President of the Board of Aldermen, each one of whom has three votes.

The borough president and his comrades of the Committee on Parks of the Board of Aldermen came back from Coney Island last night, after a tour of inspection of the coveted territory, much in favor of a condemnation of the property by the city, if the owners are not willing to let it go at a reasonable figure. Mr. Drescher said he had discovered a number of acres of land under water down there owned by the city never owned the fee of the street. In Brooklyn, except for those streets opened since the consolidation of the greater city, the fee of the streets rests with the abutting property owners, and the city has in them only a public easement. When Dreamland acquired the property on both sides of West 8th street, therefore, it owned the street, and acquired from the city only the relinquishment of the public easement.

The resolution permitting the closing of the street was passed by the Board of Estimate on October 2, 1903, after Nelson P. Lewis, chief engineer of the board, had reported its advisability.

"This street," Mr. Lewis reported, "was opened by the Board of Supervisors of Kings County before the town of Gravesend was annexed to the Borough of Brooklyn, but the street has never been used for public traffic, and is even now partly encumbered by buildings. An assessment against the best of the street, consisting of damages claimed by abutting property owners and the Brooklyn Rapid Transit, is still outstanding, amounting to $6,500."

OBITUARY.

MRS. RICHARD F. BLOUNT.

Paris, June 2.—Mrs. Olive Lynds Blount, the wife of Richard F. Blount, died suddenly from heart trouble to-day at her home here. Mrs. Blount was born in Quincy, Ill.

OBITUARY NOTES.

GEORGE F. KENDALL, former State Bank Commissioner of Connecticut, died at his home at Suffield yesterday. He was 61 years of age. He was during the latter part of his term in 1907 that the defalcation of William F. Walker, treasurer of the Savings Bank of New Britain, became public.

THE REV. DAVID J. DOUGLAS, the first Quaker to hold revival meetings in New England, and who at one time was head of the sect in that part of the country, died at his home, in Durham, Me., on Thursday, at the age of sixty-nine years. Mr. Douglas was a cousin of ex-Governor William L. Douglas of Massachusetts, and was widely known as a preacher and lecturer. He had held pastorates in Ohio, Indiana and New York.
