

New-York Tribune.

TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 21, 1911.

This newspaper is owned and published by The Tribune Association, a New York corporation; office and principal place of business, Tribune Building, No. 154 Nassau street, New York; Ogden Mills, president; Ogden M. Reid, secretary; James M. Barrett, treasurer. The address of the office is the office of this newspaper.

Subscription rates table with columns for 'By Mail', 'Daily and Sunday', 'Daily only', 'Sunday only', and 'Foreign'.

THE NEWS THIS MORNING.

FOREIGN.—No confirmation of the reported massacre of foreigners in the Shen-Si Province was reported; eight hundred revolutionary recruits were housed at Canton; it was intended to dispatch them to Nanking to co-operate in the siege.

DOMESTIC.—The President was reported to be much better, but because of illness the cabinet meeting to-day would be held in the White House.

THE INDIAN.—The indicted beef packers in Chicago planned a surprise in their efforts to delay the hearing of the trial of the Supreme Court of the United States adjourned until December 4 without an appeal to it being made in the case.

THE HOUSE.—The House committee investigating the House of Commons, President Caceres of Santo Domingo was assassinated by the Italian, and the House of Commons, President Caceres of Santo Domingo was assassinated by the Italian, and the House of Commons, President Caceres of Santo Domingo was assassinated by the Italian.

THE SENATE.—The Senate committee investigating the House of Commons, President Caceres of Santo Domingo was assassinated by the Italian, and the House of Commons, President Caceres of Santo Domingo was assassinated by the Italian.

THE MICHIGAN.—The Michigan Lumber Dealers' Association made answers at Detroit to recent indictments charging violation of the Sherman law.

CITY.—Stocks were dull and heavy. William J. Cummins was convicted of stealing $140,000 from the Nineteenth Ward Bank and the Chicago Trust Company.

THE CARNEGIE TRUST CONVICT.—District Attorney Whitman is to be congratulated upon his success in obtaining the conviction of William J. Cummins for his part in wrecking the Carnegie Trust Company.

THE WEATHER.—Indications for today: Fair. The temperature yesterday: Highest: 45 degrees; lowest: 31.

BE NO MEANS A "FARCE". Both Colonel Roosevelt and Mr. Samuel Untermyer have spoken recently of the result in the Tobacco Trust case as merely a "change of clothes."

Moreover, the ownership of the fourteen companies which will be made out of the trust will tend to be diversified.

Moreover, the ownership of the fourteen companies which will be made out of the trust will tend to be diversified. The individuals who have exercised a controlling interest in the trust are for the most part no longer young men.

The dissolution of the Tobacco Trust is comparable to the dissolution of Northern Securities Company. The pro rata distribution of ownership was the same in both cases.

Obviously, a man with soul so dead as dollars and pears which made its re-may be more imaginary than actual. If not merely one of those repetitions in which history delights and which so many current observers fail to recognize. Those who remember Tenny's portrayal of the Peri entering Paradise must account Disraeli's accession as no less revolutionary than Mr. Law's.

Similarly, the dissolution of the American Tobacco Company and the Standard Oil Company will put an end to the formation of great corporations for the purpose of monopolizing industry.

What is now obvious, as our London correspondent reported on Sunday and as we ventured to anticipate some days before, is that Mr. Law is achieving an immediate, marked and substantial success, which promises to prove enduring.

Representative Stanley announces that he and his committee are prepared to work on the steel investigation until Christmas. They will work until the next election if they can succeed in monopolizing the limelight.

The editor of "The Toronto Globe" asserts that Canada is already sorry she rejected the reciprocity agreement. He says: "The annexation bugbear was to 'blame for it. It was just an evil rumor."

The ingenious and desperate efforts of those Chicago packers to delay the presentation of the government's case against them suggests the possibility that they think it is "loaded."

France should not sit silently and sorrowfully contemplating a record of 21,180 more deaths than births in the first six months of this year.

The prominent citizens of some place in Kansas who confess themselves guilty of tarring and feathering a young woman would do well as a sequel to get themselves ridden out of town on a rail.

And still the turkey gobblers and struts, ignorant of its fate. Also, it still reposes peacefully in cold storage.

A man who, despite the fact that he has several grandchildren, is still fond of his club and the pleasures which lie beyond the domestic circle, said in defence of his weakness that he went out to prolong his life "and to avoid dangers."

The earnest advocacy of a system of civil service retirement by the Secretary of the Treasury has been made known, and there is probably no member of the Cabinet who does not believe in it.

The career of Cummins and Reichmann in New York City banking has had its remarkable phases. They pulled wool over the eyes of the New York State Banking Department.

The suggestion of Mr. Kipling's "Firewell, Romance" comes to mind in viewing the changed leadership of the Unionist party in Great Britain.

With extraordinary indiscretion, albeit with protests of infinite respect for the father sex, a misguided reader of The Tribune rises to inquire why, after paying $4 for two theatre tickets, should he be compelled to sit behind an "opera bonnet," which as effectively obscures his view of the stage as the mathematics and now—in the theatres, at least—obsolete picture hat.

Obviously, a man with soul so dead as dollars and pears which made its return to the owner as easy matter. The loser was notified, came in a hurry, counted the money and asked my father if he could take a walk with him.

Public sympathy will not be with the bathtub trust. A monopoly of bathtubs too closely approximates an attack on godliness.

The editor of "The Toronto Globe" asserts that Canada is already sorry she rejected the reciprocity agreement.

The ingenious and desperate efforts of those Chicago packers to delay the presentation of the government's case against them suggests the possibility that they think it is "loaded."

France should not sit silently and sorrowfully contemplating a record of 21,180 more deaths than births in the first six months of this year.

The prominent citizens of some place in Kansas who confess themselves guilty of tarring and feathering a young woman would do well as a sequel to get themselves ridden out of town on a rail.

And still the turkey gobblers and struts, ignorant of its fate. Also, it still reposes peacefully in cold storage.

A man who, despite the fact that he has several grandchildren, is still fond of his club and the pleasures which lie beyond the domestic circle, said in defence of his weakness that he went out to prolong his life "and to avoid dangers."

The earnest advocacy of a system of civil service retirement by the Secretary of the Treasury has been made known, and there is probably no member of the Cabinet who does not believe in it.

The career of Cummins and Reichmann in New York City banking has had its remarkable phases. They pulled wool over the eyes of the New York State Banking Department.

The suggestion of Mr. Kipling's "Firewell, Romance" comes to mind in viewing the changed leadership of the Unionist party in Great Britain.

With extraordinary indiscretion, albeit with protests of infinite respect for the father sex, a misguided reader of The Tribune rises to inquire why, after paying $4 for two theatre tickets, should he be compelled to sit behind an "opera bonnet," which as effectively obscures his view of the stage as the mathematics and now—in the theatres, at least—obsolete picture hat.

Obviously, a man with soul so dead as dollars and pears which made its return to the owner as easy matter. The loser was notified, came in a hurry, counted the money and asked my father if he could take a walk with him.

Public sympathy will not be with the bathtub trust. A monopoly of bathtubs too closely approximates an attack on godliness.

The editor of "The Toronto Globe" asserts that Canada is already sorry she rejected the reciprocity agreement.

The ingenious and desperate efforts of those Chicago packers to delay the presentation of the government's case against them suggests the possibility that they think it is "loaded."

France should not sit silently and sorrowfully contemplating a record of 21,180 more deaths than births in the first six months of this year.

The prominent citizens of some place in Kansas who confess themselves guilty of tarring and feathering a young woman would do well as a sequel to get themselves ridden out of town on a rail.

And still the turkey gobblers and struts, ignorant of its fate. Also, it still reposes peacefully in cold storage.

A man who, despite the fact that he has several grandchildren, is still fond of his club and the pleasures which lie beyond the domestic circle, said in defence of his weakness that he went out to prolong his life "and to avoid dangers."

The earnest advocacy of a system of civil service retirement by the Secretary of the Treasury has been made known, and there is probably no member of the Cabinet who does not believe in it.

The career of Cummins and Reichmann in New York City banking has had its remarkable phases. They pulled wool over the eyes of the New York State Banking Department.

The suggestion of Mr. Kipling's "Firewell, Romance" comes to mind in viewing the changed leadership of the Unionist party in Great Britain.

With extraordinary indiscretion, albeit with protests of infinite respect for the father sex, a misguided reader of The Tribune rises to inquire why, after paying $4 for two theatre tickets, should he be compelled to sit behind an "opera bonnet," which as effectively obscures his view of the stage as the mathematics and now—in the theatres, at least—obsolete picture hat.

Obviously, a man with soul so dead as dollars and pears which made its return to the owner as easy matter. The loser was notified, came in a hurry, counted the money and asked my father if he could take a walk with him.

Public sympathy will not be with the bathtub trust. A monopoly of bathtubs too closely approximates an attack on godliness.

The editor of "The Toronto Globe" asserts that Canada is already sorry she rejected the reciprocity agreement.

The ingenious and desperate efforts of those Chicago packers to delay the presentation of the government's case against them suggests the possibility that they think it is "loaded."

France should not sit silently and sorrowfully contemplating a record of 21,180 more deaths than births in the first six months of this year.

The prominent citizens of some place in Kansas who confess themselves guilty of tarring and feathering a young woman would do well as a sequel to get themselves ridden out of town on a rail.

And still the turkey gobblers and struts, ignorant of its fate. Also, it still reposes peacefully in cold storage.

A man who, despite the fact that he has several grandchildren, is still fond of his club and the pleasures which lie beyond the domestic circle, said in defence of his weakness that he went out to prolong his life "and to avoid dangers."

The earnest advocacy of a system of civil service retirement by the Secretary of the Treasury has been made known, and there is probably no member of the Cabinet who does not believe in it.

The career of Cummins and Reichmann in New York City banking has had its remarkable phases. They pulled wool over the eyes of the New York State Banking Department.

The suggestion of Mr. Kipling's "Firewell, Romance" comes to mind in viewing the changed leadership of the Unionist party in Great Britain.

With extraordinary indiscretion, albeit with protests of infinite respect for the father sex, a misguided reader of The Tribune rises to inquire why, after paying $4 for two theatre tickets, should he be compelled to sit behind an "opera bonnet," which as effectively obscures his view of the stage as the mathematics and now—in the theatres, at least—obsolete picture hat.

Obviously, a man with soul so dead as dollars and pears which made its re-

People and Social Incidents.

AT THE WHITE HOUSE.

[From The Tribune Bureau.]

Washington, Nov. 20.—The President was compelled to cancel his Richmond engagement for to-day because of a severe cold. He remained at the White House all day.

Mr. Taft devoted himself to his annual message to Congress, making notes on subjects to be discussed. He saw the Attorney General in connection with the section of the message dealing with the trusts, talked with the Secretary of Commerce and Labor and discussed the tariff with Alvin H. Sanders, member of the Tariff Board.

The programme of receptions and dinners at the White House for the season of 1911-'12 was announced to-day, as follows: December 14, Thursday, Cabinet dinner, 8 p. m.; January 1, Monday, New Year's reception, 11 a. m. to 1:30 p. m.; January 9, Tuesday, diplomatic reception, 9:30 p. m.; January 15, Tuesday, diplomatic dinner, 8 p. m.; January 22, Tuesday, judicial reception, 9:30 p. m.; January 29, Tuesday, Supreme Court dinner, 8 p. m.; February 6, Tuesday, Congress reception, 9:30 p. m.; February 13, Tuesday, Speaker's dinner, 8 p. m.; February 20, Tuesday, army and navy reception, 9:30 p. m.

Mr. Taft visited his parents at the White House to-day from a week-end visit at Bryn Mawr.

The programme of receptions and dinners at the White House for the season of 1911-'12 was announced to-day, as follows: December 14, Thursday, Cabinet dinner, 8 p. m.; January 1, Monday, New Year's reception, 11 a. m. to 1:30 p. m.; January 9, Tuesday, diplomatic reception, 9:30 p. m.; January 15, Tuesday, diplomatic dinner, 8 p. m.; January 22, Tuesday, judicial reception, 9:30 p. m.; January 29, Tuesday, Supreme Court dinner, 8 p. m.; February 6, Tuesday, Congress reception, 9:30 p. m.; February 13, Tuesday, Speaker's dinner, 8 p. m.; February 20, Tuesday, army and navy reception, 9:30 p. m.

THE CABINET.

[From The Tribune Bureau.]

Washington, Nov. 20.—The Attorney General, the Postmaster General and the Secretary of Commerce and Labor have returned to the capital from New York, where they went to attend a banquet on Saturday night and where each delivered an address.

The Secretary of the Interior returned to the capital to-day from Harper's Ferry, where he went for a week-end visit.

THE DIPLOMATIC CORPS.

[From The Tribune Bureau.]

Washington, Nov. 20.—M. Bakmeteff, the Russian Ambassador, who arrived here yesterday and went directly to the Arlington Hotel, called at the embassy, in I street, this morning for a few moments. Arrangements will at once be made for him to meet the Secretary of State, and later in the week he will present his credentials to the President.

The Belgian Minister and Mme. Havenith are established in the new location, at No. 201 Massachusetts avenue, which was the girlhood home of Mme. Havenith and where her marriage to Mr. Havenith took place.

Dr. Ritter, Minister from Switzerland, will return to this country within a few days, after spending part of the summer in Switzerland. Mme. Ritter, who is also abroad, will visit her parents in Japan before coming to this country.

Baron Ukkull, formerly attaché of the Russian Embassy, will sail from New York to-morrow for his new post in Japan.

Commander Hiraga, Japanese naval attaché, has returned to Washington from New York, where he went for a few days' visit.

Señor Don Alberto Vacham, formerly Chief of Affairs for Chile and for several years first attaché, has been appointed Chilean Minister to Bolivia.

IN WASHINGTON SOCIETY.

[From The Tribune Bureau.]

Washington, Nov. 20.—Justice and Mrs. Horace H. Linton have as a guest for the winter their niece, Miss Katherine Morgan, daughter of the late Judge Morgan, who arrived here to-day.

Rear Admiral Richardson Clover has returned to Washington for the winter, and Mrs. Clover, who is now in New York, will join him here this week.

Miss Eudora, who is now in New York, will join him here this week. Miss Eudora, who is now in New York, will join him here this week.

Representative and Mrs. Martin Littleton, who have taken Calumet Place, the home of Mrs. John A. Lozan, for the coming season. It is a picturesque place in the vicinity of the home of Justice Day and the late Justice Harlan. Mr. and Mrs. Littleton will be here for the winter.

CARDINALS-DESIGNATE LAND

Farley and Falconio Arrive at Cherbourg and Proceed to Paris.

Paris, Nov. 20.—Archbishops Farley and Falconio, who are to visit the pope, arrived here to-day after a rough and otherwise enjoyable trip on the steamer Kronprinzessin Cecilie from New York. A special tender went down the harbor and brought the prelates and their suites ashore.

The party soon afterward left here for Paris in a special car attached to the North German Lloyd boat train. Their plan is to proceed to Rome to-morrow afternoon.

For three days the steamer with its distinguished passengers struggled through a severe storm. Nevertheless, Archbishops Farley and Falconio declared they had a delightful voyage, and their appearance confirmed this. All of their party were well.

The cardinal-designate said they had been greatly pleased with the attention shown to them by the captain of the ship, the officers and passengers, who did everything possible for their comfort and who arranged a series of fetes in their honor.

The prelates again expressed their profound gratitude to the Pope for the privilege which His Holiness had displayed for the Church in the United States.

Gibraltar, Nov. 20.—Cardinal-designate William H. O'Connell, Archbishop of Boston, has arrived here in perfect health on board the Canopic. He has thoroughly enjoyed the voyage. The weather is calm.

Curialment of Expenses by Finance

Head Leads to Trouble in Ministry.

Tokio, Nov. 20.—The Minister of Finance is determined to compile his pending budget on the business principle of curtailing expenses as far as possible.

Vice-Admiral Saito, the naval minister, is confronted with the difficulty of obtaining an appropriation providing for an enlargement of the navy. It is hoped, however, that M. Saito, the Premier, will be able to avoid a crisis.

A WEDDING.

Miss Margaret Elmdorf Duryee, daughter of the Rev. Dr. Joseph R. Duryee, was married to the Rev. Elmer Wald yesterday at the home of her father, No. 138 East 86th street. The ceremony was performed at 4 o'clock, the bride's father, assisted by the Rev. Frederick Wammersley, officiating. Miss Maria Duryee and Miss Elizabeth Duryee attended their sister as bridesmaids.

Dr. Lucius Salisbury served as best man, and the ushers were Evan Bucklin Owen, of Providence, the Rev. Edwin Seldon Lane, of Philadelphia; the Rev. Robert Elliot Marshall, of Hartford, Conn., and Colgate Hoyt, Jr., of New York.

The bride was given away by her brother, Samuel Sloane Duryee.

The Rev. Mr. Wald, who is assistant rector at Grace Church, Brooklyn Heights, was graduated from Brown University in 1866 and subsequently from the Episcopal Theological Seminary of the wedding had been invited to relatives and close personal friends. The Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Wald will live at No. 148 Willow street, Brooklyn.

NEW YORK FROM THE SUBURBS

New York's ambition is not going to be realized yet a while. Greater London's population is announced as 7,252,000—pittsburgh Gazette-Times.

Health officer Woodward recommends that all the lepers go to New York; but just think of the terrible things those lepers might catch there.—Washington Herald.

An expert says that New York City would 1,000,000 gallons of water a day. Mostly street sprinkling, we imagine.—Auburn Advertiser.

Compared with forty years ago, New York City is now well governed, says Ambassador Bryce. It would be discarded if for 1871 years had made no difference in the city. Bryce was running the town.—Springfield Republican.

Health officer Woodward recommends that all the lepers go to New York; but just think of the terrible things those lepers might catch there.—Washington Herald.

An expert says that New York City would 1,000,000 gallons of water a day. Mostly street sprinkling, we imagine.—Auburn Advertiser.

Compared with forty years ago, New York City is now well governed, says Ambassador Bryce. It would be discarded if for 1871 years had made no difference in the city. Bryce was running the town.—Springfield Republican.

Health officer Woodward recommends that all the lepers go to New York; but just think of the terrible things those lepers might catch there.—Washington Herald.

An expert says that New York City would 1,000,000 gallons of water a day. Mostly street sprinkling, we imagine.—Auburn Advertiser.

Compared with forty years ago, New York City is now well governed, says Ambassador Bryce. It would be discarded if for 1871 years had made no difference in the city. Bryce was running the town.—Springfield Republican.

Health officer Woodward recommends that all the lepers go to New York; but just think of the terrible things those lepers might catch there.—Washington Herald.

An expert says that New York City would 1,000,000 gallons of water a day. Mostly street sprinkling, we imagine.—Auburn Advertiser.

Compared with forty years ago, New York City is now well governed, says Ambassador Bryce. It would be discarded if for 1871 years had made no difference in the city. Bryce was running the town.—Springfield Republican.

Health officer Woodward recommends that all the lepers go to New York; but just think of the terrible things those lepers might catch there.—Washington Herald.

An expert says that New York City would 1,000,000 gallons of water a day. Mostly street sprinkling, we imagine.—Auburn Advertiser.

Compared with forty years ago, New York City is now well governed, says Ambassador Bryce. It would be discarded if for 1871 years had made no difference in the city. Bryce was running the town.—Springfield Republican.

Health officer Woodward recommends that all the lepers go to New York; but just think of the terrible things those lepers might catch there.—Washington Herald.

An expert says that New York City would 1,000,000 gallons of water a day. Mostly street sprinkling, we imagine.—Auburn Advertiser.