

THE HOPE OF SERVIA

Prince Paul at Oxford with the Prince of Wales.

Prince Paul Karageorgevitch, nineteen years old, who has just arrived in England to prepare himself to enter Oxford University at the beginning of the fall term, is regarded in Serbia as the "hope of his house," despite his parentage. The desire of his countrymen and of his uncle, King Peter, to make an English gentleman of him by sending him to the seat of the Prince of Wales is shortly to take place among the students this autumn.

Prince Paul can very well be described as the "hope of Serbia," since his two brothers, George and Alexander, both of whom are studying in France, one at the military school of St. Cyr and the other at the Sorbonne, in Paris, are so unpopular that their absence from their country just at present is rather a matter of congratulation. The conduct of Prince George, the elder of the two, has been extremely regrettable, so much so, indeed, that three years ago, as may be remembered, he was compelled by his government to renounce his rights of succession and his status as crown prince to his younger brother Alexander. Had he refused to do so he would certainly have been placed on trial at Belgrade for the death of his valet, who had succumbed to brutal treatment.

His Name Free of Scandal.

Prince Paul, on the other hand, is a stalwart, handsome, sunny-tempered lad, who has been carefully brought up, first at St. Petersburg and afterward by English tutors at Belgrade, where he has managed to keep his name singularly clear from any such scandals as have disgraced every other member of his house. In fact, he is looked upon, both at home and abroad, as destined one day to occupy the throne of his uncle, King Peter.

Prince Paul's Father's Only Brother, Arseno, who is so utterly disreputable that even the Servians will not allow him to live within their borders; nor have they permitted the King to grant him any rank, even honorary, in the army. He makes his home in Paris, and is a familiar "specimen" to those American tourists who think it interesting to study the shady side of cosmopolitan life in the French capital.

Overturned by illness in New York, his relatives took compassion on him, brought him home and nursed him back to health. He then married Princess Cecilia von Yumburg-Budingen, with whom he lives at Heidelberg, where he is not above recalling old times in the United States with American students at the university, over a stein of beer or a glass of wine. While his name figures on the retired list of the German army, with the honorary rank of major, he is not allowed by the Grand Duke of Saxe-Weimar to reside in his dominions, and he is virtually boycotted by all the courts of Europe. It is generally understood that all the necessary steps have been taken to exclude him from the succession to the throne in favor of his younger son, Prince Albert, now a lieutenant of the 2d Regiment of Cuirassiers at Passau.

MAIQUISE DE PONTENROY.

HENRY GEORGE ILL

New York Representative Suffering from Overwork in Congress. Washington, Aug. 27.—Representative Henry George, of New York, is ill at his home here, suffering from a physical breakdown, due to overwork in the last six weeks. He worked untiringly in the compilation of a report dealing with the property assessments in the District of Columbia, and it is believed that this task caused his illness. As a member of the District Committee of the House, he has taken a deep interest in the municipal affairs of Washington, and has personally conducted a number of extensive investigations.

SHUBERTS VS. D. S. C.

A complaint was sent yesterday to Commissioner Edwards of the Street Cleaning Department by the Messrs. Shubert, in which the attention of the department was called to the condition of 41st street between Sixth avenue and Broadway. The Comedy Theatre is located on the south side of this block, and on September 16 the opening performance in New York of George Bernard Shaw's "Fanny's First Play" is booked to take place at that theatre. Carriages will not be able to get within a half block of the theatre if the street remains in its present impassable condition, and unless something is done at once to hasten the repairs to the roadway, which already have been long in the making, a clash is promised between the theatrical managers and the Street Cleaning Department.

MR. BRYCE RETURNING HERE.

Melbourne, Australia, Aug. 27.—James Bryce, British Ambassador to the United States, who has been travelling in Australia for some time, left here for Washington to-day by way of San Francisco, where he is due to arrive September 12 on the Ventura.

THE VICKSBURG AT MAGDALENA.

San Diego, Cal., Aug. 27.—Wireless advices from Magdalena Bay to-day said the disabled gunboat Vicksburg had arrived there. The supply ship Glacier is standing by.

BEACH GAMES AMUSE

MRS. BELMONT'S GUESTS

Suffragette Frolic at Newport in Miss Inez Milholland's Honor Enlivened by Merry-Go-Round and Aeroplane.

By Telegraph to The Tribune. Newport, R. I., Aug. 27.—The Newport beach, after the regular public closing hour to-night, was in full possession of the members of the summer colony. The occasion was a beach party given by Mrs. Inez H. P. Belmont in honor of Miss Inez Milholland, the suffragette leader, of New York.

Mrs. Belmont is the first to give a private party at the beach, and the novelty of the affair brought out a hundred or more guests. She had taken over the whole beach, and all of its attractions were open, the merry-go-round, shooting gallery, etc., proving popular diversions for the colonists.

The dance hall was used for general dancing, and at midnight a supper was served in the beach restaurant. Mrs. Belmont gave a dinner for thirty at Marble House prior to the beach party. The arrangements that were made for the party at the beach were such as to make the gathering almost as exclusive as if it had been given at Marble House. Awnings had been erected on the board walk from the merry-go-round east to the restaurant building, which shut off that part of the board walk near the buildings.

The dance hall looked extremely pretty in its coat of green boughs and flowers, white lattice work to shield the door and the orchestra stand. There was a private entrance for the guests, this leading in from the road through a canvas canopy. The merry-go-round proved to be a magnet, especially for the younger people in the party. Society for the first time in years rode on hobby horses, giraffes, plugs, jack rabbits and all kinds of animals that adorn the platform of the carousel. The organ ground out, as usual, its endless chain of tunes, and those who were riding had great fun making grabs for the rings, in the hope of securing the brass one, that meant they would receive a favor. These gifts were all simple affairs, consisting of beach balls, shovels, etc. Some tried their luck at hitting the target and others had their pictures taken in the public gallery.

The guests began to arrive at the beach about 10:30, and they amused themselves until the general dancing began in the dance hall, at 11 o'clock. At midnight supper was announced, and all adjourned to the beach restaurant, which had also been reserved and decorated for the occasion. Here a simple supper was served by the waitresses regularly employed at the beach, all attired in white. After supper dancing was resumed.

There was an added feature to the party that was not on the programme. There landed on the beach early this evening Jack McGee, an aviator, who had made a successful flight from Pawtucket. From his machine floated a yellow pennant, with "Votes for Women" on it. This banner had been presented to him by Mrs. Thomas Pelham Curtis, of Boston, and he gave it to Mrs. Belmont. He also extended to Mrs. Belmont an invitation to take a ride with him on one of his flying trips that he intends to make during the week. He offered to fly the pennant from the machine as long as he stayed here.

BURDEN UPHOLDS NEWPORT

Declares He Never Predicted Its Social Downfall.

Denver, Aug. 27.—Returning from a month's trip in California, I. Townsend Burden, of New York and Newport, was greeted at the office of his father-in-law, Dennis Sheedy, a banker, by a heap of assorted mail missives, postmarked Newport, Long Island, New York and elsewhere, containing newspaper clippings and scribbled reproaches.

Mr. Burden was quoted as predicting the downfall of Newport and lauding Los Angeles as a social centre, and the correspondents expressed themselves freely as to his reputation of the New York summer capital. Nearly all New York City and the social colony at Narragansett Pier were represented.

"I have secured from Augustin MacHugh, author of 'Officer 666,' the new drama, 'The Piker,' and will present it soon. 'Emmy Wehlan, who is now in Deauville, France, will come here after the New Year to appear in a musical comedy I am having written, called 'The Queen's Conquest.' I have contracted, furthermore, with Marguerite Maehery, a pupil of Jean de Reske, for her debut in light opera when she has concluded her studies with him in the spring.

"AI Woods will present this season a musical comedy I purchased in France and I shall retain an interest in it. Jean Guity and I have an agreement for the production in Paris of an American detective drama. France just now being particularly interested in what may be termed police plays.

"Because of her recent illness, I have delayed the opening of Miss Blanche Ring's second season in 'The Wall Street Girl' until September 23. In Atlantic City, Miss Ring will tour in that play for two more years.

"In November I shall return to Paris to sign contracts with several producers for the production in which Miss Minto is to be a central figure."

DIX APPOINTS DELEGATES

They Will Attend Hygiene and Colored Educators' Congresses.

Albany, Aug. 27.—Governor Dix to-day appointed delegates to represent New York state at the fifteenth International Congress on Hygiene and Demography, at Washington, September 23 to 28, and at the National Congress of Colored and National Congress of the National Educators, in connection with the fiftieth anniversary of the issuance of the emancipation proclamation at Washington, September 24. The following were named:

DR. W. H. TOLMAN RETURNS

Brings Educational Ideas and Safety Devices for Museum.

There are three things the schools of this country don't teach that the schools of Germany, for instance, do, and they aren't the "three R's" either. They are studiousness, respectfulness and obedience, according to Dr. William H. Tolman, director of the American Museum of Safety, who sent his son to Germany when he was twelve years old to learn these things. His son is seventeen now, and knows them.

Dr. Tolman returned on the Holland-American liner Nourian yesterday with an interesting collection of new exhibits for the museum, which he made while abroad as a delegate to the International Congress of Accident Prevention and Industrial Hygiene recently held at Milan. Chief among them were sixty wax models demonstrating how various industrial diseases affect the bodies of the workmen, and a number of specimens of African woods used in the manufacture of furniture and other trades, which had lately been found to cause disease.

BIG CITIES NOT AMERICAN

This the Verdict of the Visiting Geographers from Abroad.

Chicago, Aug. 27.—Forty-four geographers from Europe viewing the United States as the guests of the American Geographical Society visited Chicago to-day and gained first hand knowledge of its extent, population and points of interest. "Chicago is not representative of the United States. It is big. It is wonderful. But it is no more American than is New York," said Dr. Alfred Rahl, chief of division of the Oceanographic Institute of Berlin, Germany, summarizing the opinion of most of the party. "When we get outside of the big cities we hope to see something of the real American people."

MR. BRYCE RETURNING HERE.

Melbourne, Australia, Aug. 27.—James Bryce, British Ambassador to the United States, who has been travelling in Australia for some time, left here for Washington to-day by way of San Francisco, where he is due to arrive September 12 on the Ventura.

HEALTH AT $1.60 A HEAD

Happiness of 250 Children Going for a Pittance.

ANNUAL TRIP IN DANGER

Children of Consumptives Will Not See Parents Unless Aid Comes.

Four hundred dollars will give 250 children a fortnight's Fresh Air outing in the country. The case of these children is more pitiful than that of almost any other group of children to be found in the metropolis.

The 250 in question are the little sons and daughters of the men and women patients in the New York City Tuberculosis Sanatorium at Otisville, N. Y. There is a double reason for helping these children to a Fresh Air vacation: They are poor—the fact that their parents are exhibited at Otisville is proof of that—but in addition to this they inherit a tendency toward the disease which has laid their parents low, a heritage to make a strong man quail in contemplating it. Not only do they inherit the tendency, but obviously they have been exposed to infection in their homes.

Seven years ago the Tribune Fresh Air Fund, in co-operation with the Urania Society, of Otisville, planned a way to help the patients at Otisville and their children at the same time. It was arranged to send the children for Fresh Air outings to Otisville. A camp was established where the children could be entertained for two weeks, thus making it possible for them to be where they could see each day the parents from whom they had long been separated and at the same time reap the benefits of pure air and country life.

Each year since 1905 a large number of these children have been provided for in this way. Already this year 150 have been cared for, but there remain of the children of the patients now in the sanatorium 250 more, whose need is just as great and who long for a sight of mothers or fathers just as deeply.

To give each of these poor children the opportunity to breathe for two weeks the pure air which is his only chance of life and health, to give him a chance to see his parents and his parents a chance to see him—to give him these things will cost just $1.60 per capita.

This is not a great price for so large a measure of health and happiness. Yet this health and this happiness are about to be denied. Contributions to the Tribune Fund have fallen off so that it is necessary to stop the summer's work at once unless friends come to the fund's aid. And the 250 little youngsters to whom this glimpse of their loved ones and this opportunity for a glorious outing have been promised will be turned weeping away when they come with their bags packed next Saturday ready for the trip.

The physicians in charge of the sanatorium at Otisville declare that the visit of the children is a very positive benefit to the patients under their charge.

MANAGER MKAY'S PLANS

To Offer Dancing, Farce and Musical Comedy.

Frederick McKay, who has been best known in the theatrical profession as manager of Blanche Ring, is going to branch out during the coming season into a producing manager on a larger scale. On Saturday last he arrived from a three months' trip abroad, where he made various theatrical plans.

"I have arranged," he said, "for the debut in America of Nolo Minty, a sensational dancer and singer, who has been creating a furor in Paris. Miss Minty will be featured in a revue to be presented at the beginning of next season, her contracts at the Folies Marigny and the Folies Bergere giving her only ten tree weeks before then.

"I have secured from Augustin MacHugh, author of 'Officer 666,' the new drama, 'The Piker,' and will present it soon. 'Emmy Wehlan, who is now in Deauville, France, will come here after the New Year to appear in a musical comedy I am having written, called 'The Queen's Conquest.' I have contracted, furthermore, with Marguerite Maehery, a pupil of Jean de Reske, for her debut in light opera when she has concluded her studies with him in the spring.

"In November I shall return to Paris to sign contracts with several producers for the production in which Miss Minto is to be a central figure."

THEATRICAL NOTES.

Harry Cooper, one of the leading comedians of the "Hanky Panky" company, at the Broadway Theatre, and his brother, Bert Cooper, business manager for Bessie Clayton, the dancer, will endeavor next Sunday to swim from the foot of East 42d street, New York, to a point off Sea Gate for a bet of $500.

Cohan & Harris' "The Polish Wedding" company will leave New York on Thursday morning, August 29, over the New York Central Railroad bound for Syracuse. It will open in Chicago on September 8 for an indefinite run.

The Scotch company to present Graham Moffat's latest play, "The Scrape of the Pen," will sail from Liverpool on Saturday, reaching Montreal late next week. After a week in the Dominion the Scotch players will come to New York, opening at Weber's Theatre on Thursday night, September 26.

Walter Damrosch will return from Lake Champlain to superintend the rehearsals of his new comic opera, "The Dove of Peace," which he is preparing for an out-of-town opening on October 17. "The Dove of Peace" will come to the Broadway Theatre, New York, on November 4.

Basil Gill, the popular young English actor who is to have the part of the Chinese Emperor in "The Daughter of Heaven" at the Century Theatre, is on the Minnewaska, due to arrive here on Sunday.

Another new song last night in "The Girl from Montmartre!" Richard Carle did it again.

Eva Davenport will make her debut in vaudeville at B. F. Keith's Bushwick Theatre, Brooklyn, Monday, September 9, in a revival repertoire of Gilbert & Sullivan songs and new numbers.

Margaret Turnbull has written a play which Henry W. Savage has accepted for immediate production.

EX-SENATOR WILCOX DEAD

Fought Gov. Hughes and Race-track Vote Cost Him His Seat.

Auburn, N. Y., Aug. 27.—Benjamin Martin Wilcox, ex-state Senator and for many years an "old guard" leader in Albany, died late to-day from arterio-sclerosis. As a member of the old organization he was returned as regularly to the state Senate as was Seno E. Payne to Congress, and it was not until he voted in the race-track fight against Governor Hughes, of whom he was a bitter opponent, that his political career ended.

The opposition to his attitude on the race-track bill was sufficient to deadlock the Senate district convention and Mr. Wilcox withdrew his name. His partner in the coal business, Charles J. Hewitt, was named and has since represented this district in the Senate.

Mr. Wilcox served as Assemblyman from Cayuga County in 1894 and 1895. He was the author of much prison legislation. In the Senate session of 1899 he, with three other Republicans, joined the Democrats in defeating the bill legislating out of office the Police Board of New York City and substituting a Police Commissioner.

He had charge of the New York State exhibit at the Seattle Exposition in 1910, a position secured for him by the late John Raines.

The convention which brought about Mr. Wilcox's retirement was held in Cortland. Timothy L. Woodruff, then state chairman, was present and urged the renomination of Wilcox in the face of the bitter protests of the Church Federation. Mr. Woodruff's influence at the eleventh hour accomplished the nomination of Hewitt.

In the Senate session of 1906 Mr. Wilcox was sponsor for the anti-transfer bill, which provided that in case of the failure of a street railway company to give a transfer to a passenger the penalty might be recovered only by suit of the state.

In 1910 there were rumors that Wilcox would attempt to wrest the Senate seat from Hewitt.

DR. JAMES E. NEWCOMB.

Dr. James E. Newcomb, of No. 118 West 69th street, died at his summer home, at Lake Kashaqua, N. Y., yesterday. He was born in New London, Conn., in 1857, and was graduated from Yale College in 1880. He received his degree of Doctor of Medicine from Columbia College in 1882. For more than a year he was a member of the Roosevelt Hospital medical staff, after which he began private practice in this city.

Dr. Newcomb was married in 1887 to Elizabeth Wilcox, of this city. Recently he had devoted himself to diseases of the throat, nose and chest. He was a member of the New York Medical Society, the New York Academy of Medicine, the Hospital Graduates' Club, the American Medical Society and was president of the American Laryngological Association. He was also a life member of the New London Historical Society and a trustee of the Calvary Baptist Church, of New York City.

He held the post of instructor of laryngology at Cornell Medical College, and was consulting laryngologist at the Roosevelt Hospital. Dr. Newcomb was a contributor to "Twentieth Century Medicine" and "Wood's Reference Handbook of Medical Science." In collaboration with other doctors he wrote "Diseases of the Ear, Nose and Throat" and edited the American edition of "Grunwald's Atlas of Diseases of the Mouth, Pharynx and Nose."

His funeral will take place in New London to-morrow.

DR. DAVID BLAUSTEIN.

Dr. David Blaustein, who was for years director of the Hebrew Educational Alliance and was several years ago elected to fill the chair of philanthropy at Columbia University, died suddenly on Monday at Cold Spring, N. Y., where he had been visiting the Young Men's Hebrew Association camp.

Dr. Blaustein held many important places in this city, including the management of the Houston street branch of the Jefferson Bank for a year. He was also one of the most earnest workers in settlement centers. He was an officer in the New York School of Philanthropy and had served as president of the East Side Civic Club.

DR. HENRY H. MILLER.

Whitehouse, N. J., Aug. 27.—An attack of heart disease proved fatal this morning to Dr. Henry H. Miller, fifty-eight years old, who was convalescent from pneumonia. A wife, a brother and a son survive him.

Dr. Miller was born in Middle Valley and spent his early life there. He began the practice of medicine at Mountainville, and later settled at Lebanon, where he had been practicing twenty-one years. He was a member of the Hunterdon County Medical Society, in which he had held several offices.

OBITUARY NOTES.

SAMUEL K. WORTHINGTON, ninety years old, formerly a prominent grain merchant and an intimate friend of Rufus Cleveland, died at his home in Brooklyn yesterday.

MRS. ALEX ROY, or EQUAYMEGOG, GAY, sister of the late Chief White Cloud and daughter of the late Chief White Fisher, is dead at her home in the agency at White Earth, Minn., aged eighty-five. Mrs. Roy assisted in the early missionary work among the Chippewa Indians in Minnesota.

CHARLES W. COLE, for many years Superintendent of Schools of Albany, died suddenly at Raquette Lake yesterday. He was a former president of the Council of School Superintendents of New York State.

MRS. MARY A. LEMMON is dead at her home in Philadelphia. She was ninety-six years old, and was the mother of eleven children. Her other descendants include twenty-one grandchildren, twenty-three great grandchildren and one great-great grandchild. One of her daughters, Mrs. Sarah Lee Smith, lives in Brooklyn.

DR. HORACE LEWARS who served in the Spanish-American War is dead at his home in Philadelphia. He was prominent in the National Guard of Pennsylvania, and was a retired officer of the 1st Regiment.

GEORGE A. HOBBS, for thirty-two years editor of "The Woburn Journal," Woburn, Mass., died at his home yesterday in his eighty-eighth year. Mr. Hobbs had been a "shut in" for four years, but from his house he directed the policy of his paper. He was a Republican. A wife and two sisters survive him.

DARROW TO BE TRIED OCT. 21. Los Angeles, Aug. 27.—Clarence S. Darrow, former chief counsel for the McNamara brothers, must go to trial on October 21 on an indictment charging him with jury bribery. Presiding Judge Willis of the Superior Court, set the date to-day, when Darrow was called into court.

KROONLAND IN A DAY LATE

Many Green Hands in New Crew of Stokers Blamed.

The Kroonland, of the Red Star Line, reached port yesterday afternoon a day behind schedule from Antwerp, the delay being due, it is said, to a new crew of green stokers shipped just before the vessel sailed. Three of the men were overboard when the vessel was several days out, according to the passengers, and had to be held off.

With the fires insufficiently manned the speed of the vessel fell, the run falling to 24 miles during one twenty-four hour period. The ship came to a dead stop Sunday night off the Grand Banks.

Mrs. J. B. Aleshire, wife of the quartermaster general of the army, returned on the Kroonland with her daughters, the Misses Marjorie and Dorothy Aleshire. As she came up from dinner on Monday night Mrs. Aleshire was met by a wireless message from her husband which informed her that he had received his promotion from brigadier to major general on Saturday. General Aleshire was on the pier to meet his family, the members of which have been on the other side a year.

Among other passengers were Arthur Mees, of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, his wife and brother, Dr. C. L. Mees; S. Moody, superintendent of the Pennsylvania lines west of Pittsburgh, and his wife and two daughters.

$75 FOR HUSBAND'S DEATH

Carpenter's Widow Accepts That Sum to Settle Damage Suit.

The sum of $75 was accepted yesterday by Mrs. Fannie Sellman as a compromise of her suit for the death of her husband, Max Sellman, a carpenter. Sellman was working on a building at No. 141 West 36th street when he fell out of a window while trying to get a board. The widow sued Edward E. Browning, the contractor, but finally agreed to take $75 and to call off the action.

VACCINATION OR PRISON

U. S. Seaman Who Refused To Be Treated Gets Year's Sentence.

Mare Island, Cal., Aug. 27.—The Navy Department, despite protests by Senator Works and others, will go ahead with its policy of punishing seamen who refuse to undergo vaccination, as was indicated here to-day by a dispatch from Washington.

This orders the confinement of J. M. Holloman, ordinary seaman, for one year at the Bremerton navy yard for refusing vaccination with typhoid virus. Holloman is now confined on the prison ship Manila.
