

METHODISTS LIBERAL

Ministers Listen Coldly to Defense of Conservatism.

DR. J. B. HAMILTON AROUSED

Attacks Sunday School Literature, but Stirs Enthusiasm Only by Sincerity.

What was considered indubitable proof that New York's Methodist ministers sympathized with and, in fact, accepted the liberal views of Bible scholars...

At times his auditors interrupted with applause, but the enthusiasm was palpably a tribute to the sincerity and eloquence of the speaker rather than an indication of agreement with his views.

The meeting, following so closely upon the controversy of a week ago, when the Rev. Dr. George P. Mains defended himself against charges made in the Atlantic City conference...

Following the paper, the Rev. Dr. James M. Buckley spoke for more than half an hour. He counseled moderation and urged the ministers not to go to any extreme...

The Rev. John T. McFarland caused a stir when he arose to defend himself against the attack on Sunday school literature, of which he is in charge.

WAR FEVER HIGH ABROAD

F. B. Kellogg Says Armament Rivalry Is Injuring Nations.

Frank B. Kellogg, the former special counsel for the government in its trust proceedings, arrived yesterday with Mrs. Kellogg on the North German Lloyd liner George Washington.

Mr. Kellogg thought economical conditions abroad were not as good as they might be because of the desire of the big nations to outstrip one another in armament.

"Money is tight in Germany and France," he said. "Although her trade was never better, money is tight also in England. It is largely due to an irresistible desire to increase their respective fighting forces on an and on land. I think it would be a wise thing if Germany, France, England and the United States could come to an agreement on a limit for armament. The people of Germany are now paying an armament tax on their capital, and money, when it is possible to borrow it, calls for an interest of 7 or 8 per cent."

Also on the Washington was the Countess of Suffolk, a daughter of the late Mrs. L. Z. Leiter, of Chicago. The countess, who was accompanied by the Earl of Suffolk and Colonel Colin Campbell, her brother-in-law, is on her way to attend her mother's funeral.

Mrs. Charles Gimbel, of Milwaukee, brought over a King Charles spaniel called Lord Marr and said to be worth $10,000. Her Imperial Highness the Princess Hassan, who was Mrs. G. A. Humphreys, of Oakland, Cal., returned here on a visit to her parents in California. The princess, who parted from the prince in a hotel in Paris more than a year ago, is writing a book which will be a sort of preachment, advising American girls to avoid marriages with Orientals.

AT THE VARIETIES

Minstrels on Broadway Again, After All These Years.

AN ELECTRICAL WIZARD

"The Kingdom of Destiny" and Assorted Innovations of Singular Types.

If Baron Munchausen had ever heard of the automobile he might have Joseph C. Scott, recently removed as Superintendent of State Prisons, declared to-day that the Senate Finance Committee would investigate the records in the Attorney General's office which show that Judge John B. Riley, of Plattburgh, who was nominated by Governor Sulzer as Colonel Scott's successor, had paid a fine of $100 to the state for illegal timber cutting in the town of Plattburgh.

Complaint was made against Judge Riley in September, 1906, that while engaging in cutting timber from a private plot of land he had gone over the boundary line and cut twenty-two cords of wood from state lands. In May, 1910, he paid a fine of $100.

Friends of Judge Riley say the state timber was cut through a misunderstanding. John B. Riley was born and brought up on a farm. He taught school for several years and was elected county school commissioner in 1875 and re-elected in 1878.

Always active in public affairs, he was elected president of the village of Plattburgh and resigned to serve as Superintendent of Indian Schools under President Cleveland. Afterward he was chief examiner for the State Civil Service Commission until appointed consul general at Ottawa.

On retiring from that service in 1897 he was presented with a magnificent testimonial by the citizens of Ottawa. Judge Riley drafted the charter of the city of Plattburgh in 1902, and was the city's first corporation counsel. He was elected county judge in 1905. He has always maintained a law practice here, and for many years ex-Lieutenant Governor Conway was his law partner.

Dr. Carl Herman, at Keith's Union Square Theatre, yesterday had every one applauding and guessing in an electrical spectacle called "The Window at the Haunted House," which was quite as mysterious as the title indicates. He is well known as "The Electrical Wizard." "Blackmail" is the title of a playlet having its premiere here. It is by Richard Harding Davis. The theme is another of those up-to-date "crook" stories. It was presented by Frank Sheridan and a capable company. Another surprise was Miss Reine Davies, who enjoys the distinction of being one of the most entrancing singers on the vaudeville stage.

Clara Morris is sixty-four. Mrs. Frederick C. Harriot (Clara Morris), in her time one of the greatest entertainers in America, was sixty-four years old yesterday. The aged actress is blind and has been ill in bed for four years. She received many flowers and congratulatory notes and telegrams at the Pines, her home, at No. 37 Riverside avenue, Yonkers.

GAYETY GIRLS AT THE COLUMBIA

Gus Fay and the Gayety Girls company kept a crowded house busy laughing at the Columbia last evening, ably assisted by Lee Hickman, Clara Douglas Rackett, who was the leader of the girls, and while the old pieces and situations were warmly welcomed by three couples, more especially, danced by a little more liberally in the way of costumes, not of quality, but in quality and changes, would be an improvement, but there was plenty of fun and some good dancing to make up for that deficiency. As a whole the show is close to the Columbia standard.

IRISH NUMBER HEADS BILL

The New York Theatre, consistent with St. Patrick's Day, presented the Dublin Trio, vocalists and harpists, at the head of the week's vaudeville bill last night on the Pike, in Wonderland, above the New York Theatre, Prince Badora, the electric marvel, Tanno Kara, acrobatic and juggler; Marie De Vere, sword swallower; Warren L. Travis, Mme. Carmel and her reptiles, Abraham's educated circus and Signor Mazetti appeared.

EVA TANGUAY TO PLAY HERE

Eva Tanguay, who has been on the road with her variety company, will open at the Park Theatre next Monday afternoon. The Park has been taken over from William Harris and Frank McKee by John J. Collins, formerly booking manager of the Orpheum circuit, and John Sullivan, who was formerly connected with the United Booking Office.

"FINE FEATHERS" LEAVES ASTOR

"Fine Feathers," the latest of Eugene Walter's plays, after a successful season at the Astor Theatre, was transferred yesterday to the Grand Opera House for the week with its original cast intact. The company will play the principal cities of the Pacific coast during the summer.

EASTER SOUVENIRS AT THEATRE

Booklets with a lithographed portrait of Jane Cowd, leading woman of "Within the Law," will be distributed to women patrons of the Edinthe Theatre as Easter souvenirs, beginning with the matinee next Saturday. "Within the Law" will play at the Edinthe until June 15, when it will close to give the company a brief vacation. It will reopen the Edinthe about the middle of August with the same cast.

THEATRICAL NOTES

The two hundredth performance of "The Lady of the Slipper" will be given on Friday night at the Globe. After the performance Montgomery and Stone and Elsie Janis and the principals of the company will give a dinner to the entire organization at the Hotel Astor.

The Rev. Joseph H. McMahon will speak at the Berkeley Theatre, at 239 p. m., to-day on "God with Us in the Eucharist Procession." At 8:30 J. L. Walsin, M. D., will talk of the "Life of Christ."

John Emerson, co-author and star of "The Conspiracy," now at the Garrick, will lecture before the California Club at the Astor to-day on "Needs of the Drama."
