

POLICE "RING" LONG ON DWYER'S TRAIL

Inspector Was Stirring Up Trouble, So Captain Was Told to Have Him Shadowed.

HOW ULLNER WAS PAID

Officials Representing "System" Met Him at Broker's Office—Waldo Issues Statement Defending His Transfers.

District Attorney Whitman received information yesterday which offers the first detailed explanation of the sudden attack on Inspector Dwyer, which was disclosed by Commissioner Waldo's order decimating that official's staff.

The reports turned in to Whitman yesterday show that while Dwyer's visit to the District Attorney was the straw that broke the camel's back, the police "ring" had been working overtime for a month or more in a desperate effort to checkmate the inspector who was stirring up trouble for some of the most powerful grafters in the department.

Put on Dwyer's Trail.

These men shadowed Dwyer on Tuesday night last, when the inspector would have met the District Attorney except for the fact that Whitman was attending the Sulzer birthday dinner. The next night their vigilance was rewarded when they trailed Dwyer to Whitman's home. Their report went to the captain, and was by him forwarded to the "ring" at Headquarters, and the next day Dwyer's staff was shot to pieces.

The peculiar angle to the situation, however, comes with the other side of the case, which, as the story came out yesterday, was to the effect that the District Attorney's investigators have been trailing and shadowing the police captain referred to above for several months past.

Whitman's men found that this captain became suspiciously active when Annie Grey and her ex-patrolman husband, Robert E. Ullner, were first mentioned in the graft inquiry a week or two ago. They found that this captain's men were shadowing Ullner, apparently fearing that the former patrolman was going to double-cross the "system."

When Ullner telephoned to Whitman that he and his wife would come as witnesses before the grand jury if they were immunized from prosecution for keeping and maintaining a disorderly house, this very active captain threw caution to the winds and went to see Ullner himself. He wanted to know what Ullner meant by such an offer to Whitman, and received the explanation that it was the only way Ullner and Annie Grey could save themselves.

He advised Ullner to "take a trip or a voyage," and after some negotiations with men higher up in the "system" than himself, made an offer of $15,000 for "expenses" of such a voyage.

As the story was brought to Mr. Whitman yesterday, Annie Grey was satisfied with the "offer" and started

ROBBED BY AUTO BANDITS

Victim Says Men Fled in Car After Taking His Money.

Fred Brine, of No. 344 East 148th street, reported to the Alexander avenue police station last night that he had been held up by three men with revolvers at 144th street and Park avenue and robbed of $30.

The men, he said, got out of an automobile, stopped him and left in the machine after they had robbed him.

He said he made no outcry, but went straight to the police station after the men disappeared.

AN EASTER PROMISE OF FAIR WEATHER

Moderately Cool in New York, with Light Winds and Cloudless Sky.

Washington, March 22.—The weather forecaster relented to-night and sent to American womanhood—suffragists and anti-suffragists united in the common cause of beautiful clothes—the joyful tidings of a fair Easter day in most sections of the United States.

A golden sun undimmed in a cloudless sky will shine, he promises, upon the blush and bloom of the Easter parade in the greater part of the country. In the Middle West and Rocky Mountain country the weather will be not only fair but warmer, according to the Weather Bureau.

There are some dismal spots in the prediction, however. While the ravaging storm of the last few days has gone out of the country, it is announced that another seems to be forming on the Pacific Coast and may mar Easter there.

Easter bonnets, buds and blooms probably will be given a touch of frost on the Atlantic seaboard, over which the recent storm has left its aftermath of coldness. Sadly and timidly does the forecaster intimate the probability of rain in the Gulf States.

While the day will be fair in most sections, the weather man warns that the Easter display should end with the setting of the sun, for unsettled conditions had probably rain will spread from the Middle West and East, at nightfall.

The man who surveys New York from the Weather Bureau tower in Whitehall street last night made this forecast for to-day:

"Fair and moderately cool all day, with light, variable winds."

Could anything better be asked for the Easter parade? By "moderately cool" weather, the forecaster means the thermometer will hover around 45 degrees.

SHOCK TURNED HAIR GRAY

Woman, 64, Lost Chestnut Locks After Accident.

Although sixty-four years old, Mrs. Alexander Furst, living at South and Henry streets, Jamaica, Long Island, had an abundance of chestnut hair up to yesterday morning, when it turned gray overnight. Worry over the fact that her daughter and son-in-law had a narrow escape from asphyxiation caused the hair to change, Mrs. Furst believes.

On Thursday evening Gladys Arnold and Edwin Felix, her husband, actors, returned to the home of Mrs. Furst after a theatrical engagement. In turning on the light in their room they accidentally turned the gas jet on again.

Shortly after they had retired Mrs. Furst was startled by a thump on the floor, quickly followed by another. She hurried upstairs to find her daughter and her son-in-law unconscious. Dr. Helm, of the Jamaica Hospital, was called, and brought the victims to after an hour's work.

LAW DUE TO MISS WILSON

Legislators Pass Ten-Hour Bill After Hearing Her.

[By Telegraph to The Tribune.] Wilmington, Del., March 22.—The fact that Delaware has a ten-hour workday law for women is due to Miss Jessie Woodrow Wilson, daughter of the President. As the result primarily of an address delivered by her at a meeting here under the auspices of the Consumers' League on February 22, the Legislature passed the bill, several members of the General Assembly having heard her address and being impressed. To-day Governor Miller signed the measure.

Miss Wilson's vigorous support robbed the opponents of the measure of their principal arguments. The House passed the bill this week after nullifying amendments had been eliminated.

The first person informed by Miss Margaret Shearman, leader of the ten-hour movement, was Miss Wilson.

TO EXTEND CANAL ZONE

U. S. Asks for Isles and Peninsulas in Gatun Lake Area.

Panama, March 22.—The Isthmian Canal Commission has requested the Panamanian government to recognize officially, under the treaty, the right of the United States to use, occupy and control certain islands and peninsulas in the Gatun Lake area, outside the zone limits.

Under the treaty with Panama the United States has the right to acquire by purchase or by the exercise of the right of eminent domain any lands, buildings, water rights or other properties necessary for the construction, maintenance, operation, sanitation and protection of the canal, and it can, therefore, at any time acquire the lands within the zone boundaries which are owned by private persons, amounting to about seventy-three square miles. It is also provided that the United States will control the area to be covered by Gatun Lake, which extends beyond the limits of the Canal Zone.

EXPLOSION ENDS BOYS' BALL GAME; TWO DEAD, THREE PLAYERS INJURED

SIDE WALL OF FACTORY BLOWN OUT BY EXPLOSION.

One Lad Killed, One Fatally Hurt by Rain of Wreckage from Building.

BROTHERS WERE VICTIMS

Leaking Gas or Defective Insulation Believed by Firemen To Be Cause of East Side Accident.

A game of ball, played between the tenement houses of a crowded East Side block, over beyond Avenue B, ended in the death of two boys, brothers, and the more or less serious hurt of three other lads yesterday afternoon, when an explosion blew out the walls of an unoccupied loft building above the building was in the rear of No. 638 them. The building was in the rear of No. 638 East 12th street.

The dead lads were Harry Furman, ten years old, of No. 631 East 11th street, and his brother Abram, six years old. The injured were Max Applebaum, twelve years old, of No. 636 East 11th street; Alexander Friedman, eleven years old, of No. 631 East 11th street; Abraham Furman, six years old, of the same address, and Joseph Sachs, six years old, of the same address.

Played in Death's Shadow. Lured by the coming spring the lads went into the narrow passage back of the six story tenement houses on the north side of East 11th street, known locally as "the alley," to start a game of ball, while other inhabitants of the section celebrated the Jewish holiday by resting in their rooms or took advantage of the fine weather to stroll through the crowded streets. For an hour or more they played there, unsuspecting of the danger gathering above them.

Suddenly, according to an eyewitness, sitting in his window in the rear of No. 633 East 11th street, the air was darkened with flying bricks and mortar. The explosion was not loud; it was hardly heard a block away. But the crash of several tons of building materials falling into the alley and on the roof of the low stable alongside brought hundreds of clamoring men and women to the scene. Patrolman Beeman, of the Union Market station, was among the first to arrive. His alarm brought Hook and Ladder No. 11 and the reserves of the precinct, headed by Captain Burnst. While the police drove back the frantic crowds Deputy Chief Martin led his men to the fourth and fifth floors of the wrecked building, where fire was being kindled. The deputy chief's first thought was of the gas mains, which he immediately closed. Quick work was made of the flames. The building is connected with the

EATON COUNSEL TO FIGHT SANITY TEST

District Attorney's Visit to Justice Brings Partial Admission That State Will Ask Lunacy Commission.

DRUG PELLET IN BED

Widow Found One Where Admiral Slept and, Fearing It Might Be Poison, Burned It, Says a Man Who Quarrelled with Dead Officer.

[By Telegraph to The Tribune.]

Boston, March 22.—The rumored intention of the state officials to have a lunacy commission examine Mrs. Jennie May Eaton, charged with the murder of her husband, Rear Admiral Joseph Giles Eaton, with the view of proving her a paranoiac, received partial confirmation to-day by the trip of District Attorney Barker of Brockton to this city. Members of the staff of that official practically admitted that the visit of Mr. Barker to Boston was in part to consult with Chief Justice Aiken, the Superior Court, in regard to lunacy proceedings.

Judge Kelley, counsel for Mrs. Eaton, is already making plans to fight any attempt to test her sanity. Statements of Mr. Barker that he thought the prisoner mentally unsound have aroused the attorney, and even before it became known to-day that the District Attorney might be working for a lunacy commission he was laying his plans to block this action. The question of Mrs. Eaton's sanity involves property rights.

Poison Source a Mystery.

Since the arrest of Mrs. Eaton the police have been engaged in a vigorous search for evidence. This quest, which has resulted in the ransacking of the Eaton house, ploughing up the Eaton land and grilling of members of the Eaton family, together with the Sphinx-like attitude assumed by District Attorney Barker, has caused the impression to go abroad that, while the police have the person of Mrs. Eaton, they have very little else.

This opinion was voiced to-day by a man connected with the case. "It looks to me," said this official, "as if this is going to be a hard case to prove unless they get more evidence. So far as we know there was no

DR. A. M'LANE HAMILTON VERY ILL IN HOSPITAL

Alienist's Health Has Been Failing for Some Time—Wife Takes Room Near Him.

Dr. Allan McLane Hamilton, the alienist, is a patient at Presbyterian Hospital, where he has been confined since March 4. Although his condition has been serious, the hospital authorities reported last night he had showed some improvement yesterday. The nature of the disease that has attacked Dr. Hamilton was not divulged by the hospital staff.

The alienist's health has been failing for some time, but his removal to a hospital did not become public until yesterday. He kept his office at No. 36 East 40th street until the first of this month. Mrs. Hamilton, who was Mrs. Mae Copeland Tomlinson, and her daughter, Miss Madeline Tomlinson, have taken a room at the Presbyterian in order to be near Dr. Hamilton.

Dr. Hamilton is in his sixty-sixth year. Aside from his distinguished ancestry, being the grandson of Alexander Hamilton, he has ranked as one of the foremost specialists of nervous diseases in the country. He has appeared as an expert in many murder cases, including that of Charles Guiteau, the assassin of President Garfield, and later at the trials of Carlyle W. Harris, Marie Barberi and Harry K. Thaw. It was on the testimony of Dr. Hamilton that Thaw was declared insane. Dr. Hamilton also interested himself in the case of Albert T. Patrick, and did much to bring about Patrick's release from Sing Sing.

PASTOR BANS EASTER HATS

Doesn't Want Women to Display Them in His Church.

[By Telegraph to The Tribune.]

Austin, Tex., March 22.—The Rev. R. H. Shuler, pastor of the University Methodist Church here, has placed a ban on Easter hats and other displays. In a public statement to-day he said: "I hope the women who are determined to attend church Sunday for the purpose of competing with their sisters in the matter of their hats and gowns will go elsewhere. The church is the wrong place for a millinery display. I hope those who attend our morning services will dress in the simplest manner possible and wear their old hats. I shall ask all women to remove their hats Sunday morning."

DUCHESS'S ARMS AFLAME

Her Royal Highness of Genoa Saved from Death by Maid.

Rome, March 22.—The Duchess of Genoa had a narrow escape from being burned to death to-day. While anointing her arms and neck with a preparation for rheumatism she approached too closely to a spirit lamp and the preparation ignited. The duchess was saved by her maid, who smothered the flames.

SAVED $30,000 AT WASHTUB

Laundress Left Estate, Which Second Husband Gets.

Mrs. Matilda Wynn, a negro woman, formerly residing in Glen Cove, Long Island, made and saved $30,000 by work as a washerwoman it became known yesterday, when her husband, John Wynn, received a favorable decision in the contest he instituted to prevent the probate of her will.

Mrs. Wynn's first husband was Henry Hopkins, who died years ago. During her widowhood she took in washing for Glen Cove families. She executed a will several years ago, leaving her estate, valued at $10,000 in real and $20,000 in personal property, to nephews and nieces. Then she married Wynn, twenty years her junior. She died last February, and Wynn objected to the will. Surrogate Graham decided that her marriage invalidated the will, and Wynn gets the entire estate.

SEEK TO CONNECT KLOTZ WITH BOMBS

Police Compare Papers Found in Secret Arsenal with Scraps from Missiles That Killed Two.

DEADLY CHEMICALS IN ROOM

Hiram Maxim Denies He Aided Bronx Draftsman in Experimenting with Smokeless Powder—Not Known to Herrera Family.

Efforts of the police officials investigating the chemical activities of Henry Klotz, were concentrated yesterday on endeavors to connect him with the bombs sent to Judge Otto Rosalsky, Grace Walker and Bernardo Herrera, which were fatal in two cases. They doubt his story that he was experimenting with smokeless powder when the explosion occurred that seriously wounded him in his home, at No. 1332 Fulton avenue, Friday night.

Klotz was in no condition to be questioned by the police yesterday. They are anxious to question him about the arsenal of weapons, ammunition and explosive chemicals in his room and also regarding pieces of cardboard boxes and wrapping paper, which correspond to those used by the maker of the Walker, Herrera and Rosalsky bombs.

The place in which the deadly collection was found is a small bedroom in the home of his parents. It never was entered by any other member of the family and was guarded by an electric arrangement, by which Klotz could detect if had been entered during his absence from it.

Klotz made his own bed and cleaned his room himself. He was employed in the topographical bureau of the Bronx Borough Hall. His leisure time he spent in his room, experimenting, he told the police.

Arsenal in Room.

More than fifty guns of various types, all fully loaded, were hung on the walls. They included French and American rifles and revolvers of the latest automatic models.

The ammunition found by Inspector Eagan, of the Bureau of Combustibles, included:

Twelve vials of shot and smokeless black powder, one package of Arrow loaded paper shells, two cans partly full of rifle smokeless powder, one can of smokeless powder, four cans partly full of Latin & Rand smokeless powder, two cans partly full of rifle Du Pont smokeless powder, one small can of .30 calibre rifle smokeless powder, three boxes of .44 calibre ball cartridges, one box of Remington cartridges, one box .50 centre fire U. M. C. Co., four boxes of .45 calibre U. M. C. Co. cartridges, five boxes of .44 calibre (fifty in each box) Winchester cartridges, one box .32 calibre automatic Colt centre fire, 500 .22 calibre long rifle cartridges, eight boxes soft point bullets U. S. Army rifle, eleven boxes .22 calibre (fifty in each box), one half box of nitro primers, one box .38 calibre S. & W. cartridges, one box assorted rifle cartridges and one box of gun caps.

Chemicals in Room.

The chemicals found were in vials which contained chlorate hydrate, arsenous oxide, borax, cyanide of mercury, calomel, bi-chloride of potash, sulphur, mercury, black antimony and permanganate of potash.

According to Inspector Eagan, many electric wires, dry batteries, soft and steel capped bullets, cork and wood, wire springs and a fully equipped electrical outfit were also in the room. All, Eagan says, correspond to the parts used in the construction of the bomb sent to Judge Rosalsky, which exploded in his home in the Hendrick Hudson apartment house on March 16 of last year, and to the bomb which killed Grace Walker at No. 163 West 77th street on February 3 of the same year. The remnants of the bomb which killed Madeline Herrera, practically blinded her husband and resulted in the confinement in Fordham Hospital, in which lies Klotz, of Miss Sarah Fuchsman, a boarder at the Herrera home, are identical, Eagan asserts.

The parts of pasteboard boxes and paper found in the room used by Klotz are also of the kind used by a grocery firm in the wrapping of its chocolates, which figured prominently in the Walker case. The box used in the making of the bomb sent to Judge Rosalsky was similar to that used by the same firm.

Eagan's Prophecy Recalled.

Inspector Eagan also laid stress on the fact that the bomb which killed Grace Walker and that sent to Judge Rosalsky were both sent on a Saur; day. The Herrera bomb was found on a Sunday night. Eagan was injured in handling the missile sent to Judge Rosalsky.

A remark made by Inspector Eagan on the night of the explosion in the Rosalsky home, that the maker of the bomb would not be caught until he himself was either blown up or injured by an explosion while he was making the bomb, was recalled last night. At the time Eagan gave as his theory that the explosive used was a combination of sulphur, black antimony and chlorate of potash. While talking last night Eagan carried in his pocket the three vials which contained the chemicals found in Klotz's room. He explained that when handled separately there was no danger of them ex-

MATERIALISTIC NATION GUIDED BY IDEALISTS

Such Is German View of Wilson, President, and Bryan, Secretary of State.

[By Cable to The Tribune.]

Berlin, March 22.—The "Deutsche Zeitung" pays a high tribute to Secretary Bryan in a long editorial commenting on the so-called paradox of the "Notoriously most materialistic nation in the world, under the guidance of the two most notable idealists of the time—Wilson and Bryan." It believes that the appointment of Mr. Bryan to the Secretaryship of State promises closer German-American relations. "Mr. Bryan," says the paper; "is a man of the highest nobility of mind and a Democrat in the finest sense of the word. He is filled with the spirit of Washington, Bancroft and Lincoln, but lives in a time of moral and economic slavery under feudal lords and trust magnates. It will be one of the most interesting studies of modern times to watch the contest of materialism and idealism in the new world."

M'COMBS HAS THE LAUGH

Phrenologist Told Him He Would Be a Diplomat.

[From The Tribune Bureau.]

Washington, March 22.—That W. F. McCombs has missed his vocation in life by finally declining the embassy to Paris is the conviction of some of the Democratic National Chairman's college friends.

It appears that when McCombs was a freshman at Princeton, nineteen years ago, he consulted a phrenologist whose custom it was to read the bumps of the "freshies" at 50 cents a head. The "professor" discovered a remarkable assortment on the head of the future political leader, and actually predicted that he would enter the diplomatic corps and would be Ambassador in Paris.

Mr. McCombs did not take the prediction very seriously and even suspected that some of his remarkable cranial developments might be due to the last game of football in which he took part, but he admitted to-day that probably the old man knew what he was talking about. "Well, I fooled the old phrenologist, anyway," was Mr. McCombs' comment shortly after he had definitely announced his declination of the French post, "but it was mighty close."
