

THE TRIBUNAL A SUPREME COURT OF ADVERTISING

Investigated Advertisements Guaranteed by The Tribune. Fee Charged for Investigation Arranged in Advance.

Under this classification the man or woman of character and ability wanting employment, the responsible employer wanting reliable and efficient help...

WE had a very tender knee, caused by the erratic drive of a "duffer" while playing a little golf recently. We would not have minded very much the caller flicking Broadway dust off our coat...

He had an option on a patent for a household article. He wanted $10,000 in order to manufacture a stock, which would be distributed in the stores...

"I am willing to pay you an investigation fee," said he, "but I cannot give you any references because I am not known here. I will also take a good sized space under 'The Tribunal' if you will write an advertisement for me and make it good and strong."

We believe we could have written him a good advertisement, and we also believe, had it been possible to get his life story, we could have made it strong—but we do not believe the advertisement would have interested the $10,000 which he sought.

It is rather a backhanded compliment to have such callers. He undoubtedly was sharp. His experience had unquestionably sharpened his wits.

It is surprising how unerring instinct will send persons of a like kidney to an advertising feature where unusual value may be had.

In the first place such a proposition could not be advertised under this classification. Other reasons would be superfluous.

To appear under "The Tribunal," investment opportunities must be of such a nature that this paper can guarantee the integrity of the advertiser and, after investigation, assure Tribune readers that the proposition is a safe and sound investment.

Tribune readers will be protected at all times by careful investigation, and "Tribunal" advertisers will reap the reward from the confidence thus established.

Here Are Some Sample Advertisements That Show How Advertisers May Advertise Under "The Tribunal."

RELIABLE ENTERPRISES THAT OFFER INVESTMENT.

$10,000—An established, progressive concern requires the services of an ambitious, hustling man with $10,000 to invest who has plenty of initiative and executive ability...

$12.00 will be the cost of the above sized advertisement.

RELIABLE HELP SEEKING EMPLOYMENT

SALESMAN—More than ten years' experience in automobile line. Fair dealing has inspired a large following. Wants to connect with reliable supply house or automobile manufacturer...

$8.40 will be the cost of the above sized advertisement.

CONFIDENTIAL MAN—Experienced, thoroughly accustomed to detail of public and private work, understands finances and real estate investments, excellent education, with legal training, desires connection with responsible individual organization or corporation...

$7.20 will be the cost of the above sized advertisement.

INVESTMENT WITH POSITION.

INVESTMENT WITH POSITION—An experienced and energetic young man would like a position with an established firm or company in U. S. or Canada, prepared to invest from $10,000 to $15,000 in good going business.

$4.80 will be the cost of above minimum sized advertisement.

MURDER JURY FREES WIFE

YACHTSMEN FEAR PIRATES

Mrs. Moser, Accused of Shooting Husband, Acquitted.

After deliberating for an hour and twenty-five minutes a jury in the Court of Oyer and Terminer, in Newark, yesterday afternoon acquitted Mrs. Mabel Moser, twenty-four years old, of a charge of having murdered her husband, Ferdinand C. Moser, who was shot and killed in his home May 3. The result was not a surprise, as it had been believed that details related by Mrs. Moser to the jury concerning her life with her husband had created sympathy.

In spite of the confidence the defendant seemed to have all along that the jury would give her freedom Mrs. Moser was visibly affected by the announcement of the verdict. She was standing when the foreman of the jury spoke the words that restored her freedom. She swooned, and had to be assisted to a chair by court attendants. Later Mrs. Moser went to the private office of Chief Justice Gummere, before whom she was tried. There an affecting scene took place as she met her little son, who had been in charge of his grandmother since Mrs. Moser's arrest.

Moser had been separated from his wife when he met his death. He was boarding at No. 4 1/2 Stirling street, Newark, and it was there the shooting occurred. Mrs. Moser's explanation of the shooting was that it was accidental and that her husband was shot while he was struggling to free his hand, in which he had a weapon. In returning its verdict the jury expressed its belief in Mrs. Moser's testimony.

Seawanhaka Club Enlists Detectives from Queens.

With more than $200,000 invested in motor boats and water craft belonging to the members of the Seawanhaka Boat Club anchored near the clubhouse, on Flushing Bay, Commodore William A. Lee, of that club, enlisted yesterday the services of detectives from the Queens headquarters to prevent the depredations of river pirates. The club has also engaged a private detective agency in Manhattan to establish a river patrol until the boats are taken from the water.

Commodore Lee reported yesterday that on Thursday night pirates had broken into the clubhouse and stolen valuables from the lockers. It was just about a year ago that the pirates infested this section and stole thousands of dollars' worth of valuables from the boats. They did not cease their work until their lair was discovered in a cave near Jackson Creek. Here was found a vast quantity of goods which had been stolen from yachts all along the Sound. The pirates had a motor boat, in which they made their raids.

STEAMBOAT TO END SEASON.

The steamboat Grand Republic will close the season by the usual observation trip up the Hudson to-morrow. The proceeds of the trip will be divided among the employees of the Iron Steamboat Company. The boat will leave Pier No. 1, North River, at 9:30 a. m., West 123rd street at 10:30 a. m. and Yonkers at 11 a. m. Two and a half hours will be allowed for a visit at West Point.

HYDE, ILL IN HOSPITAL, ATTACKS NEWSPAPERS

Former City Chamberlain Puts Blame for Gaynor's Death on "Yellow Press."

AWAITS OPERATION TO-DAY

Barred by Serious Affliction from Attending Funeral of Mayor, Who Was One of His Closest Friends.

Suffering violently from kidney stones, Charles H. Hyde, former City Chamberlain, was taken yesterday to the Post-Graduate Hospital, Second avenue and 20th street, and will be operated on this morning at 8 o'clock by Dr. J. B. Squiers, of No. 49 East 40th street.

Mr. Hyde left his home in Roslyn, Long Island, Thursday, and went to the Hotel McAlpin, with the intention of attending the body of Mayor Gaynor to the Gaynor home in Luskita when it was taken from the Lusitania. He was attacked fifteen minutes after he reached the hotel, and Dr. Williams, the house physician, spent the night with him in an attempt to relieve his agony. Morphine and chloroform were administered, but had no effect until late in the morning, when Mr. Hyde went to sleep. At 1:30 o'clock in the afternoon he was taken to the hospital, and last night was resting easily.

X-ray Finds Trouble.

Five X-ray pictures have been taken in the effort to locate the stone that is causing the trouble, and yesterday it was found between the kidneys and the bladder. Hyde had been at the Post-Graduate Hospital on August 22 and September 12, and it was then known that something radical must be done for him, but he begged that any operation be postponed until after the Gaynor funeral. The relations between the two were so close that Mr. Hyde not only felt it a duty but one of his special privileges to pay the last respects to his dead friend.

The only callers at the hospital yesterday were Mrs. Hyde and Thomas F. Tracy, the contractor, and William P. Jarney, of the Uvalde Asphalt Company.

Michael Fox, who was attached to the City Controller's office when Mr. Hyde was chamberlain, and is now at Hyde's office, No. 2 Rector street, and Dr. Crosby, Mr. Hyde's personal physician, accompanied him from the hotel to the hospital. Yesterday he was able to leave his bed and cross the room unattended, and said that he was not suffering any great pain. The attacks come on him by spells and are enervating.

With his glasses on, in bed at the hospital, Mr. Hyde said yesterday: "Mayor Gaynor met death as the result of a bullet fired by a poor, demented man; President McKinley met his fate in the same way, an old President Garfield. Last year President Roosevelt received a bullet from the same kind of man."

Talks of "Sensational Press." "Is there any thoughtful person who does not believe that these demented slayers were led on to their acts by a sensational press?"

"While Mayor Gaynor's body lies in state in the City Hall, the theatre of four years of hard work on his part for the people of New York, would it not be well for those who pass through and view his remains to consider how they may devise some means of ending this sort of thing? Or shall we daily see parties and candidates determining their attitude in reference to public questions by the course of this or that yellow journal?"

"Those who have had any active experience in politics know how difficult it is to induce men of affairs to accept public office."

"The only remedy I see is for decent people to refuse to buy papers that depend for their circulation upon abuse of officials and other such matter. When they do that the 'funny picture' editor's salary will not be five times that of the learned men who write the editorials on important subjects of the day."

"I have little fault to find with those who sell the papers. They sell what the public wants. The laborer who kept only red neckties because he liked them would go broke when blue neckties were in style."

BLAMES MORGUE KEEPERS

Charities Commissioner Acts in Sullivan Case.

Michael J. Drummond, Commissioner of Charities, yesterday called the attention of the authorities of Bellevue and Allied Hospitals to the delay in forwarding bodies from Fordham morgue to the Harlem branch of the city morgue. This action was taken as the result of Fordham's holding the body of Representative T. D. Sullivan for thirteen days after it was brought there, and for the further fact that many other bodies have lain in Fordham morgue far longer than appears necessary to the Department of Charities.

At Bellevue it was said that the responsibility rests entirely with the coroner and that the hospitals have nothing to do with the matter of forwarding bodies until a certificate of the cause of death has been issued. Commissioner Drummond's office has been making an investigation into the Sullivan case and others, independently of Police Commissioner Waldo's search for facts, with the result that Mr. Drummond felt impelled to frame a report on the circumstances. As his is a co-ordinate branch of the city service, he put his report in the form of a reminder to Bellevue of the time that is allowed to elapse in the handling of corpses by Fordham.

The investigation started by the District Attorney, which, it is believed, may lead to an inquiry into the circumstances surrounding Sullivan's death, was yesterday confined to a request to the telephone company for a record of the calls to Patrick Sullivan's house on the night before Timothy D. Sullivan eluded his nurses.

GIRL LURED AWAY BY WOMAN

"Lucy" Keller, Missing Since Monday, Held as "White Slave" Is Police Theory.

Louisa Keller, a schoolgirl fifteen years old, of No. 290 Nicholas avenue, Cypress Hills, who disappeared from her home Monday, September 8, is in the hands of "white slaves," according to Inspector Schmittberger. The girl went to school as usual, but returned to her home early and told her mother she wanted a book. She then changed her dress, putting on a tan walking skirt, and though it was a warm day took a coat with her. She has not been heard from since.

The only clue to her whereabouts is a card she showed Mrs. Francisco Heck, a guest of her family. A woman she met in the street gave the card to her, she said. The woman, she said, was well dressed and had befriended her. On the card were the words, "Piano Teacher, Ridgewood," and some other writing, which was illegible.

The Saturday before Labor Day Lucy, as her family called her, went to Philadelphia to visit her aunt, Mrs. A. Smith, of No. 29 North Dewey street, travelling with another aunt, Mrs. L. Hetzel, of No. 24 West 14th street. They came back late Monday night, and Tuesday afternoon Lucy left her aunt's house in New York and went home.

On her bureau after her flight Mr. Keller found a brief note, scrawled on a half sheet of paper and much smirched. It asked forgiveness for the disgrace she was bringing on the family and said she had taken $10 from her father's desk. It was signed "Lucy."

The girl was absent a few days before the police were informed, and in the opinion of some of the detectives she has already been taken far from the city. She was five feet four inches in height, brown hair and eyes and weighed 115 pounds. She had a scar, made by a cut, above her left elbow; she wore an amethyst ring and a watch, which was inscribed with her initials.

LOUISA KELLER.

was five feet four inches in height, brown hair and eyes and weighed 115 pounds. She had a scar, made by a cut, above her left elbow; she wore an amethyst ring and a watch, which was inscribed with her initials.

VACCARELLI VACILLATES IN $50,000 THEFT CASE

Witness Recalls Some Things, but Memory of Schildknecht's Doings Is Weak.

MAID HAS LIKE FAILING

Simply Can't Remember, "Especially in This Trouble," She Says, but She Denies Attorney's Insinuation.

The examination of Nicholas Vaccarelli, who is thought to know something of the ends to which part of John C. Schildknecht's $50,000 thefts from the Washburn-Crosby Company was devoted, was continued yesterday before United States Commissioner Gilchrist. But the same faulty memory which was so baffling the day before thwarted every attempt made by William Lesser, attorney for the receiver of Schildknecht's bankrupt estate, to trace any of the property.

The attorney again questioned the witness regarding Vaccarelli's relations with Miss Effie McMinn, with whom Schildknecht lived at the Garden City Hotel. Although Vaccarelli admitted that he often visited the woman and had known her for several years, he asserted that she had never mentioned to him Schildknecht's name. He also declared that he knew nothing of her financial affairs and had no knowledge of her living as Schildknecht's wife.

Mr. Lesser, referring to the trip to the Corn Exchange Bank by Miss McMinn, Vaccarelli and Irene Mitchell, the young woman's colored maid, the day after Schildknecht's disappearance, asked: "Do you know of Miss McMinn's drawing $750 or $800 from the Corn Exchange Bank?"

"No," said the witness. "Did you ever know of Miss McMinn's passing or selling any property?" "No."

Was Never in a Bank. "Have you yourself any bank account?" "No; I was never in a bank."

"Did you give any money to your brother after Schildknecht disappeared?" "Yes, I gave him $99 that I owed him," said the witness.

Vaccarelli explained that this money was part of a loan of $300 which his brother, "Paul Kelly," leader of the "Paul Kelly" gang, had let him have to buy a billiard parlor. "Did Miss McMinn ever tell you of sending money to any one?" continued the attorney. Vaccarelli did not remember.

Irene Mitchell, the colored maid, was called after Vaccarelli had been excused until to-day. She stated that she had had access to Miss McMinn's apartment at No. 45 West 114th street during the week after Schildknecht disappeared, but that she knew nothing of the whereabouts or actions of her mistress during that time.

She admitted going to the Corn Exchange Bank with Miss McMinn and Vaccarelli, but denied any knowledge of the reason for their going. She also asserted she did not know where her mistress and Vaccarelli went after leaving the bank. Her answers were so wary that the attorney continuously had his questions repeated on the record for possible future reference in case action should be taken for perjury.

Attorney Questions Truthfulness. After vainly sparring with the maid for some time, the attorney shouted: "Are you sure you're telling the truth?" "Yes, I am."

"Have you been coached?" "No."

"Have you had any instructions from Miss McMinn?" "No."

When the attorney commented on the maid's inability to remember details, she said: "My memory is very poor, especially in this trouble I'm having now."

It is probable that Miss McMinn will be recalled to testify to-day. Vaccarelli was also ordered to appear at 9 o'clock this morning, when the hearing will be resumed.

RECORDS LEAD TO RECORD

Accused of Stealing Phonograph Discs, Man Fights.

Charged with stealing phonograph records valued at $5,000 from the store of Charles F. McNally, in Philadelphia, on August 17, D. J. Walker was arrested yesterday afternoon at his place of business on Atlantic avenue, Brooklyn. Detective W. J. Lynch, who accompanied McNally to Brooklyn, brought with him a warrant which was issued in Philadelphia on September 10. It is charged that Walker broke into McNally's store by way of the cellar.

It is charged that Walker grabbed the warrant when it was shown him and tore it up, and that he made a dash for the back room and grabbed a revolver. The detective caught him, however, and made him a prisoner with the aid of two detectives from the Adams street police station. In the store they found records valued at $5,000, but about $3,000 worth had been damaged. Some of the records were identified by McNally. The prisoner was arraigned before Magistrate Gelsmar at the Adams street court and was sent to Raymond street jail to await extradition.

At the time of the arrest Miss Margaret Moore, eighteen years old, Walker's fiancée, and her mother, Mrs. Mary Moore, were in the store. They had come from their home, at Rivington, N. J., upon funds furnished by Walker and were without funds of their own. The marriage was to occur within a few days.

A New Collar, Long on good Points

Advertisement for EARL & WILSON collars, featuring a 'RED MAN BRAND' collar and 'WHITWOOD' collars. Text includes '2 for 25 Cts.' and 'MAKERS OF TROY'S BEST PRODUCT.'

AMUSEMENTS.

Advertisement for Hippodrome Theatre, featuring 'THE PASSING SHOW OF 1913' and 'THE ESCAPE'. Includes showtimes and prices.

FINDS TRAIL OF BACKERS OF HALLEY LAND FRAUDS

Whitman Hopes Soon to Have Enough Facts to Ask Indictment of Real "Higher Ups."

SISTERS STILL IN HIDING

Negotiating with Prosecutor—Expected to Give Evidence Pointing to Attorney as "Brains" Behind Deals.

District Attorney Whitman is understood to be negotiating with the missing Mrs. Mathilda Francolini and her sister, Rose Halley, to obtain sufficient information to ask for the indictment of those he believes to be the real "brains" behind the women's mortgage speculations in the properties of the Annex Homes Company. Many persons lost their homes at Harrison, N. J., and Mamaroneck, N. Y., as a result of the alleged frauds.

That the District Attorney has been in communication with the women was intimated yesterday by their attorney, William J. McAllister, before United States Commissioner Gilchrist, when he advised Solomon L. Halley and Alexander R. Halley, brothers of the women, not to answer any questions that would tend to answer any questions about their sisters, on the ground that Mr. Whitman desired that they should not appear until he had concluded his examination of them. The brothers had already told the Commissioner, who is investigating the bankruptcy of the company, that they had visited their sisters ten days ago at the Hotel Bonray, on Madison avenue, between 91st and 92d streets, but were unable to tell where they were staying now.

Then Attorney McAllister intervened, and Louis H. Strouse, attorney for Eugene L. Parodi, the receiver, asked McAllister if he knew where the women were hidden. McAllister admitted that he knew their whereabouts, and explained that Mrs. Francolini and Miss Halley had come to the city to give their testimony concerning the causes of the company's bankruptcy. Mr. McAllister promised to produce Mrs. Francolini and Miss Halley before the Commissioner on Monday.

The sisters, it is expected, will be able to furnish information which points to a certain attorney as the "brains" of the speculations, whereby directors and officers in the company obtained mortgages on the property they sold to the company's customers, and in many instances failed to inform buyers or put the mortgage on record until after the property was sold, thereby giving color to the representation that the property was clear of incumbrances.

The two women are understood to be penniless, and even compelled to seek financial assistance for their own upkeep from those it is believed were behind the speculations.

Attorney Louis H. Strouse said yesterday that he could not wait longer on the District Attorney to conclude his examination of the women, and, having learned where Mrs. Francolini and Rose Halley might be found, he intended to cause their arrest, even though it might interfere with the District Attorney's plans. He added that it had now become necessary to examine the women without further delay. Accordingly, he would take action without waiting for Mr. McAllister to produce them.

might be found, he intended to cause their arrest, even though it might interfere with the District Attorney's plans. He added that it had now become necessary to examine the women without further delay. Accordingly, he would take action without waiting for Mr. McAllister to produce them.

BOY HELD AS DRUG USER

Ghastly Youth Is Accused by Father of Keeping Heroin.

Seventeen-year-old Edward Barth, of No. 234 Humboldt street, Brooklyn, presented a ghastly appearance in the Manhattan avenue court, Williamsburg, where he was arraigned yesterday on a charge of having heroin in his possession. Magistrate Walsh held the boy in $1,000 bail for a further hearing.

According to William Barth, the boy's father, on whose complaint the youth was arrested, his son engaged with him in a desperate struggle to retain possession of a large quantity of heroin. The police were informed by the father that his son had become a slave to the drug habit. Persons who have sold the drug to the boy are now being sought by the police. Yesterday the prisoner refused to tell where he had bought the heroin, or "skat," as it is referred to by its victims.

STOCKS UNKIND TO CANTOR

Former Borough President Files Answer to Broker.

The answer of Jacob A. Cantor, former Borough President and a leader in the recent movement to renominate Mayor Gaynor, to the suit brought against him and his wife, Mrs. Lydia G. Cantor, by Maurice Hamburger, of the Stock Exchange firm of Wolf Brothers & Co., shows that Mr. Cantor lost at least $20,000 in stock speculation in 1907.

The suit is brought to foreclose a mortgage which Mr. Cantor and his wife gave the plaintiff on a piece of Harlem property, on which it is alleged he has failed to pay the principal and interest. Mr. Cantor says in his answer that the mortgage was not given to secure the payment of $20,000 to Hamburger, but to secure an indebtedness of the former Borough President to Wolf Brothers & Co. on the stock transactions of the defendant.

Mr. Cantor says that in August, 1907, Wolf Brothers & Co. bought some United Pacific stock and other securities for him. Without any notice or authority, Mr. Cantor alleges, the brokers disposed of the stock and converted the proceeds to their own use. He says he was not indebted to the brokers when he executed the mortgage, in 1908, and he asks that the mortgage be dismissed and the plaintiff be restrained from disposing of it.

The answer of Jacob A. Cantor, former Borough President and a leader in the recent movement to renominate Mayor Gaynor, to the suit brought against him and his wife, Mrs. Lydia G. Cantor, by Maurice Hamburger, of the Stock Exchange firm of Wolf Brothers & Co., shows that Mr. Cantor lost at least $20,000 in stock speculation in 1907.

The suit is brought to foreclose a mortgage which Mr. Cantor and his wife gave the plaintiff on a piece of Harlem property, on which it is alleged he has failed to pay the principal and interest. Mr. Cantor says in his answer that the mortgage was not given to secure the payment of $20,000 to Hamburger, but to secure an indebtedness of the former Borough President to Wolf Brothers & Co. on the stock transactions of the defendant.

Mr. Cantor says that in August, 1907, Wolf Brothers & Co. bought some United Pacific stock and other securities for him. Without any notice or authority, Mr. Cantor alleges, the brokers disposed of the stock and converted the proceeds to their own use. He says he was not indebted to the brokers when he executed the mortgage, in 1908, and he asks that the mortgage be dismissed and the plaintiff be restrained from disposing of it.

The answer of Jacob A. Cantor, former Borough President and a leader in the recent movement to renominate Mayor Gaynor, to the suit brought against him and his wife, Mrs. Lydia G. Cantor, by Maurice Hamburger, of the Stock Exchange firm of Wolf Brothers & Co., shows that Mr. Cantor lost at least $20,000 in stock speculation in 1907.

The suit is brought to foreclose a mortgage which Mr. Cantor and his wife gave the plaintiff on a piece of Harlem property, on which it is alleged he has failed to pay the principal and interest. Mr. Cantor says in his answer that the mortgage was not given to secure the payment of $20,000 to Hamburger, but to secure an indebtedness of the former Borough President to Wolf Brothers & Co. on the stock transactions of the defendant.

Mr. Cantor says that in August, 1907, Wolf Brothers & Co. bought some United Pacific stock and other securities for him. Without any notice or authority, Mr. Cantor alleges, the brokers disposed of the stock and converted the proceeds to their own use. He says he was not indebted to the brokers when he executed the mortgage, in 1908, and he asks that the mortgage be dismissed and the plaintiff be restrained from disposing of it.

The answer of Jacob A. Cantor, former Borough President and a leader in the recent movement to renominate Mayor Gaynor, to the suit brought against him and his wife, Mrs. Lydia G. Cantor, by Maurice Hamburger, of the Stock Exchange firm of Wolf Brothers & Co., shows that Mr. Cantor lost at least $20,000 in stock speculation in 1907.

The suit is brought to foreclose a mortgage which Mr. Cantor and his wife gave the plaintiff on a piece of Harlem property, on which it is alleged he has failed to pay the principal and interest. Mr. Cantor says in his answer that the mortgage was not given to secure the payment of $20,000 to Hamburger, but to secure an indebtedness of the former Borough President to Wolf Brothers & Co. on the stock transactions of the defendant.

Mr. Cantor says that in August, 1907, Wolf Brothers & Co. bought some United Pacific stock and other securities for him. Without any notice or authority, Mr. Cantor alleges, the brokers disposed of the stock and converted the proceeds to their own use. He says he was not indebted to the brokers when he executed the mortgage, in 1908, and he asks that the mortgage be dismissed and the plaintiff be restrained from disposing of it.

The answer of Jacob A. Cantor, former Borough President and a leader in the recent movement to renominate Mayor Gaynor, to the suit brought against him and his wife, Mrs. Lydia G. Cantor, by Maurice Hamburger, of the Stock Exchange firm of Wolf Brothers & Co., shows that Mr. Cantor lost at least $20,000 in stock speculation in 1907.

The suit is brought to foreclose a mortgage which Mr. Cantor and his wife gave the plaintiff on a piece of Harlem property, on which it is alleged he has failed to pay the principal and interest. Mr. Cantor says in his answer that the mortgage was not given to secure the payment of $20,000 to Hamburger, but to secure an indebtedness of the former Borough President to Wolf Brothers & Co. on the stock transactions of the defendant.

Mr. Cantor says that in August, 1907, Wolf Brothers & Co. bought some United Pacific stock and other securities for him. Without any notice or authority, Mr. Cantor alleges, the brokers disposed of the stock and converted the proceeds to their own use. He says he was not indebted to the brokers when he executed the mortgage, in 1908, and he asks that the mortgage be dismissed and the plaintiff be restrained from disposing of it.

The answer of Jacob A. Cantor, former Borough President and a leader in the recent movement to renominate Mayor Gaynor, to the suit brought against him and his wife, Mrs. Lydia G. Cantor, by Maurice Hamburger, of the Stock Exchange firm of Wolf Brothers & Co., shows that Mr. Cantor lost at least $20,000 in stock speculation in 1907.

Tie a string around your finger to remind you Fall clothes are here.

Fall suits of brand new fabrics; both imported and domestic; cut in new Fall models.

Light weight overcoats; among them our "Scotch Mist" coats.

Stetson soft hats and derivatives—new Fall blocks.

Fall shoes—high tan shoes heavy soled Oxfords, "Double" soles for heavy weather.

Fall shirts, neckwear, underwear, sweaters, Mackinaws.

Everything men and boys wear.

Everything guaranteed satisfactory or "your money back."

Sporting Goods, too. Golf clubs, balls, caddy bags; tennis rackets, balls, nets and markers; cameras—everything to play with.

ROGERS PEET COMPANY, Three Broadway Stores at Warren St. 13th St. 34th St.

AMUSEMENTS. BELTINE West 42d St. Evenings at 8. WITHIN THE LAW with JANE CRAWFORD and MARY TURNER. LANGRACE 48 St. W. of Broadway. BEST OF ALL MUSICAL PLAYS. ADELE 48th St. E. of Broadway. CORT 13th St. E. of Broadway. ROYAL 13th St. E. of Broadway. BELASCO West 41st St. Evenings at 8. The Temperamental Journey with Leo Dittschstein and Notable Cast. PALACE Broadway. CENTURY OPERA CENTRAL PARK HOUSE. WEST 87th St. MATTY MATTY. SOHA HAYES NANCE O'NEIL. THE STRINGS. MOTION PICTURES OF HARRY THAW. HAMMERSTEIN'S. 34th St. and 5th Ave. NESHIT. THAW WEEKS. COLUMBIA. Broadway & 47th. BLUEBELLS. MOLLIE WILLIAMS & COMPANY. ASTOR. Grand Theatre. "THE QUO VADIS".