

HOCKEY TEAMS AT SIXES AND SEVENS OVER NEW RULES

Six-Man Game To Be Tried Out to Provide Demonstration of Its Value.

A COMPROMISE IS LIKELY

Five Clubs May Yet Meet in the Championship Series of the League.

Indications point to a compromise being reached at the meeting of the executive committee of the Amateur Hockey League...

The plan will permit the delegates to thrash out the six-man playing rules for more than a month and arrive at some definite understanding regarding what is desired.

The majority believe that the six-man game will be neither faster nor more strenuous than the seven-man game.

Tom Howard, coach of Yale and the Hockey Club, who is considered one of the best authorities in the country...

While the officers of the American Amateur Hockey League and those of the great winter game in New York can be well satisfied with results the last season, it cannot be said that the quality of the playing was of very high order...

It is alleged that Brenecke took $50 to see that the criminal records of Jacob Strauss and James Alvino, who were convicted on December 4 of conducting a resort for opium smokers...

It is said that a record of three prior convictions under the name of La Salle was found at Headquarters against Alvino, and Strauss admitted one prior conviction.

An attempt by Mr. Groehl to apprehend Brenecke in the act of taking the final payment of $500 was frustrated by Commissioner Waldo in suspending Brenecke yesterday.

The six-man-a-side game was adopted two years ago by the National Hockey Association of Canada, composed of professional teams, and has met with approval by both their players and followers.

While Howard believes that the six-man game might be given a trial in New York, he is of the opinion that the seven-man team is real hockey.

MONELL METAL AS PLATING

New Composition To Be Used on the Vanderbilt Defender.

Bristol, R. I., Dec. 11.—Monell metal, a new bronze composition, will be used for plating the underbody of the America's Cup defender candidate to be built here for the Vanderbilt syndicate.

Above the waterline the plating will be of light steel. To offset in some degree the weight of the steel and bronze the deck plating will be of aluminum.

MALONE TO AID MERCHANTS

Collector Will Help in Quick Passage of Goods.

Dudley Field Malone, Collector of the Port, outlined yesterday his policy of not only guarding the government against fraud but of co-operating with the importers for the expeditious passage of their goods through the Custom House.

"One of the duties of the Collector," Mr. Malone said, "is to collect and to safeguard the collection of the customs revenues for the government. One of his incidental functions is to co-operate with all officers of the government to guard against fraud, deceit and ingenious violation of the customs laws."

"His great opportunity and privilege is to represent the desire of the government not merely to protect itself against fraud but to co-operate at every point with the business men of the country for the expeditious entry of their imports."

"We ask the men of affairs of New York to co-operate with us," he said, "and in return we offer you our sincere and militant co-operation for the prosperity of your trade and business."

Other speakers were William C. Breed and Thomas H. Downing of the Merchants' Association.

GRAFT IN OPIUM CASE

Police Detective Suspended by Waldo, Arrested for Bribery.

John B. Brenecke, a detective assigned to Special Sessions to serve warrants, was arrested yesterday on a bribery charge. He was sent to the Tombs by Magistrate Levy in the Tombs police cell in default of $2,500 bail.

It is alleged that Brenecke took $50 to see that the criminal records of Jacob Strauss and James Alvino, who were convicted on December 4 of conducting a resort for opium smokers, were not produced.

It is said that a record of three prior convictions under the name of La Salle was found at Headquarters against Alvino, and Strauss admitted one prior conviction.

An attempt by Mr. Groehl to apprehend Brenecke in the act of taking the final payment of $500 was frustrated by Commissioner Waldo in suspending Brenecke yesterday.

ALL DENY FILM TRUST

Employees in Branch Exchanges Testify in U. S. Suit.

According to witnesses heard yesterday in the taking of testimony in the government's suit to dissolve the so-called "film trust," there is no such thing as a trust in the motion picture business.

Samuel Sheridan, manager of the branch of the General Film Company in Wilkes-Barre, Penn., was closely cross-examined by Edwin Groeover, Assistant Deputy Attorney General.

The witness denied that the competition he met was other than fair from the independent film exchanges. He admitted that the General Film Company had not mapped out territory for each of its 50m exchanges and that it was possible for two exchanges of the General Film Company to have overlapping territories.

Herbert C. Wales, manager of the General Film Company's exchange at Albany; Harry E. Nichols, employed in a similar capacity at Pittsburgh; Albert W. Goff, manager of the company's exchange at Cleveland; and Frederick Alken, testified to the same general effect.

"SHERMAN ACT PUZZLING"

Affected by Changing Conditions, Judge Declares.

Boston, Dec. 11.—An emphatic denial that he ever attempted to exert any influence on any bank or creditor of Thomas G. Plant, a business rival, to prevent him from getting further credit was made by Sidney W. Winslow, president of the United Shoe Machinery Company, under cross-examination to-day in the trial of the government's suit for dissolution of the company under the Sherman act.

James A. Fowler, special assistant to the United States Attorney General, contended that the Plant purchase was made not for the sake of acquiring patents, as testified to by Mr. Winslow, but to get rid of competition.

The question whether the company could rely on its patents for protection under the Sherman anti-trust act was raised by Judge William L. Putnam.

Judge Putnam, who is presiding with Judges Dodge and Brown, called the attention of counsel to the peculiar operation of the act and its relation to the patent rights involved in the present case.

"When we come to enter a final decree in this case," Judge Putnam said, "we will want counsel to determine whether the decree will be effective as to present conditions or as to conditions at the time of the filing of the bill."

ACTOR'S SON CRUEL, SAYS MRS. MANTELL

Young Wife Almost Faints in Court as She Recites Marital Woes.

BABY GIRL WAILS, TOO, IN SYMPATHY

Husband Accused of Desertion and Inhuman Treatment Before Child Was Born.

Justice Lehman listened to a pitiful recital of marital woe from the lips of Mrs. Helen E. Mantell in the Supreme Court yesterday. Several times during her story of the cruelty she said she suffered at the hands of Jack P. Mantell, son of Robert B. Mantell, the actor, the witness broke out sobbing.

Mrs. Mantell is suing for a separation. She alleged her husband neglected to support her and her baby daughter, Virginia Fisher Mantell. In fact, it was the motherly instinct, the desire that her child should be brought into the world a mentally and physically fit member of society, that caused Mrs. Mantell the greatest anguish at the time when, as she alleged, her husband deserted her and failed to provide for her either food or clothing.

Even a letter which she wrote to Mantell, full of pathos, which was read in court, failed to bring back the alleged recreant husband or induce him to make provision for his own. Mrs. Mantell, the plaintiff, was formerly an artist's model.

The baby, the cause of the greater part of the suffering of the young woman who was telling her story on the stand, was in court yesterday. Part of the time the little one furnished a lively accompaniment to the recital of the mother, as she cried lustily in the arms of her maternal grandmother, Mrs. Helen Hillis.

Mrs. Mantell said that her husband deserted her last April, when he told her that she could do as she liked. Mrs. Mantell said her father had tried to effect a separation agreement with her husband. On the suggestion of her father she met her husband to ascertain from him what he proposed to do for her and the baby that was to come. Mrs. Mantell said, amid sobs: "He told me that I would have to get some man to care for me."

"Jack—Don't you want to come home any more or help me with these financial or other worries that are pressing? Creditors come to the door every day; they threaten to turn off the light, and the laundry man will not leave my things because the bill has not been paid. I have no clothes, and I am sadly in need of all kinds of clothing and necessities, besides many things for the coming baby, which, of course, you have given me no money to buy."

"It is impossible for me to live on the $5 a week you have been allowing me for all my expenses. I could only barely manage with it when I could cook three meals a day and strictly economize. The heat of the kitchen is too much for my present state of health; it makes me faint and ill, and since I cannot cook meals I cannot get board money from mother. If you no longer have any regard for me as you wife you ought at least do something for our coming child. I am not writing of my sufferings mentally because of your neglect and cruelty, and of my ebbing health—you know all that. If my brain gives way or my body fails you will know that you have discarded and ruthlessly caused it. It is unbearable enough to have one so dearly loved and trusted cease to love and respect you without justification because of worldly interests, but to have him disregard you in helplessness and need is unbearable cruelty."

On cross-examination Mrs. Mantell admitted that she sometimes smoked cigarettes, but only on the suggestion of her husband. The trial will be continued to-day.

COLUMBIA WAIVES CLAIM ON HOWARD

No Reasons Given for Release of Hockey Coach to Yale—Trimble His Successor.

Tom Howard, the hockey coach who left Columbia a week ago to take charge of the team at Yale, received his release from the Columbia University Athletic Association at a meeting of the university committee on athletics on Wednesday night. This was the announcement made yesterday by Frank A. Dickey, secretary of the association.

No reasons were given for Howard leaving Columbia or for Columbia's willingness to release him. The official announcement, as given out yesterday, reads as follows:

"The Columbia University committee on athletics at its meeting on Wednesday night approved the election of Mr. Rufus J. Trimble, of the class of '12, as graduate hockey coach, and confirmed the decision of the hockey authorities releasing Tom Howard as coach for the current season."

Neither Mr. Dickey nor Harry Fisher, graduate manager of athletics, would say anything about Howard's release further than that it had been deemed the wisest course by the hockey management, and course by the hockey management, and course by the hockey management, and course by the hockey management.

There is, however, a feeling among Columbia students that Howard did not do the right thing by Columbia, and that Yale in signing him up to coach the team this year was not altogether without blame.

WENT TO JERSEY TO DIE

Man, Supposed To Be Charles Lennon, Found in Hotel.

A man who registered on December 5 at the Terminus Hotel, No. 9 Montgomery street, Jersey City, as George Lorraine, New York, did not leave his room at his regular hour yesterday. When no answer came to the repeated knocking by the clerk the door was forced, and the man was found dead, a revolver by his side.

In the clothing were numerous cards, bearing: "Charles Lennon, insurance broker, No. 21 West 91st street, apartment No. 7, telephone 7559 Riverside." There was five cents in another pocket and a pawn ticket for an overcoat pledged on December 5.

The police of the West 100th street station went to the 101st street house. They learned that a man named Lennon had boarded with a Miss Schaefer in apartment No. 7, but that they had moved out more than a week ago.

"PUCK" STILL WILL PAY Contributors Not To Be Saddened by "Masses" Merger.

Officers of the companies controlling "Puck" and "The Masses," two periodicals which are to come under one ownership, as The Tribune announced exclusively yesterday morning, will meet to-day to discuss final arrangements for the combination.

It is said that whether or not "Puck" continues to be precisely as humorous as it always has been it will pay for contributions. "The Masses," as is well known, does not pay contributors.

BUYS SITE FOR FARM COLLEGE

Riverhead, Long Island, Dec. 11.—Deputy Attorney General Leggett, on behalf of the state, closed title and paid over the money yesterday for three parcels of land at Farmingdale. These are to be utilized as the site of the new State College of Agriculture for Suffolk County.

The amount paid for the parcels was $7,000. Samuel Hildreth, who represented R. S. Mott, Judson P. Ruland and Ezekiel R. Smith, who sold the property, received the money.

MEN BELOW DECKS NEED BETTER AIR

Movement Started to Improve Conditions of Battleship Coal Passers.

Washington, December 11.—IMPROVING CONDITIONS ON BOARD SHIP.—Much attention has been given recently by naval officers to conditions on board ship, so far as they affect the comfort and efficiency of the crew.

Investigations have been directed especially to the situation prevailing in the fire and engine rooms. It has been found that the conditions have greatly improved, notably on those vessels now using oil exclusively for fuel.

For a long time great difficulty was encountered among the men on account of the influence of heat, but this, to a large extent, has been overcome. The reports, however, indicate that too low a physical standard exists for those who enlist to serve as coal passers.

It is pointed out that it would be of advantage to the men if every effort were made to induce them to spend their spare time in the open air. They need the light and air more than those who are engaged on battleships. To this end the engineers have suggested that there be a modification of the rules and regulations which impose troublesome obligations, tending to discourage a man from appearing on deck at a time when it would be of benefit to him physically and mentally.

It is believed that conditions below deck should be subjected to careful consideration. Secretary Daniels regarding this proposition as of considerable importance.

His inspection of warships has convinced him that there is opportunity for some of the improvement. The quarters of some of the subordinates on board ship are poorly ventilated, and there is necessary a confinement which it is impossible to relieve short of rebuilding some of the vessels.

"BEANSY" STANDS PAT; POLICE CALL

Rosenfeld, Who Owns Card Tables, Plans Test Case and Fight.

GIVES HIMSELF UP TO SLEUTHS

Complaint Made by J. Noble Hayes, Who Watched "Club" with Mayor Gaynor.

Sigmund Rosenfeld, known as "Beansy," intends to find out whether or no a man can have a few card tables in his rooms. Formerly Rosenfeld went on the assumption that a man could, but he took care to reinforce his belief with "icebox doors" studded with iron.

Yesterday when he learned that there was a warrant for his arrest he surrendered himself to Detective Leigh, of the District Attorney's office. Rosenfeld was released in $500 bail by Justice Collins, of Special Sessions.

The complaint against Rosenfeld was made six months ago by J. Noble Hayes, a friend of the late Mayor Gaynor.

Mr. Hayes lives at No. 111 East 17th street. Almost directly across the street was "The Central Manufacturers' Club." Both Mr. Hayes and Mayor Gaynor believed the "club" to be Rosenfeld's latest poker room.

Mr. Hayes, who is a member of the Gramercy Neighborhood Association, took the matter up with Commissioner Waldo. A policeman was stationed at the "club." Rosenfeld was indignant and obtained an injunction forbidding the police to interfere with him.

Two weeks ago Mr. Hayes is said to have gone to Commissioner Waldo again. December 1 Inspector Gillen visited Commissioner Waldo. The next day the "club" was closed for twenty-four hours.

Mr. Hayes was not satisfied with this and went to the District Attorney, Frederick J. Groehl, Assistant District Attorney, obtained affidavits from former employees of the club. The affidavits were presented to Justice Collins, of Special Sessions, who issued a warrant for Rosenfeld as a common gambler.

Mr. Groehl, with two detectives, went to the Manufacturers' Club Tuesday, they had the warrants, but found no one on whom to serve them. The place was deserted, except for a caretaker, who showed them through the rooms. Several card tables were in evidence. Mr. Groehl intends to find out if he can now it happened that the "club" was closed that night.

"Beansy" Rosenfeld is one of the old time sporting men of the city. He is said to have been in business for fifteen years or more. He has been in trouble before on account of his clubs.

Inspector Dwyer raided the home of the "Bryan Free Silver Club," on West 44th street, September, 1912. Inspector Dwyer did not find Rosenfeld there, but said that it was the latter's place.

In 1911 there were two raids on a house in East 4th street of which Rosenfeld was said to be one of the proprietors. His partners in that house were said to be "Jack" Rose and Harry Vallor, of Rosenthal fame.

Some of the houses in Harlem which suffered from bombs in the gambler's war three years ago were owned by Rosenfeld, the police assert.
