LIFE RETAINED IN HEADLESS BODIES GARDNER GIRLS TO GIVE AID TO BLIND

Dr. Crile Bares New Theory of Inter-Relation of the Vital Organs.

Dr. George W. Crile, famous surgeon of the Middle West, before the annual meeting of the Medical Society of the State of New York at the Hotel Astor yesterday, announced a new theory of the inter-relationship of vital organs.

Dr. Crile is professor of clinical surgery in Western Reserve University. He is noted for his initiative in solving surgical problems. His latest discovery is a further development of the isolation of nerve centers.

The kinetic system of internal organs, as Dr. Crile calls his theory, is the relationship between the liver, muscles, brain and suprarenal and thyroid glands.

Until Dr. Crile began his studies five years ago little was known of the functions of the suprarenal and thyroid glands. In his experiments, in which he was aided by Drs. J. B. Austen, H. G. Sloan and M. L. Menten, Dr. Crile was able to apply his knowledge so as to conserve life in the decapitated bodies of animals for eleven hours by means of blood transfusion.

In discussing "The Influence of Diet Upon the Growth and Recurrence of Adenoids," presented by Dr. Frank Vander-Bogert, of Schenectady, Dr. William L. Culbert said that operations for the cure of adenoids could be prevented by the proper teaching of a child to breathe. He advocated nasal breathing as a cure, as well as spraying the nose.

Dr. William Hallock Park, professor of bacteriology and hygiene in the New York University and Bellevue Hospital Medical College, read a paper on "Active Immunization in Diphtheria." Proper inoculation, he said, would prevent a person immune from one to three years.

MISS WILSON JOKES OVER STORM STORY
Wasn't House Hunting with Mrs. Houston—Blue Room To Be Scene of Wedding.

Washington, April 28.—Mrs. David Franklin Houston and Miss Eleanor Wilson are having a laugh at the expense of the public, especially that part of it near Boston, because the folk of that part of the country thought they not only had seen the coming White House bride, but had seen her in a state of fright bordering upon frenzy.

Miss Wilson was supposed by the residents of that part of Massachusetts to be the bride of the late President's son-in-law, but she is now the wife of Mr. David Franklin Houston, a wealthy banker of Boston.

Proceeds of Annual Play Will Be Devoted to Unfortunates at "Lighthouse."

The girls of the Gardner School are to give a play on Saturday for the benefit of the New York Association for the Blind. Heretofore the proceeds have gone to out-of-town charities, but this year the girls came under the spell of Mrs. Helen S. Woodruff, who is raising funds for the "Lighthouse." One day Mrs. Woodruff visited the Gardner School and read extracts from her story of the little blind boy—a tale she wrote after an illness in which she nearly lost her sight.

Mrs. Charles Gardner, president emerita of the school, was so deeply impressed that she and the girls decided to give the earnings from their play to the blind.

The play—"The Girl of '76"—will be presented at the Aerial Theatre. A number of girls from well-known families will take part. The horses will be attired in satin breeches of the Revolutionary War period, for this is a story of a patriotic maid who fought for her country, though her family was on the side of the British.

Many an old trunkful of heroisms has been ransacked by the young actresses to get costumes.

Among those who will take part are Marjorie Sammis, Otilie Riehle, Rosamond Whiteside, Odell Wallace, Alice Towle, Juliet Wilkerson, Edith Mannes, Helen McNulty, Isabelle Foxe, Olive Shreve, Marion Stotes, Sarah Helen Collins, Marion Bellinger, Amalie Barne, Therese Hynes, Lillian Roberts, Lily Horace and Emily Champlin.

VACATION DREAM IN PLAY
Saving Fund Girls Ready for Annual Entertainment.

"Vacation Dreams," a masque dance in three acts, written and staged by Miss Mary Kello, will be presented by the girls of the Vacation Savings Fund for production at their annual ball to-morrow night at the Grand Central Palace.

The girls have been rehearsing for six weeks and so great is the interest in the work that to accommodate all who desired to take part it was necessary to organize two casts and make two productions. They will be shown simultaneously.

The masque tells a story of vacation life. There will also be a varied program this year, including a Pike, with moving pictures, Spanish dances, a gypsy camp and the police dog Champion, which will perform all sorts of stunts. Mrs. Theresa Cerutti and her pupil, Miss Ethel Rubin, will appear in original dances.

BISHOP'S NEW HOME READY

Bishop Greer yesterday began transferring his household effects into his new home adjacent to the Cathedral of St. John the Divine. The house stands on the highest point of Morningside Heights and commands an extensive view.

Except for the $42,000 realized from the sale of the old Gramercy Park property, all the money necessary to erect it was contributed by members of the diocese. The residence cost $200,000.

LIFE OF ST. JOHN FOR ART WINDOWS

Cathedral Trustees Let Contract for Three of Seven To Be Built.

REID MEMORIAL FITS IN SCHEME

Cost Estimated at About $5,000 Each—Work on $1,000,000 Nave to Start in Fall.

The trustees of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine yesterday determined the scheme for the seven great windows that are to surround the sanctuary, and awarded to Powell, of London, the contract for the construction of three of them.

They are to tell the story of St. John the Divine, as recorded in his Revelation. Each window is 17 feet wide and 23 feet high, and is to be made of thirteenth-century English glass. It is said that they will be among the finest examples of the art in America. So important is the matter considered that James Powell came in person to assist with the designs and the orders for their execution.

The Whitelaw Reid memorial window, which is directly above the Belmont chapel and over the end of the apse, has for its subject "The Light of the World." As such, it fits in with the general scheme of the Revelation story.

One of the windows contracted for yesterday is directly above the St. Columba chapel or King memorial. In the tracery a part of the story of the seven churches is recorded, the beginning of the story having been made above the Huntington chapel, yet to be put in.

A second window is that above the St. Martin chapel, yet to be built, and is the first at the right of the Reid memorial. The third window, ordered yesterday, is above the St. Ambrose chapel, erected by Mrs. George L. Rives and consecrated only last week. It was said that the windows are to cost about $5,000 each, and when completed the scheme will contain seven windows.

The trustees reserved yesterday plots at the northeast corner of the cathedral site, fronting on Morningside ave. and 15th st., for homes for cathedral canon, Cram & Ferguson, Boston architects, were yesterday formally appointed architects for the nave. The work of erecting it is expected to start next fall.

Bishop Greer explained that this selection of architects does not determine the style of architecture of the exterior. It style of architecture of the exterior, it was said that most cathedrals have been built from without, but that the present one will be constructed from within, and almost the last thing to be determined will be the style.

The nave is to cost about $1,000,000, and about $500,000 is in hand to start work. The contract will be signed within a few days. The western end will go to within thirty feet of the sidewalk of Amsterdam st. It will seat four thousand people. It is found that the church is growing faster than the cathedral construction.

BILLINGS HIGHEST BIDDER

C. K. G. He gave $150 for the pair. W. W. Seaman, an agent, purchased for the same price two Queen Anne walnut armchairs, upholstered in mullberry damask.

Herbert L. Satterlee paid $35 for "Portrait of a Lady," an oil painting after a work of Rembrandt. For a Queen Anne walnut chest of drawers J. T. Blair gave $250, and W. W. Seaman, as agent, gave $200 for an English oak cabinet, upholstered in mullberry damask.

The total for this first session was $4,825. The sale will continue this afternoon.
