Comment and Gossip On Sports of the Day

Racing Season Opens Tomorrow at Belmont Park with High Promise.

MENTAL HAZARD TOO MUCH FOR TRAVERS

Skimpy Batting Holding Back the Yankees in Race for American League Pennant.

By Herbert.

Some of the associates in the Jockey Club have made ambitious plans for the thoroughbred racing season, which opens at Belmont Park tomorrow. One year ago a beginning was made for the rehabilitation of the sport, and in the face of many handicaps much was accomplished.

Those weak Western clubs of which so much has been written are just about holding their own in the East, and all indications point to the league being better balanced than for two or three years.

The Giants are nearing the end of their first Western trip, and so far they have been reasonably successful. The Pirates are still hanging tenaciously to the lead, but the National League champions are right at their heels and near enough to have dispelled the slight anxiety which arose in the early days of the season.

On Friday morning three of the local teams—the Yankees, Superbas and Tip Tops—were in exactly the same relative positions in their respective leagues.

England's criticism, and more particularly Harold H. Hilton's criticism, of our beaten golfers, who so boldly invaded the links abroad in search of the highest honors of the sport, has been wholly unfair.

As Grantland Rice so aptly says: "There is a destiny which shapes our shots, slugs at them as we will; and this destiny so far has ruled that Travers against England must be at his worst."

Anybody who wagers 2 to 1 on the United States to beat Great Britain in the coming polo matches is allowing his sentiment or a false sense of patriotism to sway his better judgment.

Robert C. Watson, president of the United States Golf Association, must be commended for his daring in trying to strip the mask from veiled professionalism as it exists in golf.

Superbas Outplay Reds and Pummel Rube Benton

Rally in Fifth, Scoring Four Runs on Five Heavy Hits—Allen in Form in Box.

Brooklyn, N. Y., May 24.—The Cincinnati Reds went down to defeat in the final game with the Brooklyn Superbas here to-day, by a score of 6 to 2.

The visitors outplayed the Reds both at the bat and in the field. Allen pitched sterling ball, and faultless fielding saved him at critical stages of the game.

Benton, regarded as Cincinnati's best twirler, was hit hard, especially in the fifth inning, when the visitors scored four runs on five hits, three of them for three bases.

The Superbas scored two more runs in the seventh, when Douglas, who relieved Benton, was hit for a single and a double.

Adams, who proved to be a hoodoo in the two games he pitched in the series, did not allow a hit in the inning he pitched.

Added to the drubbing administered to Benton were four fire-hot double plays that had Brooklyn horseshoes nailed up all over them.
