

ANTI-TRUST BILL PASSES THE HOUSE

Debate on Third and Last of Wilson Measures Begins at Once.

END OF WEEK TO SEE FINAL VOTE

Personal Guilt Provision Is Strengthened by Wisconsin Republican's Amendment.

Washington, June 2.—In practically unamended form the second of the administration's anti-trust bills...

At a slight session to-night debate began on the third and last of the administration measures...

During the closing hours of the debate today on the Clayton bill...

House Bulldozed, He Says.

Turning to Frank Morrison and Arthur Hoyer, members of the executive committee of the American Federation of Labor...

The only material amendment inserted in the bill to-day was offered by Representative Lenroot, a Wisconsin Republican.

The Lenroot amendment strengthens and rewrites the personal guilt provision of the Clayton bill...

Whenever a corporation shall violate any of the provisions of the anti-trust law such violation shall be deemed to be also that of the individual directors...

Old Clayton Bills Revived.

The anti-injunction and anti-contempt bills on the bill, to which the House devoted itself to-day, are the old Clayton bills...

"Plaza 5900, Please!"

"Oh,—hello! Is this Bloomingdale's?"

"Give me the Men's Clothing Department, please."

"Men's Clothing? Well, just let me know your prices on Men's Suits to measure."

"Yes, I want a neat business suit, but I don't want to pay a fancy price for it."

"How much—$17.50? Other prices? From $20.00, $22.00, $25.00, etc. Well, I'll be up this afternoon and let you take my measure."

"What's that? Am I an old customer?"

"Oh, yes—but not in the 'to-measure' Suit Department. But my friend, Mr. Harrison, was so pleased with his suit that I thought I'd try you out."

"Well, I'll be up later. Good-bye."

said Mr. Moore in the course of his speech, "If I stood here as a representative of the people and voted to exempt Samuel Gompers or Frank Morrison or others up there in the gallery from the operation of the criminal laws of the country, and made a special class of them or any hundred of them."

N. H. EARNINGS ON RISE, SAYS ELLIOTT

Even Westchester Revenue Jumps—System Soon May Pay Operating Cost.

At a special meeting of the directors of the New Haven yesterday, Chairman Howard Elliott and Arthur T. Hadley and John L. Richards, the committee appointed last December to arrange for the examination and auditing of the books of the company by outside accountants...

After the meeting Mr. Elliott said that the report of the New Haven system for the month of April, which will be made public to-day, will show a big improvement over April of 1913.

For ten months in 1913 the Westchester proper did not earn operating expenses and taxes by $233,000. In the same period this year the deficit is but $123,000.

On the proposal of Governor Walsh of Massachusetts that that state take over the Boston & Maine stock owned by the New Haven, Mr. Elliott said he had written Mr. Walsh some time ago, asking that the Legislature take such action as might be necessary to enable the New Haven to carry out the dissolution plan agreed on...

Last night several directors of the company, including William Skinner and Lewis Cass Ledyard, a former director, left for Washington to testify before the Interstate Commerce Commission to-day.

What the former will testify to is not known. The employees of the company, including accountants, operating and engineering men, will furnish data bearing on recent testimony, and, according to Mr. Elliott, will "correct erroneous impressions relative to the affairs of the company which have crept into the record."

William Rockefeller was not present at the meeting. Agents of the Interstate Commerce Commission, who were said to be seeking him, had not located him for the purpose of interviewing prior to their departure for the Capitol.

CHEER UP! THE QUIZ MAY END JUNE 20

Clerks Are Still Busy with "Poor Richards," but There's No Mixing in Quarrels.

The staff of clerks of the firm of Hastings & Sells, who are wallowing among the answers to The Tribune's "Ben Franklin Quiz," are hazy in the fact that they, too, are to have a vacation before long...

How are you going to spend your share of it? Before you answer it might be well to see whether you gave this answer to Pictograph No. 7, which appeared on March 28:

"Those who in quarrels interpose must often wipe a bloody nose."

Herewith are names of ten persons that are well up in the list of those that have submitted answers to the "Quiz," and while these are not sure winners they may be among the prize winners in the final check.

SHE'D ADMIT MURDER TO ESCAPE ASYLUM

Mrs. Holman Testifies She Confessed to Misconduct to Gain Release.

(By Telegram to The Tribune.) Hartford, Conn., June 2.—When Mrs. Elizabeth Alden Curtis Holman walked to the witness stand in Judge E. S. Thomas's courtroom here to-day to testify in the $50,000 suit for damages she has brought against Professor Cranston Brenton...

Persons acquainted with all those in the case flooded to hear Mrs. Holman tell on the stand her story of her first husband's forcing her to write a letter to him acknowledging misconduct with her second husband, specifying time and place as the price of her release from an insane asylum.

Book dealers took advantage of the occasion to exhibit in their windows copies of Mrs. Holman's book of verse "The Norseman." Sales were frequent.

Mrs. Holman met the ordeal with outward self-control, though occasional breaks and catches in her voice showed the emotional strain she was laboring under.

In a low voice the witness told the jury that on September 2, 1912, her husband introduced her to Drs. O. C. Smith and Paul Waterman. They examined her and told her she would have to be taken to a sanatorium.

Evict Women in Raid on City Hall Park Stands

Secretary Fehr and Employees, Obeying Commissioner Ward's Economy Order, Drive Out Newspaper Venders and Bootblacks—Some in Business Many Years.

City Hall Park traditions of more than a score of years were abruptly overturned yesterday afternoon when Louis W. Fehr, secretary of the Park Board, obeying the orders of Park Commissioner Cabot Ward...

Among those who have been told they cannot continue at all is Mrs. Louis Lepner, who has sold papers in the park for twenty-seven years.

Old women wept as they saw park laborers carry away their stands and put them under the elevated approach to the Brooklyn Bridge.

The action taken yesterday was in line with a plan being worked out by Commissioner Ward for better control and distribution of department concessions.

Some of the stands were relocated near the subway kiosks and the bootblack stands under the elevated approach to the bridge.

Four of the fifteen bootblack stands were abolished altogether. It was learned that two of them were owned by a saloonkeeper in New Jersey.

Before Commissioner Stover's time no revenue was received by the city for the park stands. He issued special permits for $12 a year.

TRAILING "ANGELS" BARE SEARS'S LOVE

One Says He Caressed Actress and Held Hands in Public.

HE BARELY ESCAPES JAIL FOR CONTEMPT

New Thought Church Founder Seeking Divorce Accuses Husband of Trifling.

More testimony was given in the Supreme Court yesterday by the "ministering angels" who took upon themselves the work of trailing Dr. Frank W. Sears, who is being sued by Dr. Julia Seton Sears for a divorce.

During the proceeding Mr. Sears gave expression to a thought that came near causing his commitment to jail for contempt of court.

Mr. Sears shouted, "Your honor, I demand the arrest of that scoundrel!"

"Sit down, sir," said Justice Giergich, rapping with his gavel.

Miss May Connor said that she followed Miss Langdon and Mr. Sears two of December when the scandal was finally ventilated.

Douglas was on duty as officer of the deck on the Mayflower. His tour of duty was either from 8 to 12 or 12 to 4 on the night in question.

Dinner, it is said, was served, and there was plenty of liquid refreshments.

Because of the social prominence of the two men and because the President's yacht had been used for the escapade the Secretary understood that a scandal involving them would be extremely distasteful to the President.

The President, having been informed, it was said, told his Secretary that it was most desirable for many reasons to keep the affair quiet.

For Little there were no extenuating circumstances, nor was the Secretary inclined to think that Douglas deserved consideration.

Douglas made the football team his first year and played a brilliant game until he broke his leg after flashing around Princeton's right end for twenty-five yards.

Mr. Daniels decided that Little's resignation "for the good of the service" would be the best solution of the problem of suppressing the scandal.

Mr. Daniels was ordered to report to the U. S. S. Buffalo and left at once for that ship.

Mr. Daniels still thought Douglas should resign, but that the President favored a milder punishment.
