CRITICISM OF KING GOES ON UNABATED

Unionist Leaders Bank In Advance on Making Interparty
Conference Abortive.

(By Cable to the Tribune.)
London, July 22. The most remarkable and important feature of the latest development of the Home Rule crisis is the growth of the agitation against the King on account of his speech to the eight members of the Buckingham Palace conference. Premier Asquith was interrogated on the subject of this speech in the House of Commons yesterday, and his answer had a chilling effect on the Ministerial party.

The Prime Minister accepted full responsibility for the speech. Indeed, he did not do otherwise without the King's consent. He said, "The ordinary way by his majesty's speech to the eight members of the Buckingham Palace conference, Premier Asquith was interrogated on the subject of this speech in the House of Commons yesterday, and his answer had a chilling effect on the Ministerial party."

King Author of Own Speech.
It is one of the constitutional maxims of Great Britain that the Prime Minister is responsible for the government. It is used to be thought that the King's words were actually those of the Ministers, but this is not so in the present case. The King, being the author of his own speech, he sent it to Premier Asquith for his approval.

It is almost unthinkable that the Prime Minister could have indited the unfortunate sentence in the speech to the eight members of the Buckingham Palace conference, namely: "The cry of civil war is on the lips of the most responsible and sober minded of my people, and it is considered a thing of no consequence when taken to this extent, no exception was first submitted to the Prime Minister, and still more remarkable that no objection was offered by any of the eight members of the conference."

Deviation from Old Paths.
His majesty is genuinely anxious to bring about peace with honor on the Irish question. The idea of a conference did not originate with him. It is a result of deviating from the old path has been to involve the King in embarrassments not of his own making.

The second session of the conference at Buckingham Palace yesterday was followed by a scene which could not fail to impress itself with great significance on all the onlookers. The King called the part of the speech which he considered the most important, and the chief characters of the conference, namely, the Irish delegates.

As John Redmond and John Dillon walked away from the palace they were received with great enthusiasm by a large crowd. A demonstration of the attention of a number of Irish guardsmen who were standing about the parade ground at Wellington barracks, along the front of which the King and his party were passing, and the King, waving their hats, joined in the cheering with such vigor and effect that their comrades within the building were alarmed to see the King and his party.

One battalion of the British army, at any rate, has given a pretty clear indication of its views on the dominant question of the day, disposing at once of all the talk of the time of the Secretary of State for War of the army being loyal to a man.

Prospects of the Conference.
The conference will meet again at Buckingham Palace this morning, but it is generally expected that it can come to no agreement, and today's sitting may therefore be the last. The government is willing that the conference should continue if there is any prospect of its resulting in a settlement, but neither Sir Edward Carson nor John Redmond will make the last session.

Active negotiations are proceeding outside of Buckingham Palace between the party leaders. Premier Asquith had an interview last night with Lord Lansdowne and Andrew Bonar Law, the Opposition leaders, between two separate sittings of the Cabinet, which, it is presumed, is engaged in preparing proposals for submission to the conference.

Adjusted meeting of the Nationalist leaders, the Nationalist leader, received to night resolutions adopted at a conference at Omagh of Nationalist delegates from the counties of Kerry, Tyrone and Londonderry, and declaring at the risk of their lives the Nationalists of Ulster would never consent to be separated from the Irish nation.

Question of Areas in Ulster and the possibility of dividing them were explored in the conversations yesterday, but only to reach a deadlock. At today's meeting a statement may be drawn up of the position attained.

The Unionist leaders have banked in advance on making the conference abortive and forcing a general election about the second week of August, but the Liberals are still sanguine of their ability to keep the government in office until the quinquennial term of Parliament expires.

That the conference in Buckingham Palace will end in a peaceful and successful result is a hopeful prospect.

settlement is evidenced by the fact that the work of repairing and painting a part of the interior of York Cottage, Sandringham, which was to have been begun on Monday next, has been postponed. Yesterday instructions were sent from Buckingham Palace to the steward at York Cottage that the residence should be kept in readiness for the King's departure and countermanding the holiday of the servants who always go home at this period of the year while the court is at Balmoral. If hostilities were to break out in Ireland the King would not go so far from London as Balmoral.

Winston Churchill May Resign.
At the close of the Cabinet council held last night it became known that there is only the smallest prospect of the conference arriving at an agreement and its termination when it resembles to-day is regarded as certain.

Sir Edward Carson, it is understood, stands out for the complete exclusion of six counties in Ulster from the operation of the Home Rule bill, including Fermanagh and Tyrone, while John Redmond declines as firmly to go beyond the concessions Premier Asquith already has made in permitting county referendums.

All kinds of rumors are current, one that Winston Spencer Churchill, First Lord of the Admiralty, representing the minority in the Cabinet favoring the clean cut exclusion of Ulster, had threatened to resign, another that the King will make another dramatic move at the conference and a third that a speedy election has become inevitable.

FIND WOMEN DRUG ADDICTS FISHED

Police Take Teacher and Sister from Court to Hospital.

Emma Clark, twenty-five years old, a former school teacher, and her sister, Hannah Clark, thirty-one years old, were found Monday afternoon, suffering from effects of opium, in their home, 322 2d st., Brooklyn. Yesterday, after they had been taken to the Flatbush court, Magistrate Dodd ordered their removal to Kings County Hospital.

Emma, a clerk, and Hannah, a domestic, were found in a room in the Flatbush court, suffering from nervous trouble, and on the recommendation of a physician took opium in small quantities. She and her sister became addicted to the drug, Emma, however, frequently late at school, lost her position.

Fearing that the women had committed suicide or were starving, neighbors notified the police. Detective Valentine reached the two women on a bed in a stupor and half fished. There were two hypodermic syringes and a quantity of opium in the room.

When taken to court yesterday the women collapsed. An effort is being made by the police to learn from what source the opium was obtained.

Margaret Schultz, a widow, was tried yesterday before a jury in the United States District Court in Manhattan on a charge of manufacturing smoking opium in her apartments, 87 East 4th st. The jury returned a sealed verdict.

Flora Morris, fifty-one years old, of 72 West 10th st., was held in $1,000 bail by Magistrate Murphy, in the West Side Court, for having morphine and cocaine in her apartments. She was suffering from the lack of the narcotics when arrested.

Mrs. Mary Marrow, a widow, forty-one years old, of 282 West 115th st., was in the Harlem court yesterday for selling morphine. She was held in $1,000 bail for examination to-morrow.

Richard Viguria, twenty-eight years old; Wilbert Grant, a waiter; Abraham Silverberg, typesetter; and Morris Gilbert, a clerk, of 361 Tenth st., were sentenced to the penitentiary yesterday in the Court of Special Session for vending heroin and cocaine.

Notwithstanding the recent law against its sale bichloride of mercury is being sold by some druggists in a solution. Dr. Charles Frederick Pabst yesterday told Health Commissioner Goldwater.

Reputable pharmacists are not endeavoring to evade the law by this method, Dr. Pabst said. It is the belief of the Health Commissioner that many of the druggists of the city have been active in the drug distributing recently and is charged with having issued prescription for drugs under the name of Dr. Reed. Such prescriptions were found recently in another raid.

Mary French, a woman, of 14 West 26th st., was arrested yesterday on a charge of having sold three times on charges of having drugs in her possession, but on a time has received a suspended sentence because of her age, sixty-five years. She lived at 14 West 26th st. and the others arrested were Mary Morris, 67 West 10th st., and Mary French, the owner of the apartment.

of National Association.

Furniture dealers, representing local furniture associations all over the country were present yesterday when the first annual convention of the National Home Furnishers' Association was called to order at the New York Furniture Exchange by Henry L. Kincaid, president of the association. At the convention dealers were welcomed to New York by C. Ludwig Baumann.

Among the speakers was Charles A. Smith, of Boston, who talked on "Fraudulent Advertising." The second day of the convention will be called at 10 a. m. to-day. Among the delegates were:

HAND SEARCHLIGHTS TRAP FOR NIGHT JOY RIDERS

Second Deputy Police Commissioner Develops a Scheme
Which He Believes Will Force Speeding Autos to Hesitate—Powerful Ray to Reveal Car Number.

When you have spent a pleasant evening in a tango resort along Broadway or thereabouts, and have hesitated and maxixed with a charming young partner, and absorbed a few "pink ones" (the "you" is entirely impersonal), it is perfectly natural that you should feel somewhat exhilarated. And it's not unnatural that when you leave there in your high powered car, with or without your charming partner, you should feel a lordly disdain for such mere trifles as policemen and speed laws. But have a care. Here's a straight tip: if you don't look out the Police Department will surely get you.

That is what will happen. The next morning, just as you are taking your bath, a patrolman will present to you a summons to appear in court and pay a large sized fine for speeding. How did they get your number? Easy. They got it from your headlights. Commissioner J. Robert Rubin and his new searchlight.

It happened in the early hours of the morning several evenings ago. Mr. Rubin and a friend were driving home through the West Drive of Central Park. They were traveling sedately in a dinky little runabout, motored by a well known philanthropist. All good New Yorkers know that a police commissioner, or a deputy either, rides in nothing but a high powered touring car.

There is just where Rubin slipped one over, gave the general public the double cross. Nobody expected to see him in a runabout, and the "P. D." coming from the rear axle passed unnoticed.

DON'T CARE TO HEAR COLONEL

Senate Democrats Not Disposed to Listen to His Panama Canal Story.

(From The Tribune Bureau.)
Washington, July 22. Democratic members of the Foreign Relations Committee of the Senate showed a disposition to-day to deny the request of Colonel Roosevelt for an opportunity to give his side of the controversy over the Colombian treaty and to explain the negotiations leading up to the acquisition of the Canal Zone. No action was taken on the request.

Colonel Roosevelt should tell his story, the Democrats displayed much reluctance to allow him to enter directly into the discussion of the treaty.

Colonel Roosevelt's letter to the chairman of the committee said: "If there is any intention of your committee to take favorable action on the proposed treaty with Colombia, by which we are to pay Colombia $25,000,000 and to express regret for the action taken in the past, I respectfully request to be heard."

The then Secretary of State, John Hay, who is now dead, had almost completed a first hand knowledge of the matter, but no man now living, except myself, has this first hand knowledge; and no man, living or dead, shared with me the responsibility for the action I took, save in a wholly minor degree.

When I was asked to appear before you to make a full statement of exactly what I did, and of what was done by my orders, to state the reasons therefor, and to answer any questions that you or the members of your body, choose to put to me."

4 KILLED, 21 HURT IN TROLLEY WRECK

was a member of the First Methodist church and secretary of the Epworth League. She was twenty-three years old and was born in Torrington, Conn. Her father, who is a traveling real estate man, is now at Asbury Park, N. J.

Raymond Fuller lost his life through his desire to ride on the front seat. The boy had gone to the picnic in company with his mother, Mrs. George W. Fuller, his sister, Ethel, and his grandmother, Mrs. Langdon. On the way back the family sat in the second car, but little Raymond fretted at not being on the front seat of the first car where some of his friends were seated.

Mrs. Fuller reluctantly consented, and when the car stopped at a switch just before the accident, Raymond slipped under the side rail, and to the front car and took his place on the front seat. A moment later he was killed.

At the Norwalk Hospital: Mary Smith, 18 State st., dislocated left wrist, nose fractured; Clark Smith, eleven, both legs broken; Mildred Smith, sister, 210 Pearl st., twenty, both legs broken; Mr. and Mrs. William Gillespie, 38 Sherman st., internal injuries; Mrs. Raymond, wife of the assistant superintendent of Bridgeport Hospital, shock; Mary Howard, 17 Myrtle st., dislocated arm; Mrs. Davidson, Bridgeport, nose broken; Lillian Abbott, Providence, arm broken; Helen Duray, Long Island City, nose broken. Others are being examined.

Clark A. Miller, another official of the company, was out on $20,000 bail when he killed himself with a revolver at his home in New Rochelle, in May, 1913.

International & Gt. Northern.
A banker interested in the financing of the International & Great Northern Railway's $11,000,000 issue of three-year 4 per cent notes, maturing August 1, said yesterday that while no definite date had yet been agreed upon, the noteholders would in all probability be asked to extend their notes for another year. The terms of the extension have yet to be determined. A conference of the bankers involved in the flotation of the notes will be held to-day, at which it is expected George Gould will be present.

Won't Send Officers to Fair.
Washington, July 22. The Secretary of War has been compelled to deny the request of the managers of the Panama-Pacific Exposition to detail a considerable number of army officers and regulars to serve in various capacities during the fair next year. Officers and men would have to be detailed at once to assume the suggested duties, and nothing can be done except by special legislation, which the Department is not disposed to recommend.

INTERVENTION IN HAYTI IMMINENT

Powers, Will Demand
Tranquillity.

BRYAN MAY SEND ADDITIONAL MARINES

Commercial Activities Suspended in Puerto Plata While Factions Stay at Loggerheads.

Washington, July 22. Pressed by European powers, the United States government has about lost its patience with the various elements in the republics of Hayti and San Domingo and is preparing a restoration of peace under penalty of armed intervention.

Secretary Bryan will confer to-morrow with Secretary Daniels about a possible movement of marines into Hayti. Already large discretionary orders have been given Captain Russell of the battleship South Carolina, now at Cape Haitien, but final decision as to whether force is to be used by the American government has been deferred.

Reports from Cape Haitien of further fighting with added danger to foreigners were regarded to-night as forecasting prompt action by the marines now being concentrated at Guantanamo.

Not only have the military forces in Hayti refused to heed the warnings of the American government that fighting should cease and properties be protected, but dispatches to-night from Captain Eberle of the cruiser Washington, at Puerto Plata, San Domingo, reported the failure of attempts to settle the Dominican revolution by diplomacy.

The superior junta of the Legistla party has refused to enter into negotiations with the Dominican government. Captain Eberle said the factions seemed to distrust each other. Commercial activities at Puerto Plata have been suspended.

Secretary Daniels decided to-day that the additional four hundred marines to be sent to Guantanamo, Cuba, for service at Hayti would be embarked at Norfolk, Va., Saturday, on the transport Hancock, now en route to Hampton Roads from Guantanamo. There are now more than five hundred marines at Guantanamo or on American warships in Haytian and Dominican waters.

Reinforcements, if needed, could be drawn from Vera Cruz and Mexican gulf waters. There are now some three thousand marines under General Funston's command, and nearly another thousand could be gathered from the warships.

MRS. WAKEFIELD FAINTS Says Coroner Slapped Her— Repudiates Statements.

(By Telegraph to the Tribune.)
New Haven, July 22. Repudiating as a forced confession statements made to Coroner Mix, Mrs. Beattie Wakefield to-day took the witness stand in her second trial on the charge of murdering her husband. She asserted that Coroner Mix slapped her on the back and said:

"Tell the truth, if you don't want to get mixed up in this affair, in order that you can go back to the children. Everything will be all right in a few days."

After accusing Coroner Mix, Mrs. Wakefield collapsed in the witness chair, sobbing hysterically when State Attorney Alling asked her when her relations began with James Flinn, father King, she is accused of being. Her counsel protested, and Judge Reed excused her from answering this question.

He will give his decision to-morrow on allowing Mrs. Wakefield's statements to Coroner Mix to be read to the jury.

MILITANTS STOP COURT
Judge Adjourns Case Against Woman, Refusing Bail.

Belfast, July 22. A crowd of militant suffragettes created a wild tumult in the Assize Court and its vicinity to-day when Miss Dorothy Evans, an official of the Belfast branch of the Women's Social and Political Union, was brought up for trial, charged with having in her possession explosives for the purpose of committing a felony. Miss Evans had been arrested in the house of the Lord Mayor of Belfast.

Miss Evans and her supporters so successfully blocked the proceedings that the judge adjourned the case to the next Assizes, refusing to accept bail.

CARRIERS LIABLE IN FULL Senate Modifies Provisions of House Securities Bill.

(From The Tribune Bureau.)
Washington, July 22.—The securities bill, the third of the administration anti-trust measures, which was made public to-day, will probably be finally passed upon and reported to the Senate by the Interstate Commerce Committee to-morrow.

In the form in which it now stands the Senate bill materially modifies the House provisions requiring common carriers to issue bills of lading or receipts for shipments, and makes the initial carrier responsible for loss or damage to the full value, except where goods shipped are hidden from view by wrappings or boxes.

The provisions giving authority to the Interstate Commerce Commission to pass upon all issues of stocks or bonds by steam railroads, the use to which the proceeds shall be put and the minimum price at which they shall be sold are the bones of contention in the committee, and they may be still further modified before the bill is reported to the Senate.

GIRLS FLEE PLANT FIRE Flames Rout Nearly 100 Workers—Blaze Is Brisk.

Fifty girls and two score men made their escape to the street yesterday when fire occurred in a five story loft building at 407 to 413 East 91st st., which is occupied by several manufacturing concerns.

It took an hour to get the blaze under control, and the damage will probably amount to $20,000. Most of the girls were workers in a bead button factory. The premises of the firm, Majestic Brass Needle Company, J. Guborsky and Nathan & Daniels were the most damaged.

MADDOO AGAIN ATTACKED
Washington, July 22. Another attack on Secretary McAdoo for alleged use of revenue cutters "for private purposes" was made in the House to-day by Representative Good, of Iowa, a Republican.

Good declared that the cutter Apache almost every Friday was brought to Washington from Baltimore, used to carry a pleasure party down the Potomac, and returned to Baltimore on Tuesday.
