

Yale Not Likely to Find Princeton an Easy Prey To-day

Everything Points to Victory for the Blue, but Not Without a Fight.

LACK OF OFFENCE WEAKNESS OF TIGERS

Comparison of Players Points to Greater Strength in Backfield for Frank Hinkey's Team.

By HERBERT. Dr. Bull, one of the Yale coaches, said to me Tuesday: "Yale never finds Princeton as Harvard did on Saturday. The players were dead on their feet, and they will be different next Saturday. We are counting on our usual hard game."

No doubt there is much truth in this analysis of the Princeton team's almost unorthodox appearance against Harvard at Cambridge last Saturday, but it strikes me that the Tigers will have to show much more than mere fire and dash to beat Yale in the new Palmer Stadium before 41,000 men and women at Princeton this afternoon.

One week, or really only four days, is much too short a time to equip a football eleven with the necessary offensive power, and this power is especially lacking against Dartmouth and Harvard, and even against Williams, that it does not seem reasonable to believe that the drive and scoring punch is there by the ordinary methods of a straight running attack combined with the passing game.

Princeton Defence Strong. Princeton has a strong defence, of that I feel convinced, even though it was badly split and made to look commonplace against Harvard's sharp and varied offence a week ago.

Even a strong defence, however, without the proper weapons for scoring points will avail little if Yale is so strong as indications have pointed in two or three games this year and in the secret practice which I saw last week to see the last Tuesday. I agree with Dr. Bull that the Tigers will come back from their crushing defeat and play something like the football capable—and not I do not see how the Tigers can rally enough after showing so little against Harvard as to save a more or less disastrous season by a victory over Yale.

For two years ago the eleven have played to a tie score in their annual meeting, but a decision of some sort is almost sure to be reached to-day. The Yale eleven, made up largely of more or less green material, is facing what may be called its first real test. Frank Hinkey has worked along new lines, and made more, so far as can be judged, of the wide open lateral passing game than any other coach. There is no lack of boldness in using these plays, either, and if they work against a specially prepared defence there is no telling how big a score the Blue will run up.

Where Yale May Be Strong. There is no gaining the fact that the Yale defence has not been so reckoned in some of the earlier games as expected. It was easily broken down and swept aside by the strong Washington and Jefferson teams, and was far from invulnerable against the Brown team, which, however, has come along fast since the Cornell game and is now more worthy opponent. This may be said, however: Frank Hinkey has been devoting more time in the last two weeks to stiffening the defence, once he had his attack running smoothly and compact and strong to me last Tuesday against the "varsity substitutes."

Yale is a pronounced favorite, but this is due largely to Princeton's lack of a wide-open attack, and, as said before, so much stock must not be taken in what was seen at Cambridge. After the many upsets and surprises which have troubled the Blue since the Cornell game, it is not likely to be an easy conquest.

Opposing Centres on a Par. When it comes to a comparison of the players on each team, Princeton does not suffer, except perhaps in the backfield, Gennert, of Princeton, is a wide-area center and is probably the best up to the average. He was more conspicuous against Dartmouth than against Harvard, but on the whole was steady and reliable in both games, unknown quantity. He is a strong, heavy fellow, with plenty of aggressiveness, and passes well, but on all that has been seen there is little to choose between them.

Individually, Eddie Trenkmann and Shenk, the Princeton guards, stand out because of their proved value over the Yale pair, Walden and Conroy, both of whom are playing in their first big game, having been graduated from the freshman eleven of last year. Trenkmann has a keen nose for the ball and is remarkably fast and aggressive, while Shenk earned a place on the All-American team in 1912. The Yale pair have all the qualifications necessary for good guards, but their aggressiveness and speed are not so much in evidence as in the case of Trenkmann and Shenk.

Ballin a Host in Himself. Captain Ballin, of Princeton, was a host in himself against Harvard, and his dashing, brilliant work in that game will never be forgotten. It seemed almost as if he did fully half the tackling for his team, while his quick diagnosing of plays and sharp following of the ball were a pleasure to watch. McLean, his running mate at the other tackle, also is a capable player, but he is lacking in aggressiveness against Harvard. Opposed to these will be Captain Talbot, of Yale, one of the best tackles developed in recent years, in my opinion, and Betts, who while highly promising is lacking in experience. He earned first call over experience. He earned first call over experience.

Ballin a Host in Himself. Captain Ballin, of Princeton, was a host in himself against Harvard, and his dashing, brilliant work in that game will never be forgotten. It seemed almost as if he did fully half the tackling for his team, while his quick diagnosing of plays and sharp following of the ball were a pleasure to watch. McLean, his running mate at the other tackle, also is a capable player, but he is lacking in aggressiveness against Harvard. Opposed to these will be Captain Talbot, of Yale, one of the best tackles developed in recent years, in my opinion, and Betts, who while highly promising is lacking in experience. He earned first call over experience.

Ballin a Host in Himself. Captain Ballin, of Princeton, was a host in himself against Harvard, and his dashing, brilliant work in that game will never be forgotten. It seemed almost as if he did fully half the tackling for his team, while his quick diagnosing of plays and sharp following of the ball were a pleasure to watch. McLean, his running mate at the other tackle, also is a capable player, but he is lacking in aggressiveness against Harvard. Opposed to these will be Captain Talbot, of Yale, one of the best tackles developed in recent years, in my opinion, and Betts, who while highly promising is lacking in experience. He earned first call over experience.

Ballin a Host in Himself. Captain Ballin, of Princeton, was a host in himself against Harvard, and his dashing, brilliant work in that game will never be forgotten. It seemed almost as if he did fully half the tackling for his team, while his quick diagnosing of plays and sharp following of the ball were a pleasure to watch. McLean, his running mate at the other tackle, also is a capable player, but he is lacking in aggressiveness against Harvard. Opposed to these will be Captain Talbot, of Yale, one of the best tackles developed in recent years, in my opinion, and Betts, who while highly promising is lacking in experience. He earned first call over experience.

Ballin a Host in Himself. Captain Ballin, of Princeton, was a host in himself against Harvard, and his dashing, brilliant work in that game will never be forgotten. It seemed almost as if he did fully half the tackling for his team, while his quick diagnosing of plays and sharp following of the ball were a pleasure to watch. McLean, his running mate at the other tackle, also is a capable player, but he is lacking in aggressiveness against Harvard. Opposed to these will be Captain Talbot, of Yale, one of the best tackles developed in recent years, in my opinion, and Betts, who while highly promising is lacking in experience. He earned first call over experience.

Ballin a Host in Himself. Captain Ballin, of Princeton, was a host in himself against Harvard, and his dashing, brilliant work in that game will never be forgotten. It seemed almost as if he did fully half the tackling for his team, while his quick diagnosing of plays and sharp following of the ball were a pleasure to watch. McLean, his running mate at the other tackle, also is a capable player, but he is lacking in aggressiveness against Harvard. Opposed to these will be Captain Talbot, of Yale, one of the best tackles developed in recent years, in my opinion, and Betts, who while highly promising is lacking in experience. He earned first call over experience.

ITS GOING TO BE A MERRY SCRAP

By BRIGGS. "WON'T YOU WALK INTO MY STADIUM?" SAID THE TIGER TO ELI, "'TIS THE PRETTIEST LITTLE STADIUM THAT EVER YOU DID SPY"

THE SWEETEST WORDS. YALE AND TIGERS READY FOR FRAY. Both Eleven Go Through Formations to Wind Up Their Work.

Dartmouth Eleven Favorite for Game with Pennsylvania

Promise of Keen Sport, with Brown Having a Chance to Catch Harvard Napping.

By HERBERT. Yale and Princeton hold the centre of the football stage this afternoon, but other games quite as gripping to their particular followers are sure to provide keen struggles and command much interest.

First in importance of these, perhaps, is the meeting between Dartmouth and Pennsylvania at Franklin Field, Philadelphia. The Hanover team effort, but a complete metamorphosis will have to be worked if Dartmouth is to be victorious.

Two other games which stand out are those between Cornell and Michigan at Ann Arbor, and Amherst and Williams at Amherst. The latter was full detail, so that it is only necessary to repeat here that Williams seems to hold the winning advantage.

A few words, however, must be said for the struggle at Ann Arbor, as it may be illuminating in pointing the way to the probable outcome of the game between Cornell and Pennsylvania in Philadelphia on Thanksgiving Day. Last Saturday, the Wolverines fairly smothered the Quakers by a score of 34 to 3, but unless all signs fall Michigan will find the Cornell eleven made of sterner stuff.

The men are in fine condition for the approaching contest, which is the last game on Michigan's schedule.

Princeton Prep. Eleven Victor. Princeton, N. J., Nov. 13.—The football team of the Princeton Preparatory School to-day defeated the Peckskill Military Academy by a score of 21 to 0.

Wesleyan Ready for Trinity. Middletown, Conn., Nov. 13.—Since the showing Wesleyan made last week against the fast Williams eleven, heretofore, the city to-morrow has been going up.

With Captain Kenan in fine trim for the game, Wesleyan should enter the contest with her old rival with the chance for a victory, but even Trinity will send down a large delegation on a special train.

The line-up will be the same as last week: Nourse, left end; Wilkinson, left tackle; Young, left guard; Eaton, center; Sargeant, right guard; Gordon, right tackle; Howard, right end; Sloum, quarter; Newhall, left half; Johnson, right half; Kenan, fullback.

Brown Plans Open Game. Providence, Nov. 13.—The Brown football team to-day wound up its preparations for the game against Harvard to-morrow with a snappy signal drill.

The substitutes put in a hard day's work to-day, and are expected to show as much football as they did during the last quarter against the Tigers a week ago. The line-up for the Brown game is: Parmer, left end; Morgan, left tackle; Underwood, left guard; Haggis, center; Withington, right guard; Bigelow, right tackle; Weatherhead, right end; Watson, quarterback; McKinlock, left half; Whitney, right halfback, and King, fullback.

Amherst Ready to Battle Hard. Amherst, Mass., Nov. 13.—All preparations for the final game of the year against Williams on Pratt Field to-morrow were finished by the Amherst football squad this afternoon.

Plenty of girls are here for the annual senior promenade in the gymnasium this evening, and the combined musical clubs of Yale and Princeton gave a joint concert in Alexander Hall to-morrow.

The new field which will be the scene of to-morrow's game was formally given over to the university this afternoon, when, in the presence of the undergraduates, Edgar Palmer, of the class of '08, presented it to President John Grier Hibben, who accepted it on behalf of the trustees of the university.

Between the halves of the game a collection will be taken up for the benefit of the Red Cross. This scheme was tried at Cambridge last week at the Harvard-Princeton game, and proved most successful. It is understood here that the same plan will be followed next week at the Harvard-Yale game.

Leading Football Games To-day

Table listing football games: EAST. Yale vs. Princeton, Harvard vs. Brown, Penn. vs. Dartmouth, Williams vs. Amherst, Lafayette vs. Albright, Pittsburgh vs. Carnegie Tech. WEST. Michigan vs. Cornell, Notre Dame vs. Marquette, Chicago vs. Illinois, Minnesota vs. Wisconsin, Northwestern vs. Purdue, Oberlin vs. Ohio State.

SCHOOL GAMES

Clinton vs. Morris, Commercial vs. N. M. A., Erasmus vs. Boss' High, Bay Ridge vs. St. John's Prep.

Harvard Subs to Face Brown

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 13.—Brown's snappy football team, which showed so much dash and ginger against Yale a week ago, will come to Cambridge to-morrow to fulfill its annual engagement with Harvard.

Wesleyan Ready for Trinity

Middletown, Conn., Nov. 13.—Since the showing Wesleyan made last week against the fast Williams eleven, heretofore, the city to-morrow has been going up.

How Tigers Will Take the Field Against Yale Eleven

Yale. Sept. 26—Yale, 20; Maine, 0; Oct. 3—Yale, 21; Virginia, 0; Oct. 10—Yale, 20; Lehigh, 3; Oct. 17—Yale, 28; Notre Dame, 0; Oct. 24—Yale, 7; Wash. and Jct., 13; Oct. 31—Yale, 9; Colgate, 7; Nov. 7—Yale, 14; Brown, 2.

Princeton

Sept. 26—Princeton, 12; Rutgers, 0; Oct. 3—Princeton, 10; Bucknell, 0; Oct. 10—Princeton, 12; Syracuse, 7; Oct. 17—Princeton, 16; Lafayette, 0; Oct. 24—Princeton, 16; Dartmouth, 12; Oct. 31—Princeton, 7; Williams, 1; Nov. 7—Princeton, 0; Harvard, 20.

AMHERST READY TO BATTLE HARD

Student Body Confident, Despite Good Record of Williams.

Amherst, Mass., Nov. 13.—All preparations for the final game of the year against Williams on Pratt Field to-morrow were finished by the Amherst football squad this afternoon.

Cornell Almost Sure to Give Michigan a Battle That May Cause a Surprise.

Theodore Von Glahn, manager of the New York University football team, announced yesterday that the Violet players would be numbered in the contest with Stevens at Castle Point Field, Hoboken, today.

Wesleyan Ready for Trinity

Middletown, Conn., Nov. 13.—Since the showing Wesleyan made last week against the fast Williams eleven, heretofore, the city to-morrow has been going up.

Harvard Subs to Face Brown

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 13.—Brown's snappy football team, which showed so much dash and ginger against Yale a week ago, will come to Cambridge to-morrow to fulfill its annual engagement with Harvard.

Wesleyan Ready for Trinity

Middletown, Conn., Nov. 13.—Since the showing Wesleyan made last week against the fast Williams eleven, heretofore, the city to-morrow has been going up.

How Tigers Will Take the Field Against Yale Eleven

Yale. Sept. 26—Yale, 20; Maine, 0; Oct. 3—Yale, 21; Virginia, 0; Oct. 10—Yale, 20; Lehigh, 3; Oct. 17—Yale, 28; Notre Dame, 0; Oct. 24—Yale, 7; Wash. and Jct., 13; Oct. 31—Yale, 9; Colgate, 7; Nov. 7—Yale, 14; Brown, 2.

Princeton

Sept. 26—Princeton, 12; Rutgers, 0; Oct. 3—Princeton, 10; Bucknell, 0; Oct. 10—Princeton, 12; Syracuse, 7; Oct. 17—Princeton, 16; Lafayette, 0; Oct. 24—Princeton, 16; Dartmouth, 12; Oct. 31—Princeton, 7; Williams, 1; Nov. 7—Princeton, 0; Harvard, 20.

AMHERST READY TO BATTLE HARD

Student Body Confident, Despite Good Record of Williams.

Amherst, Mass., Nov. 13.—All preparations for the final game of the year against Williams on Pratt Field to-morrow were finished by the Amherst football squad this afternoon.

Cornell Almost Sure to Give Michigan a Battle That May Cause a Surprise.

Theodore Von Glahn, manager of the New York University football team, announced yesterday that the Violet players would be numbered in the contest with Stevens at Castle Point Field, Hoboken, today.

Wesleyan Ready for Trinity

Middletown, Conn., Nov. 13.—Since the showing Wesleyan made last week against the fast Williams eleven, heretofore, the city to-morrow has been going up.

Harvard Subs to Face Brown

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 13.—Brown's snappy football team, which showed so much dash and ginger against Yale a week ago, will come to Cambridge to-morrow to fulfill its annual engagement with Harvard.

Wesleyan Ready for Trinity

Middletown, Conn., Nov. 13.—Since the showing Wesleyan made last week against the fast Williams eleven, heretofore, the city to-morrow has been going up.

How Tigers Will Take the Field Against Yale Eleven

Yale. Sept. 26—Yale, 20; Maine, 0; Oct. 3—Yale, 21; Virginia, 0; Oct. 10—Yale, 20; Lehigh, 3; Oct. 17—Yale, 28; Notre Dame, 0; Oct. 24—Yale, 7; Wash. and Jct., 13; Oct. 31—Yale, 9; Colgate, 7; Nov. 7—Yale, 14; Brown, 2.

Princeton

Sept. 26—Princeton, 12; Rutgers, 0; Oct. 3—Princeton, 10; Bucknell, 0; Oct. 10—Princeton, 12; Syracuse, 7; Oct. 17—Princeton, 16; Lafayette, 0; Oct. 24—Princeton, 16; Dartmouth, 12; Oct. 31—Princeton, 7; Williams, 1; Nov. 7—Princeton, 0; Harvard, 20.

BASEBALL MAP STILL UNCHANGED, DESPITE RUMORS

Ward Says He Never Even Considered Buying the Phillies.

GIANTS AND REDS ONLY TEAMS UNSOLD

Federal League Also to Have a Say in the Actions of Weeghman in Chicago.

By HEYWOOD BROWN. It was a dull day in the big league yesterday, for only one club was sold.

YALE AND TIGERS READY FOR FRAY

Both Eleven Go Through Formations to Wind Up Their Work.

NEW STADIUM TURNED OVER TO PRINCETON

Advance Guard for University on Hand in Numbers for Concert and Senior Promenade.

AMHERST READY TO BATTLE HARD

Student Body Confident, Despite Good Record of Williams.

Cornell Almost Sure to Give Michigan a Battle That May Cause a Surprise.

Wesleyan Ready for Trinity

Harvard Subs to Face Brown

Wesleyan Ready for Trinity

How Tigers Will Take the Field Against Yale Eleven

Princeton

Wesleyan Ready for Trinity

How Tigers Will Take the Field Against Yale Eleven

Princeton

Wesleyan Ready for Trinity

How Tigers Will Take the Field Against Yale Eleven

Princeton

Wesleyan Ready for Trinity

MAD. SQ. GARDE

TO-DAY 8.15 P. M.