

Along New Jersey's Surf Lapped Coast

Long Branch, N. J., July 3 (Special).—North Jersey coast resorts, which embrace the seacoast towns between Deal and Atlantic Highlands, are alive with summer folk, the active season being ushered in to-day. Long Branch, the best of the watering resorts, has passed a busy season for the summer.

The three big attractions, the horse show, the operetta, "The Mystic Rose," and the Chamber of Commerce, and the Elks Country Fair, are being pushed to the front. Perhaps more is being heard about "The Mystic Rose" than the rest of the little folk and adults who have taken part have been rehearsing during the week under the direction of Mr. and Mrs. Robert P. Skilling, of Newark. The last rehearsal of the week was held last night, and two hundred singers were present. The leading parts will be assigned the first of the week. The part of a Japanese girl will be taken by Miss Orlinda L. Trum, of Bath Avenue, who was queen of the Children's Carnival in 1912. The operetta will take the place of the Children's Carnival this season.

The Horse Show, the twenty-second annual, will be held the last four days in July. There will be sixty classes and prizes in excess of $7,000 will be distributed. Harry Content is president of the exhibition and F. J. Casey, secretary and treasurer. The show will be given on the Hollywood grounds.

The Elks Country Fair will be featured on August 12-14. There will be a real tented city on the Garfield Avenue grounds. The committees were named this week.

Rumson and Seabright enjoyed a rose garden fête on Wednesday in the summer home of Mrs. Ira Barrows, in aid of the Babes' Home, at Oceanic. More than $1,000 was raised.

Mrs. Thomas N. McCarter, of Newark, who is head of the summer auxiliary of the Monmouth Memorial Hospital, a resident of Rumson, has planned to cancel the debt on the hospital, amounting to $8,000. Mrs. McCarter relies on the help of the auxiliaries throughout the county, and a meeting will be held the early part of next week to perfect plans. The big event is set for July 29, at the Deal Casino.

The Takanassee, Hollywood and Hotel Breakers are filled with summer guests to-night.

Atlantic Yacht Club Gives Two Plays

Everybody is supposed to be out of town over the Fourth, but the entertainment committee of the suburban clubs must have known of a few individuals who are not going to judge from the provision made for their diversion over the week-end. Activities began last night at the Atlantic Yacht Club with a special performance of W. S. Gilbert's "Sweethearts" and "Romancers." There will be something going on all day to-morrow, the afternoon being given over to baseball and motor boat racing, while in the evening there will be a dinner dance and fireworks.

At the Marine and Field Club yesterday afternoon there was a bridge tournament for women and in the evening a dinner dance, and a special dinner and dance will be given to-morrow in celebration of the holiday. At the Crescent country house, on the Shore Road, an unusually large gathering was held in August last night. Green dance Monday afternoon the New York Athletic Club nine will meet the Crescents, and at cricket the home team will be opposed by the Bensonhurst club.

Next Saturday evening there will be a special dance at the Atlantic Yacht Club. It is scheduled as the "All-American Dance," and the guests are expected to attend in large numbers. Prizes will be given for the best impersonations. Rehearsals for the big minstrel show which is to be given during the race in August will begin next week. Club members and their guests are indebted for the entertainment this season to Edgar F. Luckenbach, Lloyd Bingham, Dr. J. C. Thaw, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Hutcheon, jr., Wilfrid North, W. J. Hutcheon and Francis A. Weismann, chairman of the committee.

Mrs. Edwin Raymond Warner is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Hamilton Pettit, at her new home at Moravia. Mrs. Patton was married last October, but came East in April to act as matron of honor at the wedding of her sister, Miss Marion Warner, to the Rev. John S. Carlie.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Mason Day (Betty de Selding), who have just returned from England, will spend July with their parents at Moravia. Mrs. Joel de Selding, at Moravia, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. George Silas Coleman, of the Heights, are to spend the summer at Peland Springs, Me.

Mrs. Edward L. Snyder has closed her house at 22 Prospect Park West and will spend the summer at Lake Mohonk.

Rodney C. Ward has as his guest at Westhampton Jack Groat, of Manhattan. Mr. and Mrs. Harold Stanley are visiting Mrs. Stanley's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Thurston. Miss Dorothy Thurston has returned to Westhampton, after visiting in the West.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Hemmway entertained a large party of young folks over the last week end at their summer home at New London. It included Mrs. Charles M. Hemmway, Mr. and Mrs. John Brewer, of Forest Hills, Long Island. Miss Greenman is spending the summer at Bellport, Long Island. Her parents, whose town house is at 934 Hudson street, Mr. Brewer was graduated from Harvard in 1909.

TENNIS TOURNEY ON AT POINT PLEASANT

Point Pleasant, N. J., July 3.—The annual tennis tournament for the championship of Point Pleasant began here to-day on the splendid courts of the Hotel Leighton. The events are being held under the auspices of the United States National Lawn Tennis Association.

The trophies in men's and ladies' singles must be won three times, not necessarily in succession, to win permanent possession. Paul W. Gibbons, president of the Philadelphia and District Lawn Tennis Association, will act as referee of the local tennis committee are Mrs. F. S. Hovey, P. S. Osborne, P. W. Gibbons and Lewis Dowdney.

Point Pleasant and Manasquan yachts will sail in an Independence Day regatta Monday afternoon. There are several entries for the events and some of the sport is promised.

This resort is making great preparations for its dog show, which will be held July 31. The show will continue several days and silver trophies will be awarded to the winners in each class.

Favorable tides during the winter and spring have built up the Point Pleasant beach to a level as high as the dunes. There are no bad spots or dangerous spots.

The week's arrivals include: Mrs. Hazel Leighton—H. B. Sommer and William R. Griffin, of New York; May M. C. Durrin, Mrs. C. L. Bussing and Charles S. Young, of Brooklyn.

Carrollton—Mrs. Charles F. Tucker, Miss Florence Tucker, Mr. and Mrs. H. Parkhurst, Miss May McCann, Miss Katherine Keyes, J. P. T. Woodin, Miss Regina Keyes, Thomas Davis and Paul J. Cane, of New York.

Miss Bluff Inn—J. W. Wood, Miss C. A. Reid, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Peen, Miss L. M. Mott, Miss Mott and Miss C. A. Reid, of New York; D. M. Driscoll, of Brooklyn.

GOV. FIELDER HOST; SEA GIRL THRONED

Sea Girl, N. J., July 3.—Governor and Mrs. James F. Fielder to-day threw their first official reception to fifteen hundred guests from all parts of the state. Politicians, publicans, Democrats, Republicans, Senators, Assemblymen, justices of the various courts, sheriffs and other county officials and their wives made up the throng. The Governor and his charming wife were kept busy greeting friends all during the day and extending the hospitality of the "Little White House."

More than three hundred students attended the school of musketry held this week on the camp grounds, and worked out a few of the problems of war before an interested crowd of daily visitors. The young men attended lectures and rifle practice and were drilled in the various phases of military tactics.

This evening the first formal ball of the season was held in the new casino of the Tremont Hotel, directly on the beach. The ballroom convention, which local friends will give a carnival on the camp grounds next week, and their manoeuvres are expected to create as much interest as big-gun practice and the charge of artillery.

Gov. Fielder will remain here for the balance of the summer. They enjoy the quiet life of the "Little White House," where President Wilson first received word of his nomination to the highest office in the land.

Arrivals at the Tremont this week include Miss May Kentzing, the Misses Scupp, Mr. and Mrs. S. D. Spellman, Mrs. J. W. Weeks, Mrs. William E. Trilkinson, Mrs. E. Hadley, Dr. E. Berger, Edward Berger and Mrs. M. Balston Kentzing, of New York, and Mr. and Mrs. T. G. Provost, of Brooklyn.

Deal, N. J., July 3.—Bathing at the Deal Casino, followed by riding or motoring along the beautiful boulevards in the morning, sets the tone of the day. After luncheon, and dancing, cards or other entertainment at the several hotels at night, is the social programme followed by sojourners here. The local week, where Miss Morgan and L. Tiffany, of New York, give exhibition dances in Dutch and Colonial costume. Among those attending were Miss Elizabeth Whalen, Miss Eleanor Kendall, Miss Jessie Forbes, Miss Dorothy Mason, Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Conner, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Cole, Mr. and Mrs. Philip L. Setzer, Mr. and Mrs. Hines, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick M. Davit, Augustus Darrow and Dwight L. Parsons, of New York.

PLAN DOG SHOW FOR SOUTHAMPTON

Southampton, N. Y., July 3.—Now that the cottage colony here are nearly all settled, plans are being made for several large social events. The second annual Bench Show of the Southampton Kennel Club, to be held on Saturday, July 10, is attracting the attention of every one. Without doubt this will be one of the largest social events of the season. Henry G. Trevor, the president, and Mrs. Harry W. McVickar, chairman of the committee on arrangements, are very busy people these days. Special prizes have been given by Mr. and Mrs. George S. Schiefelin, Mrs. George Barton French, Mrs. Henry Rogers, Mrs. Charles Steele, Mrs. P. B. Wyckoff and Mrs. G. Warrington Curtis.

Mrs. Henry Phipps, who is spending the summer here at Mrs. De Lancy Nicoll's cottage, will act as hostess for an elaborately illustrated lecture to be given on Wednesday, July 7, by Henry J. Davidson, LL. B., of New York, on "Psychology and Philosophy of Color and Form in Interior Decorating and Furnishing," a lecture recently given by him at Columbia College, Architectural School.

The proceeds of the lecture will be entirely devoted to the Ambulance Station, under the care of Vicomtesse de Forest Divonne, at Vierney, Voltaire.

NEVER TOO WARM TO DANCE AT ASHEVILLE

Asheville, N. C., July 3.—Mountain parties, motor parties, horseback riding, golf and tennis continue to hold chief place on the amusement programme of Asheville society and the summer visitors, but dancing, always a popular amusement at Asheville, where the weather is never too warm to dance, will come into its own again Monday night, when the opening ball of the summer season will be given at Grove Park Inn.

Mrs. Jessica Keene Taylor, of New York, sister of Foxhall Keene, was one of the guests of honor Thursday at a luncheon given by Mrs. Alice Connally at her home, Fernhurst. The luncheon was given in honor of Miss Lyons, of Richmond, Mrs. Connally's house guest, and Mrs. Taylor, who is the guest of Mrs. Harold Rees, in Grove Park.

Mrs. Theodore Davidson was hostess at the regular Saturday afternoon tea dance at the Country Club last week.

Mrs. Reuben Robertson entertained with a card party in honor of her guest, Miss Della Simpson, of New York, during the week.

ATLANTIC HIGHLANDS AFTER "COL. BOGIE"

Atlantic Highlands, N. J., July 3.—The first of a series of musicals to be held during July and August took place at the fashionable Casino on the Ocean Boulevard yesterday night, under the direction of Frederick Lougee, who is director in charge of the orchestra at the Strand and at Wallcott's in New York. The affair, largely attended by members of the social set of the summer colony on the Hill here.

Golfing the last week has featured on the links of the Atlantic Highlands golf links. Several tournaments were held among the members of the club and their friends. The links occupy an attractive section of rolling country southwest from the centre of the resort. The course is said by golfers to be one of the sportiest in New Jersey. The advantage of play during the week was scientific, but the links were none the less patronized by semi-professionals.

Leslie's Beach, on Raritan Bay, was the scene daily of many gay bathing parties, some of the parties consisting of as many as sixty bathers.

Many of the finest yachts in the country are anchored off the pier of the Sandy Hook Yacht Club here. The club is composed mostly of New York and Brooklyn business men with summer homes here. Arrangements are being made by the club committee to hold a regatta. Possibly the most popular summer diversion here during the last week has been yachting. All day parties have gone over to Coney Island, up Long Island Sound a short distance and around Sandy Hook to the

EKWANOK GOLFERS YACHT COMMUTERS AT ATLANTIC HIGHLANDS

Manchester-in-the-Mountains, Vt., July 3.—Foremost among the attractions for Monday, the real holiday, are the golf competitions at the Ekwanoak Country Club, where there will be an eighteen-hole handicap match against "Colonel Bogie" in the morning, followed by a best ball handicap in the afternoon. These events will continue the sixteenth successive year that the Independence Day golf events have been held at Ekwanoak.

On the Saturday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Jamney arrived at the Equinox House for the summer on Monday. Mr. Jamney's famous rink marks the reunion of the famous Lincoln foursome which plays golf daily at Ekwanoak throughout the summer. Even the important tournament events save a place on the social calendar.

Mrs. French Vanderbilt was at the Equinox House over Sunday night en route to Camp Regmont, at Paul Smith's, and again over Tuesday night on her return trip. Her party included Miss North, of Bristol, and William H. Vanderbilt, of New York.

SWORD FISHING ONE BLOCK ISLAND SPORT

Block Island, R. I., July 3.—Fishing is good just now, and several good sized swordfish have been landed this week at the old harbor. Mackerel are plentiful, too, and have been landed in large numbers. Captain Willis of the schooner E. H. Smeed came in with 2,500 last Saturday.

Felix R. Wendelschafer, the well known theatrical manager, spent the week at the island with a party of friends on his yacht Nettie.

Many New Yorkers are numbered among the guests of the Casino on the Ocean View. The official opening of the Hyvezia Hotel was July 1, and a large party arrived yesterday.

The Episcopal Church, St. Ann's-by-the-Sea, has begun its summer services, which during July and August are in charge of the Rev. William Pressy, of Ashton, B. I., and the Rev. J. E. Andrews, of Chapel, Conn. St. Andrew's Chapel began its services last Sunday with Father Hurlitz, of the Providence Diocese, in charge.

Mrs. E. J. Barlow and her daughter Marion, of New York, have opened their summer home at the South Cliffs, William E. Champlin and his family have taken the Malby cottage, overlooking the beach, and Mrs. David Vaughan and his family have arrived at their cottage, John H. Asquith and his family have reopened Cozy Cottage for the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilhelm Nauck arrived on the island a week at the Vaill cottages. Marcus Day, who has just returned from the University of Michigan, is at the Surf Hotel for the season.

Card parties have started early this year. The first one was given last week by Miss Ethel Ball, who entertained at her summer home on the Southeast Shore on Wednesday evening.

Garment Workers Ready for Strike

The employers' association itself was the outgrowth of the revolt of 1910. It has stimulated you to grow, and now you have an organization to do what spontaneously was done in 1910."

A study of the way in which the cloakmakers brought out the Prussianized system of efficiency in their big organization develops the fact that they have, in working up to this efficiency, passed through at least three internal revolutions, each one of which saw the submergence of one group and the rise of a new group in union leadership.

The first organizations, outside of a small pioneer group, were formed when eighteen meeting halls were found to be overflowing with working men and women, who were crying for admission. This was in the period of revolt.

"SILENT SABOTAGE."

But after a year's experience under the Protocol, the workers encountered the situation which they now declare has come to a crisis. The employers could fire and hire needleworkers at will. And there were many ways in which an employer could practise what they call "silent sabotage" against any worker who was not pleasing to them.

At union headquarters they found a constantly increasing army of tailors who were out of work—who had been dismissed from shops in which they had worked for many years. The employers gave many reasons for the dismissals. The union officials, however, discovered, as they declared, that practically all of these jobless workers had one common complaint: they had been elected by their fellows as "shop foremen," or as members of the committees in each shop which bargained with the employers as to the price to be paid for each new style of garment.

As Schlesinger put it: "The Protocol, while the social workers were proclaiming it as the great harbinger of peace, was in actual practice, bringing us a silent sabotage from the bosses and five years of stifled turmoil and war. For the employers levied on the jobs of those we elected to enforce the Protocol, and we were bound by the Protocol not to strike back by quitting work. It got so men would dread election to shop and price committees. They knew that they would be given hard work, low pay, and fired the first time a quarrel could be provoked. They knew there was a price to pay for their prominence.

"Even the famous provision for a Joint Board of Sanitary Control turned out to be a piece largely of legislative bunk. Yes, the employers gave $5,000 a year toward the work of the joint board. Yes, of course, the board made inspections and worked up sanitary conditions in the big shops. It aimed, in fact, at making two inspections every six months.

"But the big shops got around it beautifully. They farmed out their work to small shops, and caused, by offering work at sub-contract, hundreds of small shops to spring up in the lowest and cheapest sections of the city. We got reports as to foul conditions in twenty shops. Well, before we could adjust those there would be 100 fresh shops in the slum quarters, such as gave the cloakmaking industry its bad name as a 'sweatshop' industry in the first place. That was the way the Joint Board of Sanitary Control actually worked.

"Now, one of the chief features of persecution from which we suffered was aimed at the best tailors in the business. It was possible to hand such tailors a job calling for ten gowns of one kind, or ten gowns of the same kind. The pay was the same, under the system, but it was possible to wipe out the earnings of any tailor by that practice, kept up with enough disregard for the tailor's welfare, they worked that game on the men of our price committees. That is why we demand the right to review cases of persecution—the right to review cases of discharge where there is reason to believe that our union officials have been uprooted to weaken the union.

"That's what we want—they can call it Socialistic agitation, or whatever they care to, but we want it, and we have the organization that will never yield till we get it. To get this organization we discarded a whole class and type of delegates to our joint board. We established a sort of civil service, in which we examined candidates for the job of delegate, as to their education, their linguistic skill, their knowledge of sociology and history, and their ability to exercise tact and courtesy.

MEETING ON EQUAL GROUND.

"We determined to send men to treat with the employers who were their masters, instead of their inferiors, in general education and culture. We employed the best lawyers the country afforded to match wits with the lawyers of the employers. And there you have the situation into which, to-day, we have ripened an efficient, 'Prussianized' if you will, group."

Schlesinger himself is a good example of the working out of the theory of getting the efficient men at the top of the organization. He abandoned cloakmaking years ago for newspaper work and became manager of an East Side paper during a period when its growth became phenomenal. When the cloakmakers looked around for a leader they looked for one who had been already a great administrative success—and seized upon Schlesinger.

More people come to his rooms when he calls a committee meeting of officials during the present crisis than attended general mass meetings when the cloakmakers were trying to work up enthusiasm just before the great strike of 1910. And thus it is that the workers have taken a leaf from the book of the employers and have become militantly efficient at the time they wish to talk of a strike and a general walk out.

to go last night as we had all got kind of tired receiving Geraldine Farrar. I showed Gerry your cartoon of yourself in the paper I got today and Gerry said "Some guy with the pen eh" which is the way she talks when with celebrities talking of other celebrities and she's got a swell room down here at the Studio all dolled up and furnished with a piano which is bad for us writers, but good for the directors who like their music that way. Morris Gest carried two potted plants down to the Studio and planted them before her door. He now writes his press notices under the shade of them and keeps his eye on visitors at the same time. The play is coming to New York so you'd better tell your critic to read up a little on Shakespeare.

Los Angeles, June 28.

TO REINALD WERREN-RATH, JR.

Upon learning of his advent in the Gotham Weekly Gazette.

Your ma may not have told you yet, But say, you pa can sing, you bet!

If I was him, I would rejoice That I'd so fine and loud a voice.

Forth from his golden throat pours free A glorious flood of melody That ripples upward to the stars, Including Jupiter and Mars. Oh! may it be vouchsafed to you To warble like your pa can do.

For it would make your parents glad If like your pa a voice you had.

So try your first D flat on them Some time at 3 or 4 a. m. And, if they think of it, they'll call That lovely note a Rei high howl.
