

Jim Coffey, Like Some Football Teams, Carries the Scoring Punch

Smith Knocked Out by Coffey in Fourth

Finish of Bout Almost Duplicate of Jim's Defeat by Moran.

HONORS NEARLY EVEN WHEN END COMES

Left to Body and Then a Right to Jaw Cuts Short Contest in the Garden.

By IGOE.

Jim Coffey, the Dublin Giant, knocked Gunboat Smith out in the fourth round at Madison Square Garden last night with a pile-driving right-hand smash to the jaw which swayed as he fell, but absolutely helpless, when Billy Roche walked him to his corner.

The end was almost an exact duplicate of Coffey's finish at the hands of Frank Moran. He left to the body started the Gunner on the down road; it was a vicious poke in the ribs that made Smith's eyes pop out. He doubled up, and those at the ringside could hear him grunt with the slow first. His hands were down low, and in a flash the big Irishman sent over a right smash to the jaw that toppled Smith to the rosin.

The Gunner spread out on the floor of the ring like a crawfish. He got half way up, after turning completely around, and then flopped down again near the ropes. He reached out for the Smith's efforts to get on his pins again. Jim fought a heady fight, too. He didn't burn himself out in the first round, as he usually does. His left hand was fast and effective and always with Smith at a disadvantage, though the Gunner always evened the score when he belted Jim on the ribs with hard rights.

BOXING BOARD IS NOW REORGANIZED

Wenck Elected Chairman and W. Mathewson Secretary.

The State Athletic Commission was finally reorganized, yesterday. At the regular meeting at 41 Park Row, John Franey, of Albany, and Frank Dwyer, of Geneva, were ushered into office.

The first thing that the commission did was to elect Wenck chairman of the board. When chosen the presiding officer, Wenck, announced that he had been instructed by William Orr, Governor's secretary, to suggest to the commission that they should elect William Mathewson, of Brooklyn, secretary. This was done immediately.

Mathewson is a brother of the Borough President of the Borough of Manhattan. It has been intimated all along that Wenck favored the reelection of Charles J. Harvey as secretary. As the newly appointed secretary was not present, the chairman suggested that Harvey continue in office until December 1. He paid a high tribute to Harvey, stating that it was his efficiency and keen insight that had made boxing what it is in New York to-day.

Trinity Nine Cancels Game with N. Y. U.

S. R. Hungerford, manager of the Trinity basketball team, sent a letter to Dan Frerichs, manager of the New York University nine, cancelling the match scheduled to be played between the two teams at Trinity on Friday. He regretted the necessity of taking this step, but felt compelled to do so because of the cancellation of the football game between Trinity and N. Y. U. on Election Day. Efforts will be made to see if Trinity will withdraw from her present stand.

BERNSTEIN CAPTAIN OF N. Y. U. ELEVEN

Rube Bernstein, star fullback of the New York University football team, was elected captain of the team for next year yesterday. Bernstein has been the mainstay of the eleven for the last two years in line plugging. His playing against Rutgers on Saturday night, both on the offensive and defensive, was of the highest order. F. Roberts Baldwin was elected manager for next year's team, while H. Gunter was chosen assistant manager.

The men who received their letters are Waldman, Egan, Doggett, Jordan, La Monica, Schwedde, McCullough, Somers, Hanley, Zimmerman, Williams, Manley, Cann, Erwig, Bernstein and Theodore Schultze, the manager.

Syracuse Eleven Has Final Practice

Portland, Ore., Nov. 29.—The Syracuse University football eleven, which on Wednesday will meet the Oregon Aggies, had its final work here to-day at a scrimmage practice. O'Neill said that his players are in excellent condition.

Official weights, as announced to-day, place Syracuse at 188 pounds to the man and the Aggies at 177 pounds. Syracuse's advantage in the line is where Schlachter, 242 pounds, and White, 272 pounds, both guards, are a tower of strength. The Aggie line average is 177 pounds, the same as the backfield, which outweights Syracuse's plunging quartet several pounds to the man.

Times Do Change in the Automobile Games

Personal Touches Here and There in Boxing

By IGOE.

Dan Morgan is out with an 18-karat roar about Jess Willard. Dan gets right down to cases by saying that Jess is a false alarm. Harke y to Daniel: "The great question right now is: Can Jess Willard fight I say no, have said so all the time, and I'm backed up by Battling Levinsky. You know, anything I don't know about fighting, which is precious little, Levinsky tells me. When the Battler pours wisdom into my ear I listen, for I believe as Jim Corbett does, that the Levinsky is the headiest big man in the ring to-day. Moran may be a college man and all that sort of thing, but as a master workman Levinsky has them all backed up."

"Levinsky speaks right up about Willard. He says that he is a false alarm and can't fight. That's official, mind you, if Levinsky says it. He told me that he had seen Willard after their fight to convince me that Jim Corbett is wasting his time and his friends' money stringing with 'Covler. But says that Covler is not the man to go against, if you remember, Covler caught Levinsky with a terrific punch on the jaw. It was the first time that I ever saw the Battler stung so that his knees knocked together and he fell over. Just stepped back and watched Levinsky, evidently figuring that he was playing cool there after his nerve to hear if he, even before his head cleared. But back to Willard. If he is such a great fighter—and the only men who are now saying he is were the very ones who said that he was in New York to-day."

"Now that he whipped Johnson everything has changed. When Willard fought Johnson for the title Johnson looked like a whale. He was 160 pounds over his regular fighting weight. What was the result? Johnson fell down and Willard stood up. I tell you that Willard is an even luckier man in the world. He's even luckier than Jim Corbett was, and you know what a cinch poor, old fat John L. was for the dashing Californian.

"Levinsky can whip big Jess. People seem to have forgotten the miserable fellow who put against Rodel in New Haven and Carl Morris in New York. Surely he couldn't have improved over those bouts without engaging in any. The first good man that he meets will make a show of him. Beef doesn't make a champion. If he thinks that he can whip Levinsky by laying his bulk on him, why let him put up some that 101 money and I will cover it. Honest, I will."

Over in Brooklyn they will have a fight to-night that ought to shake the old Brooklyn Bridge to its very foundations. Jim Flynn, past master in rough-housing, and Jack Dillon, himself no parlor dandy at the Broadway Sporting Club. This will not be many an event for a mission that is any of your faunty shindigs. Flynn is against clever men they do not shine particularly, but, somehow or other, they always manage to make a fight of it. It will be worth the pilgrimage to Broadway and to hear even the echoes of their haymakers.

Allied Golf Clubs Have Earned Right to Vote

Whitney, Secretary of United States Association, Tells of the Proposed Amendment to Code.

Howard F. Whitney, secretary of the United States Golf Association, announced last night the much discussed proposed amendments to the constitution whereby allied clubs in the association will be permitted to have a vote.

Incidentally, more stringent qualifications are provided for those clubs wishing to be classified as "active." Although this provision is based upon regulations, if these amendments are adopted the allied clubs will have one vote each and each active club two.

While this arrangement will permit the allied clubs to have nearly a hundred more votes than the active ones, a reduction of active dues from $30 to $25 annually is considered likely to offset the difference through increased participation. This objection is based upon the fact that the allied clubs, which form the large majority of its membership, have no voice whatever in its management and cannot vote at its meetings.

The existing plan of government was devised at a time when golf was practically unknown in the United States, and it was then considered necessary that the control should be confined to a few of the more important and influential clubs. Over twenty years have passed since that time, and be opened on New Year's Day. Coffroth and Long want White and Welsh to fight for the championship in an arena that they are building just outside the track. I wired them the same proposition offered the Denver people.

TIGERS AGAIN BEAT CORNELL AT SOCCER

Show Better Team Work and Carry the Fight Throughout.

Princeton, N. J., Nov. 29.—Princeton defeated the Cornell soccer team by a score of 4 to 0 in a well played game this afternoon. This is the second time this year. The Tigers won the first game in Ithaca by a score of 1 to 0, but it was found by the Princeton authorities that three of their own players were ineligible on account of studies, so the game was replayed to-day.

In the first half Cornell managed to hold the Tigers in check, but the play was in Cornell territory nearly all the last half and its defense was not strong enough to prevent the alert Princeton attack.

Lively Bouts at Wrestling Tourney

The winners of the bouts in the international wrestling tournament, at the Manhattan Opera House, last night, were as follows:
First bout—Gardini against Arberd. A draw.
Second bout—La Colosse against Schilling, won by La Colosse in 12 minutes and 58 seconds, with an inside arm lock.

Third bout—Pospial against Dr. Roller, a draw.
Fourth bout—Havonpan against Lurich, won by Lurich in 53 minutes and 56 seconds, with a body hold.
Fifth bout—"Strangler" Lewis against Tommy Drask, won by Lewis in 3 minutes and 4 seconds, with a waist lock.
Sixth bout—Cutler against Johnson, won by Cutler in 23 minutes and 25 seconds, with a side arm roll.

SOUTH CALLS IN LOUD VOICE FOR ALL-STAR PLACE

Thinks Vande Graaff Deserves Recognition as Football Tackle.

HAS KICKED ELEVEN GOALS FROM FIELD

Some Figures Which Show Why the Rutgers Eleven Earned Such a Forward Position.

By HERBERT.

This is a story of the "best" football player in all the South, if a mass of evidence duly submitted and duly read to you for anything. His name is W. T. (Bully) Vande Graaff, and he is a tackle on the University of Alabama eleven.

"Bully" is easier to call him than his regular name, and anyway it takes up less space—has been to Alabama what Mahan was to Harvard and what Barrett was to Cornell. According to the evidence, he is worthy of a place on any well organized All-American team. He must be given due measure up to the writing thereof. He stands six feet two inches in his stockings and weighs 180 pounds, so that he is well equipped physically to do all the things credited.

A seven-page letter and numerous clippings represent him one of the greatest tackles of all time, and these are borne out by a man whose judgment on things football must be respected. It is only fair, that the little-limbed and long-named fellow should get the recognition apparently so much deserved in this neck of our broad land.

Here's what Charles W. Greer says of him in "The Birmingham Age-Herald," or rather just a little of what he says:
"Bully is a natural star. He has every necessity requisite for a brilliant performer; and more, he is one of the few gridiron warriors who has not a single weakness."
"With his weight and power, Vande Graaff is fast, quick, heady. He possesses a rare football intuition, while his ability to analyze the opposing play and to meet it in the making is one of the most striking characteristics of his play. He is a vast power on the defensive, on the offensive he is equally powerful. In addition, Bully, as by the name, is a long and long-named fellow should get the recognition apparently so much deserved in this neck of our broad land."

"On the offensive he is equally powerful, being one of the most difficult men to tackle on the Crimson eleven, and this season has proved himself to be the most consistent ground gainer on his team. In addition, Bully, as by the name, is a long and long-named fellow should get the recognition apparently so much deserved in this neck of our broad land."

"Amend Article 3, Section 1, Paragraph A, so that the paragraph shall read as follows:
"(a) Active members: Any regularly organized club in the United States supporting and maintaining a golf course of at least eighteen holes, and whose reputation and general policy are in accord with the best traditions and high ideals of the game, shall be eligible to election as an active member."
"Provided, however, that all clubs enrolled as active members of this association on the 15th day of January, 1915, may continue as such, notwithstanding the provisions of this paragraph."

"Amend Article 4, Section 4, so that the same shall read as follows:
"Section 4—Voting privileges: At all meetings of the association each active club shall be entitled to be represented by two delegates, each of whom shall have one vote; each allied club may be represented by one delegate, who shall have one vote. All members of both active and allied clubs shall have the right to attend all meetings of the association and to participate in the discussion of any question."
"Amend Article 4, Section 5, so that the same shall read as follows:
"Section 5—Quorum: Forty-five clubs, represented by delegates in person or by proxy, shall constitute a quorum at any meeting of the association."

NAVY PLEASUED WITH GAME AT NEW YORK

No Change of Venue Likely, However, Unless It Is Asked.

Annapolis, Nov. 29.—Though the naval people are delighted with all the incidents of the service game at the Polo Grounds last Saturday, next year's contest will be played in Philadelphia, unless representatives of the Navy suggest that it be played in New York regularly.

Under an agreement between the two academies, which began with the game of 1914, the game next year and in 1918 will be played in Philadelphia and that of 1917 in New York. The Army people are not likely to suggest that the agreement be changed in favor of New York. No definite step to that end has been taken, but the Navy people are delighted with all the arrangements in New York.

Granting the midshipmen permission to remain in New York overnight of the day of the game has solved the chief difficulty, for the Navy standpoint, and the midshipmen themselves would like the game to go back to New York next year.

ponents ran back thirty-nine punts for 164 yards, an average of 4.2.

Rutgers completed thirty-nine out of ninety-one forward passes for 694 yards, an average of 18.1, while opponents completed only fourteen out of seventy-six for 169 yards, an average of 12.

Rutgers intercepted nineteen of opponents' forward passes and had only seven intercepted, four of which were by Princeton, and Rutgers ran back these intercepted forward passes 250 yards to 35 for opponents.

Rutgers scored forty-nine touchdowns in the eight games played to four for opponents, and stands as the highest scoring team in the East, with 352 points to its credit.

Of the 352 points hung up by Rutgers, Captain H. P. Talman, who played guard in two games and fullback in six, scored 138, as follows:

Goals from field	14	44
Goals from touchdowns	4	12
Goals from conversions	4	24
Total	65	128

E. G. Bracher, the 135-pound back, scored thirteen touchdowns, and in one sense was the most consistent ground gainer of the season, carrying the ball 1,021 yards on 183 plays, and running back punts 243 yards. It is worthy of mention also that time was taken out for him only once in the eight games played, and that in the last one against New York University.

Witherspoon, the brilliant tackle of the Washington and Jefferson eleven, who ranks with the best of the season, was elected captain of the team for next year, but felt called on to refuse the honor. He is studying for the ministry and is planning to take up seminary work next fall.

EAST AND WEST TO CLASH IN FOOTBALL

Hamilton Institute and East Aurora Will Play on Saturday.

The football team of Hamilton Institute, rated as the best of the local high and prep school elevens, will meet the team of East Aurora High School, of East Aurora, Ill., on the gridiron at Washington Park, the home of the Brooklyn Federal League team, on Saturday afternoon. Final arrangements for the game were made yesterday, and the East Aurora boys will arrive in this city next Thursday.

Civic pride runs high in the Illinois city, for the board of trade and liberal hearted merchants subscribed $1,500 to help defray expenses. It is more than likely that one of the largest crowds that have seen a scholastic football game this season will turn out to watch this battle.

East Aurora has challenged the best of the Eastern teams with clocklike regularity, but no head has been given. But Dr. Shaw, principal of Hamilton Institute, is firm in the belief that his boys can wallop any eleven that ever drew on next year's lot. Little time in binding the bargain. He may have contracted for a bigger job than he can fill, for the Westerners have had a wonderful season this year and are justly feared and respected by all.

Hamilton wound up its season last Wednesday by beating the Columbia freshmen by the good round score of 61 to 0. Horace Mann School, the unbeaten Rutgers prep, Kingsley School, which had not lost a game since 1912, and New Rochelle High School are among the teams which bowed to the onslaught of the Hamilton eleven.

BARRETT DAZED IN TWO PERIODS OF PENN. GAME

By BRIGGS

Cornell Captain Played Automatically, but Brain Cleared in Time.

Charley Barrett, captain of Cornell's unbeaten football team, played through the second and third periods of the Pennsylvania game on Thanksgiving Day in such a dazed condition that he did not know what was going on and ran through the plays automatically.

Brooks Clarke, a former Cornell player in Dan Reed's time, who was with the team at Atlantic City and during the game, is authority for this statement.

It seems that Barrett was hit on the head early in the second period, and acknowledged himself after the game that he could not remember anything that he did or saw during the game. After scoring the first touchdown in the final period, when Cornell, with an irresistible run, scored seventeen points.

Between halves Dr. Williams and other coaches were puzzled at Barrett's failure to understand or grasp or repeated instructions and sat aghast on the side lines as they saw him disregard the watchful eyes of the coaches, but the "clearing up," as Barrett put it, came in time.

This explains to a large extent the sudden improvement of the Cornell team in the fourth period, and particularly the sudden rise of Barrett himself to great heights.

Adelphi Academy Wins Keith Football Trophy

The football team of the Adelphi Academy, of Brooklyn, which won the high school football championship of Brooklyn this season, was presented with the Keith football trophy at Keith Orpheum Theatre last night, in recognition of its accomplishments on the gridiron.

Frank Gerard, manager of the theatre, had invited the members of every high school football team in Brooklyn to be present at the performance last night and more than 500 schoolboys accepted the invitation. After the last of the actors had left the stage, Lewis H. Pounds, Borough President of Brooklyn, made the presentation speech to the principal of Adelphi Academy, who accepted the big silver trophy in behalf of the football team. This is the second time Adelphi has won the trophy, which is emblematic of the borough championship.
