SENATE CAUCUS DOOMS CLOTURE

Even Owen, Chief Sponsor, Votes to Let It Die in Committee.

O'GORMAN AMONG ITS OPPONENTS

Cites Framing of Constitution to Show That Upper House is a Continuing Body.

Washington, Dec. 4.—"Old King Fillmore" still reigns, so far as the Democrats of the Senate are concerned. Sentiment against making a party issue of cloture was so strong at the caucus today that only three votes could be mustered for it, even Senator Owen, the leading advocate of cloture, voting against it.

The net result of the day's debate over the question behind closed doors by the Democratic caucus is that Senator Owen will introduce his cloture proposal as an amendment to the rules of the Senate soon after the convening of Congress, and his amendment will then be referred to the Committee on Rules, where it will probably die.

Technically, the caucus voted, almost unanimously, to recommit the cloture rule, which would seem to mean that it was handed back to the Cloture Committee for further consideration. Then the caucus adjourned sine die, which showed the real purpose was to put as many feet of earth over the body as possible.

Cannot Pass at This Session. The sentiment was very generally expressed by Democrats present that Mr. Owen should introduce the cloture rule as his own individual offering, to be considered by the Senate from a non-partisan standpoint. As has been indicated in The Tribune, the impossibility of making cloture a party measure, and binding all Democratic Senators to vote for it, was the rock on which hopes for its passage were shattered.

President Wilson will not be inconvenienced by being kept in official ignorance of the Senate's action in session, but will be able to read his message to the House and Senate in joint session on Tuesday, despite the brave plan of Senator Owen to hold that the Senate could not be organized until it had adopted rules, one of which should be cloture, and that therefore even the committee to notify the President could not be appointed.

Organization of the Senate will be as usual, even to the reference of Mr. Owen's cloture proposal to the Rules Committee.

Enumeration of the list of members of the Rules Committee holds out little hope to friends of cloture. Senator Lee S. Overman, of North Carolina, is chairman. He is afraid of cloture for two strong reasons. One is that he fears if the Republicans ever got in

MEXICO LAWLESS UNDER CARRANZA

Recognition a Mistake, Say Americans Along the Border.

THOUSANDS FEAR TO RETURN HOME

Bandits Unchecked, Life and Property Disregarded—Danger to U. S. Seen.

(By Telegraph to The Tribune.) El Paso, Tex., Dec. 4.—Recognition of the Carranza faction in Mexico has not improved conditions in that country. In the opinion of Americans interested in Mexican development properties, the situation in Mexico has been complicated.

In very few portions of Mexico there has been sufficient improvement to justify Americans or other foreigners returning to their business houses, mills or mines. Where Villa soldiers have been driven out, bandits have entered, and the country which Carranza troops have occupied has been very largely abandoned again, as the troops were needed elsewhere.

Following the overthrow of the Diaz government and the assumption of power by the Constitutional government of Francisco I. Madero, the thousands of Mexican and American refugees in border towns quickly returned to their homes and interests in the interior.

Refugees Line Border. No such return of refugees has followed the recognition of Carranza and the declaration that he has the country under control. In every border city and town from Brownsville to San Diego, and as far back from the border as San Antonio, Tucson and Los Angeles, there are many thousands of the best families of Mexico, who fear to go back to their homes, many of them Carranzistas in sympathy and heavy losers financially by their continued absence.

All along the border there are thousands of Americans, Germans, British, Spanish, French and other foreigners who are refugees from Mexico. None of them feel that the time has come, or that it soon is coming, for them to trust themselves again in Mexico. In the American side with practically no serious effort on the part of the United States to prevent it. It is well known that Villa daily is getting ammunition into Juarez from the American side and that he has great quantities of rifles, ammunition and supplies stored in Juarez from which he draws as he needs it.

American sentiment largely was against recognizing either faction in Mexico. As a matter of fact, armed intervention has been the hope of a large element on the border for two years, and by most of those having interests in Mexico it still is regarded as the only real solution of the very vexing problem. There is now and has been for fully a year a very large element of the better class of Mexicans in Mexico who are on the border who would like to see United States troops go into Mexico and straighten things out.

War in Europe Heightens Peril. Mexico now is regarded by many of the thinking men on the border as a greater menace to the United States than at any time since the revolutionary activity started there. The situation in Europe, with the possibility of the United States being involved, makes Mexico a particularly dangerous territory to which to reach the United States, in the opinion of men who have been studying the situation in Mexico.

On the whole, the outlook for a return to peace and order in Mexico is not encouraging. Refugees from almost every part of the country tell of unhampered bandit operations and of disregard for life and property.

"REAL" HEARING, SUFFRAGE PLEA

Will Ask Democrats to Let Them Make Speeches at National Convention.

(From The Tribune Bureau.) Washington, Dec. 4.—The insertion in the next Democratic platform of a plank endorsing the ballot for women is the aim of the National American Woman Suffrage Association, which announced today that it would call on the Democratic National Committee next Tuesday and "talk over the question of a 'real' suffrage hearing at the next Democratic National Convention."

Announcement was also made today that President Wilson would receive the delegates to the forty-seventh annual convention of the association on its opening day, Tuesday, December 14. The White House has issued 500 tickets of admission to the delegates.

The association has also been favored with "seats of honor" in the House and Senate galleries for the opening session of the 64th Congress. Upon the convening of the House, Representative Mondell, of Wyoming, will introduce the Susan B. Anthony amendment. Among those who will witness the introduction of the resolution in the House will be Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, of New York; Mrs. Medill McCormick, of Chicago; Mrs. Stanley McCormick, of New York, and Miss Alice Stone Blackwell, of Boston.

The seats in the Senate gallery were tendered to a group of prominent suffragists by Senator Thomas, who will introduce the Anthony amendment for the national association in the upper body. Among those who will witness the launching of the Federal resolution in the Senate are Mrs. Raymond Brown, Miss Mary Garrett Hay, Mrs. Norman D. Whitehouse, Mrs. Howard Mansfield, Mrs. James Lees Laidlaw and Mrs. Henry Wadsworth Swain, of New York; Mrs. Frank M. Roeding, of Pittsburgh; Miss M. Carey Thomas, of Bryn Mawr; Miss Mary Ingram, of Philadelphia; Mrs. Everett Colby, of Orange, N. C.; and Mrs. Ernest Thompson Seton, of Greenwich, Conn.

Dr. Anna Howard Shaw today filed with Senator Thomas, chairman of the senate committee on Woman Suffrage, the names of the speakers who will appear for the national association at the hearing before the committee on Wednesday, December 15. The names include Dr. Shaw, Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, Mrs. Patty Ruffin, of Alabama; Miss Alice Stone Blackwell, of Boston; Mrs. Medill McCormick and Mrs. Stanley McCormick.

LATIN LEADERS COMING HERE

Southern Delegates to Arrange for Pan-American Congress.

During the next three weeks New York will welcome more distinguished Latin-Americans en route to Washington for the second Pan-American Scientific Congress than have ever before come to this country for an international gathering. Between now and December 27 approximately 150 representative statesmen, educators, engineers and scientists of Central and South America will arrive in New York.

Preliminary arrangements for a local committee on reception are being made by John Barrett, director of the Pan-American Union in Washington, who is also secretary general of the congress. He said: "Acting for the committee of arrangements organized in Washington by the Secretary of State, I conferred today with James C. Breckinridge, Secretary Lansing's personal representative, who will greet the Latin-Americans. In addition to naming Mr. Breckinridge as his personal representative, Secretary Lansing invited Mayor Mitchell, Seth Low, president of the Chamber of Commerce; Collector Malone, President Henry C. White, of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States and Nicholas Murray Butler, of the Carnegie Endowment, to cooperate on a special committee of reception. Each of the twenty Latin-American countries is sending a delegation, which will, in many respects, be the greatest Pan-American gathering in the history of the United States, and should arouse widespread interest."

HAS ANCONA TALE FOR PAGE

Boy of Seventeen Only American Survivor to Reach Naples.

Washington, Dec. 4.—Ambassador Page, at Rome, reported today that Irelando Pattivo, seventeen years old, was the only American survivor of the Ancona disaster who so far had arrived at Naples. He is the son of a naturalized American citizen. The ambassador did not say whether a deposition had been secured from Pattivo, but it was presumed by officials here that one from him would be forthcoming.

The State Department has received no reply to its inquiries for details of the Austrian version of the sinking of the Ancona, made through Ambassador Penfield at Vienna.

come from Wytheville, Va., for the wedding. "Aunt" Matilda will, it is said, dress the bride, all but combing her "hair." The changes in style stumped the old aunt, and she is willing to leave the "dressing" to the younger fingers. There will be quite a bunch of dark faces peering in upon the bride, servants of the Bolling family, and will give a touch of the old South.

Mrs. Galt fifth from Virginia. Mrs. Galt will not be the only bride who has had this Southern touch given her wedding, for President Wilson is the fifty President to marry a Virginian, who was rooted to the soil by a black mammy. Mrs. Washington, Mrs. Jefferson, Mrs. Tyler and Mrs. Arthur being the other four. Of the twenty-six Presidents who preceded Mr. Wilson in office seven were born in Virginia, and five of the twenty-six married widows.

President Fillmore, the only other President to choose the eighteenth day of the month for a wedding day, married a widow, Mrs. Caroline McIntosh, of Albany. They were wedded on February 18, 1856. Edith Carow Roosevelt is the only "first lady" to bear Mrs. Galt's first name, and she, too, was a second wife, marrying President Roosevelt in London. Mr. Wilson is the third son of a clergyman to gain the first place within the gift of the people. He and President Cleveland and sons of Presbyterian clergymen. President Arthur's father was an Episcopal clergyman.

While hundreds of Washington people stood about the bulletin boards before newspaper offices today, and read the date for the President's marriage to Mrs. Galt, he and his fiancée were playing golf at one of the suburban clubs, and this afternoon they went for a long automobile ride.

Members of Mrs. Galt's family will begin to arrive here about the middle of next week. The President's relatives will come out of town, will come about the same time. Mr. and Mrs. Sawyer and their infant son, Mr. and Mrs. McAdoo and their baby daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Wilson and Miss Wilson, their daughter, Mrs. Anna Wilson Howe and her daughter and granddaughter, Mrs. Anna Howe Colburn and little Josephine Wilson Colburn, will all remain at the White House for the big Christmas tree, which Miss Margaret Wilson will provide there, and which will be the masterpiece to close her reign as first lady.

Since the time was not announced from the White House, immediately after the wedding the President will take his bride to the Presidential yacht Machever. On board there will be a wedding supper for only two. Some place in the South the President and his bride will take a special train to the interior of the country, where for two weeks they will be lost to the outer world.

Mrs. Galt, it is thought, will choose from her elaborate trousseau a gown of soft gray velvet, which has a bodice entirely made up of the old Bolling rose point. She will wear lilacs-of-the-valley, which are now being forced in the government greenhouses for use at the wedding. "Aunt" Matilda Streeter, the childhood "black mammy" of Mrs. Galt, and her half sister, "Aunt" Emma Chapman, will

METZ MAY MAKE SALVARSAN PREDICTS REVOLUTIONS AFTER WAR ENDS V. L. Berger Says Socialism Will Dominate Europe. Revolutions in the various countries now at war will take place after peace is declared, according to the Socialist, ex-Representative Victor L. Berger. "Neither Germany nor England will come out of the conflict as an overwhelming victor," said Mr. Berger. "Of all countries, probably Germany will delay a revolution the longest. In France the Socialists are already asking whether this is a war for preservation of democratic ideals or only a Roman Catholic Clerical-Conservative crusade for the reestablishment of monarchy. "The mob spirit of the public masses which urged Italy into the war will be satisfied to keep on working and fighting and slaving for an arrogant aristocracy and plutocracy. There is no question that England is ripe for another Cromwell. In short, this war will hasten the transformation of the present order of society from capitalism to democratic socialism in every civilized country."
