

to take proper steps to protect Americans were received at the State Department today. The department is not so much concerned over this charge as over the fact that General Edwards has been talking for publication in a manner derogatory to Carranza's military authorities. It is understood that an investigation of his recent conduct will be made.

KILLED IN MEXICO. George W. Newman, of Keene, N. H., one of the American mining men murdered by bandits near Santa Ysabel, Chihuahua.

The Mexican Embassy was without other advice regarding the bandit attacks on Americans reported down the Villa forces attack on the investigation he had found that the rumors of further slaughter of Americans and Englishmen at Madera were false.

may know he has paid the penalty. Rodriguez was killed at Madera in a battle with American and Mexican forces of the Madero government. As a result of this feeling Miguel Diaz Lombardo and nine former Villa commanders were told to-day to get out of El Paso. They left for Los Angeles, and given the same treatment. Lombardo, who was Villa's Secretary of Foreign Relations, and regarded as the strongest man in the Villa government, was believed to be plotting new revolutionary movements, with El Paso as a base.

MYSTERIOUS MIDVALE BUYER WAS 'LONG 200'

Sought a Rising Market to Sell Out—Committed No Crime. The mystery surrounding the notorious buying orders in Midvale Steel, which puzzled Wall Street on Thursday, was cleared up yesterday by the identification of the individual who used the names of others to carry out his scheme to put up the stock. The case was submitted to the District Attorney's office, which ruled that no crime had been committed.

WHITE HOUSE IN DARK ABOUT JOHNSON'S HOME

"Said He Lived in New York." Extent of Official Information. Washington, Jan. 14.—Inquiries at the White House to-night failed to reveal the location of the "legal" New York residence of Joseph Johnson, of Bound Brook, N. J., one of the men submitted to President Wilson as acceptable to Tammany for postmaster of New York City. Mr. Johnson, it was said, declared that he was a resident of New York when he threw his hat into the ring, but failed to specify the street and number.

ENTER MEXICO, WORKS DEMANDS

Yielding so much of life and hope and possibility of development. If he were capable of it, probably the best thing that could happen to him and the Democratic party would be to declare war with Mexico and with Villa. The war was being waged in November the chances of his reelection would be augmented a hundredfold. It would be a certainty. But the President happily is not built that way.

FLOODS MENACE NORTH HOLLAND

Zuidpolder Flooded as Zuyder Zee Dike at Katwoude Bursts. Residents Forced to Flee to Edam. Volendam, Monnikendam and Island of Marken Under Water—Storm Hits Hamburg.

Amsterdam, Jan. 14.—The "Telegram" reports that the Zuyder Zee dike at Katwoude has burst and that Zuidpolder has been flooded. The inhabitants of that place were obliged to abandon it and have fled to Edam, which is partly flooded, the newspaper adds.

A later message from Edam says that the dike protecting Polderzeveang is in danger and that if it breaks the greater part of North Holland.

At 7 o'clock this morning, says the message, an alarm bell rang at Broek, also in the province of North Holland, about six miles northeast of Amsterdam, as the flood was pouring in with terrific force.

The province of North Holland, mentioned in an Amsterdam dispatch as seriously menaced by floods, forms a peninsula bounded on the east by the Zuyder Zee and on the west by the North Sea.

A dispatch from Netherlands sources through London to-day yesterday brought word of heavy storms on the Dutch coast and forecast the possibility of flood conditions, due to the excessively high tides.

At one point, the tide attained a height of 18 feet, the highest since 1865. Partial inundation at various points along the coast, including Rotterdam and Dordrecht, was reported.

Hamburg, Jan. 15.—All streetcar service and vehicular traffic in this city is tied up owing to unprecedented floods caused by a west storm blowing water from the sea back into the Elbe River.

The storm reached its height at 11 o'clock Thursday night, with the water in the Elbe at 18 feet 3 inches.

El Paso, Tex., Jan. 14.—Guarded by men who had been military and civil servants in the Huerta government of Mexico, the body of General Victoriano Huerta lay to-day at the Huerta home. Hundreds of exiles of his party viewed the body, which was taken to a receiving vault late yesterday.

Senator Fall admitted that he had voted for the resolution approving the action of the President in sending troops to Vera Cruz. "But," he explained, "it was because I read other resolutions into the resolution, because I believed that it really meant that finally some American blood was running through the veins of the President and that he meant he was sending troops to Vera Cruz to show defiance to the Mexicans and to other people of the world that American citizens would be protected and their murders avenged."

Senator Fall said that he had warned the President two years ago through the Senate that the United States should not allow Mexican soldiers to pass through American territory to attack another. This same admission, he said, he had given to President Taft when he had allowed Madero soldiers to go through our borders.

WINTER ARRIVES FOR 3-DAY VISIT

Thermometer Down to 10 Above at Midnight—56-Mile Wind. Mercury 52 Below in Middle West. Lodging House Receives 682, Twenty-four of Them Women and Eight Children.

New York shivered before the first real blast of winter last night, when the cold wave that has traversed the entire country finally reached Manhattan, drove pedestrians to their homes, the homeless to police cells and grip germs from the atmosphere.

Forecasters from the local bureau gave no hope of milder air to-day. Fair but frigid temperatures are scheduled for the immediate future. Dispatches from Washington predicted that the cold wave would continue for three or four days.

But it was the wind rather than the cold that made street navigation impossible last night. Officials at the Weather Bureau announced that the gale reached a maximum of fifty-six miles an hour. Those who tried to negotiate the passages through and about the Municipal Building, however, were certain that the forecasters were over-optimistic.

The blast that froze the city last night has been nearly a week on the way. It swept down upon the North-west on Monday with a temperature of between 30 and 50 degrees below zero in some parts of Minnesota.

Early in the evening a stream of ragged, coatless, shivering men began to apply for sleeping quarters at the Municipal Lodging House. Several of the men arrived late were frozen so badly that it was necessary for a physician to attend them. Hot soup and coffee were served, and a total of 682 men, 24 women and 8 children had been fed and given quarters by midnight.

Chicago, Jan. 14.—Although the Middle West suffered from a continuation of the frigid atmosphere that has tied up business and delayed all railroad traffic for the last two days, there was hope of a rise of temperature to-night.

Street thermometers stand at 4 degrees below zero, while suburbs far from the influence of Lake Michigan reported a temperature of two to three degrees lower than this.

Dispatches from the Northwest fail to hold out any great hope of improved atmospheric conditions there. A temperature of 31 degrees below zero was recorded in St. Paul and Minneapolis during the day. A record of 52 degrees below zero was reported from Duluth.

FLEET MADE RECORD IN OCEAN GUN WORK

Atlantic Squadron Lacks Officers and Men, Admiral Says. Washington, Jan. 14.—Gunners of the Atlantic fleet during 1915 made the highest averages of the fleet's history for target practice in the open sea.

The Senate rejected the annual report of Admiral Fletcher, in response to a resolution introduced by Senator Lodge, the report was ordered printed as a confidential document. The report dwelt on the fleet's shooting record and men. Secretary Daniels wrote a letter to the Naval Affairs Committee, which also was made a confidential document. The Secretary indicated to have stated that the shortage had already been overcome so far as possible.

PARK NOT VITAL TO AVON MASQUE

Shakespeare Tercentenary Committee Denies It Seeks Monopoly. PLANS ART FESTIVAL FOR ALL NEW YORK. Leaders Say Promotion of Community Spirit, Not Private Interests, Is Aim of Celebration.

Frankfurters proved symbolically yesterday that the Shakespeare Tercentenary celebration movement is absolutely democratic. The symbolist was Mary Austin, the novelist. She hoisted the sign of the sausage at a meeting held to explain to the press that the celebration was not in any sense an effort to monopolize Central Park.

The meeting was the result of objections that have been raised to holding the masque in Central Park. Percy Mackaye, author of the masque, Arthur Farwell, who is composing the music, and others on the committee spoke, and all emphasized the fact that the show was to be above all an expression of New York community spirit. Park celebration is not the organization of a few individuals," Mr. Mackaye said. "It represents a very big movement. Misconception has arisen that this is in any sense a private enterprise. Our job is to create in Greater New York a big community spirit, or rather to focus that which exists. This city is a great hive of cells, not in touch with each other, and we want to infuse in them the great, throbbing community spirit."

The park behind the Museum of Natural History and Van Cortlandt Park had both been suggested by Mayor Mitchell as substitutes for Central Park, and either was acceptable, it was explained, as nothing had committed those in charge of the masque to Central Park except the fact that it is the playground of all the people, rich and poor, in and out of society alike, and was central, so that the maximum number could reach it without being put to the expense of carriage.

"I like the idea of Van Cortlandt Park," Mrs. Austin said, "because it is somewhat far away and would give a scenic air to the occasion. Folks could make an afternoon and evening of it and could bring frankfurters with them to eat while they waited. There would be no objection to eating frankfurters at a Shakespeare celebration. It is absolutely for the people, all the people, and is not a highbrow show."

Garnet Holme, organizing director of the masque, said: "This is going to be New York's own show, because we are asking every school child, every woman's club and men's club, all the boys' and girls' settlements and all manner of organizations to cooperate with us. We are seeking people from every borough in the city. We hope to see society people and newsboys side by side."

Rome, Jan. 14.—The Holy See did nothing up to to-day either directly or indirectly to solicit from either group of belligerents an invitation to participate in or preside at a peace conference," says the Catholic organ "Corriere d'Italia" in an article evidently inspired by the Vatican.

Both groups of belligerents, the paper says, thus far intend to be completely victorious, dictating conditions of peace outside of any extraneous interference. The aim of the Pope is to employ all possible means to render the conflagration less painful to humanity. If the Pope were present at a peace congress his adhesion to the treaty would bind the conscience of all Catholic subjects of the contracting nations, making it more difficult for any government to break the agreement.

The Pope, it asserts, does not count upon the European coalition (of the so-called Roman question, which, as Cardinal Gasparri said, will not be settled by force of arms).

There is a general belief that the Pope will deliver an important address about the war in the Consistory at the end of February.

HER CURLY GUEST WAS ALSO CROOKED

Riverside Drive Woman's Invalid Protege Gets Healthy and Wealthy at One Stroke. Mrs. Rose Teven is through with philanthropy, after an experience that cost her the equivalent of $12,000 in jewelry. Henceforth pale young men with romantic coughs and curly hair no longer seek another benefactress.

If Mrs. Teven were given to the modern dances her experience might be classified as one more "tanko burglary," for it was in a Broadway dance-troop she became acquainted with the youth for whom detectives are now looking.

As she told her story to Acting Captain Cooper, at the fourth branch detective bureau, yesterday, Mrs. Teven took the coughing, curly one under her arm a couple of weeks ago. In her apartment at 640 Riverside Drive she fed him on hoths and jellies. And she was very fond of him.

So great was her trust that she left the jewelry and him alone together in her apartment Wednesday afternoon, when she started for a business. When she came back gems and invalid were gone.

"I thought it was just a joke at first," she told Cooper. "I thought I'd wait awhile before I reported the matter. But it has been so anxious about the jewelry. He told me several times I should be more careful where and how I wore it."

The theft of the $12,000 worth of jewelry, which included three diamond rings, two diamond pins, a pair of diamond earrings and a lavalliere set with 100 small diamonds, did not quite clear Mrs. Teven's neck of bad debts. She had a number of promissory notes, she called at the branch bureau to tell her tale of woe.

According to Acting Captain Cooper, Mrs. Teven, in her office, today, said she understood to have a missing protege.

BRIDE, 13, A TRUANT, FATHER PAYS FINE

Excuse Dad Gives About Daughter's New "Boss" Rejected. Greenburg, Penn., Jan. 14.—One of the strangest school cases that ever came under the law was heard before Judge Truxal to-day, when John Squire Truxal, of South Greenburg, was ordered to pay a fine of $9.47 for neglecting to send Eliza Galoni, his married daughter, thirteen years old, to school.

The girl eloped to Cumberland, Md., last October, and was married. The compulsory school law does not provide for girls who marry before they become sixteen years old and leave school.

Cleary was served on Galoni, who refused to send his daughter to school, saying that he was no longer her "boss." At the hearing to-day Galoni agreed to pay the fine and costs and notify the school board that his daughter was no longer under his guardianship.

CLEARY TO PRISON TO-DAY

Supreme Court Denies Certificate of Doubt Application. Justice Addison J. Young, in the Supreme Court, at White Plains, denied yesterday the application of William V. Cleary, formerly Democratic boss of Ilwaco, for a certificate of reasonable doubt. Cleary was sentenced to four to six years in Sing Sing prison for forgery.

Cleary, who is now locked up in the New York jail, will be taken to Sing Sing to-day to begin his sentence. If he had obtained the certificate it would have meant that he could have other bonds and would have been kept in the New York jail pending his appeal to the Appellate Division.

OSBORNE REQUEST HELD UP

Permission to Inspect Grand Jury Minutes Delayed Until He Pleads. Justice Morschauer, in the Supreme Court, at White Plains, yesterday, adjourned until Monday the motion of Thomas Mott Osborne for permission to inspect the minutes of the grand jury which indicted him. He will plead to the indictment charging perjury on that day, and it was the wish of the court that the motion be argued after the plea.

It had been the intention of District Attorney Weeks to have Justice Addison Young receive the plea of the warden, but that jurist sent the case to Justice Morschauer's court.

Albany, Jan. 14. Charges that the complaint against John B. Riley, State Superintendent of Prisons, upon which Governor Whitman sought his resignation was planned at Thomas Mott Osborne's headquarters in the Hotel Belmont were made in a statement issued to-night by Mr. Riley. It asserts that Death Kirehway formerly was a part of the Riley administration and that Kirehway's complaint "indicates that he was dominated by Mr. Osborne and his friends, who evidently thought that my removal would have an important bearing on the trial of the indictments found against ex-Warden Osborne."

Just Married?

If You Have Taken That Important Step in Life—Here Is a Thought for You

Are you one of those happy people who have just recently been married? If so, you of course realize that you have entered on a new era of your life—and an important one.

Never has it been as necessary to plan your future so carefully, so soberly—so well.

You want to make your married life bring you all the happiness that is in store for you. Then you must view life and its possibilities seriously and thoroughly.

For instance—take the Church and its relation to you.

The Church has a huge and wonderful influence on the country, your own community. Its influence is for the suppression of evil—vice and crime. It uplifts those about you and makes them happier.

Now, in suppressing crime and vice and evil it is working for your good—in making others about you happy—it helps make you happy.

The Church needs your support—the support of every married couple to make its work more far-reaching—more effective.

And—you can support the Church best by going to Church and going every Sunday.

Besides, the Church will help you get the best out of life—to be truly happy—

Then too—think of the little ones you hope will be yours presently—you will want them to have the benefit of the teachings of the Church.

And your example will some day be their greatest—their most effective lesson.

Make up your mind now to start your new life right, and
