PENNSY FIVE RUSHING FOR COURT TITLE

Princeton Quartet Only Promises to Make Things Interesting.

Pennsylvania marched a step nearer the title in the Intercollegiate Basketball League race by defeating Columbia last week, but the steady playing of the Princeton five and the return of Cornell to the court, each of which scored victories in the last six days, may postpone serious obstacles in the path of the Quakers in the final games of the series.

Princeton scored over Columbia early in the week and noted out a victory over Dartmouth on Saturday. Cornell came back to the floor for its first game since January 15 and repeated its early season triumph over Yale.

Yale, by reason of its defeat at the hands of the Linacans, dropped back to third place, and with a record of four games won and three lost, already seems well out of the running.
