APPEAL FILED IN WAITE CASE

Move Made with Dentist's Consent, His Attorney Says.

ACTION STAYS DATE OF ELECTROCUTION

Slayer in Death House Pens Poems—"Studio Mate" Drops Into Background.

Walter R. Deuel yesterday morning filed a notice of appeal in the case of Dr. Arthur Warren Waite, the young dentist recently convicted of poisoning his father-in-law, John E. Peck, and sentenced by Justice Shearn to die in the week of July 10.

Although Dr. Waite has been repeatedly quoted as saying that he did not wish his case to be appealed, the notice was filed with his consent. Mr. Deuel, his counsel, visited him in the death house at Sing Sing Tuesday and had a long conference with him.

While Dr. Waite feels that there is no use in prolonging the agony, he has at no time expressed any desire to be executed. He has no objection to any legal move which I saw fit to make.

Waite's Remark Distorted. "His remark that he wanted justice to take its course has been distorted to read that he was anxious to rush to the chair. He has no idea that the chair is any nearer than the writing paper on which he sits."

According to Mr. Deuel, Dr. Waite is in the same apparently contented frame of mind that characterized his attitude during his incarceration in the Tombs and his entrance to Sing Sing. He spends much of his time writing poetry on nature and contentment, most of which he sends to his brother Frank, who plans to publish it in book form.

Mr. Deuel is of the opinion that it will not be argued before fall. In either case the execution will be delayed beyond the time fixed by the trial court. If it does not come up until October Dr. Waite probably will not be electrocuted before December.

Mrs. Margaret Horton, who shared a studio at the Plaza with Dr. Waite, has dropped quietly into the background since testifying for the state at the dentist's trial. She is continuing her musical studies, and still dreams of the operatic stage. She is not the only one of her family who is theatrically inclined, for Marie Poro, the former Frohman star, is her cousin.

While Dr. Waite never mentioned Mrs. Horton to his wife, he did describe "the dove among crows" to her. "I have a most interesting and attractive patient," he said one day. "She is a cousin of Marie Poro, the famous actress."

TRAINMEN ANGRY AT LEE'S ANSWER

Railroad Conference Has First Disturbance in Week's Sessions.

The conference between railroad officials and employes which has been going on serenely for a week, suffered its first disturbance yesterday at the Engineering Societies Building.

It took the form of a spirited controversy between employer and employe over the refusal of the roads to answer a question propounded by the trainmen, but the affair simmered down to its customary degree of amiability before the conference adjourned.

W. S. Stone, grand chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, submitted a proposition yesterday relative to the earning power of employes, and the answer of Elisha Lee, of the Pennsylvania Railroad, chairman of the committee, did not satisfy the union men.

THREE OF A MILLION

There are over a million such widows and orphans as these in Germany as a result of this war.

Untold suffering has been brought to millions of blameless non-combatants through the terrible slaughter of the battle front. The people of the United States have heard and heeded the call of sufferers in the countries of the Allies. Now let us hear another call. The widows and orphans of Germany are reduced to want despite the ministrations of their government. They look for aid to this great and prosperous country. Shall they appeal in vain? Or shall we grasp this magnificent opportunity to prove beyond the smallest question of a doubt that our charity is non-partisan and that we regard humanity above all the issues of war?

The American Auxiliary of the American Relief Committee in Berlin now brings this appeal to you, and will forward all contributions without deductions of any kind. The cost of this advertisement and other expenses will be borne by members of the committee and their friends.
