

The Conning Tower

After Listening to a Symphony I traffic with trifles through the day, I lose the precious purpose of the whole, The drift of ordered worlds along the way, The shrines to stir the unimpassioned soul. One cannot feed the momentary flames, And tend, besides, the fires that never fade; I am too much engrossed in little games To watch the larger one the Fates have played. Each day's immediate and enticing round Shuts out the gleaming pathways of the age; The meaning of the book I have not found, I read so lingeringly each trivial page. Yet for the nonce this massive music rings With earnest and imperishable things.

MOVIE 'MURDERS' IN POTTER HOME

Opposition to Riverside Drive School Brings Charges

Allegations that murders and other crimes are committed for moving picture purposes in the fine property lately owned by the late Mrs. Henry Potter, at Riverside Drive and Eighty-ninth Street, are made in an action pending in the Supreme Court. The property was at one time valued at $500,000. Mrs. Florence De G. Shaw, who conducts the Hamilton Institute for Girls in the house adjoining the Potter residence and which now is the home of William H. Barnard, president of the International Salt Company, makes the statement regarding the present use of the property to show that her school is not near so much a violation of a covenant against the use of the property for moving picture purposes as it was, according to Mrs. Shaw, that some of the scenes of "Clara's Romance" in which Billie Burke starred, were taken.

Neighbors Object to School

Barnard and others sued to restrain Mrs. Shaw from conducting her school in the restricted area. Complaint was made that the presence of the school was a nuisance to the neighborhood, which would be further hurt by the necessary placement of fire escapes on the building. The law allowed that no school should be conducted in a building which was not so affected by the presence of the neighborhood.

Gave $1,000 for Charity

Then the director of the outfit went to Barnard and explained that he had had $1,000 feet of film for a picture which would be a total loss unless he could get permission to complete the picture. The movie man offered to give a check for $1,000, to be used for permission to finish the scene, for which the Barnard house was needed as a background. Permission was given and a check for $1,000 was given Mrs. Barnard to be given to some charitable institution. But the moving picture men were not allowed to come near to the house than the vestibule.

OPENING WEEK AT THE METROPOLITAN

Operas in the First Six Days of the Season. General Manager Gatti-Casazza announced yesterday the repertory for the opening week of the Metropolitan opera season of 1916-17. It will include one French, one Russian, two Italian and two German operas. "Les Pecheurs de Perles," which virtually is a novelty here—only a fragment of the work having been given in New York on January 11, 1896, with "L'Air" will open the season next Monday evening. It will be sung in French. The cast will include Mme. Frieda Hempel as Leila, Mr. Caruso as Nadir, Dr. Lorenza as Zurga and Mr. Rothier as the King. "The Barber of Seville" will follow on Wednesday evening. It will be sung in Italian. The cast will include Mrs. Gatti-Casazza as Figaro, Mrs. Reiss, Bada, Audisio and Reschigiani. "The Barber of Seville" will be followed on Friday evening by "The Barber of Seville" with Messrs. Hempel, Ober, Mason, Lorenza, Matfield, Van Dyck, Braslavsky, Maerkel and Dobbins, and Mrs. Gatti-Casazza, Mrs. Reiss, Bada, Audisio and Reschigiani. "The Barber of Seville" will be followed on Saturday evening by "The Barber of Seville" with Messrs. Hempel, Ober, Mason, Lorenza, Matfield, Van Dyck, Braslavsky, Maerkel and Dobbins, and Mrs. Gatti-Casazza, Mrs. Reiss, Bada, Audisio and Reschigiani.

STANDARDS FAIL FOR PADEREWSKI

No Formula Found by Which Critics Can Measure Pianist

By H. E. KREHBIEL. The greatest embarrassment which is likely to confront the reviewer of musical incidents in New York in a season like that in which we are already engaged will arise from the problem of how he is to satisfy his conscience and the public. The artist would enter into the equation if it were possible to bring him and the reviewer upon the same platform of observation; but that is obvious and confessedly impossible. The point of view of the artist in general is that criticism, when it contains an admixture of praise, is in proper only in the case of another fellow; when it comes to himself the real duty of the reviewer, which he naturally knows better than any newspaper man can possibly know, it is to praise unqualifiedly or confine himself to "reporting the facts," as he calls it, these facts being that he gave a concert, that the hall had lots of people in it and that these people provided abundant applause. If, however, the reviewer, out of a knowledge brought to him by long and patient observation, should couple with this the further statement of fact that a few scores of the people were personal friends desirous to give the artist a "send-off," and the rest persons on the free list of the manager whose expression of opinion had no more significance than the crackling of a fire under a pot, that would be criticism of the most objectionable sort—"most tolerable and not to be endured."

NEW YORK HEARS MANY CONCERTS

Yvette Guilbert Renders "Songs of the Soldiers of France"

A veritable avalanche of concerts and recitals descended yesterday upon the devoted heads of New York's music lovers. Outside the New York Symphony Society's offering and that of Mr. Paderewski, the event of the greatest interest was the recital of Mme. Yvette Guilbert in the evening at the Maxine Elliott Theatre. Mme. Guilbert's subject was "Songs of the Brave Soldiers of France" from the time of Joan of Arc to the present day. Mr. Clayton Hamilton presided with the recital with an address on "The Heroes of France," and M. Gustave Ferrari again played Mme. Guilbert's accompaniments most marvelously. The program was intensely interesting and one often peculiarly poignant. There was "Reveille des Picards" of the period of Jeanne, and "La Ballade Comique du Franc-Archer" of Francis I, while of the period of Louis XIII. there were "Sauts Blonde" and "Votre Cotonn Meudames." In these songs Mme. Guilbert expressed with exquisite shading and infinite variety the gay spirit of the French soldier, that spirit in which love and laughter are forever mocking death, a spirit French and only French, so alien to the Anglo-Saxon that for centuries it was utterly misunderstood, and to the English it had become an axiom. Then came the heroic days of the Revolution and Andre Chenier's "Le Chant du depart" to the music of M. Debussy. In French in spirit, and yet so universal in appeal. This required more voice than Mme. Guilbert could give to it, and yet who in the great auditorium was not stirred by the spirit that emanated from the singer? Then, to show that even under the guillotine France was still France, we had "Apris de ma Blonde" followed again by tragedy in "Maribourg sin va Ven general" and "Les Indes" removed from its English version of "I won't go home until morning."

CANNON URGES CHECK ON MORMON CHURCH

Former Senator Wants Its Propaganda Barred from Mails

Frank J. Cannon, former Senator from Utah and a son of one of the hierarchs of the Mormon Church, spoke against Mormonism at the Harlem Y. M. C. A. yesterday afternoon. Declaring that within the last year the faith had gained 80,000 converts, and drawing a parallel between it and slavery, he pleaded for a reopening of the case against Senator Reed Smoot, an anti-polygamy amendment to the Constitution for an act forbidding the use of the mails as a means of spreading Mormon "propaganda."

BARGAIN HUNTERS RUSH ITALIAN BAZAAR

Stormy Scenes at Final Night—$75,000 Raised

The Italian Bazaar passed out of being last night after the stormiest and most violent evening of its career, after having raised more than $75,000 for the war victims of Italy. Toward the close of the evening the Grand Central Palace resembled a stormy day in the Stock Exchange more than it did the expiring gasp of a charity bazaar. A nation-wide campaign for prison reform and the furtherance of the self-government principle in prison management, headed by Thomas Mott Osborne, former warden of Sing Sing, and backed by many influential interests in this state, was announced last night at Columbia University through the National Committee on Prisons. This plan is the outcome of a meeting held Friday. Prison workers and several theatrical managers obtained Mr. Osborne's promise to go into every state of the Union to explain the systems which have been introduced into Sing Sing and Auburn.

CHURCH NEEDS "AD" HELP, SAYS PASTOR

Dr. Reiser Uses Political Campaign as Example

Religious advertising, on a national basis as a means of increasing church attendance was urged last night in a talk at the Metropolitan Opera House by Dr. Reiser, pastor of the Grace Methodist Episcopal Church, in West 104th Street, near Amsterdam Avenue. "Should Churches Advertise?" was his subject. "Advertising," he said, "is merely proclaiming the truth in a loud and strong way so that people must listen. Jesus employed the best publicity measures of his day. He preached on the streets, from the housetops, from the Samaritan, through the loud proclamations of the crowd, who waved palm branches as they hailed him as King." Dr. Reiser compared the wide use of advertising in the political campaigns with the small use of the same in the church. He remarked that both candidates for the Presidency, as well as both candidates for Governor of New York, are sons of ministers, and they, as well as their campaign managers, have found that there is no better method of getting the truth before the public than through advertising.

D. A. R. HOLDS YEARLY MEMORIAL SERVICE

Pays Tribute to Mrs. McLean, Mrs. Ball and Dr. Steele

The New York City Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution held its annual services yesterday afternoon in Old Trinity Church. This year the services were in memory of Mrs. Emily Wilson McLean, former national president of the society; of Margaret M. Ball, first vice-regent, and of Dr. James Nevitt Steele, of Trinity Church, for almost twenty years chaplain of the local chapter. The Rev. Dr. Steele presided at yesterday's memorial services and had chosen his readings and songs just before his death. American flags and wreaths of lilies adorned Dr. Steele's pulpit and the pews formerly occupied by Mrs. McLean and Mrs. Ball. Dr. Frank B. Reesor, of Orange, N. J., paid tribute to the three in the address of the afternoon. He recalled Mrs. McLean as "one who dealt with life in a large and forceful way, yet never lost sight of his personal side," and said that flags were the fitting memorial for one who had had so great a creative interest in democracy and in Paul Jones' table in the New York Hall of Fame. He spoke of the "lifelong patriotic spirit" of Margaret M. Ball as manifested in her mission work, and said of Dr. Steele that "those who have known him and loved him best during nearly a score of years in Trinity Church."

MRS. FLAGLER WILL WED AGAIN

R. W. Bingham, a Girlhood Friend, Wins Widow Worth $700,000

Mrs. Henry M. Flagler is to marry Robert Worth Bingham, of Louisville, whom she met twenty-three years ago at commencement exercises at the University of Virginia. Announcement of the engagement was made yesterday by William R. Kenan, of Lockport, N. Y., Mrs. Flagler's brother. Henry M. Flagler, an organizer of the Standard Oil Company and builder of the Florida East Coast Railway, died in 1915 at Palm Beach, Fla., leaving his estate, valued at $700,000, to his widow, Mrs. Flagler, and to his only daughter, Miss Eleanor E. Miller, died about the same time from injuries received in an automobile accident. A year ago Mrs. Flagler and Mr. Bingham met at a house party in Asheville, N. C., renewing the acquaintance of twenty-two years before. Both were Southerners, Mrs. Flagler, who was Miss Mary Lily Kenan, having been born in Macon, Ga., while Mr. Bingham was a native of North Carolina. The wedding set for November 15. The wedding will take place on the afternoon of November 15 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Pembroke Jones, 5 East Sixty-sixth Street. The Rev. Dr. George Morgan Ward, rector of the Flagler Chapel, at Palm Beach, will perform the ceremony. Only members of the immediate families will be invited. Mr. and Mrs. Bingham will make their home at first in Louisville, and later will spend part of their time there and at their country home in New York. Mr. Bingham has three children. Former Mayor of Louisville. He was born in Orange County, N. C., November 8, 1871. He was graduated from the Pugham School, Asheville, N. C., and attended the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, University of Virginia, later taking a course in law at the University of Michigan. From 1892 to 1895 Mr. Bingham was professor of Greek and Latin at Bingham school, residing to take up the practice of law. He served as County Attorney of Jefferson County, Ky., from 1904 to 1907, when he became Mayor of Louisville. At the expiration of his term he was elected chancellor of the Jefferson Circuit Court, retiring later from the bench.

OSBORNE TO TOUR U. S. FOR REFORM

Nation-wide Prison Betterment Campaign Announced at Columbia

A nation-wide campaign for prison reform and the furtherance of the self-government principle in prison management, headed by Thomas Mott Osborne, former warden of Sing Sing, and backed by many influential interests in this state, was announced last night at Columbia University through the National Committee on Prisons. This plan is the outcome of a meeting held Friday. Prison workers and several theatrical managers obtained Mr. Osborne's promise to go into every state of the Union to explain the systems which have been introduced into Sing Sing and Auburn. Guarantee Fund Raised. Jules S. Bachs presided, and before the close of the meeting had contributed generously to an initial guarantee fund. The exact figures were not announced by the national committee. Adolf Lewisohn, president of the body, who has for years taken an interest in the Mutual Welfare League and the work carried on by Mr. Osborne, also contributed a large sum, and others present pledged sufficient funds to insure the immediate organization of the campaign. Mrs. Helen Hartley Jenkins, who helped to establish the
