

Ruth Cruger's Body Sought in Cocchi's Cellar

Detectives, Acting on Tip, Unearth Corset Cover and Glove... Bones Also Found in Recent Excavation... Laborer's Pick Strikes Box, but Investigator Delays Its Exhumation

Private and city detectives yesterday plucked with vigor at the skeins of mystery which cling about the disappearance of Ruth Cruger...

Laborer Digs Cellar... Mrs. Grace Humiston, attorney for the Cruger family, obtained permission from Police Commissioner Woods to dig up the cellar.

Corset Cover Found... A foot beneath the level of the cement floor the corset cover, soiled and crumpled, was found.

Real Drama Injected... "We're looking for the day," he declared. "I'm acting under orders, and I don't dig up anything until tomorrow morning."

Police Officials Passive... The Police Department is taking only a passive interest in the excavation of the cellar.

Noted Horsemen Attend Funeral of Philip J. Dwyer... Funeral services for the late Philip J. Dwyer, for more than thirty years a prominent figure on the American turf, were held yesterday.

Today's Programme In the Sunday Revival

2 p. m.—Service in the Tabernacle, Broadway and 16th Street. Sermon by Billy Sunday.

18,000 Respond To Sunday's Appeal For Christian Life

Evangelist's Words Draw Throng in Tabernacle from Seats

Scarcely a seat in the Tabernacle was occupied last night a moment after Billy Sunday, costless and husky of voice, had asked every one to stand who wished to lead a Christian life.

Trail Hitters for Day Total 2,216

Billy leaped down into his reception box and waited for trail hitters. Of the 18,000 who stood 1,510 came forward to take his hand.

This demonstration came at the close of a characteristic sermon, replete with anecdotes illustrating the fate that befall certain unbelievers, the fortune that came to the saved.

Scores Deadened Repentance... "I don't go much on deadened repentance," he shouted. "I think it's a pretty mean, low thing to indulge your desires all your life and then on the deathbed whine like a sick cat and ask the preacher to come and save you."

Distribution Policy Of the Liberty Loan Severely Criticized

Secretary McAdoo Comes In for Attack at World Salesmanship Congress

Treasury McAdoo's Liberty Loan distribution policy was severely assailed at a Tuesday night session of the world's salesmanship congress in Arcadia Hall by Richard H. Waldo, secretary of The New York Tribune.

Mr. Waldo's remarks, concurred in by Ban R. Ardaman and Des Moines, brought a stinging retort from Walter B. Brinkman, a Duluth delegate, who asserted that it would be "more fitting to have the Liberty Loan distributed to the rescue of the banks after all."

Police Officials Passive... The Police Department is taking only a passive interest in the excavation of the cellar.

Noted Horsemen Attend Funeral of Philip J. Dwyer... Funeral services for the late Philip J. Dwyer, for more than thirty years a prominent figure on the American turf, were held yesterday.

What Is Going on To-Day... Free admission to the American Museum of Natural History, the New York Zoological Park, the Van Cortlandt Park Museum, the Aquarium and the City Hall.

Ain't It a Grand and Glorious Feelin'?

House Authorizes Small Investor Awakens To Need for Liberty Loan

Great Increase in $50 and $100 Bond Subscriptions Indicated, and One Official Predicts Two Million Will Participate in War Issue—Bank Returns Slow

Washington, June 12.—Treasury officials declared to-night that because of the failure of many banks to report, they had been unable even to estimate the progress of the Liberty Loan since last Friday night, when only $1,200,000,000 of the $2,000,000,000 apparently had been taken.

Another urgent call went out from the Treasury to-night, asking banks to report subscriptions so officials may no longer be kept in the dark. The call was disseminated through the twelve Federal Reserve banks, headquarters of the loan in their various districts.

Liberty, humanity and progress require that we must win this war," he said. "Our institutions and our right to govern ourselves are at stake. He who has the spirit of a free man will make every sacrifice necessary to retain his freedom. He who prefers slavery to sacrifice must not stand in the way of others."

These men must be equipped and sustained. Funds must be forthcoming to furnish the food, the firearms and other supplies for the fighting forces of the nation. The need is immediate. We cannot wait for the slower process of tax gathering. That can come later.

As the situation stands to-night, officials frankly do not know whether the $100,000,000 a day has been obtained. Thousands of banks have failed to notify the Reserve banks of progress made, and the tabulation showing only $1,200,000,000 stands as the latest official figures. Another tabulation may be made to-morrow.

To insure success, the closing days of the campaign will be devoted to redoubled efforts to bring out the dollars of the small investor.

To Ring Liberty Bell... As part of this campaign, the old Liberty Bell at Philadelphia, which proclaimed to the world 141 years ago the birth of the American Republic, will ring once more in the cause of liberty.

No doubt is felt that Senator Martin East promptly accept the concession of $200,000 in the price of the land and that the entire $3,500,000,000 budget bill will pass the Senate without further delay.

The Jamestown site incident has created a most painful impression in Congress.

Will of Mrs. Fitch A Memorial to Son... The will of Mrs. Alice Fitch, mother of the late Clyde Fitch, novelist and playwright, which was filed in the Surrogate's Court yesterday, is full of bequests in memory of her son.

To the Actors' Fund of America she left the contents of her home at 113 East Cortlandt Street, and her country home in Greenwich, Conn., including all the objects of art, and instructed her executors to sell her interest in all the plays and writings of her son and turn the proceeds over to the fund.

Mrs. Fitch left to Dorothy J. Moses and Montrose J. Moses $1,000 each, a slight appreciation of their labor of love in connection with the memorial edition of the plays of my late son. Jean Courtis, who was Clyde Fitch's valet, receives $500. The will disposes of $128,000 to relatives and friends.

East Side Seeks 'Magnetic Woman' And $100,000

Mrs. Ray Hyman and 'Investments' Vanish at the Same Time

Long List of Victims

District Attorney's Office Is Called to Assist in the Search

Sixteen agitated men and weeping women met yesterday in the office of Edward Grossman, head of the Ajax Oil and Grease Company, 170 West Sixty-fifth Street, and begged Mr. Grossman to tell them what had become of Mrs. Ray Hyman, described as a "middle-aged but handsome and magnetic" woman, who until recently resided in 300 East Fifty-sixth Street.

Mr. Grossman, they said, had been seen motoring with the missing woman. Possibly, they said, he had been something about the money, which they declared they had given the "magnetic" but missing Mrs. Hyman to invest for them. Hundreds of other residents of the East Side, they asserted, also were interested mightily in the whereabouts of the woman and certain sums deposited by them for investment. The East Side's total capital invested through Mrs. Hyman, they estimated, was not less than $100,000.

Mr. Grossman Investigated... "Make it $138,000," said Mr. Grossman, "I invested $38,000 with Mrs. Hyman myself and I wish I did know where she is."

Grossman denied he was Mrs. Hyman's "agent," as some of the investors had charged. Leonard Matt, who they thought kept her books, denied knowing anything of her finances, except that she has $18,000 of his money to invest.

"I've kissed goodbye to it, too," said Matt. According to Bernard H. Sandler, an attorney of 265 Broadway, who is acting for the collective Hyman investors, the magnetic Mrs. Hyman has been in the East Side for less than a year. She may have invested $1,000,000, he says. Her financial operations were popular, he explains, because of the fact that she paid $100,000 for each $1,000 invested interest to those who advanced money to her.

Several weeks ago, Mr. Sandler says, Mrs. Hyman vanished from her accustomed haunts. Her last known whereabouts were with five children, who had invested all her funds with Mrs. Hyman. She had invited all who had invested similarly to meet in her grocery store, in 223 East 110th Street. The meeting, he says, and Mr. Sandler agrees, resulted in a near riot when it was discovered that Mrs. Hyman had invested so much of the neighborhood funds and had returned so little.

District Attorney in Search... The meeting resulted in the call on Mr. Grossman yesterday. That visit in turn inspired the investors to present their case to Assistant District Attorney Colton, in charge of the Commercial Bureau of the District. He would do all in his power to find Mrs. Hyman.

Some of the others who are looking for her are Joseph Fox, of 156 West 141st Street, who declared he had invested $1,000 with her; G. Leavy, of 933 86th Street, who says he advanced $10,000; A. Ribbin, 415 Sackman Street, Brownsville, $1,500; B. Abramowitz, 108th Street, $1,000; A. Cohen, 28th Street, $200; Isidore London, 615 Sackman Street, $262.50; Mrs. N. Fishkin, 237 East 110th Street, $900; Mrs. R. Fox, 156 West 111th Street, $1,000; L. L. Latham, 4 D. Hill street, of 381 Union Avenue, each $1,000; Mrs. Mollie Fuchs, 233 East 110th Street, $1,000; and Mrs. Dora Schiff, of 232 East 103rd Street, $3,000.

Macdougall Alley Fete Ends in Big Feast... Estimated That the Festival Brought in $500,000 for War Relief

The Macdougall Alley Fete came to a close last night with what is generally known and called "a grand patriotic pageant and Mardi Gras parade" and down the alley, the procession being led by Ethel Barrymore representing Columbia, Col. George Collier as Britannia, Miss G. L. Lillie as the Statue of Liberty, Margaretta Sylvia as Belgium, Fay Bainter as Japan, Charlotte Lee as Portugal, Kathleen Nesbit as Exterminator, and Mrs. James K. Hackett as Montenegro.

The pageant was followed by a dance in the alley. Earlier in the evening artists and singers in instrumental stations suffered from the impromptu entertainment for the crowd, which had to get its money's worth, for the price of admission on the closing night was David Bispham, the singer, rigged himself up as an Italian organ grinder and ground an organ. Joe Davidson, the sculptor, disported himself as a Neapolitan peasant, having acquired the color for his role during many years of residence in the city. Clayton Hamilton, the dramatist and critic, just represented himself.

Following the dinner in the studio of Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney, the crowd danced in the alley.

News in Brief... Halbert B. Warren obtained a verdict for $147 in the Supreme Court against the owner of the Produce and Fish Market, who suffered while taking a Turkish bath.

Louis Horn, forty-nine, of 232 East 49th Street, was fined $3 in Harlem court for failing a 15-year-old boy, thirty-nine, of 147 East 82nd Street, third Magistrate Frank J. Buehler, who found that the boy had been in the state penitentiary for a year and a half.

Mrs. Anna Keller, twenty-nine, of 139th Street, was fined $5 for not having her child, a milkman, had carelessly neglected her child. After an ambulance surgeon had been called, she was taken to the hospital and died ten days in the workhouse of Magistrate Prothingham.

House Authorizes Small Investor Awakens To Need for Liberty Loan

Great Increase in $50 and $100 Bond Subscriptions Indicated, and One Official Predicts Two Million Will Participate in War Issue—Bank Returns Slow

Washington, June 12.—Treasury officials declared to-night that because of the failure of many banks to report, they had been unable even to estimate the progress of the Liberty Loan since last Friday night, when only $1,200,000,000 of the $2,000,000,000 apparently had been taken.

Another urgent call went out from the Treasury to-night, asking banks to report subscriptions so officials may no longer be kept in the dark. The call was disseminated through the twelve Federal Reserve banks, headquarters of the loan in their various districts.

Liberty, humanity and progress require that we must win this war," he said. "Our institutions and our right to govern ourselves are at stake. He who has the spirit of a free man will make every sacrifice necessary to retain his freedom. He who prefers slavery to sacrifice must not stand in the way of others."

These men must be equipped and sustained. Funds must be forthcoming to furnish the food, the firearms and other supplies for the fighting forces of the nation. The need is immediate. We cannot wait for the slower process of tax gathering. That can come later.

As the situation stands to-night, officials frankly do not know whether the $100,000,000 a day has been obtained. Thousands of banks have failed to notify the Reserve banks of progress made, and the tabulation showing only $1,200,000,000 stands as the latest official figures. Another tabulation may be made to-morrow.

To insure success, the closing days of the campaign will be devoted to redoubled efforts to bring out the dollars of the small investor.

To Ring Liberty Bell... As part of this campaign, the old Liberty Bell at Philadelphia, which proclaimed to the world 141 years ago the birth of the American Republic, will ring once more in the cause of liberty.

No doubt is felt that Senator Martin East promptly accept the concession of $200,000 in the price of the land and that the entire $3,500,000,000 budget bill will pass the Senate without further delay.

The Jamestown site incident has created a most painful impression in Congress.

Will of Mrs. Fitch A Memorial to Son... The will of Mrs. Alice Fitch, mother of the late Clyde Fitch, novelist and playwright, which was filed in the Surrogate's Court yesterday, is full of bequests in memory of her son.

To the Actors' Fund of America she left the contents of her home at 113 East Cortlandt Street, and her country home in Greenwich, Conn., including all the objects of art, and instructed her executors to sell her interest in all the plays and writings of her son and turn the proceeds over to the fund.

Mrs. Fitch left to Dorothy J. Moses and Montrose J. Moses $1,000 each, a slight appreciation of their labor of love in connection with the memorial edition of the plays of my late son. Jean Courtis, who was Clyde Fitch's valet, receives $500. The will disposes of $128,000 to relatives and friends.

City Subscribed $750,000,000 To Liberty Loan

Chicago, June 12.—Fifteen million dollars was the total of to-day's subscriptions to the Liberty Loan for the entire territory comprised in the 7th Federal Reserve Bank district. These figures were given out to-night from the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago, and included reports made up to 6 p. m.

At headquarters of the Liberty Loan publicity committee, however, it was said that the total figures for the day would approximate $24,000,000, the $15,000,000 being merely the amount turned in.

Officials of the Continental and Commercial Bank announced a subscription of $25,000,000. It is made on account of the bank and its affiliated institutions. Arthur Reynolds, vice-president, said the bank contemplated still further investment in the war securities.

Continued from page 1... that it would be payable in Liberty bonds.

In distributing a dividend of $25 a share to stockholders, the following notice accompanied the dividend checks mailed by the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Coal Company:

"Do your bit and use this little bit of a check to buy Liberty Loan bonds."

Large individual subscriptions reported yesterday for the first time included $2,000,000 from William Rockefeller, $1,000,000 from James Stillman and $450,000 from Ogden Mills. Others included $500,000 from the Phelps-Dodge Corporation, $500,000 from the United States Mortgage and Trust Company and clients, $1,000,000 from the Insurance Company of North America, $1,000,000 from the El Paso & Southern Railway, $1,000,000 from the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway, $500,000 from the Rockefeller Foundation, $1,000,000 from the Marlin Arms Corporation, $200,000 from the Curtis Publishing Company, $500,000 from the Consolidated Gas Company, $1,500,000 from the Stamford National Bank, Knights of Columbus, $250,000; Henry Clews & Co., $500,000; Solomon Brothers & Hutzler, $300,000; Ira Nelson Morris, American Minister to Sweden, $500,000; Northern Finance Company, $1,000,000; Chicago & Northwestern Railway, $500,000; Franklin National Bank, $1,000,000; $700,000. Five days' subscriptions from employees of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation total $4,455,450.

Message from Joffre... Marshal Joffre sent a cable dispatch to the Liberty Loan Committee which was translated from the French as follows:

"The success of the Liberty Loan will be a new pledge of our final victory which will crown the common efforts of the soldiers of the United States

