Money Thus Saved Will Be Added to the "Victory Fund"

Having contributed their money to "Suffrage Sacrifice Week" this week and their clothes, jewelry and furniture to the "Sacrifice Sale" scheduled for tomorrow, the suffragists of New York City will further boost their financial campaign by doing without luncheon to-morrow and turning over the money thus saved to the New York City Woman Suffrage party.

ORANGE, N. J., Sept. 26.—Charles K. Ensign, who was treasurer and a trustee of the Central Presbyterian Church, died to-day at his home, 24 Ridge street, at the age of seventy-four years.

Suffrage Pickets, In Prison, Strike Refuse to Paint Negro Quarters—Sisters Leave To-day on Tour of Country

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.—Five ex-White House pickets at the Occoquan workhouse to-day, on being assigned to paint in the negro quarters, went on a strike. As soon as their sisters assigned to other work heard of this they called a sympathetic strike, with the result that the wheels aren't turning at Occoquan so far as the suffragette inmates are concerned.

The free suffrage pickets will start to-day on a national tour to tell of their measures and indignities suffered by them in Washington at the hands of the Administration.

From now until December the Women's party campaigners will visit every state in the Union. The Federal amendment also will be urged by the speakers, who represent the suffragists who do not work for suffrage by state action, as opposed to the National American Woman Suffrage Association, which works along both state and Federal lines.

Sinn Fein Silent; Irish Hope Grows

No Hostile Demonstration at Convention; Crowds in Streets Cheer Delegates

CORK, Sept. 26.—"We are getting on, and all we want is a fair opportunity to perform the work for which we were appointed," said Sir Horace Plunkett, chairman of the Irish Convention, at the luncheon given the members of the convention yesterday by the Harbor Board.

The streets about the hotel where the luncheon was held were crowded with persons anxious to catch a glimpse of the many distinguished delegates, and there were frequent cheers as the familiar faces appeared.

At the luncheon, on either side of Sir Horace Plunkett, sat the Earl of Dunraven, the Earl of Mayo, Lord Midleton and Baron Macdonnell. Sir Horace received a flattering ovation, the diners giving three cheers for him and singing, "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow."

"The convention," said Sir Horace, in continuing his address, "has made me hope as I never hoped before that I shall live to see this day when Ireland will be born. I hope to hear all Irishmen say, 'My country is thy country,' and in the larger patriotism, 'My God is thy God.'"

Sir Horace painstakingly explained the objects of the secrecy surrounding the working of the convention. "It has made possible," he said, "the utmost frankness and expression of opinion between the members, which, if they knew it were to be made public, would not be expressed."

The delegates cheered again when they left the hotel for a tour of the city's industries.

The absence, so far of any hostile demonstration by the Sinn Feiners, who opposed the convention, is believed by many to augur well for its ultimate success.

Hunger Strike Fatal To Sinn Fein Leader

DUBLIN, Sept. 26.—Thomas Ashe, a Sinn Fein leader, has died in a hospital here as the result of a hunger strike upon which he entered some time ago.

Ashe commanded the rebels in the Easter riots at Ashbourne in 1916, when several members of the constabulary were killed. He was released last June under the amnesty arrangement. Recently he was again sentenced by court martial to a year's imprisonment for a seditious speech, but immediately on being imprisoned began a hunger strike, which resulted in his death.

So far as available records show, Ashe is the only person who has died in prison recently from voluntary starvation, although many persons—notably suffragists—have gone on hunger strikes in England when imprisoned for infractions of the law.

Ashe was arrested in connection with the Ashbourne rioting and had visited the United States on a financial mission for the Sinn Fein League.

Suffragists Will Go Lunchless for Cause

Money Thus Saved Will Be Added to the "Victory Fund" of the 1917 Campaign

Having contributed their money to "Suffrage Sacrifice Week" this week and their clothes, jewelry and furniture to the "Sacrifice Sale" scheduled for tomorrow, the suffragists of New York City will further boost their financial campaign by doing without luncheon to-morrow and turning over the money thus saved to the New York City Woman Suffrage party.

The "Suffrage Sacrifice" was originated by Miss Mary Garrett Hay as a climax to a series of rummage sales, teas, card parties, parcels post parties, dollar days and dances which are being given this week by the suffragists of the various Assembly districts in order to swell the "Victory Fund" of the 1917 campaign.

The "Suffrage Sale" will be held to-morrow at the Post office headquarters, 40 East Thirty-eighth Street. Another sale will be held all next week at the Suffrage Shop, at 17 East Fifty-ninth Street, where everything from Calico models to babies' bibs will be on sale all week.

Mrs. Van Valkenburg Finally Marries Duke

ROME, Sept. 26.—The Duke of Oporto and Mrs. Philip Van Valkenburg, a wealthy American widow, were married at the American Methodist Church here to-day.

The duke and the duchess have already been provided with passports and are going abroad on their honeymoon.

The Duke of Oporto is a brother of the late King Carlos of Portugal. His wedding to Mrs. Van Valkenburg had been arranged for earlier in the month, but the American Embassy in Rome intervened regarding the previous marital status of either one of the contracting parties.

Mrs. Van Valkenburg was divorced from her first husband, Luigi Agnew, of Chicago, in 1905, and in the same year married William Hays Chapman, secretary of the American Embassy in Rome, in 1906, who died in 1914, leaving her an estate of $200,000.

In 1911 she became the wife of Philip Van Valkenburg, but obtained a divorce from him in 1914 on the ground of desertion. Since then she had spent most of her time abroad.

War Sermons Mark Yom Kippur Service

Nation-Wide Appeal Made for Jewish Relief Fund

War was the keynote of nearly all the sermons in the synagogues yesterday and formed the outstanding text for this year's observance of Yom Kippur, the Jewish Day of Atonement.

Quite as distinct a departure from custom in the celebration of this most religious holiday in the Jewish year was the nation-wide appeal in the temples for funds for the relief of Jews suffering from the war.

Many of the rabbis in their sermons predicted that the war would result in the establishment of the rights of Jews in every land.

The Rev. Dr. Samuel Schulman in his sermon in Temple Beth-El, Fifth Avenue and Seventy-third Street, said that he was sure the powers would recognize the rights of Jews in Poland and Rumania at the close of the war.

"The freedom of Poland," said Rabbi Schulman, "will be in vain unless the 3,000,000 Jews in Poland are permitted to enjoy the same freedom as all others in the country. Men are speaking of national independence for Poland. In that country the situation of the Jew is worse than in any other in the world. Why shed tears for Poland unless the Poles in their freedom will have room for freedom for the Jews?"

"Every nation in the war," added Rabbi Schulman, "has been socialized by the war."

The Rev. Dr. M. H. Harris in his sermon at Temple Israel, Harlem, scolded a wandering against what he called the growing tendency of all people to play with free love and urged the necessity of Jewish education for youths of that religion.

"We know," said Rabbi Harris, "that the moralities are being played with in almost every story we pick up in the various magazines. One cannot but note the growing tendency to play with the sanctity of marriage."

Marc Klaw, who is a member of the War Department commission on training camp activities, is organizing committees to supply performances for the Liberty theatres at the National Army camps.

Forbes Morgan, Professor H. Fairfield Osborn, Charles H. Sabin, Francis Lynde Stetson, George W. Wickersham, Otto H. Kahn, chairman, and Frederic R. Coudert.
