

U.S.F.A., Barring Aliens, Becomes Truly American

Taint of Britons' Voice in Government of Game Here Is Removed

By C. A. Lovett

The United States Football Association has become 100 per cent American.

But with more than fifty colleges in this country fostering the kicking sport, with high schools and grammar schools the country over adopting the game as the chief form of athletic competition, even replacing baseball more often than not, because the baseball season is only beginning when the schools close for the summer, the U. S. F. A. elected last week to give proof of its patriotism, and even as the result of criticism from subjects of other countries in the fight for democracy amended its constitution to provide that the officers of the association shall be citizens of the United States.

It was not indicated by the proponents of the measure that there was any intent to strike at individual Britons. The fact remains, however, that the only non-citizen officer of the national body at the moment of enactment of the constitutional amendment was Thomas H. Bagнал, of Harrison, N. J., head of the Southern New York State Football Association and New York Football Protective Association, and for the 1917-18 season national treasurer. For more than a score of years Bagнал has been prominently identified with soccer in the metropolitan district, and many words of commendation for his work were spoken in the course of the discussion upon his proposed resignation.

Bagнал was accorded some support in opposing the proposed anti-alien measure, Andrew M. Brown, of the American Football Association; James H. Matz, of the New Jersey State F. A.; William Booth, Connecticut State F. A.; William Da Gleish, representing the Michigan Soccer Association; Third Vice-President George Healey, of Detroit; and Dr. J. W. Cahill, of New York. Cahill voting with the Englishman to defeat the proposed amendment, but Bagнал hurt his own cause by resigning during the meeting, and making no sound defense of his failure to become a naturalized citizen of the land that has fed him.

William S. Haddock, Sheriff of Allegheny County, Penn., a power in the Western Pennsylvania F. A. and Amateur Athletic Union delegate to the U. S. F. A. convention, was proclaimed to succeed Bagнал, and served as toastmaster at the annual banquet in connection with the July play meeting at the William Penn Hotel, Pittsburgh. The Allegheny district the grade schools adopted soccer football in place of baseball, and all the boys play each fall a schedule of more than 5,000 soccer games.

President Peck and Secretary Cahill were re-elected without opposition, but dropping of Douglas Stewart, of Philadelphia University of Pennsylvania soccer coach, after several years as first vice-president, came as a surprise to many. George Healey, of Detroit, for several years secretary-treasurer, was named without opposition to succeed Stewart. Andrew M. Brown, of Bayonne, N. J., was made second vice-president, and James H. Matz, of Newark, N. J., was elected first vice-president by the election, defeating William Palmer, of Philadelphia, and William Cameron, of Chicago, for the third vice-presidency. Riley succeeds Harold Crook, of Fall River, Mass., an officer in the management of the Fall River Ravens, recently deported on national grounds. As forecast in these columns the seasons were strangely harmonious, and but for the citizenship proposition the meeting would have been most peaceful.

The council defeated a move to require all district referees' associations to affiliate with the United States Referee Union, and in consequence the U. S. U. withdrew its affiliation to the U. S. F. A.

Legislation was enacted to frustrate padding of teams late in the playing season; a propaganda fund was voted for the use of Secretary Cahill; and the appeal of the National Association Football League against the decision of the New Jersey F. A., reversing a ruling of the New Jersey F. A. in a case involving Paterson F. C. and the New Jersey F. A., was dismissed, the New Jersey association's decision being upheld.

Dundee to Box Donley in Jersey City to-morrow

Johnny Dundee, contender for the lightweight championship, will box Mickey Donley, of Newark, at the Army A. A. in Jersey City to-morrow night.

Many Soccer Men in Service

GLASGOW, June 22.—Scottish soccer clubs have made tremendous sacrifices to do their bit toward winning the war. The famous amateur club of Scotland, the Queens Park, easily surpassed all other clubs, with more than 200 of its members having joined the colors. Up to date thirty have made the big sacrifice, while numbers more have been wounded.

Athletic Pitcher Is Called

Elmer G. Myers, the tall right-handed hurler of the Athletics who has pitched with more or less success this season in the box with the Athletics, has been ordered to report to the military board in order that he may entrain next week with a group of forty-one other draftees for camp.

Defence Opposed In Boxing Rules For Army Camps

New Code Like Queensberry Favors Aggressiveness—Judges Aid Referee

WASHINGTON, June 22.—Official army boxing rules to govern boxing contests among the million and a half men in training were issued to-day by the War Department Commission on Training Camp Activities. The new code differs radically from the codes commonly in use for the last ten or fifteen years and resembles more particularly the Marquis of Queensberry rules, which laid stress on fast, clever fighting. Greater credit is given to the boxer who is aggressive in spite of punishment than to the one who covers up or feigns.

"A million and a half men of the new army are being taught to box," says Dr. Joseph E. Raycroft, head of the athletic division of the commission, in a statement accompanying the new rules, "because it develops in them those qualities of alertness and pugnacity which make them better bayonet fighters. Success in bayonet fighting depends upon the determination and attack even more than upon technical skill. Boxing develops this aggressiveness in offence. A fierce attacking forward action beyond the present limit of a quarter of a mile of fighting men returned to safety. That is one important reason why the new boxing rules set a high premium upon offensive rather than on defensive fighting."

Penalty for Dodging

All back stepping, covering up and purely defensive work are discouraged under the new boxing rules and each contestant is made subject to a penalty for such work. This latter recommendation is a direct departure from the accepted standard of ring strategy which puts a premium on purely defensive tactics.

Under the new rules a total of six blows constitutes the ground plan of the boxing programme. The maintenance of such a series of blows must be taken into consideration in the final judgment of points. The value of attack cannot be overestimated and should be considered a prime factor in the allotting of points. It is stipulated that the new rules which were formulated upon consultation with the commission boxing instructors in the various camps lay particular emphasis upon those points which are valuable in the furthest training of the men who are to be sent to the front.

Under the army rules the referee is shorn of much power. Many of his active functions have been delegated to two judges, each of whom is assigned to a particular corner. The referee and the judges are clearly defined and are within the jurisdiction of the referee, who may disqualify immediately any contestant for attempted foul play. The referee's powers are limited to the standard of ten seconds. To gain fast action the time limit per round has been made two minutes instead of three minutes for novice boxers. Four rounds are clearly except in the case of divisional championship contests, which may run six rounds.

Shea, Champion Quarter-Miler, Is Aviation Rookie

By A. C. Cavanaugh

The intercollegiate 160-yard relay standard of minute 29 seconds recently claimed by the winners of Schenley High School, Pittsburgh, is only a district mark. The national scholastic record was placed at 1 minute 29 seconds on July 4, by a team from the Oak Park High School, of Chicago.

Victor Ho'st, of West Philadelphia, captured it at week the 101-yard intercollegiate Malpass Cup, swimming the distance over a fifty-yard course in the Schuylkill River in 1 minute 9-8 seconds.

It was principally through the success of Shea in his races of the last two years that there came a big boom in athletic competition at the Smoky Town institution. Hearing of the wonderful races run by Shea, the Pittsburgh students were urged to make more honors to their college. The result was that the track squad at Pittsburgh antedated many new recruits, with the result that the college team, second place to Cornell in the title college games held last month.

Shea has on several occasions threatened to break the record for the record mark of 47-5 seconds for the quarter-mile run. In four efforts within the last year Shea has covered the distance in better than 49 seconds. His most important duty of the American States was inaugurated at a dinner tendered by sixty prominent athletic leaders by Captain W. Gerald Hayes at the Crescent Athletic Club, in Brooklyn, Friday night.

Nat Swimming Champion and World's Record Holder Developing as Fancy Diver

San Francisco Waterman Soon May Be Ranked as Most Versatile of All

Norman Ross, of San Francisco, national champion and world's record holder in swimming, has won for himself an enviable reputation as an aquatic star of versatility. Yet he seeks new fields to conquer. The report comes that he has taken up fancy diving and is fast developing skill at it, which leaves no doubt he may be ranked as the most accomplished all-around waterman in the world.

Championship laurels already have fallen to his lot at most free style distances and in back-stroke swimming; he has figured prominently in breast stroke title races, captured prizes in plunging and played water polo with success. Gaining new proficiency in diving, he will be an expert in every branch of competitive water sports.

Ross at present is serving in the aviation corps, but he is not neglecting swimming, and he hopes again to establish this summer, with his great rival, Duke Kahanamoku, of Honolulu, who recently set out on a tour of the United States to raise funds for the Red Cross.

The one-mile national swimming record for women recently credited to Miss Frances Gowells, of San Francisco, means 29 minutes 53 seconds, which is not likely to be accepted by the A. A. U. authorities. It was made in open tidal water over a straightway course, so the exact way of determining whether the contestants were aided by the tide.

Miss Dorothy Burns, of the Los Angeles Athletic Club, all-around swimming champion of California, has been in training in San Francisco under the expert guidance of Tom Whitaker, former coach of the Missouri Athletic Club, of St. Louis, and the latter is quite confident she will break the American 100 and 200 yard records the first time she tackles either distance in competition.

The Germantown Cricket Club has built a hands me pool on its grounds at Mannheim, Penn., and will promote the sport by offering a prize to the first player to be sanctioned by the American U. S. A. U. sanctioning some district and national swimming championships.

Harold Kruger, of Honolulu, who is touring the country with Duke Kahanamoku, shattered two world's records in swimming on the back last Tuesday. Competing in seventy-five-foot pool, he covered 400 metres (437 yards) in 6 minutes 27-5 seconds and 440 yards in 6 minutes 30 seconds.

The leading fair natators of the metropolitan district will take part next Sunday in a water carnival to be held in the new 7530-foot natatorium recently completed at Long Beach, Long Island. The fixture will mark the opening of the outdoor swimming season for women.

The Bulletin Cup for the annual Golden Gate Marathon swim will be completed in a water carnival to be held for the course is anticipated.

Victor Ho'st, of West Philadelphia, captured it at week the 101-yard intercollegiate Malpass Cup, swimming the distance over a fifty-yard course in the Schuylkill River in 1 minute 9-8 seconds.

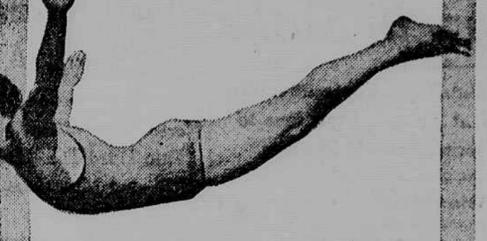

It was principally through the success of Shea in his races of the last two years that there came a big boom in athletic competition at the Smoky Town institution. Next to maintaining our armies abroad," said Captain Hayes, "the most important duty of the American people to-day, I believe, is equipping the armies of to-morrow—the present and future drafts. To wait until the men are called to camp is not enough; they should be in constant training."

Hanley Heads List of Winners At Horse Show

Captures Fourteen Blue Ribbons at White Plains Meet

The Westchester Horse Show, on the Gedney Farms at White Plains, came to a close yesterday, the champion ship reserved for the final session being the big thing of the day. As anticipated early in the show, J. S. Mitchell, of Hanley, of the White Plains, captured the lion's share of the blue ribbons and prizes, and it was the result of the champion horse in the various classes collected a total of fourteen blue ribbons.

The big titles to the credit of the Rhode Islander were in the pair, harness, and two in the saddle horse in the three two year olds and two in the harness of the Blue Ribbon class. It was a slice of the winners' list, and it was a note that they were the winners of the championship classes with a few exceptions. A mix-up of the title of the champion horse in the various classes made it a little difficult to determine who was second in the list of the winners, but the winners were:

Charles D. Lanier, and J. Campbell Hanley, of the White Plains, captured the lion's share of the blue ribbons and prizes, and it was the result of the champion horse in the various classes collected a total of fourteen blue ribbons.

As far as consistency is concerned, the girl to ride a crown was Miss Bucky Lanier, the future wife of the daughter of Charles D. Lanier. She captured the lion's share of the blue ribbons and prizes, and it was the result of the champion horse in the various classes collected a total of fourteen blue ribbons.

The winners of the various classes were: first prize, harness, pair, by Charles D. Lanier, of the White Plains, 15-2-10, 10 years; second prize, harness, pair, by Charles D. Lanier, of the White Plains, 15-2-10, 10 years; third prize, harness, pair, by Charles D. Lanier, of the White Plains, 15-2-10, 10 years.

Saddle horses (142 hands, carrying up to 1,200 lbs.)—first prize, harness, pair, by Charles D. Lanier, of the White Plains, 15-2-10, 10 years; second prize, harness, pair, by Charles D. Lanier, of the White Plains, 15-2-10, 10 years; third prize, harness, pair, by Charles D. Lanier, of the White Plains, 15-2-10, 10 years.

Pairs of saddle horses (two horses, age to 14 years, carrying up to 1,200 lbs.)—first prize, harness, pair, by Charles D. Lanier, of the White Plains, 15-2-10, 10 years; second prize, harness, pair, by Charles D. Lanier, of the White Plains, 15-2-10, 10 years; third prize, harness, pair, by Charles D. Lanier, of the White Plains, 15-2-10, 10 years.

Other classes included various harness and saddle horse events, with winners from the White Plains and other local areas.
