Style and Red Paint Taken From Buggies By U. S. War Board

WASHINGTON, July 28. In its tireless search for ways of conserving material and capital the War Industries Board has now condemned all buggies and spring wagons to a single standard for the former and two for the latter. Rich Russians Wait On Table for Food

PETROGRAD, June 11. An indication of the straits to which former well-to-do inhabitants of Petrograd have been brought by the scarcity of food is the formation of a cooperative society to conduct a restaurant. Here the "intelligencia," or former bourgeoisie, do their own cooking and waiting on the table. A former who proves himself a former "bourgeoisie," and is needy, may, if he surrenders all his taking his chances getting any other meals, secure one meal a day for 2 1/2 roubles. This consists of thin soup and a meat stew.

AMSTERDAM, July 28. The semi-official Vienna News Agency to-day carried in its telegraph report carefully selected newspaper editorials on the beginning of the fifth year of the war.
