

An Italian mount of fine intelligence, which finds standing on one foot a perfectly simple matter. Paul Thompson.

The part played by cavalry in this war, while not so conspicuous as in previous wars, is still very striking. Here we see a French Hussar regiment advancing through a village in the Marne district. From the Committee on Public Information film, "Under Four Flags."

Picture taken in River, near the Imperial C...

A British charge is a thing to strike terror in the heart of the most highly cultured Hun. British Official, © Underwood & Underwood.

(Above) French horsemen heartily welcomed to the hospitality of a farm in Northern France. © Paul Thompson.

General Gouraud and his cavalry. He is addressing the men just prior to a successful attack. © Underwood & Underwood.

