United Action Is Urged Refuse Things Made in Germany

As part of its German boycott campaign the American Defence League is distributing all over the country thousands of copies of a pamphlet entitled "The Fated Dogs of Trade."

The burning question now before the American people is whether we shall admit and distribute not only the toys manufactured in Germany, but every other damnable thing made by the hands of the Hun.

On the Screen

Lieutenant Bert Hall Tells of His Experiences at Rivoli

Every once in a while during the peacetime the Rivoli this week presents the audience of the American aviator, who is one of the two surviving members of the Lafayette Escadrille, steps out on the stage and tells the audience of his experiences in the air.

The picture is interesting mainly because one knows that much of what happens on the screen is true. It is a story of spies and miraculous escapes, and even if Dulcinea did say "I, truth in strange," it is not a screen picture.

Here he meets Edith Day, a childhood friend, and they plan to escape into France via the air.

Twelve times at the Rivoli, yesterday, the city called to change their seats, which happened to be the row, so that made twenty-four persons who passed between us and "A Woman's Experience."

Brilliant Debut of New Violinist, Mme. Guilbert and Others

The large audience which gathered at Carnegie Hall yesterday afternoon upon the occasion of the American debut of Raoul Vidas, French violinist, did credit to its appreciation of musical artistry by the warmth of welcome it accorded him.

It discovered in him a violinist who will make his contemporaries, even in the first rank, look to their laurels, if he maintains the high standard which his playing yesterday revealed.

Boish in appearance, but with a certain dignity, entirely at his ease, but without bravado, before his programme had progressed far he showed himself a well grounded musician and an artist of sensibility.

Seldom has a newcomer received a more enthusiastic reception. He was welcomed with vociferous applause and shouts of approval.

Mr. Vidas has to a remarkable degree the essentials of the violinist's equipment. In his left hand, flexible and admirably controlled bowing, sureness of intonation, pleasing tone, of fine sonority in the lower register, clearness and brilliancy in the upper, distinction in phrasing and warmth of feeling tempered by good taste.

Other numbers were Concerto Russe, by Lalo; the Andante from the G minor sonata of Tartini; Wieniaszki-Thibaud Saterler, which he repeated following a round of applause for Mr. Thibaud, recognized in one of the boxes, interpreted by Raoul Vidas, who also was in the audience.

There were two recitals in the world of song yesterday. Miss Lydia

Lutherans Here to Effect Merger of 3 Dominant Bodies

Amalgamation of Units Will Involve Membership of 1,600,000 in U.S.

Three of the oldest bodies of the Lutheran Church in America, representing a baptized membership of 1,600,000, will give up their separate entities and become united at a convention to open here to-morrow morning.

The new organization, to be known as the United Lutheran Church of America, will be made up of the General Synod, organized in 1820, the General Council, organized in 1867, and the United Synod South, organized in 1864.

To-morrow morning's sessions will continue with the three ruling bodies meeting separately to complete their corporate lives. The General Council will meet in Trinity Church, the General Synod in St. James' Church and the United Synod South in the Church of the Advent.

The first meeting of the united organization will be held Friday morning in the auditorium of the Engineers' Societies' Building, in West Thirty-ninth street.

The unification movement, it is pointed out, does not mean the complete loss of the entities now making up the Lutheran Church in America. The situation is summed up in the following statement issued by the committee in charge of the new organization:

Indications are that the divided Lutheran Church is drawing together for greater common action. Every indication that the Lutheran situation will resolve itself into three great groups representative of the linguistic and racial as well as the doctrinal interests of the Church in this country.
