

Right—A quartette of stage luminaries at the A. E. A. Ball at the Astor. Left to right—Marion Coakley, Helen MacKellar, Sue McNamany and Fania Marinoff. Underwood

Above and to the right—Three close-ups of the Prince of Wales taken while addressing and receiving the cheers of 40,000 war veterans at the Toronto ceremonies held in his honor. Underwood

Admiral Albert Gleaves, aboard the U. S. S. Dakota, unfurls his flag as full admiral and assumes command of the Asiatic Fleet—an impressive Labor Day ceremony in the North River. Graphic News

The photographer was right on the job when Sir General Frederick Shaw, Commander in Chief of the British forces in Ireland, was thrown from his horse during the great peace celebrations in Belfast. Keystone View Company

This city fireman believes cleanliness is next to godliness and spreads the gospel in a practical way by distributing soap to east side urchins. His fire hose finishes the job. Graphic News

Dorothy Dalton, of movie fame, carried $100,000 insurance when she flew over Broadway the other day in a seaplane, from which she dropped free theatre tickets. P. I. S.

Left—The living kewpie dolls in the great Asbury Park baby parade, an annual feature of this popular Jersey coast resort. Paul Thompson

Left—These ships, former mine layers of the German navy, are now being used to sweep the North Sea of the mines they once laid. Note that the merchant flag of Germany has replaced the naval ensign. Keystone View Company

The "Millionaire Special," a 26-passenger waukee, making the 100-mile flight to leave for New York, where it will take the ship is equipped with every modern... Keystone View Company