

U. S. Now Protects Life Insurance of 7,739 Service Men

Old Line Companies Prompt to Aid in Campaign to Keep Alive Policies That Otherwise Might Lapse

New York Tribune Washington Bureau
WASHINGTON, Sept. 27.—The Bureau of War Risk Insurance thus far has protected by guarantee of premium 7,739 insurance policies held by service men in commercial companies, it was announced today. The face value of these policies totals $12,511,456.29, and the annual premiums $261,966.82. The 7,739 policies now protected are held in 162 commercial companies and fraternal organizations.

"This protection not only brings forward one of the little known avenues through which the bureau aided service men," said a statement issued by the bureau, "but it proves that there is no competition between government insurance and commercial insurance. On the other hand, the commercial companies have been hearty in their support of government insurance, and are aiding in every way to keep active the $40,000,000,000 worth of war risk insurance now held by service men. All of the old line companies not only have endorsed government insurance, but their agents have been instructed to urge its retention by former service men."

"The insurance companies coming under the benefits of the soldiers and sailors' civil relief act are those which are required by law to maintain a reserve, or which, if not so required, have provided for collection from all of its insured of a premium to cover the special war risk of patriots who are in the military service. The policies protected are those issued on the lives of persons in military service and on which at least one premium had been paid prior to September 1, 1917.

"This protection consists of a guarantee in the form of bonds issued by the United States Treasury, to the insurers for such of their policies as have been approved for the benefits of the act, when the premiums have not been paid within the grace period allowed in the contract.

"In the final settlement of these protected policies the insured will be required to pay a sum equivalent to the premium guaranteed by the government, this payment to be made within a year following discharge or following the declaration of peace. In case of the failure to make these premium payments the policy will lapse and the government will make payment to the insurance companies of the total premiums guaranteed."
