Blames U. S. for I. W. W. Murders Centralia Crime Due to Failure to Enforce Law, Says Sen. Poindexter

New York Tribune Washington Bureau. WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—Failure of the Federal Administration to enforce the laws against radicals and anarchists was largely responsible for the I. W. W. murders yesterday at Centralia, Wash., Senator Poindexter, of that state, charged in a statement today. The statement follows: "This detestable outrage is the fearful penalty which Centralia has paid for the overlenient policy of the national Administration toward anarchists to do murder, conspiracy, and other proscribing, deporting and otherwise punishing as the laws provide this miserable human vermin which seeks to destroy civilization, the government has shown them many favors."

Urges Quick Punishment "I pointed out in a resolution which was adopted by the Senate October 14 last ample laws under which these criminals can be punished. They have flooded the country with literature inciting resistance to legal and governmental authority. Under the statutes of the United States this is punishable by six years' imprisonment and $10,000 fine.

"Most of their leaders are aliens. Under the Federal statutes aliens who advocate Bolshevism, which means forcible communism, or who teach the doctrines of anarchy are subject to deportation. These laws have been practically dead letters. A few feeble moves have been made by the Administration, but no comprehensive, drastic and complete program which would sweep the country clean of these enemies of society has been either conceived or carried out.

"Since the passage of the resolution referred to above, calling upon the Attorney General for information as to what action has been taken in this respect, there has been considerable activity by his department. To what extent it will be followed up remains to be seen. Forgive me, as a reporter to this method may be the only means of dealing with Bolshevism. It is the only argument that appeals to them. They choose force voluntarily as a means of political and economic decision."

Many States Negligent "That which they advocate should be applied to them in legal form by the Federal government. Of course, the state also can do a great deal, and many states have been quite negligent in this respect. The fact of the case is, the state has fundamental jurisdiction in the matter, the Federal government having jurisdiction only in the protection of its own authority, whereas the state's jurisdiction extends to the full police powers of government.

"This miserable and cowardly crime is similar to the Centralia outrage, the murders committed by Thomas Mooney in San Francisco at the time of the preparedness day parade. It is to be hoped that the active assistance which has been given by the Federal government in behalf of Thomas Mooney, convicted by overwhelming evidence of this crime, will not be extended to these guilty of the Centralia outrage."

The Centralia murders were described in the House by Representative Johnson, Republican, Washington, as an attempt at revolution with bullets and rifles, which the country has long feared.

Mr. Johnson sent a telegram to Mayor Rogers of Centralia saying the country must be purged of seditionists and revolutionists to the last one, and if this means war, the quicker it was declared the better.

"We of the Pacific Northwest have been patient, have avoided bloodshed under every provocation, only to see these young men murdered. Their death will arouse the loyal people of the United States as nothing else has done."

"History will record these heroes as men who died in an attempt at armed revolution against the United States, and for which every man who has been preaching syndicalism, communism and class hatred is responsible."

Nicholas M. Butler Cries 'War on Reds'

Urges U. Butler, president of Columbia University, told the Westchester Chamber of Commerce at its decennial anniversary dinner in the Hotel Commodore last night.

"It does not seem possible," he said, "that within a mile of this room at this very moment, probably fifty meetings, of from twenty to 1,000 persons each are being held, where everything we believe in is being decry or attacked. The only way to beat them is to repeat that great demonstration of 1917 and summon every power of the American people, not for war overseas, but for war at home. This task takes precedence over all business and calls across every line dividing us in the

"Create a Demand"

If avocados were suddenly grown in enormous quantities, the growers would have to "create a demand" or their fruit would rot on the ground.

Ukuleles would have been a drug on the market before the discovery of the beach at Waikiki.

Usually, however, creating a demand means concentrating an already existing demand on some one brand or trade-mark in that field.

Morris does not need to create a demand for ham—but his advertising may concentrate the ham lover's appetite on the Morris brand.

Advertising will induce people to eat alligator pears or ripe olives, and it will also sell Goodyear's to a man wanting tires.

"It is an amazing thing that after 25 years there should appear the necessity of re-defining Americanism, but to-day we hear the hiss of a snake in the grass and the hiss is directed at the things Americans hold most dear. We are easy going, but when the American people clearly realize that an open, well organized and highly efficient attack is going on to-day against the fundamentals of our government, they will do precisely what the people of Massachusetts did to it."

United States Representative James W. Husted, of the Twenty-fifth New York District spoke of the expulsion of Victor Berger from Congress. "We expelled him," he said, "not because he was a Socialist, but because he was a traitor to the United States in the war. He did all he possibly could to impede the successful prosecution of the war. The Department of Justice considered him the most dangerous man in this country during the war. I think him the most dangerous man here to-day if he is permitted to do what he would like to do."

Mr. Husted said there already are 10,000 Bolshevick agitators in the country and that, because of the Soviet sympathies of many of the Immigration Bureau employees, others continued to leak in.

Police Raid Their Headquarters as the Radicals Openly Preach Rule of Violence

PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 12.—Immediate proceedings toward deportation of all aliens among the fifty-three men arrested last night in a raid by the police at I. W. W. headquarters here will be taken, according to an announcement made to-day by Barnett Goldstein, acting United States Attorney. Reports that speakers at a meeting of the council had denounced the American Legion and had charged members of the organization with responsibility for the riots at Centralia, Wash., yesterday, in which four men were killed, caused Mayor George Baker to order the raid.

As soon as reports of the Centralia trouble reached here Chief of Police Jennings summoned all available patrolmen to headquarters to be held in reserve. Agents of the police sent to the meeting of the council reported the speeches were of an incendiary character and the raid followed, all those arrested being charged with vagrancy.

One of the prisoners, Joseph Launay, is a candidate for the presidency of the Central Labor Council. Two other prisoners also have been prominent in radical agitation here.

Radicals Plead Anti-Anarchy Law Is Invalid

Counsel for Lusk Committee's Prisoners Argues There Is No Such Crime; Act Violates Constitution

Lawyers for the radicals, who were taken in the Lusk Legislative Committee's raids on the headquarters of the Communist party, announced at a hearing before Chief Magistrate William McAdoo yesterday that the defense will attack the constitutionality of the state law under which the committee charges the prisoners with the spreading of criminal anarchy.

After Samuel A. Berger, Deputy Attorney General, and Archibald Stevenson, special counsel for the committee, had concluded the state's case against James Larkin, the Irish socialist, and Benjamin Gitlow, former Socialist Assemblyman, who are among the twenty-five radicals held, Walter Nelles, counsel for the defendants, asked that the charges be dismissed.

"We ask that the prisoners be released on the ground that there is no such crime as criminal anarchy," said Mr. Nelles. "The statute which defines the alleged crime is in violation of the constitution both of the state and of the nation." Mr. Nelles said he would be prepared to argue the constitutionality of the law when the hearing was resumed to-day.

Bail Reduction Refused Magistrate McAdoo declined to dismiss the cases on Mr. Nelles' motion. A request that the bail of $15,000 each against Larkin and Gitlow be reduced to $5,000 each, made by Charles Recht, another attorney for the defense, might obtain the release of the prisoners was denied. The court declined to accept as bail a deed to property in Kings County.

Most of the hearing was devoted to the questioning of witnesses about the publication of "The Revolutionary Age," the organ of the Communists, which was circulated from 43 West Twenty-ninth Street.

Printers of 256 Grand Street testified that 16,000 copies of the magazine containing the Communist manifesto urging the overthrow of the government by violence had been printed last summer. Other witnesses said the magazine could be purchased at the Rand School, 7 East Fifteenth Street, and at Communist headquarters.

Mr. Nelles in examining Mr. Stevenson sought to show that Larkin had disagreed with other Communists as to the publication of the manifesto and that he was not entirely in sympathy with the overthrow of government movement.

Complaints of Small Staff Cross-examined by Mr. Nelles, Mr. Stevenson said he was chairman of a committee of the Union League Club on radicalism and that the Lusk committee was appointed on recommendations made by the committee to the Legislature. He said his salary as counsel for the committee had not been fixed. In answer to other questions Mr. Stevenson said his income from interest on investments.

After the hearing had been adjourned until to-day, Mr. Stevenson said the Lusk committee has no plans for future raids. The committee has been informed that the Communist party has 7,500 members in New York. Under a ruling of Magistrate McAdoo that any member who subscribed to the principles of the party "has declared war on the United States," the committee believes it is in a position to arrest all or any number of the Communists.

"We have too small a staff to take care of any more business than we have at present," said Mr. Stevenson. "We expect to test the present anti-anarchy law with the cases we are now hearing."

Twenty-three Get Hearings To-day Twenty-three other men who were taken in the raids and charged with criminal anarchy are to be given their final hearings to-day. The law and Order League, 15 W. 11th Street, yesterday sent this letter to the Senate Judiciary Committee: "We protest in the name of Justice and law and order to the Senate in regard to the Department of Justice's conducting the campaign against Bolshevism, anarchists and traitors, who are seeking to destroy the government of our country.

"The law passed by Congress specifically provides such acts are acts of treason and punishable by death."

TO NATIONAL ADVERTISERS SEEKING AGENCY CONNECTIONS

After a most complete and gratifying success as a space-salesman, with thorough experience in copy-writing, advertising management, lithography and colorplate printing, and after doing business with several hundreds of advertisers, I have made arrangements to join a New York advertising agency.

As this is a purely personal statement, I will defer, until the interview, giving the name of my new connection. You are certain to approve of it.

Speaking of my own work I may say that out of eighty of my more recent customers, twenty-five per cent. have, to varying extents, adopted my ideas. The list includes many of the giant advertisers in the national field; producers of tobacco, cigarettes, soap, cereals, chocolate, lead pencils, writing paper, watches, washing machines, office specialties, tea, etc. This has kept me very close to big movements in advertising.

In the agency I may influence but I shall not write or construct copy. That will be done by men much better than I at such work. I shall be the contract-man, receiving the kicks and conveying the praises bestowed by my clients on the agency. What individual power I may have will be merged in the collective force of my agency.

I believe in serious, simple advertising, strikingly presented, rather than in cleverness, which, however, has its use. I believe in close communion between the advertising department and the selling-forces of a concern. I do not believe that bigness, in an agency, is necessarily a merit. Mediocrity and all-alikeness often creep into the work of the agency which has too many clients.

I promise, in advance, not to exploit your appropriation for the maximum of agency profit and the minimum of agency work. Though having, doubtless, my share of self-conceit, this public emphasis of myself disturbs me. I apologize for so much "I" and beg for interview.

"Fairy-Land" Finance!

Easy money for others may mean hard times for your heirs

HAVING no securities of our own to sell, we can with good grace emphasize this:—"On the whole, there are perhaps no more worthy men in business than the members of financial houses selling fundamentally sound stocks and bonds."

On the other hand, we cannot condemn too strongly the activities of those financial pirates who are now preying on the credulity of unschooled investors.

To give you an idea of the extent of their swindling activities, we print below a few headlines clipped at random from recent issues of New York newspapers:

- "Law powerless to stop orgy of oil swindlers."
- "Movement for Federal and State Laws protecting the public against swindlers."
- "District Attorney to put swindle evidence before Grand Jury."
- "Fake stock deal victim."
- "Two firms 'cleaned up' $855,000 in one stock selling campaign."
- "Concerns are being floated by unscrupulous on assets of questionable value."
- "Seek stock indictment."

These cases are but typical—typical of the financial pitfalls which may await your heirs if they receive willed money in bulk. But you can provide now against such temptations. Assuming your interest in family safety measures, we take the liberty of suggesting a personal discussion of—

A COLUMBIA TRUST FUND for safeguarding the money you leave

The plan is as follows: It can, if you wish, be made operative during your life.

1. A Columbia Trust Fund is simply money set aside under the protection of the Columbia Trust Company and invested to provide periodical income for definite objects.
2. All investments of Columbia Trust Funds are made under the supervision of the permanent Investment Committee appointed by our Board of Directors.
3. Life insurance or any other money may be used to form the Trust Fund. We are bound by a written agreement to carry out your wishes definitely and absolutely.
4. We will make investments of the Trust Fund for you in such securities as are lawful for Trustees, or, if you prefer, you can give us definite instructions to follow.
5. Income from the Trust Fund will be paid in installments to whom you wish and when you wish and in the amount you wish.

The following officers will welcome the opportunity to give you further details—without obligation, of course. At our downtown office, Mr. Warren, Vice-President, or Mr. Judd, Trust Officer. At our Fifth Ave. office, Mr. Dunn, Vice-President.

I. W. W. Preparing Propaganda Drive

SPOKANE, Wash., Nov. 12.—Industrial Workers of the World are preparing to launch from their headquarters a propaganda campaign throughout the Northwest and perhaps through the entire West in the near future, according to officials of the Department of Justice. So far, they said, no orders to proceed against them have been received.

Resolutions opposing clemency to any one convicted of the murder of the four ex-servicemen at Centralia, and calling upon state and national authorities for a national campaign of suppression against radical organizations, were adopted at a meeting of the executive committee of the local American Legion Post here to-day.

Commissioner J. H. Tilgney, of the Municipal Department of Public Safety, in a statement to-day blamed the Federal authorities for failure to deport agitators in this section and declared the police would not pick up and furnish evidence for such procedure whenever the government was ready to act.

400 Ex-Servicemen Burn Literature and Red Flags and Raid Socialist Newspaper

OAKLAND, Cal., Nov. 12.—A crowd of citizens entered the headquarters of the communist labor party in Loring Hall early to-day and wrecked the interior of the place. Large quantities of radical literature, red flags and furniture were burned in the streets by the mob.

The mob was said to have consisted of 400 servicemen and members of the American Legion.

The offices of "The World," a Socialist organ situated in the building, also was wrecked.

The Communist Labor party is said to be a new radical organization here. The wrecking of the communist headquarters was carried out in methodical fashion, and with such
