Harvard Makes a Sweep; Jay Gould Wins Match

Court Tennis Champion and Keeler Score Only Two Victories for Columbia Club Team Against Elis; Princeton Squash Combination Is Routed

By Fred Hawthorne
The Yale club squash team still held its lead in the Metropolitan inter-club squash tennis championship tournament yesterday afternoon at the finish of the match with the Columbia Club team on the latter's courts, winning by a total of three matches to two. The Blue has a perfect team score to date, having won all three of the matches it has played.

In the other Class A team match played yesterday at the Harvard Club the Princeton representatives were triumphant over the combined Princeton-Squash Club team, making a clean sweep of the five matches. The Harvard Club, with three matches won and one lost, is still in victory of the Columbia Club team, which was probably the most notable event in connection with the meeting between Yale and the Blue. Gould was opposed by Alan L. Corey, the Yale Club expert, and won his match in convincing style by scores of 15-3, 15-1, showing superiority at almost every stroke.

Fresh from his triumph over Walter Killefer at court tennis last week, Gould was a marvel of speed and effectiveness yesterday. In addition, he seemed to possess every variety of stroke and was rarely caught out of position. On many occasions the Columbia Club champion stroked the ball with such terrific speed that it struck the back of the court and into the net, and the back wall again before Corey could even get his racket into position for a shot. The court tennis champion took the ball at all sorts of angles and his eye was unerring.

Champion Takes Hold

In the first game Gould led at 12-1, and then Corey made his best showing, securing four aces, but thereafter the Columbia champion overpowered his rival, Corey getting only one point during the rest of the match. Corey, E. S. Keeler, the Columbia Club expert, was the only other local man to win his first match, defeating H. W. Carhart at 15-0, 15-3. Carhart was erratic and made many errors, while Keeler showed fine command of his shots and was always in position.

A. J. Gordon, of Yale, defeated Frank E. G. of Columbia at 17-15, 15-15, the latter making a strong bid for the count. Livingston Platt was another Yale man to win, defeating H. D. Buckley at 15-15, 15-11, and his work was marked after the court had been opened in the first rallies. C. J. Whigham, of Yale, accounted for R. J. Whigham, at 15-5, 15-11, in the fifth match.

The Harvard Club players, although hard pressed in several of their matches with the Princeton-Squash Club team, managed to come through successfully in every case. Only Princeton's team was routed, the Princeton-Squash Club representatives being on hand.

Dana Defeats Mixell

Anderson Dana, of Harvard, brought off numerous brilliant shots in his match with H. B. Mixell, winning by a score of 15-15, 15-12. The victor was in good stroke and proved his generalship in the critical stages of the matches. The veteran Mixell could not hold the pace set by his younger opponent and was gradually being outplayed.

Eric Winston, national champion of 1916, made his first appearance in a tournament in two years, and although a lower level of play was shown in straight games from Harold Tobey, of Princeton, by a score of 15-11, 15-8. The summaries:

YALE VS. COLUMBIA
Jay Gould (Yale) defeated Alan L. Corey (Columbia) at 15-3, 15-1. H. W. Carhart (Yale) defeated H. D. Buckley (Columbia) at 15-0, 15-3. E. S. Keeler (Yale) defeated R. J. Whigham (Columbia) at 15-5, 15-11. A. J. Gordon (Yale) defeated Frank E. G. (Columbia) at 17-15, 15-15. Livingston Platt (Yale) defeated H. D. Buckley (Columbia) at 15-15, 15-11. C. J. Whigham (Yale) defeated R. J. Whigham (Columbia) at 15-5, 15-11.

Harvard vs. Princeton Squash

Harvard defeated Princeton Squash Club at 3-0. Harvard defeated Princeton Squash Club at 3-0. Harvard defeated Princeton Squash Club at 3-0.

Adams Sails to Coach Italy's Olympic Team

Platt Adams, world famed athlete and a winner in the last Olympic games, and A. E. Marriott, an Alabama college coach, all this week for Italy and Greece, respectively, to take up the work of preparing the athletes of the country for the Antwerp Olympic games. Adams will leave today on the steamer Royal George, going direct to Paris. From there he will go on to Rome. Marriott will sail on the steamer America for Naples, and will proceed from there to Athens.

Havana Entries

First race (six furlongs, maiden three-year-olds, claiming, purse $500). Charles H. 95. The winner, 95. Charles H. 95. The winner, 95.

Alcohol for Athletes

A large shipment of alcohol is to be made to Vladivostok. But not for a booze for the Bolsheviks. Gary Adams, P. C. supervisor in Vladivostok, has called overseas director William P. Larkin, ex-director of C. T. indoor and other athletics conducted by the Knights for the work in Siberia, necessitates supplies of alcohol for rubbing purposes.

Roberts Gets Big Chance in Bout To-night

Staten Island Heavyweight Tackles Al Reich; Leonard Takes On Coogan

By W. O. McGeehan
One of the most interesting bouts on the arena A. card at the Fourth Regiment Armory at Jersey City to-night will be the meeting of Al Roberts, the Staten Island heavyweight, and Al Reich, the American Swiss. It will be an anxious evening for Mr. Roberts because while Reich has been in the habit of diving when matched with anybody who knows the game, he is a wonder at that occupation which is called "trimming" stickers.

The American Swiss, while he has been something of a chaser in the ring, is a marvel in the gymnasium. He seemed to have some of the assets of Fred Fulton and Ed Coogan, the latter, the lack of a fighting heart. Reich has been working under the instructions of Jimmy Johnston, the sire of a reclusive unit he has joined again in the role of mentor to Reich.

Moran Breathes Defiance

Frank Moran will be at the ring-side ready to catch the loser in his lap and to utter loud and raucous challenges at the winner. Charles Francis has been experimenting on boxes of the Jack Egan stamp and is fairly certain that he is in a ship to annoy a lot of contenders for the heavyweight title.

The main event will be a bout between the passage of a boxing bill by the next New York Legislature. It will be the lightweight champion's last appearance in the ring this year. The preliminary will be between Joe Benjamin, the Californian, and Tommy Touhey, Benjamin has made a favorable impression here.

While the bugs are marking time until the passage of a boxing bill by the next New York Legislature, the wrestling bouts seem to be packing them in. The last show between Zysky and Joe Stecher had plenty of wrestling in it and Sam Hieronima, the peaceful and popular Finn, as Joe Humphreys called him, seemed to draw well.

It was when the biased New York public scoffed at watching and taking had to be thrown away. But at the end of a year where anything in the shape of sports drew big crowds, the wrestling bouts will have a fair share of the limelight. There will be some difficulty in getting a pace big enough for the Caddox-Stecher match, which will be staged here next month.

Billy Gibson has received some offers to take Benny Leonard to London. Charlie Harvey, manager of Leonard, has stated that there may be a Leonard-Lewis match in London. This match might do a whole lot toward clearing up any misconception they might have across the pond as to the development of boxing in the States.

Leonard is perhaps the cleverest of the American boxers of to-day. If the English sportsman could see him in action they might understand better how Wilde came to be outpointed by an American second-rater.

A new site has been selected for the International Sporting Club of New York. According to latest reports, the club building will be situated on Lexington Avenue between Forty-eighth and Fifty-first streets. This will permit of more space than the site originally selected would allow.

Veteran Guard Trying For Place on N.Y.U. Five

New York University's basketball team was strengthened yesterday afternoon when Max Baker, veteran guard, appeared at practice in the University Heights gymnasium for the first time this season. He is the eighth basketball letter man to try for a place on the Violet five.

Burgoyne Wins Second Purse at New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, La., Dec. 9.—R. E. Conner's bay gelding Burgoyne, today when he raced here in front of six hundred in the two-year-old claiming event of 7 furlongs. He won at the end odds of 7 to 1. The feature event, the Calcahan Handicap, went to Sans Rivers, who was the choice in the betting. The results:

Ten Golf Clubs Offer Courses For Title Play

Executive Committee Will Pass on Requests; Would Restrict Amateur Eligibles

All records for enthusiasm were broken at the annual meeting of the Metropolitan Golf Association at the Hotel Knickerbocker last night, when no less than ten clubs offered their courses for any one or all of the three championships.

With such an array to pick from the delegates concluded it would be better to make haste slowly, with the result that final selections were left to the executive committee.

The clubs offering their courses were the Richmond County Country Club, Engineers' Country Club, Garden City Golf Club, Cherry Valley Club, Apawatch Club, Fox Hills Golf Club, Sleepy Hollow Country Club, Greenwich Country Club, Belleairre Golf and Country Club and Wykagyl Golf and Country Club.

A number of those expressed a preference for the amateur, while others said the open or the junior would be acceptable. In fact, Richmond County preferred the junior.

James G. Battersford, the Fox Hills delegate, moved to have the field competing in the amateur championship restricted to those whose names appeared on the handicap list, which always includes those from scratch to nine, inclusive.

This suggestion was heartily indorsed by A. H. Pogson, who stated there would probably be 650 names on the 1920 list. The motion was carried.

A. H. Pogson, secretary of the Metropolitan Golf Association, sprang something of a surprise on the delegates when he announced that the membership had crept up past the hundred mark.

During the last year two organizations have been admitted, as follows: Belleairre Golf and Country Club, Bayside, L. I.; Blind Brook Club, Portchester, N. Y.; Engineers' Country Club, Roslyn, L. I.; Essex Falls Country Club, Essex Falls, N. Y.; Garden City Country Club, Garden City, L. I.; Green Meadow Country Club, Harrison, N. Y.; Lawrence Park Country Club, Bronxville, N. Y.; Port Chester Country Club, Port Chester, N. Y.; Quaker Ridge Golf Club, Mamaroneck, N. Y.; St. George's Golf and Country Club, Stony Brook, L. I.; Somerset Hills Country Club, Somerville, N. J.; Woodway Country Club, Springfield, Conn.

In accordance with custom, no opposition was in evidence to dispute the nominating committee's ticket of officers, and the secretary was instructed to cast one ballot, as follows:

President, Cornelius J. Sullivan, Garden City Golf Club; vice-president, E. Mortimer Barnes, Nassau; secretary, A. H. Pogson, Fox Hills; treasurer, George H. Barnes, Apawatch. For executive committee, the officials and James T. Sautter, Greenwich; Charles H. Bowen, St. Andrews; Owen Winston, Somerset Hills; Henry V. Gaines, Wykagyl, and Charles Henry Mellon, Morris County.

Dempsy Asks Bigger Purse To Box Abroad

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 9.—"We have had numerous offers of matches," said Jack Kearns, manager for Jack Dempsy, here yesterday. "I have just received a cable message from De Coint, of Paris, asking for a fight here in the Pershing Stadium next June or July."

"I haven't answered any of these offers yet, and probably will not be in any hurry. We will want more money for a fight abroad than we would for one in this country, and I am waiting to see what the best responsible offer here is before I make any answers to foreign promoters."

Kearns intimated that he and Dempsy would be here perhaps three months. The champion has taken a house and opened a downtown business office.

New Orleans Entries

Seventh race (three-year-olds and upward, six furlongs). Sans Rivers, 95. The winner, 95. Sans Rivers, 95. The winner, 95.

Harvard Eleven Agrees to Play Center College

Notre Dame and Virginia on Gridiron Next Fall

CRIMSON ALSO WILL TACKLE
CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Dec. 9.—The Harvard football schedule for next season will be one of the hardest a Crimson team has had to meet, according to an announcement here last night. It will include several departures from the list of the season just closed, which Harvard disposed of without defeat.

The crack eleven of Center College, which emerged from the obscurity of Kentucky gridirons this fall with an unbroken string of twelve victories, is the most notable addition. The Middle West will be represented by Notre Dame University, according to word received to-day, and University of Virginia again will bring the Southern collegiate type of game to the stadium.

The schedule now being drafted is of nine dates. Official announcements will be withheld several weeks until all details are confirmed, but word from several of the colleges which are to appear on it makes possible a virtually authoritative list.

The first date, September 25, will be a double header for the Harvard squad. The opponents, however, are not quite certain because of the reported illness of Bowdoin to take part in a two-game program. The second date, when Harvard will meet University of Maine, also will make a double one, if Maine consents. Notre Dame, understood, will play here October 9, with Williams College appearing a week later.

Center College has been assigned the important first game on October 23, which University of Illinois declined. Virginia will come to Cambridge on October 30, the week before Harvard's annual fixture with Princeton. The Princeton-Harvard game, at the stadium on November 7, will come as usual, two weeks before the game with Yale, to be played at New Haven.

Harvard's early season opponent of Brown, because of the reported illness of Bowdoin to take part in a two-game program, will be advanced to fill the date between the Princeton and Yale games.

Comparing the schedule of the past season with that proposed for 1920, Bates, Boston College, Colby, Springfield College and Tufts, all New England institutions, are dropped.

Britton Outpoints Latzo

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Dec. 9.—Steve Latzo, of Hazleton, after getting away to a poor start against Jack Britton, waterweight champion, here to-night finished strong in the tenth round. The champion was wary, refusing to open up, but held the minor in check with strong body punches. Although winning at all times, Latzo was unable to touch a vital spot. The Hazleton lad took loads of punishment, but finished on the aggressive.

Lents to Lead West Virginia

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Dec. 9.—J. Howard Lents, halfback, to-day was elected to captain the West Virginia football team in 1920. He is a junior in engineering and hails from New Martinsville, W. Va.
