

Wallace Art Collection on Sale To-morrow

First Editions and Many Rare Objects Gathered From All Quarters of Globe in the Offering

Etchings and Engravings by Whistler and Rembrandt Are on Display

The sale at auction of the library and collections of Walter Thomas Wallace, including many first editions and rare objects of art collected from every quarter of the earth, will begin at 3 o'clock to-morrow afternoon...

Passing through the four galleries there are found stored more than 3,000 volumes covering a range beginning with the dawn of printing in England and coming down to the present time, and etchings and engravings by Whistler and Rembrandt and others...

The Bryant collection contains "The Embargo," 1810, one of the very rarest of American first editions. In Emerson, Holmes and Thoreau there are wide ranges, with subjects quite equaling their importance in age and rarity. One of the most complete collections of works ever brought together is that of Longfellow, and close beside it ranges the Lowell. In the Hawthorne collection is "The Artist's Portraiture" (broadsides), of which only three are known to exist, the original autograph manuscript, and its first publication in book form...

In the careful selection of the works of art, including everything practically existing of "The Murders of the Rue Morgue," "The Al Aaraaf," 1829, which followed "Tamerlane," the owner again shows the real spirit of the American reader at heart and again in his set of Whittier, which is exceptionally complete, containing the rare items, including "Moll Pitcher," 1832, and "Mogg Megone," 1833.

Among the first editions of James Russell Lowell there is the poet's own copy of "A Year's Life," 1841, with his own copy of "The Fable for Critics," which is the first issue of the first edition, with the inscription: "With the kindest regards of J. R. L., to the printer, proof of the address 'Deane Street, New York, N. Y.'"

A Goldsmith work of great interest is "The Good Ship 'Argus,'" written in honor of her late royal highness, the Princess Dowager of Wales.

Old works of English literature, including the Four Folios of Shakespeare, 1623, 1623, 1664 and 1685, are there, and "Julius Caesar," 1600; "King Lear," 1608; "Paradise Lost," 1607; "Montaigne's Essays," 1603.

The eighteenth and nineteenth centuries are represented by such work as "The Arabian Nights," 1727-1738; Robert Browning's "Poetry" in the original boards with label, 1838; Dickens's "Pickwick Papers," in the original parts, and many others.

Wife of President Indorses Jewish Drive for $150,000

Mrs. Wilson, in Letter to National Chairman, Hopes Campaign Will Succeed; Sure of the Nation's Aid

An indorsement of the national campaign of the National Council of Jewish Women to raise $150,000 for carrying on its Americanization and women's welfare work has been received from Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, wife of the President, it was announced at the council's headquarters, 111 East Forty-second Street, yesterday.

In her letter to Mrs. Alexander Kohut, national chairman, Mrs. Wilson said: "I have read with real interest your kind letter of March 9, and I am sincerely glad to avail myself of the opportunity you afford me to show my interest in the work of the Council of Jewish Women. I hope that the work may prosper in every way."

Mrs. Kohut, in making public Mrs. Wilson's indorsement, said yesterday: "This is an indication to us that all women, in every part of the country, are going to rally to our support in this campaign. This is the first national drive ever undertaken in this country for the welfare and Americanization of immigrant women and girls and the first national drive ever undertaken by any organization of Jewish women. We feel very optimistic of success, for our past achievements present an undeniable record of genuine service to the women and children of America. We have devoted our energies to worthy public campaigns and have aided every drive for the community's good. A literal application of the Golden Rule is going to make our drive a success."

Forty sections of the council, in as many different parts of the country, have organized and are prepared for the campaign.

$500,000 Total Reached in Nurses' Fund Drive

More than $500,000 has been subscribed in the Visiting Nurse Service campaign for $1,000,000 which has been going on during the last week. Circus Lands Safely, Despite Propaganda Of Bolshevist Boris

Bandar-Log's Story of Glands Stolen From Helpless Race Nearly Disrupts Troupe, Says Veracious Press Agent

Despite the efforts of Boris the Bolshevist, the Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey Circus arrived in town yesterday and is safely housed in Madison Square Garden.

But it wasn't so simple as it sounds. On the word of honor of the veracious press agent, Boris the Bolshevist nearly spilled the entire troupe into the Manhattan byways.

Glands, the press agent says, are responsible for the Bolshevist behavior of Boris, the bandar-log. From the same unimpeachable fount of information comes the news that Boris once was a favorite performer at the Court of the Czar of Russia, when the late Nicholas, and not, Lenin, was in power. Gravely the press agent assures us that he has a deep suspicion that revolutionary propaganda has warped the soul of Boris the bandar-log.

Thus it happened that when the word came that the troupe should move from Madison Square Garden, Boris drew down his massive eyebrows and went to and fro among the animals, muttering vicious oaths and sowing seeds of discontent broadcast.

"It is time for the downtrodden bandar-logs to arise against their capitalist taskmasters who are grinding them into the earth," Boris told his cheering audience. "Do not let the word come from Paris that some scheming scientist is making over human beings with glands stolen from the helpless common people of our race? Why should we believe that we are going to the Garden? Was it not in a garden that original sin began? Is not the very word 'garden' synonymous with deceit, and is not Bellevue Hospital a few blocks away?"

It was crude stuff, but the press agent assures us that it pretty nearly put the whole show on the toboggan. He says the primates fell for it almost as readily as some human beings fall for similar stuff. But somebody hit Boris the bandar-log, and while he was still unconscious, spirited him away. When he woke up he was in his new abode.

There are a lot of imported acts which have not arrived, but they are expected early in the week.

Which is to say, at least one hundred clowns, the press agent avows.

Ex-President's Portrait Given to Manhattan Club Old Custom Revived When Members Pay Tribute to Philip J. Britt

An old custom was revived last night at the Manhattan Club, when at a dinner presided over by former Supreme Court Justice Morgan J. O'Brien a portrait of Philip J. Britt, former president of the organization, was presented to the club by Louis Mark, the painter.

The portrait, which was painted by Philip J. Britt, was presented to the club by Louis Mark, the painter.

The custom of retaining the features of the president of the Manhattan Club will be a pair of old Staffordshire cottage ornaments of the Prince of Wales and Queen Victoria.

German pewter mounted faience coffee pots and an eighteenth century Newlware teapot will be sold, as well as old copper-luster pitchers and goblets colored in buff and purple. A Japanese porcelain jardiniere, standing 10 1/2 inches high, is one of the most highly prized pieces, and an old mahogany washstand, rectangular shaped, with top pierced for basin and with sides pierced with shaped panels, is to be sold.

The collection is one of the most interesting of the season, from the point of varied pieces included, and represents the efforts of many years and of travel throughout the world in its gathering.

Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Bloch Give Piano and Violin Recital

A pleasant evening of sonatas for the violin and piano was given last night by Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Bloch at Aeolian Hall. The sonatas were by Bach in C, the Cesar Franck, and the "Kreutzer" sonata of Beethoven, all works which will bear many rehearsals. They are both artists of good technical equipment and musical sensibility, and play with an admirable unity of purpose and finish.

Among those who have taken boxes are Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney, Mrs. F. Burrall Hoffman, Mrs. Perry Belmont and Mrs. Edson Bradley.

Symphony Society Ends Its Season With Concert To-day

Boston Orchestra Is Well Received In Carnegie Hall

Concert by the Symphony Here Declared Admirable; Mme. Schmitzer Gives Last of Her Three Recitals

The troubles of the Boston Symphony Orchestra do not seem to have affected the number of people who in New York City heard the famous band. The concert yesterday at Carnegie Hall crowded and Mr. Montoux greeted with more than ordinary heartiness. Mr. Montoux has naturally neglected the program of his shorn orchestra, yet despite a certain loss in orchestral resonance its playing yesterday was admirable, and notably so in Debussy's "Fidelio," arranged for orchestra by Henri Busser. Mr. Montoux is entirely at home in the music of Debussy, and he gave the Suite a graceful and atmospheric performance.

At the same moment Mme. Germaine Schmitzer was giving the last of her three recitals at Aeolian Hall and giving it to a large and interested audience. She played a program of considerable variety, opening with a Sonata of Paganini and following it with Schumann's "Carnaval," Schubert's "Impromptu," No. 9, and shortening Liszt's "Hungarian Rhapsody," No. 9, and shortening pieces by Chabrier, Brahms, Rachmaninoff, and Saint-Saens. Mme. Schmitzer was not unfortunately singularly and lacking in variety of color, but aside from this rather unexpected defect she played with a good deal of sentiment and even of fire.

"Rigoletto" at Metropolitan Verdi Takes Up Afternoon and Evening Program

Verdi took up the day yesterday at the Metropolitan with "Le Forza del Destino" in the afternoon and "Rigoletto" in the evening. The former opera was sung by Mmes. Panselle and Gordon and Messrs. Caruso, Zmato, Amico, Barrientos and Perini and Messrs. Hackett, De Luca, Segurula and D'Angelo. Mr. Papi conducted "Le Forza del Destino" and Mr. Moranoni "Rigoletto."

Far East Art Sale Ends; Total for Three Days, $13,399

The sale of a collection of the arts of decoration of the Far East, entitled "A Street in Peking," was concluded yesterday afternoon at the Anderson Galleries, Park Avenue and Fifty-ninth Street. A large jade vase brought $1,125, the highest price for yesterday's sale. A pair of Cloisonné vases were sold to H. Counihan, an agent, for $205. David Belasco bought a pair of ornamental gold metal plants for $460, and a large jade incense burner went for $400.

The total for yesterday's sale was $9,528. The total for the three days was $13,399.

Yale Men to Present Comedy

The play is under the direction of Stuart Walker. Included in the cast are Robert Fisher, 20, of New York, who takes the title role; W. Rice Brewster, 21, of Brooklyn, and Elbridge Stratton, 20, president of the association. John E. Wilson, 22, and Messrs. Clark, 22, play the two feminine parts in the comedy.

To Show Men's Styles To-night

Designs for spring and summer clothing for men will be shown at the new fashion show and dinner of the New York Custom Cutters' Club to-night. Coats and waistcoats are to be somewhat more conservative, according to the announcement, but "trousers will have little change."

Five-Cent Fare To Coney Island Effective May 1

Transit Construction Commissioner and B. R. T. Officials Reach Agreement as to City's Contract

Ten Cents Present Charge Understanding Is That Delay in Equipment Will Not Affect Arrangement

A five-cent fare to Coney Island will be in effect beginning May 1. Arrangements were completed yesterday between John W. Delaney, Transit Construction Commissioner, and officials of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company by which it has been agreed that the city's part of the contract for the five-cent fare will be completed at that time to the extent that the clause providing for the five-cent fare to and from Coney Island will be effective.

A clause of the contract provides that the five-cent fare is to go into effect "when trains may be operated for continuous trips wholly over connected portions of the railroad, including both the Culver and West End lines, from the Municipal Building to the points at or near Coney Island at which construction of the railroad shall be suspended." The five-cent fare will apply to all the lines of the New York Municipal Rapid Transit Corporation, which is the operating company of all the subway and elevated lines of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit system.

The West End line has been completed for some time and the city-owned section of the Culver line was suspended at Sheepshead Bay, incident to an agreement of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit officials to complete the Culver structure from that point to the Coney Island terminal. Commissioner Delaney is being urged by city contractors to "speed up" work on the final section of the city-owned part of the Culver line, and practically all of the city's work will be completed by the end of the month. The Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company is following up the city contractors with third-rail and other equipment work and expects to have the section between Sheepshead Bay Road and the Coney Island terminal completed and equipped before May 1.

It was agreed between Commissioner Delaney, acting for the city, and the operating company, that even in the event of the equipment of the final section of the Culver line not being completed by May 1 the city's part of the contract will be recognized as having been completed and the five-cent fare will be effective on all rapid transit lines running to Coney Island.

By the agreement it will be possible for the passengers to ride between Sixth Street, Manhattan, and Coney Island over the Sea Beach, West End, and Brighton lines for the city's part of the service. This service will be extended during the summer so as to include a continuous five-cent ride from the Corona and Steinway sections of Queens, on Brooklyn Rapid Transit trains, to Coney Island.

It is estimated that the running time between Times Square and Coney Island will be about 45 minutes by the Sea Beach line, and forty-five minutes between Park Row and Coney Island by the Brighton line. The distance between the Brighton line and Queens Plaza is approximately eighteen miles, and the distance between Queens Plaza and Times Square about sixteen miles.

Under existing conditions second fares have been collected from passengers bound for Coney Island at Sixth Street, Brooklyn, on the Sea Beach line, at Fifty-ninth Street, on the Brighton line, and at Sheepshead Bay on the Brighton line. Second fares have been collected from passengers bound for Coney Island at the Eighth Avenue on the Sea Beach line, Prospect Park on the Brighton line, and at Ninth Avenue on the West End and Culver lines.

Greenwich, Conn., Votes $300 Salary Raise to Teachers

A special town meeting voted that all principals, teachers in the high school and graded schools of the town will each receive an increase of $300 a year in salary for the school year beginning September, 1920, to September, 1921. The minimum salary of a teacher under the new schedule will be $1,000 a year.

Former Employees of Science Papers Explain Withdrawal

Had to Decide Whether to Take Part in Circulation of Policies They Opposed or Quit, They Assert

Coincident with reports current here yesterday that 200 employees of the Christian Science Publishing Society in Boston had walked out or been discharged as the result of the resignations last week of three of the editors, Robert S. Ross, spokesman for the Christian Science delegates of New York State, last night made public a letter prepared at the instance of the former employees which explains why they resigned.

The letter, which has been sent out from the offices of the employment and aid committee of the Church in Boston to every congregation of Christian Scientists throughout the world, Mr. Ross said, is in part as follows: "As the press has given currency to reports that many employees of the Christian Science Publishing Society have recently resigned, we feel that the field should be informed of the motive which has actuated so many Christian Scientists voluntarily to give up their positions in the publishing house."

"While many workers have been dismissed or have resigned during the last year, others of us have felt that we could serve the cause most effectively by remaining in our places, even though under increasingly difficult conditions."

Policy Called Destructive

"We have been in a position to see that, regardless of the many appeals and remonstrances from the field, both from churches and individuals, what seemed to us a destructive, un-Christian and disloyal policy was pursued. Such a policy, if continued, would result in the adulteration of Christian Science and the nullification of our Church."

Following the resignation of Mr. McKenzie, Mrs. Hoag and Mr. Seelye and others of the editorial staff of the Christian Science periodicals, on March 12, because, we understand, editorial authority had been usurped by a member of the board of trustees, the vacancies were filled by this trustee, which act, in our opinion, is an open violation of Article XXV, Sections 4 and 5, of the Manual.

Half of Force Out

According to Mr. Ross, the churches here and throughout the country have been asked to contribute money for the assistance of the former employees, many of whom may not be able to find immediate employment. The number of resignations totals more than half of the publishing force, he said.
